What happens to teen-agers when they become twenty? Most of these worries, self-assured, side-burned, youths with the sticky hair vanish to 9 to 5 do they become, all of a sudden?

For you no longer see them, a good deal, in the bars and dives there you will observe the collegiate type who looks as if he might join you in a beanery boy three years ago. But since there are hundreds if not thousands of the thoroughly typical short-cropped, long-sideburned, hard-eyed lads of eighteen, full of a characteristic sang frois, hanging around our downtown and at chosen up-town rendezvous, why are they not visible? Are not thousands of them steadily accumulating among our adult population — graduates, you might say, of teen-agery?

Do they no longer get any kicks out of anything, least of all their present surroundings?

And most of all, the kind of girls they went with. Overlong hair, long oily hair and side-burns, turn out to be grown-up, demanding and high-heeled leather jacketed women looking for mates.

So, when the boy's hair cut and given his short coat away to his younger brother, he starts looking for a nice staid, fat girl. And the first thing you know, he's just an average citizen."

Strength for the Day

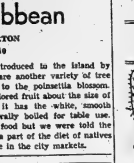
NATURE OF FAITH

What is faith? The Epistle to the Hebrews says that question by stating that "Faith is assurance of things hoped for, a conviction of things not seen." (R.V.) or the exact original translation has it. "Faith is the giving substance to things hoped for, a test of things not seen."



Let us study these latter translation. Faith is the giving of substance to things hoped for. It is a God-given ability to be sure of soul which enables one to make real in his experience things which man shows himself to be capable of handling, trained to be willing to receive it. This faith becomes a creative power in man's life. By it, he begins to perform some of the wonderful acts which his Lord and Master performed.

As the result of faith, a man can take on new stature. Weak men become strong, blind men receive their sight, the palsied arm know the ecstasy of emancipation.

As the result of Paul's great emphasis on faith, some people misinterpreting his teaching, began to claim that if they had faith they had everything — good health was not necessary. Of course our Lord had long before emphasized that fact. So people who tried to separate faith and works — to the derogation of the works — were, and still are, unsupported by Scriptural authority.

What Drunk Will Listen?

Milwaukee Journal

In West Germany five taverns have installed machines that give drinkers advice on when they are fit to drive.

The process is simple. The drinker inserts twelve worth about 12 cents into the machine. It then gives him individual testing how much he has had to drink, what his weight is and how much time he has been drinking. The machine then tells him whether he is drunk in the eyes of the law and how long it will take him to sober up.

This may have possibilities, but we doubt it. What drunk ever admits how much he has had to drink? And what drunk would ever heed a machine's opinion — and especially a machine's — that he wasn't able to drive?

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

CARE IN SHAVING WILL LESSEN NICKS AND CUTS

"Dear Dr. Molner: I seem to have trouble shaving. On my neck or the lower part of my face I get pimples, sometimes boils. Is it from shaving too close?—V.Y."

It could be, in part anyway. The skin of the neck is soft and the hair follicles are easily damaged.

If you have a magnifying mirror, take a close look and you will note that the beard shafts in the neck come out at an angle, lying more or less flat against the skin, rather than tending to come straight out as is the case over most of the face.

That brings up this question: Which way do you shave, up or down? Shaving "with the grain," so to speak, may not give you as close a shave but it may prevent the razor from cutting close enough to irritate those sensitive follicles — that is, the little hollow from which the individual hairs sprout.

How often you shave? If you have a heavy beard you may frequently shave more than once a day, and so multiply the increases the amount of irritation.

Generally, we all carry on our skins, or frequently come in contact with, many germs which, while they may not be of the virulent type that makes us ill, still are a source of mischief if they find a small nick or cut or cranny in the skin. So shaving is waging a constant battle to keep germs out, and it does very well if the shaver part unless a chink is created somewhere — as by shaving.)

That being the case, care in preventing these small nicks or rough places is important. An actual cut, which bleeds, can very well wash out any germs that have got into it, after which the beginning of the sore gets the spot. But the ever-present germs may find entry through some scrape that was too slight to bleed.

SKIN CAN BE TOO SENSITIVE

If this it's worth mentioning, also, that your skin may be overly-sensitive to one shaving cream and not to another. If you've noticed this trouble with one kind and not with another, that could be the trouble.)

But to get back to the nicks and germs: Use of an aftershave lotion may aid some in these small cases of infection, due to the alcohol in the lotion which, of course, is antiseptic.

That's still only second best to avoiding the small nicks. Shaving with the grain, not going over the same part of the face too many times, and not trying to shave too close, may be your best answer. Wearing an electric razor would help in some time you'll have to decide on the basis of your own preferences and experiences. Certainly some men prefer to use that type and shave morning and evening, rather than to use razors and to try for a closer shave once a day. What suits one man may not suit another—which is why some things come in six delicious 4 ways, and medical care has to be fitted to the patient, not the patient to the medicine.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I was told by a doctor that a yellowish blemish above my eyelid was due to the metabolizing of cholesterol. Can this be corrected by diet to lower cline? — D.S.C."

No, sir, I am not familiar with either medicine or diet that will remove a blemish of this type. It is known as a xanthoma. It is raised, yellowish mass, either round or of oblong shape, on the inner angle of the eye. Often it contains fatty substances, though of the "good" kind of cholesterol. I do know that these can be removed surgically if they are objectionable from the standpoint of appearance.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there such a thing a Paget's Disease? If so are children of victims inherit it? — Mrs. A.B."

There are two conditions known by that name, one a bone disease, the other a breast disease. I know of no of evidence that either is inherited.

Measles can be fatal to young children! For an explanation of the seriousness of this disease write me in care of The Children's Aid Society, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Illinois requesting my booklet, "Measles, the 'Harmless' Killer," and enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.

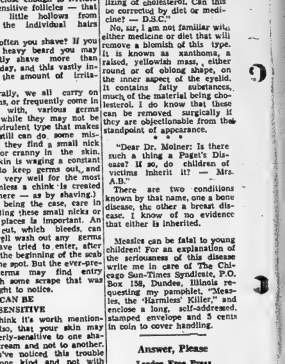
TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THINGS LEFT BEHIND

The influence that they have had for good is a living thing. I am one who likes little keepsakes to remind me of those I love and the things that have been dipped in their lives. They have meaning for their own. They influence more than we can measure.



Father and mother left integrity, honor, and a love of the beautiful in the hearts and lives of my heart. We can get very poor in material things, but remain rich in the things left behind by others that will forever mould character and life. Father and mother left more than money behind. They left examples of unselfishness and a record of memories. Easter has come, and gone, but the world is rich from the memories. Each year it has made faith dominant.

Belleville Boy Hears About School Life in Far Nippon

The nine-to-four school hours enjoyed by Canadian school children with Saturday a holiday, is a class schedule unheard of in far-off Japan, according to a letter received by a Belleville pupil from a pen pal in Japan.

In the Land of the Rising Sun school apparently commences at eight in the morning and Saturday is just another day of school.

Following a request contained in a letter from Tokyo, Japan, which suggested letters be exchanged to foster mutual understanding between the two countries, many pupils at Queen Alexandra School in the city have been exchanging letters. About 150 names were submitted from the local school and many pupils have received letters from two or three different pupils in Japan.

Following is a letter received by Norris Scott, son of Dr. J. Russell Scott and Mrs. Scott, from a school student in a Japanese mining town:

Matsukozan Junior High School
Iwategun Iwaieken, Japan
March 31, 1959

Dear Friend;

Thank you very much for your letter. I'm sorry I didn't get to write sooner. The reason I was so late was because in school we had many tests and hag to study very hard. But we just started our spring vacations a few days ago.

It pleased me very much to have correspondence with you. I read your letter to my class. They are very interested in the information above all, the Newspaper Club of our school caught an announced about your letter through the radio to the whole pupils of our school. I was elated and joyful.

I hope you are all fine. In our country, the cold season is starting. The weather in Matuo Mine has very cold. Our snow storms are severe and we have many. Will explain about Matuo Mine to you. It is a great producer of sulphurous mineral. A great deal of sulphur in Japan is produced in Matuo Mine. Sulphur is used in making nylon paper, India rubber and many other things which we usually use.

The population of Matuo Mine is about 27,000. Most people of them work in the mine. Our school is a white building. It has three stories. There are about 510 pupils. Half of them are girls and anothers are boys. I'll explain what system our school has. School begins at 8 a.m. We have four lessons like Japanese, English, Mathematics and science in the morning and two lessons like gymnastics and social studies in the afternoon.

School is over at 4 p.m. We learn 13 subjects a week. School is from Monday till Saturday.

We have a committee of pupils. We discuss together to make some plans, help others and do many other things. My birthday is May 21. Tell me in your next letter what day your birthday is on. I have enclosed my photograph and three view send of our mine, I would like for you to send me a picture of you and your family, if it would be at all possible.

Don't forget to write soon. I hope to be your friend, and because I will be waiting to hear from you.

Salesman Would Find It Hard To Get College Girl as Wife

By STEWART MACLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The British travelling salesman who wants a college-educated wife is going to need a potent sales pitch.

For reasons unknown, British college girls don't appear too keen on travelling salesmen. In fact, 94 per cent of the girls at three universities say they wouldn't marry one.

The people who made this survey didn't disclose any details on the other six per cent.

The survey, published in the trade magaine, the British Salesman, says most college girls think travelling salesmen are smart, smooth and endowed with a generous gift of gab. But it says most students, including the male species, still picture a salesman with one foot in the door, an order book in his hand and a wisecrack on his lips."

This is the type of impression that sales organizations want to eliminate from universities. The survey showed that students are gradually getting a better impression of sales jobs, but only "a trickle" of graduates take on the work.

THOUGHT INSECURE

Many of those interviewed said they considered sales work insecure and prejudicial to a happy home life. The few who liked the prospects of selling said they were attracted by the opportunities for meeting people and travelling.

The magazine did not publish exact percentages in most cases, but said a majority of the students, when asked what the word salesman reminded them about, replied: "Suitcase," "brushes,"

CUBAN EXECUTIONS

HAVANA (AP)—Firing squads executed 15 persons in Cuba Wednesday on war crimes charges. The executions raised the unofficial count since Jan. 1 to 500.

Canadian Girls Long in Back Big in Feet

SASKATOON (CP) — Canadian girls are beautiful, "although a bit long in the back and big in the feet," says Peggy Whiteley, examiner for the Royal Academy of Dancing in London, England.

Here to examine the ballet students, Miss Whiteley also said in an interview that Canadian girls "do not have that funny little bit of discipline that we see in children in Europe."

The aim of young girls studying ballet is not to become professional ballet dancers, she said. The fact that professionals are sometimes asked to step from the group is incidental.

"The main value of ballet training is to give a young girl poise and grace of movement," Ballet gives it to her as nothing else can. You will find that a child who has some ballet never goes through the awkward stage of wondering what to do with her hands and feet.

The value of ballet training in physical education is being recognized in England. A number of schools teach it in addition to physical education courses.

Miss Whiteley said schools following this policy reported improvement not only in physical fitness but also in manners and deportment.

The Royal Academy of Dancing is the only organization in the world to examine for non-professional dancing, she added. Last year Royal Academy examiners went from London to many countries and examined 35,000 ballet students who follow the approved course of ballet education.

Girls taking this instruction range in age from six to 17.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. M. W. — We are hurt they have refused our gift.

Mrs. M. W. — My husband and I have just been hurt in the quick by our youngest daughter and her husband.

Madeline and David were married a year ago when she was 18 and he 25. He was just starting out in business and having a rough time of it. The two kids are working themselves to the bone to make a success of this thing.

A couple of times they have borrowed our car for business purposes and David mentioned that he was thinking of buying a second hand station wagon because it would help expand his customer services. Well, then and there, my husband and I got the same idea. We would make the down payment on a brand new station wagon for their anniversary! We drove it up to their door that morning — only to be greeted by anger. They refused to take it.

Madeline S. — Probably we shouldn't have gotten angry! We realize that that was wrong. But we were so confused at the moment we hardly knew how to react.

I have told Mom and Dad in the past to quit trying to treat us like helpless babies. They started married life on nothing and we can do the same. But every time I happen to casually mention that I am planning to buy something, it is delivered to our house the next day — a gift.

Mom and Dad are very sensitive about their feelings. But they don't recognize our feelings. My two older sisters are well off and don't need a thing. My parents think we are beggars by comparison. We are doing okay, considering we've just getting started. Besides, we know that my parents can't afford gifts like this. They must think of their old age.

The Council: Generosity may be shown in many ways, and in this case it seems clear that the greater generosity would be the recognition of Madeline and David's pride. The young couple is obviously having so much fun out of creating something of their own from scratch, and their impulse is so healthy that it is surely wrong to interfere.

Interference is what the gift of the station wagon really amounts to. Not all in-law interference is ill-intentioned. The well-intentioned kind is just as undesirable because it is equally effective in rocking the boat.

There is no reason to make a rule against parental help to married children, but parents should make sure that their help is desired and unlikely to yield desirable results. It can certainly do harm if tact, taste and judgment aren't used.

The forcing of gifts upon children in such ways as making it a surprise or getting insulted if the gift is rejected smacks of selfishness on the parents' part. They are expressing their own need to cling to the child by continuing to sustain him past the time when that is the natural relationship between them.

FAIRY GODMOTHERS

Mrs. V. Greenwood Gives Address to Auxiliary Meeting

The senior and junior auxiliaries of St. Andrew's, the C.G.I.T. and explorers group, met together for their Easter thankoffering meeting on Monday evening.

The president, Mrs. Parsons, presided and opened the meeting. The welcome and welfare committee reported 30 calls to the hospital; also a call at the Home for the Aged. Mrs. Web gave a brief report of the Synodical meeting held in St. Paul's Church, Peterborough.

Mrs. Barlow was leader of the worship, period and used the Easter service from the "Glad Tidings". Mrs. Muirhead gave the prayer, and Miss M. MacIntosh read the Resurrection story from St. Mathew's gospel.

The C.G.I.T. group, under the direction of Mrs. Davidson and Miss Vincent, said their purpose and sang their hymn.

The explorers, under the direction of Mrs. Ryan and Mrs. R. D. MacLean, gave their choral reading and sang their hymn, entitled, "Children Who Walk in Jesus' Way".

Mrs. Vera Rollins sang a hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross" with Mrs. Manlis at the piano. It was much enjoyed.

The guest speaker was Mrs (Major) Victor Greenwood of the Salvation Army Citadel Corps.

Mrs. Greenwood opened her message by telling an Easter story to the children about a little Chinese girl named Cherr; Blossom. Having learned about the love of Jesus at the mission school she was the means of bringing her mother and father to the knowledge of Jesus Christ.

Mrs. Kane thanked the guest speaker, soloist, C.G.I.T. and the explorers group for their part in helping to make the meeting so interesting.

Mrs. Barlow and her group, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Muirhead, Miss M. MacIntosh and Mrs. Rollins, served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

On occasions when the pressure is too great Lillias is my sister-in-law.

SUGAR CHIP CRISPS

These are reminiscent of brandy snaps, for after 2 days they are still crisp. You may make them larger than suggested but if they are to be for a Tea keep them small and dainty. One-half cup butter 6 tablespoons each white sugar and brown sugar, 1 egg, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon each salt and soda, 1½ cups chocolate chips (packaged) and if desired ½ cup finely chopped nuts. Cream the butter and gradually beat the sugars into it. Beat in the egg and vanilla. Sift the sifted flour with the salt and soda and stir in. Stir in chocolate chips. Stir in chopped nuts if used. Using a buttered silver teaspoon (not your measuring teaspoon) drop the dough, in little mounds, well apart, on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 8 minutes — or until edges are tinged with gold. Cool on wire racks. Store in covered box in layers separated by sheets of wax paper to retain crispness.

LAYERED CUTOUTS

Bottom Layer: Two egg yolks, ½ cup each soft butter and sugar, 1¾ cups sifted flour, ½ teaspoon salt. Cream butter, add sugar and mix well then beat in yolks. Stir in flour and salt until blended. Press into greased and floured 10" x 10" pan. Top Layer: Two egg whites, 1½ cups brown sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups very finely chopped walnuts or almonds. Beat egg whites until stiff. Beat in sugar until stiff then fold in nuts and vanilla. Spread evenly on base and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. until baked at centre. A thin crust forms on top and they require 40 to 50 minutes baking. While still warm with sharp knife mark into squares or bars, but cool and store in pan.

OAT 'N SPICE DROPS

One cup white sugar, 1-3 cup butter or shortening, 1 unbeaten egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon each baking powder, soda, salt, ginger, cinnamon, nutmeg, 1¼ cups rolled oats, (either quick or long cooking type), 1 cup Sultana raisins, ¼ cup marmalade. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt and spices. Cream butter or shortening and cream sugar into it; beat in egg and vanilla. Stir in sifted dry ingredients, then the oats and marmalade. Fold in raisins. Drop by small teaspoonfuls on ungreased cookie sheet and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 10 minutes. Remove at once from cookie sheet with spatula or lifter and cool on wire rack.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beekman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: MAKING INTRODUCTIONS WITH GRACE

To be able to make a fine introduction is a rewarding social asset. People of grace and charm develop this art. They make themselves thoroughly familiar with standard introduction-forms . . . which, incidentally, are very few, and very simple, very easy to learn. Then, most importantly and most graciously, they pay honor to the names of the two persons they are introducing. They pronounce these names so clearly and distinctly, surround the names with such a warm, friendly tone of voice, that each person is proud and pleased by this delightful courtesy. Then even a casual introduction becomes a pleasant and memorable occasion.

PLANNING THE SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

1. I am planning a Twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary celebration for my mother-in-law and father-in-law. Will you please help me with the plans? My mother-in-law has three sisters. I am the oldest of the girls in the immediate family. My husband has a 16-year-old sister. My younger brother is engaged, and his fiancee will be at the celebration. Which of these should be the hostess?

2. Should the couple who were the attendants at the wedding of my mother-in-law and father-in-law have any special part at the celebration?

3. Would it be proper to serve these simple refreshments: the Wedding Anniversary Cake, ice cream, coffee, mints and nuts?

4. Who should cut the cake?

5. Any other suggestions, please? — S.

1. I judge that you are making the plans for the Wedding Anniversary celebration that is to be given by your husband's parents in their home. If so, your mother-in-law is the hostess and her husband is the host. They stand together to greet and welcome their guests, your husband's mother, the "bride," at the right of her "bridegroom."

2. There two attendants might stand with the hosts. And it would be the idea for the best man to be the one to propose the toast "To the Bride and Bridegroom," as he doubtless did at the reception on the wedding day.

3. Yes. But shouldn't you also serve a cold drink, perhaps a fruit punch or a sparkling non-alcoholic drink, or whatever you choose, for the drinking of the toasts? The toasts on this important occasion should be delightful and memorable!

4. The "bride" and the "bridegroom" cut the first slice of The Cake together . . . as they did at their wedding reception. When all the guests have arrived (or at least the majority of them), you and your husband might ask them to gather around the table where The Cake is, might lead the singing of "The Bride Cuts the Cake" (to the tune of "The Farmer in the Dell"), then the couple cut and share the first slice, and the rest is cut and served to the guests, perhaps by the 16-year-old sister and the fiancee of the youngest son. Make an important ceremony of the cutting and serving of The Cake!

5. Do, please, plan to have a Guest Book . . . and assign someone, perhaps one of the sisters of the hostess, to be sure that every guest signs it. (The other two sisters might be assigned to greeting the guests at the door, telling them where to leave their wraps.)

Hospital Aux. Plans Open House in May

Plans were discussed for an open house to be held in May in conjunction with National Hospital Week. The auxiliary said they hoped as many citizens as possible would avail themselves of the opportunity to see the hospital in action.

Mrs. W. F. Scott presided for the meeting and spent the greater part of the time explaining to the members the position of the auxiliary with regard to the new Ontario Hospitals Services Commission plan. She read excerpts from bulletins received from the commission.

She noted from one bulletin: "Rates were struck on the basis of what it costs to operate a hospital. No provisions were made for capital expenditure which may be required for the purchase of new equipment, or the extension of existing hospital facilities. It has been learned that money for capital expenditure will have to be obtained to a large extent through philanthropic giving."

"The provision of hospital facilities and equipment is still the responsibility of the community," said Mrs. Scott, "and if, and when, the Campbellford hospital undertakes an expansion program, it will have to depend to a large extent on the generosity of the citizens, to provide the greater part of the money necessary to meet the cost of this expansion."

The method by which the auxiliary is meeting this problem, is by continuing to purchase materials, and fabricate all linens needed at the hospital. These linens are purchased by the provincial government, through the hospital board, from the auxiliary, at a reasonable profit to the auxiliary. The money received from the sale of linens is in turn put into a fund for future "philanthropic giving."

Mrs. Scott said she hoped the members would realize the work of the auxiliary is now more important than ever before.

Mrs. Scott said, "no only are we supplying the hospital with linens of the highest quality, but by selling these linens at a profit, we are able to contribute even more to the future of the hospital."

She added that the citizens of Campbellford and district had responded generously to every appeal in the past, and hoped they would continue to do so in the future.

Because of the open house in May, the auxiliary will not hold a meeting during that month, but will meet again on June 12.

"TEA ON THE ROCKS" — A COOL IDEA —It's "Tea on the Rocks" (the new name for iced tea) when there is need for a cool and refreshing beverage. Canadians from coast-to-coast enjoy this satisfying drink all year round. It really quenches the thirst and looks so inviting served in tall tingly glasses, decked up with perky lemon wedges.

Women's Aux. Of C.A.R.S. Holds Meeting

The April meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society was held recently and presided over by the president, Mrs. Rose David.

Reports were given by Miss Phillipa McHilowie, Physiotherapist, Mrs. J. Jarvis, and Mrs. A. Gemmell.

Mrs. David attended the workshop and discussion groups held at the Park Plaza Hotel in Toronto, during the annual meeting of all Ontario branches.

A bicycle exerciser has been purchased by the Auxiliary for the loan cupboard and this will prove a valuable asset for the use of some of the patients.

Several speaking engagements and showing of films are scheduled for the future, including I.O.D.E. Argyll Chapter, and Evening Auxiliary of Holloway Street Church. Cash donations from Avondale and Parkdale Ladies' Aid were gratefully acknowledged.

A bake sale of delectable home cooking, held recently at David's new Front Street store, proved a splendid financial success. This project was convened by Mrs. A. Gemmell, assisted by Mrs. J. Jarvis, Mrs. T. Morrell, Mrs. A. Wynne, Mrs. E. David, Mrs. J. Stock and Mrs. R. Freeman.

Plans were finalized for the rummage sale to be held in the Armouries this month. Donations will be solicited by Bellville and district citizens.

Refreshments were provided at the end of the meeting by Mrs. J. Layton and Misses Gladys and Rita MacDonald.

Nadezhda Khruschev First Kremlin Wife in Limelight

Moscow leaders usually keep their families in the background, but Mrs. Khruschev is an exception. Harold K. Milks, host out of Moscow after three years' duty as chief of bureau for The Associated Press, wrote this story.

By HAROLD K. MILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Among the many changes Nikita Khrushchev has made in the Soviet Union is one directly affecting his family life. He has made his wife a publicly known personality.

Until Khrushchev became head of both governments and the Communist party, the wives of top-level Russian leaders hadn't been seen by foreigners in years, even at functions attended by foreign officials or diplomats.

Now Khrushchev has changed all this, as he has changed many things in Russia.

Mrs. Khrushchev's given name is Nadezhda, meaning Hope. She first became known as a hostess for important visitors when Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was invited to the Khrushchev summer home on the Black Sea.

Later, at a Kremlin reception for foreign diplomats, she talked with some of the envoys and their wives—about home matters, far removed from any connection with her husband's job.

In most of these appearances she wore black or dark dresses, and had her greying hair tightly pinned into a bun on the back of her head.

Her latest appearance at an official Moscow reception came during the recent visit of Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan. She was in the reserved dinner section of the Kremlin's St. George Hall but remained in the background, chatting with Russians or with diplomats. Her husband's toasts with Macmillan and other Soviet and British officials were strictly a man's affair within an inner circle.

Those who saw her there noted something else: Mrs. Khrushchev had abandoned her dark dress for a gown of soft grey, well cut and decorated. Her hair was fashionably arranged and worn loosely, with the bun low at the back of her neck.

She appeared in a front - row seat in the visitors' gallery when the Communist party's 21st congress opened. Throughout her husband's long presentation of the new Soviet seven-year plan she seemed to listen intently.

She also accompanied Khrushchev to Leningrad to welcome Finland's president on a state visit.

Among the latest to share Mrs. Khrushchev's hospitality at the summer home were Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations and Maxwell Garsh, an American corn farmer from Iowa. She presided at hostess at meals for both.

GOOD MOTHER

Veteran Moscow observers believe Mrs. Khrushchev is determined to protect her bustling husband's health, and to give him as much of a normal family life as she can.

But there is little public information in Moscow on their family life. It is believed they were married in 1938, after he was widowed.

She helped raise his two sons —one perished in the war—and his two daughters. Both are married now, one to a Communist party editor in Moscow, the other to a Kiev theatre manager.

Apparently she spends a good share of her time at Pitsunda, the party leaders' resort on the Black Sea, and encourages her husband to come there as much as possible.

People who know Khrushchev well say he is proud of his wife and the kind of mother she has made for his children. That may be one explanation why she has moved into the public eye. Most other Soviet leaders still keep their wives at home.

Women Should Not Be Buried in Home

VICTORIA (CP) — Women should take more interest in world affairs, says Vera Brittain, the distinguished British writer.

"Most women these days are as intelligent as the men and should not be content to stay buried at home," she said in an address here. "They seem to be anaesthetized — you might say stupified—by little domestic details.

"They should run for political office and things like that. Children and a husband all have their place, but housewives should follow what's going on around them locally and on an international basis."

The author is the wife of George E. G. Catlin, professor of political science at McGill University since 1956, and is the mother of a son and a daughter.

She said she would have been a politician if she had not chosen writing as a career. "I would run for the Labor party. I have always been interested in the welfare of people once oppressed. But unfortunately the Labor party is not so dynamic as it used to be."

She urged men and women to work for peace by writing to newspapers and taking part in protest marches and vigils when peace seems to be threatened.

Wonderful Wool Knits

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Knits this season are going to be difficult to pass up. One such tempter is this bright green dress. It has detachable front and back apron panels on a cummerbund that fastens in back. The flapped pockets add interest to the otherwise plain bodice. Without the panels a narrow, self-fabric, contoured belt is worn.

Mrs. S. Barber Shows Slides To Ladies' Club

The monthly meeting of the Prince Edward Belleville Ladies' Club was held at the "Y" on April 8th, with 29 members present.

The president — Mrs. Lorne Sharpe, opened the meeting. She welcomed the members and several visitors, saying she was pleased to have so many present. A number of members were ill and unable to attend. Mrs. Sharpe included in her opening remarks a poem, "Joyful Average".

The corresponding secretary, Mrs. McCoy, reported she had sent four cards during the past month and also a plant to Mrs. Arthur Caisan who had the misfortune to fall and break her ankle. Thank-you notes were read from Mrs. Caisan and Mrs. M. Trumpour.

Mrs. Garbutt read a lovely poem, "Cheer for the Ailing"

It was decided to open the meetings at 2.30 p.m. instead of 3 p.m.

As the group conveners for the meeting were unable to be present, Mrs. F. Bedell convened the program, opening with community singing with Mrs. Ackerman at the piano.

This was followed by a reading by Mrs. Baird.

Mrs. Bedell then introduced Mrs. Stanley Barber, who presented an interesting travelogue and beautiful pictures of a trip she and her husband had taken last autumn.

Travelling by air to England, they visited Windsor Castle, Buckingham Palace, St. Paul's Cathedral, Hyde Park and the Parliament Buildings. Then on to Holland, they visited the flower market, and the flower gardens and greenhouses there. The pictures were beautiful in these pictures. In Germany views were of Cologne Cathedral and many scenes taken on a boat trip down the Rhine.

Views of Italy were of Venice, Florence and Rome, showing many of the beautiful churches there; also the vineyards. Slides of Switzerland showed many beautiful mountain scenes and the mountain roads they travelled on. In France they visited Nice, Marseilles and Paris. The pictures were very beautiful and with Mrs. Barber's commentary, everyone enoyed a lovely afternoon.

Thanks were extended Mrs. Barber by Mrs. Baird.

A social half-hour and refreshments were enjoyed.

Rev. Fletcher Gives Talk On West Indies to WA,WMS

RAWDON — On Wednesday, afternoon 27 members attended the April meeting of the two groups of Mount Pleasant Rawdon W.M.S. and W.A. Mrs. Allen Reid was hostess at her home, fourth concession.

Mrs. Carleton Potts, president of the W.A., opened the meeting.

Mrs. William McAdam read the report of the secretary. Mrs. Raymond McConnell gave a list of expenditures to date and reported a bank balance of $536. A letter of thanks was read. A committee was appointed for catering in May at a wedding. The W.A. will pay all the festival fees. Several items of business were discussed and plans made for a W.A. meeting at the end of the month.

The program and lunch conveners were Mrs. Milford Wrightman and Mrs. Clarence Scott.

The W.A. devotional was based on "Christ of the Common Road." Mrs. Clarence Scott presided and opened with "O God Our Help" and prayer by Mrs. Will McAdam. The first Bible lesson was read by Mrs. Harry McAdam, and Mrs. M. Wrightman gave the meditation on the five talents. Those assisting were Mrs. Allen Reid, Mrs. Gordon Linn, Mrs. Marguerite McMullen, Mrs. C. Scott and Mrs. Walter Wrightman. The second Bible lesson was based on "The Beatitudes" and various portions were read by Mrs. John Mulherin, Mrs. T. Jeffs, Mrs. P. MacMullen, Mrs. C. Potts, Mrs. E. McAdam, Mrs. J. Morgan, Mrs. R. McConnell and Mrs. H. Smith.

Two Easter selections, "Centuries Later" and "The Legend of the Dogwood," were read by Mrs. Grant Hobbs.

Mrs. Marguerite McMullen contributed a vocal selection, "Shadows," and Mrs. Ernest Spencer read a couple of poems, "Keep Trying" and "Uncle Bill's Creed."

Mrs. Herbert Smith, president of the Woman's Missionary Society, opened her part of the meeting with silent prayer for prayer partner Miss Blanche Gerhard, R.N., at Newcastle, Alberta.

The treasurer remitted to the Presbyterial treasurer $35 and there are 15 paid annual members. The thankoffering taken on Easter Sunday amounted to $61 and this will be remitted next quarter.

Reference was made to secret photographs and articles on the Rev. Floyd Honey. There were 46 calls on homes and 43 in hospital for the past month.

Mrs. Clarence Scott gathered the offering which Mrs. John Mulherin dedicated.

The May meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Burton Sharpe and will be a missionary meeting.

Thanks were expressed for hospitality, program and lunch.

The pastor, Rev. W. G. Fletcher, gave a most talk and geographical picture of the islands in the British West Indies. He also outlined some political history of that area as well as its tourist attractions and told of a recent observer-tour. Cuba is one of the world's beauty spots. The island of Bermuda has its own Presbytery in the United Church of Canada.

In 1866 the Mission in Trinidad was founded. Several of the group have read the book "Treasures From Trinidad," written by Miss Constance E. Wagar, formerly of Peterborough. Connie has also written a playette entitled "Together in Trinidad."

Connie is a missionary teacher at St. Augustine High School and her high school girls presented a pageant entitled "Wonderful Windows," at the W.M.S. conference.

The one outstanding development among the evangelical churches at work in the Caribbean is the movement toward co-operation.

James W. Hoffman writes that: "The Christian responsibility of the millions of Protestants in the other nations of North America is 'to share the concerns of our neighbors' through the medium of the mission churches scattered throughout the islands."

SENTENCE SUSPENDED

WINDSOR (CP) — A former pastor of the African Methodist Episcopalian church here was placed on a year's suspended sentence when he was convicted of fraud at Essex County court-house. Rev. Wilfred McGruder, 35, was found guilty Tuesday of fraudulently converting $27 of the congregation's funds to his own use.

Canada Like Strange Land After 28 Years in Formosa

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Canada seems like a strange land to Isabel Taylor, a Presbyterian missionary home on furlough after 28 years in Formosa.

When she arrived in Toronto in the fall she was "overwhelmed by the growth and development of the city." A ride on a subway train was an exciting experience. She said Canada is a "land of plenty while Formosa is a land of contrasts. The poor are very poor in Formosa but even the wealthy are not nearly as wealthy as many Canadians."

Miss Taylor was born in Scotland but grew up and attended school in Orillia, Ont. She met Mrs. Frederick Knox, a missionary in India, spoke recently to a Women's Missionary Society meeting at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church here.

Miss Taylor, a graduate of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto, said her main work is compilation of hymns for the Formosans. She returns to the island off the southeast coast of China in July.

JOB TAKES TIME

She explained that it is a lengthy process to translate suitable hymns into Amoy, the official language of the Formosan church. The Amoy people have a rather limited so she and her associates are adding to it from hymns of the universal church, melodies of the mountain peoples, Chinese melodies and well-known historical hymns of the church.

Miss Taylor enjoys working with the Formosan choirs and also teaches music in high schools and colleges.

She made a plea for more workers in the mission field but said the urgent need now is for doctor and nurse for the church's Mackay Hospital in the capital city of Taipei.

Rice is the staple food but Miss Taylor said one is able to find a good variety of foods. Pork is the main meat and there is an abundance of fish of all kinds.

The Presbyterian Church has been established on the island for more than 90 years and plans already are being made for a centennial celebration. Miss Taylor said many other religious denominations have become active in Formosa since the Second World War.

Lone Woman Carries 35-Year Fight of Six Nations Chiefs With Government Into Court

BRANTFORD (CP) — A lone woman has carried the 35-year-old battle of the hereditary chiefs of the Six Nations Iroquois confederacy with the federal government into court.

The point at issue is 3.5 acres of the 30,000-acre Six Nations reserve near here but behind it is the chiefs' standing demand that the reserve's elected council establish a council of chiefs.

Mrs. Verna Logan, wife of Chief Joseph Logan Jr., one of the leaders of the March 4 action in which supporters of the chiefs ousted the elected council, is seeking in Ontario Supreme Court an injunction to stop the sale of the land by the council to Cockshutt Farm Equipment Company.

The injunction also seeks to have the sale by the council to be established the elected council declared ultra vires.

Defendants in the action are Clifford Styress, chief councillor of the elected council, and Clifford Atkinswood, superintendent of the Six Nations Indian Agency here and the Attorney-General of Ontario.

SIX NATIONS INDEPENDENT

The chiefs claim the Six Nations are an independent country which holds the Grand River Country as a result of a treaty with the British Government.

The government, therefore, had no right to interfere in Indian affairs to establish a council to govern the reserve.

The chiefs, established as the reserve's governing body after the Mohawk Indian Pete Hill was shot during an RCMP raid and the council, which the chiefs called illegal, was established.

In court Wednesday Mrs. Logan, who said she has never voted and never accepted a government welfare allowance because, asked that wampum be brought to the witness box to show that she could take the oath of the Long House religion.

She was dressed in buckskin. Others were dressed in business suits and some took the same oath as she did while still others swore on the Bible.

Mrs. Logan said the elected council has no right to sell any land belonging to the Six Nations. "There is no one who can surrender our land on our God-given heritage."

OTHER TESTIMONY

Others testified they had not voted the elected council into office because this was not the Six Nations native way and they feared any form of voting might make them franchised Indians.

Lloyd Jonas, aged 30, 80-year-old father-in - law of Mrs. Logan, said the Six Nations are entitled to perform marriages.

Asked why he has not registered his marriage with authorities, he said to use white man's laws would be following the example of Dekahwaka, a boy who had received from a divine source the Great Law of Peace about 900 years ago.

Emily General, a former school teacher and member of a delegation which went to England in 1930 to carry the chiefs' fight to the British Parliament, said he was disappointed in 1947 because the Indian agent asked him to sign allegiance to the Crown.

"I would swear allegiance to the council of chiefs but never to the elected council because the latter could not continue to teach us what it took the oath, I quit teaching."

Union Calls Out Workers at Two Rubber Plants

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The United Rubber Workers of America today struck two more big rubber companies, leaving only one of the industry's big four — the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company — still operating.

The union called out its workers at B. F. Goodrich Company and Firestone Tire and Rubber Company plants after negotiators failed to reach agreement on a new contract. Negotiators meeting at Cleveland said Goodrich pressed past the 12:01 a.m. EST strike deadline without resolving several major issues blocking settlement.

Wages are not at issue. Pensions, insurance and supplemental unemployment benefits are among the items discussed.

A Goodyear spokesman said no such progress was made in talks Wednesday night at Cleveland. No company and union agreed to keep plants open while further talks are held.

Firestone then issued a statement accusing the union of taking strike action. Firestone said this "after the union tentatively accepted almost another company substantially the same terms we had offered."

A union spokesman said the Firestone charge "just is not so," declined to elaborate.

Municipalities Should Re-enact Zoning Bylaws

TORONTO (CP) — Planning Minister Nickle has advised Ontario Municipalities to take prompt steps to re-enact zoning bylaws passed before 1958 to avoid the risk of them being upset in the courts.

He was referring to a recent Supreme Court of Canada ruling which declared that all zoning amendments and repeals given third and final reading by local councils before going to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval were invalid.

The ruling upset many of the amendments passed in the years between 1941 and 1958.

In a review of the board decision invalidating a suburban scarborough bylaw, Mr. Nickle said Tuesday he had been advised that there was a definite risk of successful attacks upon similar bylaws.

Mr. Nickle said the OMB had agreed to push through all re-enactment applications and would waive the usual fee. Board approval would be retroactive to the date the bylaw was passed.

The minister's statement said municipalities may protest "the validity or zoning restrictions prescribed in amending bylaws passed prior to March 27, 1958, by re-enacting such amendments immediately." It is my opinion this procedure will prove to be effective."

Icebreakers Open Sections Of Great Lakes-St. Lawrence

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two icebreakers Wednesday opened sections of the St. Lawrence and Great Lake waterway.

At the Montreal entrance to the St. Lawrence Seaway the government icebreaker Ernest Lapointe forced a passage through a heavy ice jam to Whitefish Bay on Lake Superior and today was expected to shepherd the first "ore" carriers through the bay and down the St. Mary's river to the Sault Ste. Marie locks.

The Lapointe went through the Montreal section of the seaway and today was to start clearing ice on Lake St. Louis. At present deep-water ships, which will be able to enter the Great Lakes by system after the opening, can go no farther than Montreal.

Mr. Hees said April 25 was elected as the opening date in place of the schedule April 20 opening because heavy ice, will delay the placing of such navigation aids as buoys and channel lights.

While the seaway will officially open April 25, the opening ceremonies will not be conducted until June 26, Queen Elizabeth's visit.

Another icebreaker, the D'Iberville, will be on hand to help through the seaway April 25. She will carry a group of government and seaway officials and 50 members of the House of Commons and Senate who have been invited to make the trip.

Some 28 ocean ships and 50 canal vessels are docked at Montreal. Some of the latter are not expected to wait for the official but will use the Lachine Canal which the seaway replaces. It is expected that between 40 and 60 ships will be waiting to go through when the seaway opens.

The three ships to be escorted by the Maritime icebreakers are the first freighters to attempt to traverse Lake Superior this season. They are the Pittsburgh Steamship Lines.

Ottawa Expects Improvement in U.S. Relations

OTTAWA (CP) — Qualified Canadian authorities anticipate there soon may be sharp improvement in Canada's relations with the United States on the economic front.

These views stem from reports trickling through diplomatic channels that the U.S. is considering removal of her oil import curbs against Canada and Venezuela and is preparing to negotiate on new international co-operation in surplus wheat disposal.

An American decision on the oil situation is expected within a matter of weeks. The wheat negotiations will take place at Washington early in May at the level of country, Food-for-Peace conference.

Still a matter of concern is the American curb on imports of lead and zinc. Canada and other exporters have protested these restrictions but there is no hope here of any early decision to relax them.

The oil restrictions were imposed more than a year ago, on a voluntary basis, but the American government recently moved to make these curbs mandatory to protect the U.S. oil industry against foreign competitors.

OPTIMISM GROWING

There is growing optimism here that the U.S. may agree to lift the oil restrictions as they apply on shipments from Canada. Last November, Ottawa thought they may be retained on shipments from the Middle East and the Far East.

This may not initiate any new large flow of Canadian oil to the U.S. because of price and other factors. But Canada has been able to fill even the quotas now available to her in the U.S.

Authorities here feel elimination of the restrictions may increase investment in Canada's oil industry by encouraging exploration and development work.

WHEAT PROBLEM

As for wheat, Canada has long been critical of the huge American surplus disposal program, charging that it has tended to eat into traditional Canadian commercial markets, thereby affecting Canada's wheat export program.

But now Canada herself has entered the surplus disposal program, on a small scale, and there is a feeling here that co-ordination of the Canadian program with that of the U.S. and other wheat exporters may help stabilize world markets.

Avro Officials Remain Silent On Flying Saucer

TORONTO (CP) — Avro Aircraft Limited officials are still keeping silent about the Arrocar or "flying saucer" the company has been working on for about three years.

Word of the project was given Monday in the Toronto branch of space committee of the United States House of Representatives. The U.S. army spokesman told reporters no details could be given except behind closed doors.

Avro officials here declined comment for "security reasons." They've been tight-lipped since the project was disclosed in February, 1957, by Prime Minister Diefenbaker of a flying jeep was confirmed last December by Sir Roy Dobson, chairman of A. V. Roe Ltd.

Approve Architects' Plans For Nurses' Training School And Residence for Hospital

Architects' plans for a new nurses' training school and residence at Belleville General Hospital to be constructed this year, were approved by the Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors, it was noted today by board chairman Mr. Frank Domenico.

Mr. Domenico said that the new building "would fill a big gap in the facilities at Belleville General Hospital."

"If we are to maintain an adequate training staff capable of giving optimum care to our patients, then we must provide the facilities to train these girls," he said.

Mr. J. E. Buchan, chairman of the Property committee, said that the four-storey building will be one hundred feet long by the first two floors will be 55 feet wide, and the top two 38 feet wide, giving a total area of 18,500 square feet.

The building will be situated on the west side of the Mary Ritchie Residence. This land was donated to the hospital by the Head Johnson Company for the purpose of erecting this building.

The ground floor will contain an auditorium 70 feet long, by 32 feet wide, and will be capable of seating 300 people. In addition there is lobby, cloak room, washrooms, a dietetic teaching laboratory, equipment room and storage areas.

The first floor will provide two classrooms, capable of seating 76 students, a demonstration room, sciencer laboratory, library and instructors' offices.

The second and third floors will provide living accommodation for 34 students.

In addition, there will be a laundry room, sitting room and kitchen.

The money for this project is being provided largely by government grants. It is anticipated that construction will start in April of this year, with completion in December. The building has been planned to provide for future additions, when necessary.

Streamline Voting Procedure For Fast Method of Recording House Votes Favored by PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament may be heading towards a streamlining voting procedure.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker gave a hint just before the Easter adjournment that this subject is on his mind. He indirected he favors a faster method of recording Commons' votes than now is employed.

The present procedure for recording a formal vote is time-consuming. Members are called in turn, has his name called out by a clerk and his name recorded on a list by another clerk. Before this jack-in-the-box action bells are rung throughout the Parliament Building for five minutes or more to summon members into the Commons chamber for the vote.

The method Mr. Diefenbaker appears to like is in use in India where, by a simple movement of a lever and a button, each member transmits his vote to an electronic computer which flashes the result within a minute or two.

By comparison, the prime minister said, it takes 15 to 25 minutes for the Commons to record a vote.

In citing this as an example of changes that should be considered, he said:

"They should nothing from the dignity of Parliament, but they do bring about that saving of time which is necessary that other matters of greater consequence may receive the full-est consideration."

But in the matter of fast voting, India appears to be in a class by itself. A sampling of Commonwealth parliaments indicates slower methods are more general.

In Britain, from which Commonwealth parliamentary traditions are sacrosanct, members rise out of the chamber through separate doors for "yes" and "no" votes. As they pass through their names are checked off and the result is announced to the Speaker by the tellers.

The West German Parliament employs a similar method, except the member himself places in a ballot box at the rostrum of the presiding officer.

Action to alter the method used in the Canadian Parliament is not likely to come at this session. But it seems likely that, if he wants to carry out his promise to move to remove unnecessary delays in the parliamentary life of the Commons, Mr. Diefenbaker will get his idea before a House committee, on rules at a future session.

Former Oshawa Man to Appeal

LOS ANGELES (CP)—An appeal is being considered for Gerald B. Feasby, a bookkeeper who was condemned to life imprisonment for the slaying of an attractive model.

It was reported Tuesday that an appeal may be attempted on technical grounds involving the admissibility of certain evidence during the Superior Court trial.

The jury that convicted him of the murder of Charlotte Trosper, 25, last Dec. 6 received a verdict Monday decreeing life imprisonment.

The prosecution charged that Feasby, formerly of Oshawa, Ont., stabbed the girl to death because she was attempting to end their three-year romance. Feasby did not testify at the trial, but officers quoted him as telling them that the stabbing was accidental.

Loss of Dulles' Leadership In Critical Negotiations Certain to Be Keenly Felt

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — An era in international negotiations ended today.

John Foster Dulles, one of the most powerful secretaries of state the United States has ever known, stepped quietly out of the picture after guiding the international affairs of the United States for just over six years.

The loss of his leadership at a time when critical negotiations with the Soviet Union regarding Berlin and Germany are about to start will be keenly felt, not only in the United States but among all the Allied nations.

BLOW TO EISENHOWER

The loss will be particularly felt by President Eisenhower, who, to an extraordinary extent, has leaned heavily on Dulles' advice in foreign affairs ever since he came to office in January, 1953.

Diplomats generally expect the president a new to assume a greater control over foreign policy even after he appoints a successor to Dulles.

That successor is, in the opinion of diplomats and congressmen, almost certain to be Christian Herter, the acting secretary of state.

Herter will go to Paris to represent the U.S. at the Western foreign ministers meeting beginning April 29. He will also go to Geneva for the negotiations with the Soviet Union at the foreign ministers' level beginning May 11.

CLOSEST TO DULLES

Herter's name has dominated all speculation in the last few weeks as the most likely successor to Dulles. Previously there have been many hints of the possibility of the appointment of C. Douglas Dillon, undersecretary of state for economic affairs, who has been helping Herter run the state department while Dulles went into hospital Feb. 10.

Others mentioned as possible successors are Henry Cabot Lodge, ambassador to the United Nations; Gen. Alfred Gruenther, president of the American Red Cross and former supreme NATO commander in Europe, and John J. McCloy, former U.S. high commissioner in Germany and now chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank; Thomas E. Dewey, former governor of New York and 1948 the Republican nominee for the presidency, and Arthur Black, president of the World Bank.

Continuity in following the policies shaped by Dulles is a powerful reason, in the view of informed officials here, why the president will eventually name Herter.

Herter represented the U.S. at recent allied strategy talks here and also cised the president in discussions with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan last month.

A former congressman and a former governor of Massachusetts, he suffers from an arthritic condition that obliges him to use aluminum crutches. His doctors say, however, that his condition is no obstacle in his work in the state department.

President Eisenhower has frequently said that he regards Dulles as the greatest secretary of state the U.S. has ever had. The president in the last few weeks had put off a decision on Herter, in the hope that, by some miracle, the secretary of state could recover his career and return to his desk in time to take part in the forthcoming negotiations with the Soviet Union.

One of the admitted difficulties facing the president, Herter and other senior members of the administration is that Dulles was essentially a "one-man department."

He had his finger on the pulse of every major international issue and his up-to-date knowledge and even the most minor questions astonished associates and washington observers.

CLOSEST TO DULLES

Of all the officials in the state department, Herter and Dillon have been closest to Dulles and probably have a greater knowledge of his work than anyone apart from the president.

Dulles was credited with working 18 hours a day in order to make what was described as his "last-ditch" attempt, by personal diplomacy to persuade the Soviet Union to accept as much of the Western position as possible.

An implacable foe of international communism, Dulles had often angered Moscow by expressed a desire to negotiate an easing of the cold war. He had been credited in the last few months with charting a more flexible American approach to the current at peace table negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Now he has had to bow out with negotiations imminent.

Union Leaders Often Lack Courage to Outline Facts

TORONTO (CP)—Union leaders often lack "the intestinal fortitude" to tell their members the facts of a situation, Ian F. MacRae, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said today in an address to the Personnel Association of Toronto.

"It is, of course, the duty of unions to secure the highest possible wages and the shortest hours and working conditions it can for its members," he said.

"But clearly a heavy responsibility also devolves upon them. They should be ready to step out of the line, should be flexible in their demands, and should be ready to say 'no' when they don't have the courage to frankly advise their members of the balance of management's case on occasions.

"The lack of this simple human attribute—courage—on the part of union leaders is the root cause of many an ill-conceived strike.

"How many times have union negotiators left the bargaining table, unsent spokesmen, in off-the-record comment, that they recognized that Fred Q. Auger to Ross Munro; Vancouver Province from A. W. Moscarella to Fred S. Auger.

Buddhist Monks 'Brainwashed' by Chinese Reds

KATMANDU, Nepal (CP)—Chinese Communist troops in Tibet are reported to have occupied monasteries and to be "brainwashing" Buddhist monks.

The brainwashing is said to be part of a drive by all of pro-Communist Tibetan abbots to "weed out" nationalists, according to reports reaching this China borderland.

The reports added that some monks have fled to join the anti-Communist guerrillas who remained—and failed the brainwashing test—when the army turned out of their monasteries and their places filled by pro-Communist monks.

Meanwhile, 40 Tibetans who escaped a Communist net around Lhasa have joined the Dalai Lama, Tibet's 23-year-old god-king, at Lhuntse in the foothills of northeastern India.

Killer of Nurse Denied Clemency

VENTURA, Calif. (CP) — Augustine Baldonado, 26, has been sentenced to death in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber for murdering Olga Duncan, a former nurse.

Superior Judge Charles F. Blakely sentenced the murderer Tuesday after denying motions for a new trial and for clemency.

Baldonado was found guilty Monday of murdering the 30-year-old nurse. He and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan, promised him $6,000 to get rid of her.

Mrs. Duncan was convicted earlier of murder and sentenced to die.

CAMPBELLFORD

Rotary Club Hears Address On Anasthesia

CAMPBELLFORD — Dr. T. K. Hazlett gave his classification talk at the Monday luncheon of the Rotary club. He spoke on "Anaesthetics and the History of Their Use in Relieving Pain in Surgical Operations."

Dr. Hackett stated the the first use of anaesthics in surgical operations was the use of ether in 1846. Though certain of the narcotics, such as opium and cocaine, have been known for centuries, it was not feasible to use them as anaesthics since the quantity of dosage would be difficult to control, and secondly, the effect of these drugs, when used alone in sufficient quantities to alleviate pain, would probably cause death. The events leading up to the discovery of anaesthetics began in 1800 when Sir Humphery Davey used nitrous gaide. Surgeons of the 18th and 19th centuries sometimes intoxicated their patients with alcohol, or drugged them with opium when the success of an operation demanded that the patient be kept from struggling. An operation was thus performed with great speed, and according to Dr. Hackett, amputations were accomplished in a matter of minutes.

It was not until 1844 that Horace Wells, a dentist from Hartford, Conn., observing the use of the gas by a lecturer, decided that the subjects seemed to feel no pain from falling, and persuaded the lecturer to conduct an experiment with himself as the patient, and Dr. Riggs as the dentist. This was the first apparently painless extraction of a tooth.

About the same time, Dr. Charles Jackson had been experimenting with another substance known as ether. Dr William Morton, acquainted with the new anaesthetic on the family dog, on his wife, and finally on a dental case. Convinced that the new substance would be a boon to those requiring surgery, he contacted Dr. William Warner, senior surgeon at the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, and a demonstration day was arranged. At this time, the first completely successful anaesthetic was administered in a surgical operation.

Dr. Morton's attempt to patent the drug met with a storm of protest from the medical profession and the plan was abandoned. Actually, the drug had been discovered three hundred years earlier by a monk.

Dr. Hackett said that anaesthetic in surgical operations is commonplace today and the advances in anaesthesia have been so rapid during the past few years, that in a few years from now, today's practices may appear humorous.

'TEA' FOR CANADA WEEK APRIL 13th to 18th

Tea Dancing Gaining in New Popularity

One of the gayest eras in history was back when the flapper was kicking up her heels doing the Charleston at fashionable tea dances. And now that short skirts, headache bands and other styles of the flapper are back in vogue again, tea dancing is the popular social pastime of young moderns.

The last time skirts were showing off pretty knees was known as the roaring twenties. A war was over and a fresh new wave of optimism swept the world. New enterprises started up which were later to grow into vast business empires; many of the so-called "new fangled" inventions soon became everyday necessities. Early headphone radios were found in many homes, automobiles for the average-income man let him carve out faster and farther, and the foreshadow of future air travel was cast with Lindbergh's historic flight across the Atlantic. With this surge of progress came a faster tempo of living.

Music caught the spirit of the times with a new freedom in rhythm and the jazz age was born. Dancers became livelier and more spirited. The Charleston hit the dance floors in a frenzied whirl of flashing, silk-stockinged legs. Tea dances were at their peak.

Men and women alike enjoyed the bright fun of these late afternoon tea dances where you danced, chatted about everything in the ever-changing world, and drank cup after cup of hot, cheering tea. At fine hotels and homes, tea dances were the favorite social occasion, definitely the smart place to be seen.

While fraternity and sorority tea dances have continued to appear on the social calendar of college life, it is only recently we see signs of another tremendous interest in the tea dance. The Fall social season in Toronto opened this year with a tea dance in aid of charity at one of the city's most fashionable hotels. It was a gala affair with all the fun and high spirits of by-gone days. After the success of this effort, more fund-raising projects will no doubt take the happy form of a tea dance.

These are days so hectically gay about a tea dance. Whether it is by reason of the hour that breaks the monotony of our daily routine or whether it is combined with dancing has a brightening effect I don't know. But one thing, but tea does wonders to perk you up no matter how trying your day has been. Over a steaming cup of tea you can relax, talk of the latest fashion trends or space — and still feel in the mood for dancing.

And so along with the short skirts, may come back some of the happier customs and optimistic outlook of the flapper era. For again the world is surging forth with brilliant inventions and explorations that are opening up a new and startling future. And all the fun of the tea dance is here again.

PLEASANT SURPRISE

PORTSMOUTH, Eng. (CP)—Customers paying their gas bills here got a pleasant surprise—tea, cakes and meat rolls—all free. It marked the opening of a modernized showroom.

A smiling France Joly from Montreal, is crowned "Miss Tea for Canada" by TV personality Fred Davis. Starting April 6th, Miss Joly will tour Canada to celebrate "Tea for Canada Week", April 13 to 18.

Tea Time Etiquette

The most gracious hostess I have ever known is the wife of one of our leading statesmen. She could, if she wished, entertain lavishly at all times. Instead, she is often hostess at large and glamorous official functions. The delight of delights, however, is an invitation to her home for tea.

Here she is her happiest; here she is the intimate, friendly hostess and here one is included in her fireside circle.

Part of the fascination is the way she plans her tea-time parties. There is a pleasant atmosphere which is set by her friendly, sincere, personal greeting as the guests arrive.

Everyone is seated comfortably, for easy conversation in chairs that are good to relax in. No guest is ever placed so that he or she must play dodge with stray sunlight or electric lights. In winter there may be a fire in the hearth and in summer everything is planned for cool refreshment.

And always there is tea. A small table is brought in and set up beside the hostess (almost silent and unnoticed accomplishment). The tea tray comes in — everything beautifully polished, no detail overlooked. (Is anything more disturbing to a party mood than a last-minute search for teaspoons or a jug of milk?)

Each guest is given a small plate and serviette, and asked whether she takes lemon or milk, with or without sugar.

The guests herself, or one of the guests, (presuming there is no maid) looks after the refills, the re-passing of sandwiches and the cakes. There is no hustle, hustle or fuss. This is the hour for relaxation and one feels at peace with the world—happy to be included in this small party of friends.

For a successful tea party a hostess should remember that this is not a banquet; that guests are not appreciate a smorgasbord in the middle of the afternoon. One or two kinds of sandwiches, are sufficient, very tiny, fresh, flavorful. They may be round, with a cookie cutter, small triangles or squares — but always neatly arranged on a pretty plate — never piled or crowded.

Small cakes or cookies, with or without icing, are easy to handle. Remember where forks are required are not tea-party fare. This is a tips-of-the-fingers party. The tea itself is all important. All else is incidental.

The tea should be served hot and freshly brewed. To make a good tea use warmed earthenware teapot. Allow about one teaspoon of tea per cup and one for the teapot, or one tea bag to each two servings. Pour fresh bubbly boiling water over the tea in a preheated teapot. Allow to stand for five minutes then decant the clear infusion to a well-warmed serving carafe or teapot.

These are the ingredients for good fellowship. This is the recipe for happy communication between a hostess and her guest.

Emily Post tops Miss Vanderbilt's thoughts with the observation that, "The afternoon tea with dancing is today's substitute for yesterday's debutante ball."

Be that as it may, tea many years ago and today, has its place in the heart-warming class of beverages, mild or robust, depending upon the mood of the moment . . . and the manner in which it is served. Today's on-the-go people often prefer their tea in mugs . . . straight from the pot . . . without saucer or fripperies . . . in the hand . . . and coupled with music, dancing, or any activity designed for gay living.

Boxing Tames Down!

If you'd been walking along the Euphrates River Valley some five thousand years ago, you might have seen a rather large crowd of Sumerians at their way to a boxing match! The ancient Greeks were pretty fond of this sport, too. Their matches featured a version in which opponents wrapped strips of leather around their fists . . . and called this kind of binding a "cestus". When one of their boxers died, the Greeks staged a boxing tournament at his funeral as a tribute to him and his skill, for they believed that he could actually see this tournament!

Today, the boxing rules as we know them are based on those that were drawn up in 1865 by the Marquis of Queensbury and that helped, considerably, to tone down the rough and rugged contest that any contestant could expect in the ring.

Out of the ring, boxers can train as they like. And a great many of them find that the most satisfactory and refreshing pick-up they can take when the yfeel fatigued is a warming mug of tea. And as every teadrinker knows, this cheering drink not only gives you a lift, it helps relax tired nerves and muscles, too!

Soccer Scores With Canadians

The soccer ball soaring over the heads of the players in eleventh century England was probably the skull of a Dane. But in the centuries following, when skulls became harder and harder to get, players relied on balls that were made by inflating cow bladders.

An here's the way those early games went: Both sides lined up and played against each other in a "free for all" . . . with no limit at all to the number of players on a side. The winning team was the one that succeeded in kick the ball right into the centre of the rival town, causing considerable alarm and disprogress, you may be sure!

The game of soccer is confined to the area of a playing field now, and international rules regulate it — but the basis of the game remains very much the same! The name soccer, by the way, is a corruption of the official name "Association Football". In Canada, our large European immigration since the war is responsible for the loyal following here! It's no secret in the soccer world that some of the world's best players are confirmed tea drinkers. And that's not surprising, really, for millions of men and women who enjoy an active life are the best of all pick-ups in a cup of tea. Its cheering, refreshing taste is one reason why millions enjoy tea, while it refreshes you, helps nerves and muscles to feel wonderfully relaxed. All of which makes tea an ideal drink for use in training.

Oldest Sport on Earth!

Around the cave dwellings of man's earliest history, fingers used to wrestle with friend to impress his wife in practice with the wild animals that threatened his safety and his family.

Later, wrestling played as important part in the ancient Greek and Roman festivals — the prestige of a champion wrestler being second only to that of the discus thrower. The rough, tough and tumble sport in Greece where nothing was barred, but the theme tamed the sport a little, developing the "Greco-Roman" style in which holds below the waist were banned as illegal. Thereupon, Prince of Athens, drew up these first standard rules in 900 B.C. Considerably more than you follow, and whether as participant or spectator, you'll be interested to know that athletes everywhere agree that tea is the ideal beverage for those leading an active life.

The world's leading coaches suggest that their players drink tea with during training and between periods of competitive play for a mug of tea is generally accepted as being the only beverage that gives athletes a safe, stimulating pick-up —yet leaves nerves and muscles wonderfully relaxed!

HAD ENOUGH

MODESTO, Cal. (AP) — He stood the corny jokes about notaries for 44 years. Then Filbert Brazil, of Ceres, Calif., petitioned the court for permission to change his name. "Petitioner is the butt of many jokes . . ." ran his plea. He wants to be called Gilbert Brazil.

Tea Featured at Commonwealth Games

At the Commonwealth Games held last summer in Cardiff, Wales, the serving of morning tea to 1,500 athletes from 21 countries was a welcome and novel feature. It was a difficult task but the Tea Bureau managed it by serving units at 20 different points within the special Empire Village.

Throughout the twenty-five days during which the Games took place a free early morning cup of Ceylon tea was available to all. During the day a mobile canteen operated at the training track. For many of these athletes fresh hot tea played an important part during and after the training sessions.

What Is a Good Cup of Tea?

Some like it hearty, others like a lighter, more delicate brew. But every tea drinker agrees that good flavor is important. To bring out the full flavor, it is necessary to follow only a few basic rules as drawn by professional tea tasters. They say that tea should always be made full strength because it is not possible to make a flavorful pot of weak tea. If you like tea weaker, dilute it by adding hot water to your cup of tea.

Fresh bubbly boiling water is a must. Pour over the right amount of tea measured into a prewarmed teapot. Brew for a full five minutes.

You may serve your tea clear with milk or with lemon, perhaps sugar, but you will enjoy a good flavorful cup of tea.

And now here's an idea for a good snack. Serve tea with lemon, along with these wonderful teatime scones. Here's the recipe:—

TEATIME SCONES

2 cups sugar; 2 cups all purpose flour; 2 tsp. baking soda; ½ tsp. salt; 4 tbsp. shortening; 2/3 cup buttermilk; 1 beaten egg; ½ c. raisins (optional).

Shortening into dry ingredients with pastry blender till the texture is mealy. Make a well in the centre of the mixture and gradually add buttermilk and the well beaten egg, stirring with a fork. Mix till a soft dough is formed. Add raisins if desired. Turn out on a lightly floured board and divide into two equal portions. Gently roll each with a floured rolling pin or pat out with hands into a circle ¼" thick. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 450° for 12-15 minutes. Serve hot with butter and jam.

Tea Quiz

How many answers do you know to these questions about tea? If you can answer all of these questions then you're a "tea-whiz". If you can't, take off two points, from a possible total of 30, for each one you miss.

1. What is tea?
2. Why should you serve it with milk instead of cream?
3. Why should you float a thin slice of lemon rather than serve a wedge of lemon?
4. How many "lumps" of sugar make 1 teaspoonful?
5. Why should water be freshly boiled for making tea?
6. Why should water be at the bubbling boil to make good tea?
7. Why should the teapot be warmed?
8. How long should the tea be brewed?
9. How much tea is measured per cup?
10. How many cups of tea are made from a teabag?
11. How should tea be stored?

Here are the answers. Now check off your list and test your T-Q. Every correct answer is worth 2 points.

1. A beverage, (made from the under top leaves and the bud of the tea plant).
2. Milk does not interfere with the good tea flavor.
3. Because the juice from the floating slice flows into the tea gently. There is no need to handle or squeeze the fragrant oil.
4. 2 small lumps or 1 large lump.
5. Warmed over water is "flat", the oxygen has been removed and the tea will not have the best flavor or strength.
6. To extract the true flavor and to bring out the natural amber color.
7. To help release flavor fully and to make sure the tea is served as hot as possible.
8. Exactly 5 minutes.
9. 1 teaspoon per cup and one for the pot.
10. 1 teabag for every two cups.
11. In an air-tight container to keep all the flavor and moistness.

Tea Grows Where?

More tea is grown in India than in any other country in the world. From figures published in India we see that nearly three-quarters of a million acres, 731,972 to be exact, are given over to tea growing. From these vast tea gardens nearly 707 million pounds of tea are produced and the tea-loving people of India themselves use up to 300 million pounds. The balance forms one of their important exports. Ceylon is second with production of 398 million pounds of tea yearly. In Canada now, the blends made from teas from India and Ceylon are preferred, and nearly 90 per cent of all tea imported into Canada comes from these two countries.

Injuries Worry Toe Blake, Mount Imlach Erupts Again

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens move closer tonight to the payoff in the Stanley Cup playoffs — a series that has taken on something of an anomalous aspect.

Canadiens are the champions; they lead the best-of-seven showdown 2-1 and are 8-to-5 favorites to win tonight's fourth game—the same odds that prevailed Tuesday when they dropped a 3-2 overtime decision. Yet coach Toe Blake is doing the heavy worrying.

Injuries on his club have sent Blake into periods of deep pondering. The setback Tuesday was another jolt.

Normally, the man leading the trailing team should be the fellow pretty down in the dumps but manager - coach Punch Imlach shows no such signs. "We'll be tougher," he promised.

Casting about for something to brighten his outlook, Blake mused Wednesday night:

"I've got a bunch that the Rocket can help us win this series."

JUST A HUNCH

Blake let the cryptic remark go at that; just a hunch. He seemed to picture the 37-year-old Maurice (Rocket) Richard limbering in a few goals.

The famous Rocket has seen only limited action.

"I'm not in shape," said Richard, who last Saturday pulled a groin muscle to add to his miseries. "There are younger fellows on the team who are in better shape than I am."

Blake felt none of the three Leaf goals Tuesday was a "good goal," but he made it plain he wasn't finding fault with goalie Jacques Plante.

Asked about Dick Duff's overtime goal Tuesday, Blake said: "Let's put it this way: Plante has stopped tougher ones."

Hurting Canadiens most is the loss of Jean Beliveau, 45-goal man this season who suffered a spinal injury during the semi-final against Chicago Black Hawks.

BELIVEAU WON'T PLAY

Blake made it official when he said what most people have thought—Beliveau won't play in this series.

Some consolation for Blake has been the better playing form of Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, who was long ailing with stomach-muscle miseries. But to offset this, defenceman Bob Turner suffered a severe charleyhorse Tuesday in the left thigh. Turner is expected to play tonight.

Blake said he will dress 21-year-old rookie Bill Hicke, tonight and will decide during the game whether to use him. Hicke was brought up from Rochester of the American Hockey League.

BOTH WORK OUT

Both clubs worked out in the Gardens Wednesday but Blake kept his men on the ice only about five minutes.

"I had ordered a practice after the Tuesday game, so the practice stood," said Blake.

On the other hand, Imlach saw his Leafs romp through a 40-minute workout and then had to shoo them off the ice. They wanted to do more shooting.

Leaf absentees were Larry Regan and George Armstrong. Regan had a new cast fitted on his injured hand. Armstrong has an infected toe that caused him to miss the last three games after the regular practice.

Imlach said he figured the overtime win "restored the players' confidence just as we got going in the Boston series."

"I don't know why everybody seems so surprised that we keep coming back."

Two of the semi - final wins against Boston were snatched in overtime.

Sugar Kings Whip Toronto; Royals Idle

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The International League held an extended batting practice Wednesday night as no fewer than 24 pitchers made brief appearances and watched a grand total of 42 batters cross the plate.

Their appearances were split evenly: eight pitchers were used in each game.

They allowed 42 hits, not a bad average when split among six teams.

At Havana the Sugar Kings weathered a four - run Toronto ninth inning to avenge their opening game loss and defeat the Maple Leafs 8-4. Wild Toronto pitching helped them.

FAULTY FIELDING

Richmond, playing at home could manage only five hits and at one point blew a five-run lead but managed an 11-8 victory over Buffalo Bisons. This time it was the fielding that was at fault. Bisons committed seven errors in two big innings for Virginians.

At Colombus, where the Rochester Red Wings walloped the Jets 9-2 it was solid hitting that counted including a grand slam homer by Rochester first baseman Gene Oliver who got two round-trippers.

Richmond's haphazard win left them undefeated in first place with two wins in two starts. Miami Marlins have the only other undefeated club but have played only one game and were idle Wednesday night. The others are bunched together behind.

Don Johnson was pulled in the sixth after two singles and a walk loaded the bases. With Johnson the loser, the pattern continued as Toronto used five pitchers.

Starter Vincente Amor of Sugar Kings pitched hitless ball for five innings then Leafs scored four runs including a three-run homer by Archie Wilson. Amor was still the winner as his club came back for a total of 10 hits including a two-run homer by Danny Rojas.

With the bases loaded and Richmond trailing 8-7, the Bisons hit three runs score when Curt Roberts' grounder went through Frank Herrera's legs and the throw from the outfield got past Jim Coker and hit the screen.

Johnny James blanked Buffalo on one hit the last three innings to preserve the triumph for Jack McMahon, one of four pitchers. Ken Lehman, one of an equal number of hurlers, was the loser.

Oliver's six runs from homers alone were enough to top Jets. Rochester hurler Marshall Bridges went off with a sore arm and reliever Bob Miller was the winner. Jim Hardiman was the loser as Rochester used three and Columbus five pitchers.

Sonny Liston Wins by TKO

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Two tall, hard - hitting heavyweights who had trouble finding opponents met each other in the ring here Wednesday night and Charles (Sonny) Liston of Philadelphia came off the winner by a TKO in 2:04 of the third round.

Liston floored his opponent, Cleveland Williams of Houston, Tex., twice before referee Jimmy Peerless stopped it. The fight had been billed for 10 rounds.

Liston's handlers said they told him to wait Williams out and he did, but only until the second round. Sonny opened up then and peppered his foe with rights and lefts to the head. A barrage to Williams' head late in the round rocked the Texan and paved the way for the fatal third.

Liston weighed 212½ to Williams' 210½ pounds. Liston now has won 34 of 35 fights and is ranked fourth among the heavyweights.

Healthful Herbs Found In Syntona Make Your Ideal Spring Tonic

Be Able to Eat Heartily, Improve Digestion, Sleep Better, Feel Better All Day Long.

After the inactivity and confinement of the long winter months thousands suffer from faulty digestion, stomach gas, excess acidity and heartburn; also minor kidney irregularities, bowels do not function properly, appetite is lost and you feel over-tired, sluggish and run-down.

With the first sign of warmer weather those troubles become more pronounced. Each day is a burden. Everything you eat seems to taste terrible and feel heavy.

Because Syntona is made from ingredients which include 13 of Nature's finest Herbs and Roots, it is the ideal tonic to take in Spring. A tonic at this season of the year like Syntona helps you to fight off accumulated colds and impurities by its action on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels and by promoting healthy elimination and improved assimilation of foods.

NOW IS THE TIME TO TAKE SYNTONA

Every year many thousands of men and women turn to Syntona to help digestion, remember irregularity, sharpen appetite, relieve overindulgence, refreshing and sluggish, run-down feeling. Many say that even after one week they begin to feel like different persons.

Why don't you let Syntona yourself. Take it regularly every day during the early Spring weeks. The chances are that you will very quickly find the warmer weather feeling fit and like an advertisement should be.

SIGN OF SPRING

BOB TEMPLE

Manse Robert informs this department he salvaged enough Spanish pesetas, Czech kronor, Swiss francs, Irish florins, English thruppenny bits and Austrian shillings from his recent flying tour of Europe, to put his favorite softball squad on a training basis.

While overseas Bob kept a spare optic on the alert for foreign mound talent, but came up with no prospects. In Madrid he failed to uncover a matador who could throw a ball better than he could the bull. In Prague the only pitchers he saw were in the glass compact show rooms.

In Rome in his soft dulcet Italian, Robert queried local types regarding pitchers and they brought him pizza pies. He missed the scouting boat when he failed to show up in Finland where every other fan was a Herb Score, judging from the speed and accuracy with which they tossed hunks of ice upholstered with snow.

His search in Bratislava led him to a one-round native called Slivovitz. One sip from this baby and you woke up wondering whether it was a bulldozer or a tank you sampled with.

But in Vienna? Ah!

Anyway, this Marco Polo of the legal beagles is now home and in his spare time is busy rounding up the nucleus of what he hopes will be an OASA intermediate champion this softball semester.

He has called the first practice for Bobcats past, present and future for the CNRA Recreation Park next Sunday afternoon starting two o'clock.

"We're going to start from scratch," the maestro said. "There are no strings attached and no player is wedded to any particular position. The spots are as wide open as a footman's band in a London hotel. They've got to earn 'em in keen 'em."

"The welcome mat is out for any player or players desirous of trying out with the Bobcats. We are not going to play favorites. Any player who has the ability to make the club will do just that."

On paper, Manse Robert has a fairly formidable array of spring training talent. He has the last pair of Bobbies, Hull and Green, as a mound mulcess — and that is itself is a pretty fair start. He expects to secure the services of Al Carkner and if the materializes the big rightthander will be a big asset to the Cats' hill corps.

In his first publicity release the Chief Tabby says that McFarlands' Floyd Crawford, "Wiener" Brown and Turk Barclay will be back in the Bobcat lair. All three were "solid senders" in the Bobcat organization last year, and this season, Robert states, they will be augmented by Barton Bradley.

Bradley dazzled the European booster clubs, especially in the world tournament prosper, with his sensational skating. And the "Wiener" was not far behind after he had given the flu bug official notice.

If this pair of lightweights exhibit the same speed afoot around the bases this summer as they did on the blades over the European isolams, opposition defenders will be wise taking their time trying to throw 'em out. The only way to stop 'em will be to shoot 'em down.

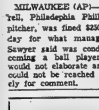
Others of last year's flock who will be back in the 1959 fold are the reliable Ted Hurst, Bert Faulkner, Karl Cousins, Paul Russell and Johnny Casey. Others are expected to be out on Sunday warming up.

"At the end of the season," Robert said it much seriousness, "I am going to present a bonus to the most valuable man to the Bobcats' team. The bonus will be an all-expense two-weeks' vacation in Vienna."

"Who is going to be the judge and jury in the selection of the most valuable individual?" he was asked.

"I am," he said.

"I see," he said seconds later, "that you are thinking the same thing that is running through my mind."



It must be the legal training. How did Temple know that we were thinking the most valuable man to any amateur sports aggregation is the sponsor?

Dunlops, Vernon Canadians Clash For Allan Cup

Whitby Polishes off Hull While Regina Bows in West; Finals Open in Toronto Sun.

WHITBY (CP) — Whitby Dunlops did what everyone knew they would Wednesday night when they polished off Hull Lorgion in straight games and set their sights on becoming the first team to win the Allan Cup the year after winning the world hockey championships.

Only 1,000 fans were in the 2,200-seat arena as they laced Hull Legion 10-3 to take the best-of-three Eastern Canada Senior A hockey championship in straight games. They won the first game in Hull 7-2 Monday night.

Whitby now meets Vernon Canadians of the Okanagan Hockey League in a best-of-seven Allan Cup final opening at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens Sunday.

EXPECTS TOUGH SERIES

Whitby coach Wren Blair said after the game he doesn't believe the Hull club was of Senior OHA calibre. He added that a team which has had the championship usually goes—off form the next year.

But Whitby hadn't done that and by the same token wouldn't regard the Allan Cup victory over Hull as a pattern for the Vernon series.

Whitby won the Allan Cup in 1957 and went on to win the world hockey championships in Oslo the next year. Then they came back to Canada and kept up the form that won at Oslo.

"When teams enter the world championships," Blair said, "they reached the pinnacle and after that they generally slump. Blair said: "Whitby hopes to change that."

The coach said the best senior A hockey in Canada is played in the OHA series and the Okanagan League.

He noted that Vernon defeated Kelowna Packers, the team that toured Russia last year and said Vernon would be formidable opposition. "It would be foolish to say that we do not plan to win."

THREE SCORE TWICE

Sid Smith, Gordie Myles and Bob Hassard each scored twice for Whitby while singles came from Pete Babando, Ted O'Connor, Fred Etcher and Bob Attersley. Bernie Lamoger scored twice and Pete Caron once for the losers.

Whitby led 5-2 at the end of the first period, and 8-2 at the end of the second.

Only during the first half of the first period did Hull show form good enough to compete. They showed good passing but could not skate with Whitby.

HONOR HORSEMAN

NEW HAMBURG (CP) —More than 100 friends and associates from harness racing circles met here Wednesday night to honor Eric C. Bronmeier, retiring secretary of the New Hamburg Turf Club. "Katy," to harness racing for the last 22 years during which he was largely responsible for the promotion of the New Hamburg Pacing Derby, has been forced to retire because of ill health.

REGINA (CP)—Vernon Canadians defeated Regina Caps 4-1 Wednesday night to win the Western Canada senior hockey crown and the right to meet Whitby Dunlops in the Allan Cup finals. Vernon took the best-of - seven series four games to one.

The Canadians, champions of the Okanagan Senior Hockey League, opened up a 2-0 lead in the first period, split two goals with Caps in the second and notched the only goal in the third.

Art Hart, Merv Bidoski, Russ Kowalchuk and Odie Lowe were the Vernon marksmen. Pete Petrovitch got the only Regina goal.

Hal Gordon was outstanding in the Vernon nets. He blocked 26 shots, 21 of them in the first period. Referee Bill Jucker handed out 10 minor penalties, five to each club.

New York Dangles Bait For Phillies

NEW YORK (CP)—A representative of Mayor Wagner has had several conversations with owner Bob Carpenter of the Philadelphia Phillies in the hope of luring the National League franchise to New York.

William Shea, chairman of the committee to bring another major league team to New York, acknowledged Wednesday he had promised construction of a baseball stadium for use of the Phillies if they made the switch. In this, he had the approval of Mayor Wagner and Robert F. Moses, city construction co-ordinator.

The $12,000,000 stadium would be located at Flushing Meadow on Long Island and seat 52,000 people.

"I have had numerous discussions with Carpenter, as well as with other major league club owners," Shea said, "but I don't care to comment any further on the matter."

Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth said earlier Wednesday, that though Carpenter is discussing the idea of moving the team, "I am still convinced he wants to stay in Philadelphia."

Carpenter has maintained his club cannot operate much longer in antiquated Connie Mack Stadium because of a lack of parking spaces.

Peterborough won the OHA title by taking the last three games in a full seven-game series with Toronto St. Michael's Majors.

Bowman figures a soft second-period goal by Connelly unsettled Canadiens. Connelly's shot slid along the ice and under the stick of Canadiens' netminder Claude Cyr.

Coach Claude Ruel of Hull-Ottawa said it was the worst game he has seen Canadiens play. "They played horrible hockey," he said.

GETS FIRST THREE

Connelly, who was third high pointgetter in the OHA this season with 36 goals and 33 assists for 91 points, opened the scoring at 8:35 of the first period by going around Canadiens' defenceman Bob Olajos and sliding the puck under a falling Cyr.

Connelly made it 2-0 about four minutes later on a beautiful breakaway pass by Jim Roberts, walking in alone from centre ice to score.

It was Connelly again at 17:15 as he beat Cyr on his own rebound with teammate Barclay Plager and Canadiens' Bob Rousseau and Andre Tardif in the penalty box. Plager and Rousseau were given majors for fighting and Tardif a minor for charging.

The Habitants came to life in the second period as Drolet scored at 4:36 on a hard high backhand from five feet out. George Montague of Petes was serving a tripping penalty at the time. Morrissette made it 3-2 at 8:40.

PUTS GAME ON ICE TOO

Connelly put the game on ice for Petes at 11:28 with a soft 15-footer that slid along the ice and under the stick of netminder Cyr.

The Habs drew eight of 14 penalties.

Cyr and Petes' goaltender Dennis DeCordy, picked up from St. Catharines TeePees as a replacement for injured Jacques Caron, each stopped 21 shots.

Connelly Scores Four Goals In Petes 5-2 Win Over Habs

HULL, Que. (CP)—Sharpshooting Wayne Connelly has pulled Peterborough Petes back into the battle with Hull - Ottawa Canadiens in the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup hockey final.

The 19-year - old right winger, playing his third season with the OHA Junior A champions, broke loose for four goals as Petes downed the defending cup champions 5-2 Wednesday night.

Canadiens now lead the best-of-seven series 2-1 with one game tied. Fifth game is scheduled for Peterborough Friday night with the sixth here Sunday.

COACH ELATED

Peterborough coach Scotty Bowman was elated over the victory and said his team was improving steadily.

"If we win Friday, it's anybody's series," he said. "We were down more against St. Michael's."

Tribe Still Unbeaten; Yankees Crowding Top Spot

Indians' New Big-Sock Brave Has Home-Run Tomahawk; Giants Nudging Milwaukee

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The inevitable is getting a bit closer in the American League pennant chase. The world champion New York Yankees are crowding in on first place—and they might be there now except for Woody Held, a kid manager Casey Stengel reluctantly traded away.

Held, 27, was in the June, 1957, swap that also sent Billy Martin to Kansas City for Harry Simpson, and, incidentally, Ryne Duren.

"They tell me around this league that they know how to pitch to that fella," Casey once said. "But I notice they forget to do it every once in a while."

They've been forgetting frequently lately. Held, traded to Cleveland last season, is hitting nothing but homers.

His third hit in 17 at bats this year was his third home run (good for seven runs total) in two days and beat winless Detroit 2-1 in 10 innings Wednesday. It kept Indians unbeaten in four and put them into first place, a half-game ahead of the Yankees.

The champs, stopped only by rain so far, won their third, 3-1, at Baltimore on Bobby Richardson's two-out, two-run double in the ninth. That jumped the Yanks' lead over the Chicago White Sox who lost 10-8 to Kansas City, and slipped to third. Boston defeated Washington 7-3.

Held's homer, with two out in the 10th at Cleveland, was his second in a row off Ray Narleski. The righthander Indians termed washed up after trading him to Detroit has lost two losses both in relief, and has given up four homers in 6 2-3 innings over four games.

Right — hander Cal McLish, Cleveland's top winner (16-8) last year, took the decision, giving up nine hits in his first appearance of the season.

A walk and Andy Carey's single set up Richardson's winning hit for the Yankees off losing reliever Jack Harshman (0-2). Hoyt Wilhelm, who no-hit the Yanks last season, had them blanked on one hit for five innings. Whitey Ford walked six, but went all the way in his 1960 debut for a six-hit victory.

The A's won their first with seven of nine hits good for extra bases at Chicago. Righthander Bob Grim (1-0) won it, chipping in with his first grand-slam homer in a five-run third. Loser Harry Latman shaded Joe DeMaestri with his first pitch after Grim's slam, but the A's starting stop, carried off on a stretcher, is expected back in the lineup today.

Luis Aparicio drove in three White Sox runs with two doubles—the second in a seven-run eighth inning that chased Grim.

Righthander Jerry Casale won his first in the majors in his first start for the Red Sox, beating the Senators with a seven-hitter and clinching a wrap-up, three - run homer over the far away left centre field wall in Fenway Park. Russ Kemmerer lost to Don Drysdale and Johnny Antonelli, a pair of young aces who went a long way to go nowhere last season, are back in business again, flashing some of the old sparkle.

It was Drysdale, a 22-year-old righthander, who won 17 as a National League sophomore and went west with the transplanted Dodgers last season boomed as the star of the Los Angeles staff. Instead, he went wild and wound up with a 12-13 record.

Antonelli, a 27-year-old southpaw who twice has been a 20-game winner, didn't have it quite so bad when the Giants shifted to San Francisco. But his 15-12 record wasn't exactly what he had been counted on to deliver.

BOTH WIN

Things were different Wednesday night. Antonelli gave up a run on three singles in the first inning, then blanked the Chicago Cubs on two hits the rest of the way for a 7-1 victory, his second. That left the Giants, who got a pair of homers from Orlando Cepeda and another from Felipe Alou, with a 4-1 record in second place.

Drysdale gave up eight hits, but no runs at all, squaring his record at 1-1 with his first complete game as the Dodgers beat St. Louis 5-0 and tied the Cubs and Philadelphia for fourth at .500.

Milwaukee's first place Braves (3-0) were idle along with Pittsburgh, while Cincinnati (3-1) took third by blanking winless Pittsburgh a fifth defeat, 10-5.

Antonelli, who managed only one complete game and two victories in his last six starts of '58, struck out six for his first complete game.

Cepeda, last year the league's rookie, blasted his first home run of the year in a two-run fourth off loser Joe Gibbon. Cepeda then hit a two-run homer and Alou followed with a solo shot. His third home run of the season.

Drysdale, who was 0-2 against the Cards last season, struck out seventh straight in the Coliseum with his solo homer high from Don Demeter and dim Baxes. It was the first in the majors for Baxes, a 30-year-old rookie infielder. The Dodgers put it away against Larry Jackson (0-1) with a two-run fourth on singles by John Roseboro, Demeter, Gil Hodges and Don Zimmer.

The Pirates, getting a 3-0 lead on Don Hoak's first - inning homer, twice blew leads, failing behind for keeps when Hal Smith chased Bob Friend to his second loss in a five-run sixth inning. Vada Pinson, Jerry Lynch and Ed Bailey counted seven runs with homers for Cincinnati. Joe Nuxhall was the winner in his first appearance. Bob Mabe saved it with two hit, scoreless pitching after Nuxhall was lifted for pinch-hitter Bob Thurman, Mabe's two-run single tied it five-all in the sixth.

Braves Wallop Flin Flon 5-1; Have 3-2 Lead

WINNIPEG (CP)—The underdog Winnipeg Braves walloped Flin Flon Bombers 5-1 Wednesday night to take the lead for the first time in their best-of-seven western Memorial Cup final.

Braves, who lost the opening two games in Flin Flon, now lead the series 3-2. Sixth is here Sunday night.

Braves again used relentless checking to win.

Wayne Larkin potted twice for the winners. Rene Brunel, Laurie Langrell and Howie Hughes added the others.

Centre Cliff Pennington scored Flin Flon's lone marker after 37 seconds of play. Winnipeg tied the count before the first period ended and then led all the way.

Hughes continued his fine shadowing of Bombers' Gord Benson, replacement from Regina Pats and a member of the world champion Belleville McFarlands.

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard, who just about symbolizes Stanley Cup records, is in danger of losing one of his most cherished marks. But he's still got a hatful of others.

Montrealman Maurice Boudin has emerged from the file of virtual unknowns to threaten the record of most goals in a Stanley Cup playoff year, held jointly by Richard and Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens. Both players scored 12 goals in one year of playoffs.

Boudin, who joined Canadiens last season after an up-and-down career with Detroit Red Wings and Boston Bruins, scored seven goals in the six games it took Canadiens to eliminate Chicago Black Hawks in the current best-of-seven final round, which Montreal leads over Leafs 3-1. Bonin has two goals.

With at least two more games to play the Toronto-bred left winger has a good chance to beat the record if he continues the pace he's been setting.

RECORD FOR 15 YEARS

Since the Rocket set the record in the 1944 playoffs against Toronto and Chicago in nine games and Detroit-San Francisco in 10 games during the 1956 playoffs against the New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings, only Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal and the Rocket's brother-in-law has matched it.

Geoffrion scored 11 goals two years ago while Richard, returning from a severe skate gash last before the playoffs, also scored 11 last year.

As for the Rocket's other records, he probably has little to worry about.

He alone holds by himself or shares with other players 13 Stanley Cup records.

Among those are most goals in playoff competition, 81, and most points, 122. His nearest rivals in the two departments are Geoffrion with 62 goals and Geoffrion and Ted Lindsay of Chicago with 90 points each.

RECORD THIS YEAR

Richard, who missed the Chicago-Montreal series because of a broken ankle, lost one goal and regained it in the first two games of the final series. He also passed him for most playoff games, playing his 122nd in the final Montreal-Chicago game. Richard played in his 124th Monday night here against Leafs.

Montreal defensive defenceman Doug Harvey quietly knocked Gordie Howe out of most assists in a career out of the books. The Red Wings' star winger, who ranks second to Richard in goal-scoring in NHL history, had 48 assists this season.

Harvey took advantage of Detroit's absence in this year's playoffs to gain credit for nine assists in the two games he's played so far to run his 11-year career total to 36.

Dickie Moore, could knock Howe's game out of another section of the records.

Moore so far has five goals and 11 assists for 16 points, just four behind the Wings' star.

Moore also has five goals and 11 assists for 16 points, just four behind the Wings' star.

Howe established in 1955 against Toronto and Canadiens he scored nine goals and assisted on 11 others in 11 games.

TEAM RECORDS SET

In team records, Canadiens have bettered some of the marks they held before this season.

This is their 10th year in the Stanley Cup final, including five before 1947, the year the Habs gained sole possession of the trophy. It is also the 10th straight final appearance and their 35th year in the playoffs.

Of course the biggest of all records is one Canadiens now share with Toronto but could gain sole possession if they win the Stanley Cup. It would be their 10th straight. Leafs had three straight in 1947, 1948 and 1949.

Sugar Ray Court Case Is Postponed

NEW YORK (AP) — Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson's court test of the New York Athletic Commission's refusal to recognize titles has been postponed.

Today to Friday was requested in State Supreme Court Wednesday by the state attorney general's office which is representing the three-man commission. Counsel asked for time to answer Robinson's contentions.

Robinson seeks to restrain the commission from vacating his title. On April 2 the commission ordered Robinson to sign for a title defence against ex-champion Carmen Basilio by noon April 15 or face loss of his crown.

It took the action against the 38-year-old champion under its six-month defence rule for titleholders. Robinson has not fought since he regained the title from Basilio March 23, 1958.

The National Boxing Association which rules boxing in most states but not in New York, has voted to lift his crown unless he signs for a title bout by April 25, anc fights by June 30.

Author Supervises Filming In Court Where He Was D.A.

By BOB THOMAS

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP)—The setting was familiar enough to John Voelker—the Marquette County courtroom where he presided many a case as district attorney.

But the scene was different. The defence lawyer was a movie star, James Stewart, and he was questioning beautiful Lee Remick. On the bench was the noted lawyer - turned - actor Joseph Welch. The action was being directed under are lamps by film maker Otto Preminger.

Voelker could blame this invasion on his own double life. to the citizens of Michigan he is known as a justice of the state Supreme Court. But he also is Robert Traver, author of the best-selling Anatomy of a Murder, and he is here to give advice on filming of the tale.

REFRESHING WAYNE

He is a big, friendly man whose resemblance to John Wayne was noted by Jimmy Stewart. Between scenes he talked about his two professions.

"I got started writing during the depression, when there was not much else to do," he remarked. "I had three books published, a collection of short stories and two non-fiction works on my job as prosecutor. Oh, I had stories in all the magazines—the ones that didn't pay anything."

It was the voters of Marquette County who gave him the time for his great work. Six times they voted him district attorney. On the seventh time, they turned him out.

"That gave me the time to be an author" he said,

The result was Anatomy of a Murder.

"I got word one day that they the publishers were accepting the book," Voelker recalled. "The next day, I got a call from Soapy (Governor G. Mennen Williams) that he was nominating me to a vacancy on the Supreme Court."

The justice is keeping a close eye on the film makers and approves the treatment of his book —"There will be no last-minute witnesses, no sitting on the lap of those testifying, no fingers pointing in third degree. That's corn, pure corn, and all lawyers who see trial movies recognize this."

Eddie Kachur scored two of the Buffalo goals.

Billy Dea scored for the Bisons and Arnie Kullman for Hershey in the first period. Mike Nykoluk put Bears ahead 2-1 in the second before Gus Mortson and Kachur gave Buffalo the advantage for keeps. Bill Dineen and Kachur scored within 19 seconds in the final period.

Referee Lou Farelli called 10 penalties in the first period but only five more after that, including majors for fighting to Nykoluk and Frank Martin.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Aries (March 21 to April 19) —Give song, tangible proof of devotion to others today in some quiet, unobstrusive fashion. Then dress in height of fashion and be out and about socially.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) —Use caution now in family relationships or an unfortunate altercation may arise. Latter part of day is good for having conferences with personal advisors you trust. You will get valuable advice and tangible assistance.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —If you do not exercise the utmost care and diplomacy now, an unexpected accident or event may occur. Be careful in correspondence, too. Latter part of day is best for business or social calls, working angles with colleagues, etc.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Unlooked-for-expenses or complication with real estate or other holdings should be handled very astutely in A.M. Then later in the day your eyes will be opened to several ways in which you can realize a higher income. Labor diligently.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) — During A.M. you feel in the mood to delve into something rather unusual. Be sure first that it is constructive. Latter part of day is then fine for being a go-getter. Meet as many influential and progressive people as you can.

Virgo (August 22 to September 23) — Do not fall into the bad habit of self-pity again in A.M. Face your problems squarely and intelligently and they are solved very easily and to your best advantage. Be objective, yet generous and perfectly ethical in all that you do.

Libra (September 24 to October 23) — Be prepared for some difficult remark or act by one you know and do not let it floor you. Latter part of day is then ideal for going about your business in a very adroit and clever fashion.

Scorpio (October 24 to November 21) — Do not take to heart the remarks of an irate executive in A.M. Know that his or her responsibilities are great; you were unfortunate enough to be at hand. P. M. higher ups and influential persons give you support you need.

Sagittarius (November 22 to December 21) — While you would like to get an early start on a little trip, it is best you do not neglect your pressing duties now. Then make more comprehensive plans. Good day to meet people, study pertinent matters and books, etc.

Capricorn (December 22 to January 20) — Fine for delving into all the tasks that await you, but be sure to plan your labors and schedule your time for greatest efficiency and results. Be sure to do some needed repair work and tie up loose ends first.

Aquarius (January 21 to February 19) — A day for altruism! Help the other person who needs the benefit of your wisdom and higher understanding. Then do not be forcible with associate, but listen to his or her views. Then you increase prestige and supporting favor.

Pisces (February 20 to March 20) — During A. M. avoid being sardonic with fellow worker. This sets the pattern for a brighter day for you and others and you can accomplish a great deal. Come out of that stupor caused by erroneous thinking. Be alive, alert!

If Your Child Is Born Today —The charming little child born today is just naturally full of sunbeams and laughter, although in earliest childhood is given to some rather unusual behavior, which is good if you channel it properly. Early training in dramatics or other artistic expressions should bring quick access to your offspring, since the personality is such that many in high power will have a great liking for your progent.

Govt. Leader Opposes Study Of Inflation

OTTAWA (CP) — Government Leader Walter Assteline Tuesday opposed a Liberal-proposed study of inflation by a Senate committee on grounds that it "might turn the Senate into a partisan political body."

He was speaking in the Senate on a motion that the study be conducted by the House's standing committee on finance.

Senator Asteline said a Senate committee should not be asked to study the fiscal policy of the present government or any other government. Fiscal policy was a prime responsibility of governments which "stand or fall on their records."

MODEL VILLAGES
BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Premier Abdul Karim Kassem has promised that the government will build thousands of model villages for the peasants. He said that under an Agrarian law enacted last December most of the land belonging to big landowners will be expropriated and redistributed to the peasants.

He Made Supreme Court Tick Now Will Write Book on It

OTTAWA (CP)—The man who made the machinery of the Supreme Court of Canada tick for 33 years is retiring.

George Audette, 70, probably knows more about the workings of the Supreme Court than anyone. He served as the court's clerk of process since 1934.

Although not a lawyer, he is a recognized authority on the judicial body and is preparing a textbook, pulling together voluminous notes on judgments and court decisions he has gathered over the years.

For years the country's legal brains have been after George—as he is known to lawyers across the country — for such a text on Supreme Court procedure.

As clerk of process he acted as a sort of clearing house, channelling lawyers' appeals to the judges for hearing and later funnelling their judgments to the proper authorities.

In this capacity he came into first-hand contact with the court's decisions, the type of appeals that could—or would—be heard, and the proper procedure to be followed.

The slightly-built official became an invaluable adviser to lawyers. His blunt and outspoken manner belied his readiness to be helpful to anybody who asked for advice.

Now on retirement leave, Mr. Audette said in an interview that the last text on Supreme Court procedure was written in 1901 by E. R. Cameron, former court registrar. Since then, no one except himself has gathered enough day-to-day material to bring the text up to date.

In the interval there have been a number of changes in the Supreme Court of Canada Act, and since 1949 the Supreme Court has been the court of last resort for this country.

Mr. Audette, son of the late Mr. Justice L. A. Audette of the Exchequer Court of Canada, is an older brother of Louis Audette, chairman of the Canadian Maritime Commission.

He graduated with a bachelor of arts degree at Montreal's Ste. Marie College, later taking two years of law and one year of medicine at McGill University.

The native of Ottawa joined the Supreme Court staff as assistant clerk of process in 1913 and became clerk in 1924.

He has served under six chief justices: Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Sir Louis Henry Davies, Francis A. Anglin, Sir Lyman Duff, Thibodeau Rinfret and Patrick Kerwin.

In his younger days, Mr. Audette was a champion skier and paddler.

Mr. Roblin said the plant will provide employment for 300 men in addition to those already expected to find jobs at the company's $175,000,000 development in the area.

Report Proposes Stiffening Of Law For Sex Offenders

Asks Indeterminate Penitentiary Term

OTTAWA (CP)—A royal commission report today recommended that all persons found by the courts to be dangerous sexual offenders be sentenced to an indeterminate penitentiary term.

The recommendation is contained in the report of the royal commission on the criminal law relating to criminal sexual psychopaths tabled in the Commons by Justice Minister Fulton.

The 200-page report, proposing a stiffening of the law governing sexual offenders and action by the federal government in the treatment of confined persons, was submitted by a commission headed by Chief Justice J. C. Mc-Ruer of the High Court of Ontario.

The commissioners proposed that the term "criminal sexual psychopath" in the Criminal Code be abolished and that "dangerous sexual offender" be substituted.

OFFER DEFINITION

They said a "dangerous sexual offender" should be defined as "a person who, by his conduct in sexual matters, has shown a failure to restrain his sexual impulses and who is likely to cause injury, pain or other evil to any person through failure in the future to control his sexual impulses."

The Criminal Code now defines a "criminal sexual psychopath" as "a person who, by a course of misconduct in sexual matters, has shown a lack of ability to control his sexual impulses and who as a result is likely to attack or otherwise inflict injury, pain or evil on any person."

The commissioners recommended that where a court finds an accused is a dangerous sexual offender that he be sentenced to preventive detention. They said preventive detention would mean "detention in a penitentiary for an indeterminate period."

Under the Criminal Code, a person found by the courts to be a criminal sexual psychopath is sentenced to imprisonment for not less than two years. The court may also impose a sentence of preventive detention.

The report proposed that "special provision be made in the penitentiary system for the custody, control and treatment of every sexual offender undergoing preventive detention."

TREATMENT INADEQUATE

It found that present efforts at treatment are inadequate.

LIBERALS BEING FORCED TO RIGHT OF CENTRE - CCF

PC Says Kingston Ignored in Seaway

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal party is being forced to move to the right, Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena) has suggested in the Commons.

The Liberals face a political dilemma because their "usual" position on a seat on the fence a little left of centre" has been taken over by the Progressive Conservatives, he said Thursday as the Commons finished the fourth day of the eight-day budget debate.

Mr. Howard's analysis of Liberal affairs—greeted with some laughter and shouts of protest—was the feature of a generally-listless day in the Commons. Attendance in the 265 - member chamber dropped to 30 during the afternoon and business generally after dinner with only 24 members present.

Most of the night speakers made references to the Stanley Cup hockey game between Montreal and Toronto. Some speakers supplied the latest scores as they went along.

ELECTORATE SPOOF FED

Osie J. Classic (Lib.—Nickel Belt) said in a speech delivered in English and French that the budget "defaulted" practically every promise made by the progressive conservatives before the 1957 election.

It was an indication of "fork and spoon" policy, he said. The electorate was spoon-fed during the election campaign and then realized later it was time to "fork over."

B. G. Alimark (PC—Kingston) urged that the government ignored the port of Kingston in planning the seaway, with the result that a 15-mile stretch of seaway channel in that area was on the United States side of the river. With only a small expenditure, much of this might have been on the Canadian side.

He urged that the justice department's correctional planning board consider Kingston as a site for a medium security penitentiary and urged that the present women's prison be vacated and turned into a hospital for prisoners in penitentiary buildings now in existence.

Charge Cripple With Murder In Son's Death

ALEXANDRIA, Ont. (CP) — Lucein Laperle, a 28 - year - old cripple, was charged with murder Thursday following the shooting to the death of his five-month-old son, Joseph Alain.

Laperle was charged after the child's mother, Mrs. Theresa Casselette, found the body of the infant son in a bedroom.

Mrs. Casselette, who was living with Laperle, was also beaten up. Laperle was arrested and taken to police cells.

Provincial police Inspector J. W. Harris of Cornwall went today in this town about 15 miles northeast of Cornwall to take charge of the investigation.

An autopsy will be performed.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A minor disturbance, now over Minnesota will ripple eastward to pass over the lower lakes area on Saturday bringing cloudy skies and showers over Southern and Central Ontario, with some thunderstorms likely in Southwestern Ontario.

EXAMINE DEBRIS — Firemen examine the debris left by what police described as a suicide dynamite blast in a downtown hotel (Queen's.) The explosion took the life of Guy Charbonneau, about 40, of St. Lin, Que., and injured two other persons. Twenty sticks of dynamite were set off in Charbonneau's fourth-floor room. (CP Wirephoto).

AMISH MEMBER DENIES LAND GRAB IN WEST ONTARIO

Sect Wants to Live Lives in Peace

UNIONDALE, (CP)—An Amish Mennonite farmer, one of four who recently purchased property in this section of Ontario, has denied that United States members of the sect plan to acquire a large block of land.

"We aren't trying to buy in any special block," said Henry Hertzler. "We bought the farms because they were the best value offered. We don't want to cause any trouble in the community, we only want to be able to live our lives in peace."

Mr. Hertzler was interviewed after reports that a group of East Missouri Township residents had protested to federal members of Parliament against allowing large numbers of the Amish Mennonites into Oxford County.

Uniondale is about 18 miles northwest of Woodstock.

"None of the farmers around here have said anything to us about not wanting us here," Mr. Hertzler said. He is one of four who recently purchased five farms here. The Mennonite population about 40 and come from Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware.

The farms cover about 400 acres a mile west of here.

SEEK GOVERNMENT AID

Earle H. Slater, a London lawyer, represents a group which has come organized to seek government assistance in establishing immigration of any more of the group.

"We recognize their complete right to religious freedom, but we object to their methods of land settlement, to their boundary maintenance techniques and to the detrimental effect they have on prices of farm land in the surrounding area. They try to dominate the community completely and if they cannot, they will not live in it."

"The Amish are a sect by themselves. They live by themselves. They do not mix in the world of farming, using horses almost exclusively.

"While they are good farmers in the sense that they make money, most Canadian farmers would hesitate to buy farms in the area where they settle. If this happens, our farms will all be worthless."

WANT TO STAY

Fred Slater, former reeve of the township, said:

"There aren't lots of better farms they could have got around here. They've got the best land. We asked them why they didn't go to Northern Ontario or Quebec where they could get the same acreage for as much as $3,000 to $4,000 less. They said they were paying here. They said they wanted to stay in Oxford County."

Mr. Slater said that part of the fear of citizens is that the Amish candidates to say they will defend their rights against taxation. "These people won't take that oath so they can't become true citizens."

The farmers' spokesman said they believe another 125 settlers are interested in coming to the area, leaving Maryland and Pennsylvania mostly, where they are subject to compulsory school laws.

Mrs. Gertrude Milne, teacher of Uniondale school where the Amish children are in attendance, said:

"There is no problem here. The new children all get along well with the others. I don't think they all speak English while at school, there is no problem assimilating. They don't have any problems, either, if I have anything to do with it."

'Burn Hostages' Convicts' Threat In Montana 'Pen'

Deputy Warden Killed, One Guard Wounded

BULLETIN

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP) A hostage freed for eight minutes by rioting convicts at Montana prison said today if other hostages are "all set to be killed."

Walter Jones, prison psychologist, was released for an all-night siege talk with rioters.

"It's tighter than hell in there," Jones said. He said the situation "is touchy" and guards who are among the hostages "are all set up to be killed, some will be hanged."

"I am going back in, I don't know for how long. The inmates are touchy. Any little thing will set it off."

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP)—The chaplain at Montana's prison today said an agreement apparently has been reached to end a 19-hour riot. Eighteen hostages still held by the rebel convicts who killed a deputy warden and stabbed a guard.

"Everything is going to be all right," Father Leonard Lyman, Roman Catholic chaplain, told reporters after he left a conference with convicts threatening to kill the 18 hostages with gasoline. That warning ended a deadline by 6 eers to storm the prison in an effort to rescue the hostages.

Father Lyman had participated in a two-hour, 45-minute meeting as a negotiator between convicts spokesmen and prison officials. The priest said a formal settlement of the new agreement would be made shortly.

Deputy Warden Theodore Rohr, 36, formerly of Waupun, Wis., shot to death and guard William Blair was stabbed to death during the early hours of the uprising.

WARDEN ESCAPES

Warden Floyd Powell, held at knife-point for nearly three hours, escaped unharmed with the aid of a convicted burglar wielding a meat cleaver.

Powell, Maj.-Gen. S. H. Mitchell, commanding officer of the Montana National Guard and Father Lyman, were talking through the door.

Until the prisoners shouted threats to burn them alive, the guard planned to send 150 officers storming the 90-year-old building to free the prisoners within the walls.

A prisoner, identified by others as Gene Myles, a burglar from Butte, shouted to reporters that Rohr was dead and Blair was wounded.

Convicts took control of the prison at 3 a.m. today.

"It started about 4:30 p.m.," said prison business manager Homer Erickson.

LALLED ON PHONE

"Someone—it sounds like one an inmate or an officer—called on the prison's telephone to the Deer Lodge Police Station here. "He and I were in there. They said they had been a knifing in the dark. They talked to Powell.

"He and I started across the street. We were going to make entrance, Tower 7. We let ourselves in.

"They (the inmates) grabbed the warden."

Erickson then ran back to the police station.

Non-Union Man Dies in Gunfight With Strikers

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP) — A gun fight between striking coal miners and a non-union truck driver left one man dead and another severely wounded Thursday night.

Three United Mine Workers union members, including the wounded man, were arrested on murder charges in the second violent death since the UMW went on strike in eastern Kentucky March 9.

James Ola Adams, 41, of nearby Dangla, a truck driver who also worked as a guard at the nearby non-union Little Shepherd Mining Company, was killed while exchanging shots with men who tried to drag him from his truck.

State police said the men charged with murder were Harrison Stidham, the wounded man, and Ernest Ray Adams Hamilton, all of Marlowe.

Mrs. Adams is striking for a $2-a-day pay boost to $24.25 and a protective wage clause prohibiting handling or hauling coal of non-union coal by union operations.

The strike has made idle 700 miners.

Tobacco, Liquor Merchants Deny Charges of PM

TORONTO (CP)—Tobacco and liquor merchants today criticized Prime Minister Diefenbaker for saying that prices in some commodities have been "inexcusably" increased by some businessmen because of tax boosts in last week's federal budget.

A spokesman for Rothmans of Pall Mall Limited said "if he's talking about cigarets, the assumption is unwarranted."

"The government, not the manufacturers, forced the three-cent increase for a packet of 20 cigarets."

W. E. Collings, chairman of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, said "Our price increases were made."

Mr. Diefenbaker said reports indicated that prices for some goods had been increased by more than the tax increases.

Patrick O'Neil - Dunne, world technical director of the Hennessy - Rothmans - Carreras group which in Canada controls Rothmans and Rock City Tobacco Company Limited, said increased excise tax plus a general sales tax increase meant a total tax increase of 2.22 cents per packet of 20 cigarets.

"That doesn't include the increased corporation tax. How can they claim there was over by 2.22 cents? It has to go up three cents."

GIVES BREAKDOWN

"Of the .78 cent per package differential, the manufacturer will retain only .32 cent. The other .46 cent stays with the government, jobbers and retailers."

Mr. Collings' figures indicated the liquor board had increased its price by about two cents a bottle since Ottawa's tax increases.

He said this was mainly for the convenience of the board and consumer—to take the price to a round figure rather than try to handle change in pennies.

Dulles' Sister Says Doctors Not Hopeful

FRANKFURT, Germany (Reuters)—John Foster Dulles' sister said here today that her brother's condition is very serious and doctors have little hope.

Dulles' sister, Miss Eleanor Dulles, was speaking to reporters after she had flown here by air on her way to Berlin to attend a conference. She is a member of the German section of the United States department of state.

She told reporters at the airport that when she visited her brother shortly after the appointment of his resignation as state secretary, he had asked her to express his best wishes for the Berliners and for the German people.

Queen Anxious to Meet Canadians At Work and Play on Royal Tour

OTTAWA (CP)—Esmond Butler, who represents Canada at Buckingham Palace, has received assurances that the queen is anxious to meet her Canadian subjects.

He told a press conference Thursday she wants to see Canadians at work and at play—she wants to spend as much time with them and learn how they live—in our 13,000-mile tour of Canada this summer.

He said that "hardly a day goes by" without the Queen making some decision concerning the visit.

It was at her request that the six-week visit be informal with the least possible ceremony.

She wants to see the people and to have the people see her. She wants to visit the small community, view the industry that makes it tick and enjoy the people's pastimes.

The visit, from June 18 to Aug. 1, will be the longest by a British monarch to any country outside the British Isles. She and Prince Philip will visit some 85 communities.

A request of the Queen was to see the Canadian North. So the tour will take her to both the Yukon and the Northwest Territories. Her interest was sparked by the enthusiasm of Prince Philip after he made a solo visit in 1954.

Mr. Butler was chosen by the Queen a year ago to help arrangements for the tour.

Dulles Attempted to Give U.S. Cold War Initiative, Never Achieved Objective

Editors: This is the second of two articles assessing the impact on international affairs of John Foster Dulles' career as U.S. state secretary.

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — When John Foster Dulles took office as state secretary six years ago his avowed purpose was to "arrest the initiative" from Russia and put the U.S. and its allies on the offensive in the cold war.

He never achieved this objective.

His major contributions to the development of U.S. foreign policy have been, with few exceptions, on the defensive side of the cold war.

Foremost among his accomplishments, perhaps, is the vast expansion he engineered in United States alliances and military commitments over the world. He inherited the North Atlantic Alliance, which he helped create from his predecessor, Dean Acheson.

By building on the pattern thus established, Dulles extended United States commitments to the Far East, southeast Asia and the Middle East to such a degree that Soviet-Chinese communism now can hardly thrust out in any direction without risking U.S. retaliation.

Last year when revolution overthrew the—pro-Western government of Iraq, Dulles and President Eisenhower feared that other friendly regimes would topple, including those in Lebanon and Jordan. Against threats of Soviet counter-action the president dispatched U.S. troops to Lebanon and British forces went into Jordan to save both countries from possibly falling into unfriendly hands.

The Lebanese action was another in a long list of more dramatized under Dulles' adversarial policy of "brinkmanship." Another example was Dulles' unpopular insistence on supporting Nationalist China in its defense of the Chinese coastal islands, Quemoy and Matsu, against Red attack.

Dulles' theory of brinkmanship holds that it is necessary for the United States again and again to face up to a Communist challenge and to go to the brink of war to defend a free country against conquest.

In 1956 Dulles found himself faced with perhaps the worst and most dangerous crisis of his state department years—the seizure of the Suez Canal by Egypt. The British and French attacked Egypt, following an attack by Israel.

Dulles was caught in the dilemma of having to back the chief U.S. allies or having to denounce their action.

He chose the latter course and it took a year to restore the friendly Allied relationship.

Possibly one of Dulles' bitterest disappointments was his inability to do anything decisive about the Hungarian revolt against communism in 1956.

Direct Western intervention, he judged, would have meant war, and the administration decided against it.

U.S. Vice-President Nixon Will Visit Moscow in July

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice-President Nixon will visit Moscow in late July. His expected talks with high Soviet officials would help set the stage for a summit conference.

His designation by President Eisenhower to make the trip also could promote Nixon's chances for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

A White House announcement said Nixon will make the trip to open an American exhibition in Moscow July 25. No other details were given but diplomatic officials said they expect he will meet with Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The exhibition, which will continue for six weeks in Moscow's Sokolniki Park, is designed to show Russians achievements of American life. The government and U.S. business interests are coop-erating. Russia will stage a similar exhibition in New York City.

Lawyer Dies In Motel Fire

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Peter McDonogh, 29, died Thursday in a fire in the Kawartha motel, two miles west of here on Highway 28. Mr. McDonogh, married with two young children, is believed to have suffocated.

Provincial police said an inquest will be held. The fire apparently had started in one of the two double beds.

If Nixon demonstrates a capacity to deal effectively with Soviet leaders it could give him a boost in his unannounced quest for the presidency in 1960.

Kiwanis Challenges All to Compare Themselves With an Ideal Citizen

OTTAWA (CP)—Kiwanis International has started a new program called C. Q. (Citizenship Quotient) to help all clubs and all members and non-members themselves with an ideal citizen.

Kenneth B. Lobeed of Toronto, president of the International, declared that Kiwanis and the Boy Scouts of America are the only service clubs' parliamentary luncheon at which Prime Ministers Diefenbaker and Nehru and members of the Commons and Senate who are Kiwanis members were guests.

Also attending were United States and Canadian officers of the International, Liberal Leader Lester Pearson and Richard Wagleworth, U.S. ambassador.

The International's board of trustees, with officers representing 20 U.S. and Canadian cities, is meeting here today and Saturday.

Mr. Lobeed asked people to rate themselves on a list. A citizen who does not annoy his neighbors, votes at every opportunity, demonstrates that it is the individual who makes democracy work, knows his country's history and how it is spent, never knowingly breaks the law, thinks safety his constant code of conduct, knows the enemies of freedom of life and will defend "free enterprise and democracy as the best because he knows what it has done for him and his family."

There is nothing like conscientious self-appraisal to make us all better people and we believe our C. Q. program is powerful and challenging extension of our 1959 theme to 'build individual

Dr. Bruce Cronk, Robert Temple So-ed Speakers

The sixth evening of the So-Ed spring '59 session got under way this week with members of the present steering committees and the new steering committees coming into office in the beginning of May entertained Mr. Don Boundage, Young Adult Secretary of the National Council of YMCA's, Toronto, at dinner. Mr. Brundage is making a visit of fact-finding and will be in Kingston to visit their group also some time next week.

The silk screening class under the direction of Miss Muriel Joy Elliott continued with the process of cutting patterns from film and painting. The ceramics room dancing class continued with the festival, while the Monday night class under the direction of Ronan Camobridge groomed items such as tennis, hot dish mats and small ilies, all of them in very attractive designs and colors.

Dr. Bruce Cronk was the guest speaker in the Health Education section and his subject was "The Human Heart."

The normal function of the heart was described and illustrated by projection slides. Dr. Cronk explained that tissue needed a constant supply of oxygen-carrying blood to maintain it in function and consequently the heart had to pump this blood to the tissues. Should the oxygen supply requirement was not, however, fulfilled, the heart would fail. But when the body was active, Dr. Cronk explained that the body functions were the best frequency control nervous centres in the brain-stem and the heart would run at a constant 70 beats per minute if no nerve pulses reached it. Pulses ranging from at about 40 beats per minute if the primary centre were disrupted.

The 40 beats per minute was fairly sufficient to sustain life and would not support activity. Dr. Cronk cited the case history of the human heart which, though about the size of a clenched fist, was capable of work in 24 hours of sleep to raise a large steer a distance of about 12 miles. He then went on to explain some common forms of heart disease, the effect of some cases of rheumatic fever on the valves of the heart, either causing failure to close due to severe damage to the valves, or the growing together of the valves resulting in failure to open. He explained that the latter trouble could sometimes be corrected by surgical operation on the valves where they had become attached.

EXPLAINED DISEASE

Dr. Cronk explained that Angina Pectoris meant merely a pain in the chest, caused by a lack of oxygen to the blood supply to the heart muscles caused by a narrowing of the coronary arteries in the cardiac arteries. This trouble was far more common in well-fed people than in the starving masses of Asia. The cause of the narrowing was known was to select one's parents carefully then rat sparingly. As for the cure, it was impossible, the next best thing was not to worry. Dr. Cronk introduced by George Fisher who also thanked him and presented him with a small memento of his visit to So-Ed.

The topic for —Various Forms section, Mr. Robert Temple, prominent lawyer of this city, was the guest speaker. His topic was "Capital Punishment." Mr. Temple was born in Belleville, educated at St. Michael's Academy, University of Toronto and graduated from Osgoode Hall in 1930. He has been a member of the Belleville Collegiate every year since 1952, with the exception of 1955, is secretary of the Belleville Golf Club and chairman of the traffic department.

Mr. Temple commenced his talk by citing forms of capital punishment from the days of Babylon through the 17th Century in England to the present day stating considerations of the crimes for which persons were put to death. He quoted passages from the book, "Life and Death in Sing Sing," written by the late Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing Prison. Many questions were asked by the group participating in this class, which Mr. Temple answered. The guest speaker was introduced by Miss Marilyn Elliott, Vice-president. Gerry Shortreed thanked Mr. Temple and presented him with a small memento of his visit.

The evening continues with the serving of refreshments followed by the dance program. Included in this program was a "ringing out of spring" played by Miss Kay Homan. The evening closed with the home waltz and the group adjourned for coffee and chatter.

Expect First Boat by Middle Of Next Week

With Winter's ice still lying in parts of the bay, the first boat for the upper Bay of Quinte is not expected to arrive at the Belleville dock until some time next week, it was learned today.

Imperial Oil officials here said they expected their first boat in about the middle of next week, while the Canada Cement Company "Cement Carrier" is also waiting for bay ice between here and Picton to clear away.

The remaining ice is said to be very soft and is expected to break up completely within the next day or so.

Buoy markers for the Bay are still resting on the dock at Belleville and the buoy tender Grenville is not expected up the bay for several weeks. Markers along the St. Lawrence are being placed before the Grenville passes through the Bay of Quinte.

Panter's Park Hard to Clean After Smelt Run

The smelt will soon be running.

At least that must be the expected response to the flood of perceptive fishermen seen scouting the lower Moira this morning.

One man was down by the river opposite the Corbin Lock factory clearing away debris which had caught on the rock shelf while another man directed operations from the top.

Another city man, Gordon Nicholson, parked his car and said he is awaiting the smelt run but not for the same reason as the tyred-in-the-wool fishing fanatic men.

"The smelt run leaves us with an awful mess to clean up on Panter's Park," noted the park superintendent. "I'm hoping this men haul in their nets they'll take the mess with them and leave the unwanted ones on the park property."

Quinte Mixed Bowling League Honors Champs

There is nothing wrong with the Quinte Mixed Bowling League that a rousing annual banquet with all the trimmings won't cure.

The boys and gals of this tight timber-toppling organization forgot their seasonal differences and honored champions and other award-deserving legmen at the yearly get-together last night.

It was a grand party held in the delightful environment of the Club Canara.

There was a delicious cold turkey repast served by Mrs. Cy Young and her assistants from the CNRA ladies' auxiliary.

There was dancing to the rhythms of Hugo Diggins and his melody men. There was league play reminiscence and a lot of good-natured ribbing.

Gar Anderson did such a good job of running the league last year, nobody had the audacity to run against him.

George H. Carver sports editor of this newspaper was pressed into the highlight of his junket overseas to cover the world hockey tournament.

Besides honoring the champions, the banquet was a tangible tribute to Mrs. Dorothy Anderson for a "job well done". Mrs. Anderson scored a 671.

The highlight of the evening was the gift-crowning of the champion kings and queens of the league inappropriately named the "Champs."

The team consisting of Gar and Dorothy Anderson, Al and Teresa Wardhaugh, Peggy and Johnny Stevenson, Margaret Pilsbairn and Art Whalen, received handsome gifts.

High average awards went to Doris McLean and Gar Anderson; high single, Peggy Stevenson and Don Smith, and high singles to Babe Hardwick and Cliff Sangster.

Mention was made of the fine sportsmanship of the league's new entries, the Bank of Commerce and Trudeau Motors.

Evidence of the topflight calibre of members of the league was shown in the large number of "300" bowlers who were presented with mementoes of their prowess.

With upwards of 130 present, the fourteen teams of the league were: Bell Telephone, which will include the Champs, Spitfires, Trudeau Motors, Bank of Commerce, Lager Sevens, Shoe-Outs, Tack Heads, Head Pins, Hound Dogs, Runners-up), Clara and Dolls and Whizbangs, Hi-Fi's, Zombies and Punks.

The evening was rounded out with round, square and other forms of dancing.

Pocket tribute was paid to the members of the CNRA ladies' auxiliary for a job exceptionally well done.

BURN HOSTAGES

prison office and summoned help.

An unidentified convict shouted from the prison at 5 a.m. today to reporters that the hostages would be burned with gasoline if an attempt was made to storm the prison.

INMATES COMMITTEE

He said the rioters wanted an investigating committee to check what he called mental and physical brutality within the penitentiary.

"If you give us a chance we'll prove we've been mistreated," the convict said. A reporter shouted back: "Why did you kill the deputy warden?"

The voice from within the cellblock answered: "Because he attacked me."

Several times the convict was asked to identify himself but refused.

The prisoner said the 12 hostages—all of whom he said have families—would be killed if the Royal Canadian Mounted Police rushed the prison as Warden Allan Brown had threatened to do.

BEFORE THE GATE

Before the convict opened his conversation with the group standing outside the front gate of the pen, state police and penitentiary officials had issued from of the main entrance and several had climbed to guard turrets on behalf of the rioting prisoners.

Then the unidentified convict said: "I want you to hear one of the men we have in here." Then a voice, believed to be that of one of the hostages, pleaded with authorities not to rush the prison.

Wali Jones, a negro psychologist whose home is in Butle, also appealed to the authorities "not to do "anything hasty" because of the men held by the convicts.

Nearly 150 members of the Montreal police force, reinforced from nearby cities and prison guards had rested fitfully through the night while officials planned strategy for the rescue of the hostages.

The riot erupted Thursday about 6:30 p.m. on what Powell termed the anniversary "bloody Sunday."

SHOT THROUGH CHEST

Deputy Warden Theodore Holbe, 36-year-old father of two, prison officer, was shot through the chest and killed. Lieutenant Bill Cook was stabbed in the arm. He is in good condition.

The prisoners demanded a conference with Governor J. Hugo Aronsten. The governor flatly rejected the request and instead sped out the state police chief to ask he wouldn't talk to the convicts until all hostages were released from the prisoners' hands to their cells.

Through the night, the warden attempted to make contact with a robel negotiating committee. He got response from only four what demands the rioters were making. He also said he did not know the exact number of convicts involved.

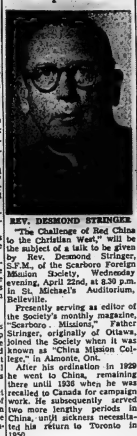
Earlier, the warden who declined use of his name, said the convicts had only at least two rifles, and to 40 rounds of ammo." He added they also have two shotguns, machine guns, two shotguns and a quantity of tear gas taken from a prison hall storage locker.

TOOK RIFLES

Earlier, Powell, 45, said "a few of the convicts got out on top of the prison and took rifles. How they did it I don't know. It was not an organized thing. Most of the convicts want no part of it."

Powell was released after Earl Howard Jackson, 41, Sayre, Okla., interceded with other prisoners threatened the warden's life. Jackson grabbed a meat cleaver and was quoted as saying:

"I will cut the throat of the first—that touches the warden. I'm taking him out of here."



Under Jackson's protection, the warden then left the prison. Jackson accompanied him and was given a 15-minute ground outside the prison walls to protect him from retaliation from other convicts.

Shortly after midnight, the prison interior commanded by the prisoner chief and Jackson, had dark. There was no way for reporters to tell if the hostages had been killed.

It was the second riot in less than two years at the 36-year-old prison located about 20 miles southwest of the city of Butle. The prison resembles a medieval castle with castle-type turrets on each corner and over the main entrance.

Water in New Well Hard But Good for Use

TRENTON—A letter from the Ontario Department informed the Trenton Public Utilities Commission the water in the well on Sidney Street was quite hard but that otherwise it was satisfactory for use.

The letter was read at the regular meeting of the PUC yesterday afternoon by Jim Page, manager of the Commission.

Mr. Page also informed the meeting that he had run a test on the amount of the well but that they were unable to get a large enough pump hooked up to give a complete pumping test. He said, however, that he believed the test conducted 200 gallons per minute during the test. A larger hole will have to be drilled to get complete test on it.

Mayor Ross Burtt, a member of the PUC suggested the commission write a letter to the town council telling them his test serve this land for this purpose because it would be a waste of water if the well may be put in some day.

The report of the tests on the water samples gave the town a definite surprise in finding lead and those in authority over him. The lead will be given power to discharge the prisoner from the sentence of preventive detention. Whether that be would be a sentence or refuse to make any order.

Water, Hydro Rates Likely To Be Increased

TRENTON — The possibilities of a general increase in the rates of water and hydro in Trenton were indicated at the meeting of the Public Utilities Commission held in the board room on Elgin Street yesterday afternoon.

Cliff Baker, chairman of the commission said yesterday it was becoming a serious situation in regard to the water and the PUC manager, Jim Page, on the rising expenses.

Mr. Page told the commission in wages alone during the past year an increase of $40,000 has been $40,000. He said in 1956 the wages paid out by the commission was $71,000 and in 1958 it was about $71,000; in 1958 the annual wages paid out was $94,000. This year only an estimate is available and it has been set at $111,000 for wages.

Coupled with this on the expenses of the PUC commission the books is the fact that the cost of electricity from the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario has been increased considerably.

"Expenses are going up faster than the revenue," Mr. Page told the commission members.

Mr. Baker said that everything all across the country is going up and it has been every where since the rates for hydro and water have been increased in Trenton.

The manager was instructed to make a complete survey of the entire situation and the commission will decide then what to do.

Child Suffers Freak Mishap In His Home

TRENTON — Bradley Clairmont, aged three and a half, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Clairmont, is recovering in his parents' Heber Street home from a freak accident-in-the-home on Wednesday evening, which caused him to lose the end of his tongue.

Bradley was sitting at the supper table, when he decided to push his chair back. The chair toppled backwards, and the child hit his chin against the edge of the table, driving his teeth through his bottom lip. His mother immediately rushed Bradley to the office of Dr. Weaver, who found it necessary to stitch the jagged wound with three stitches. He then gave the child an antitetanus shot as a preventive measure.

SMELTS HITTING

WHEATLEY (CP) — Smelts have hit the shallow waters of Lake Erie this week with dramatic suddenness in their annual spawning run, and commercial fishermen say they are having their nets out of the water fast enough. REPORT PROPOSES $5,000 Damage Caused Blaze At McNair Home

"The only present justification for any statutory provision for preventive treatment of sexual offenders is segregation from society," it said. "It cannot be justified on the ground that they will receive curative treatment while in prison."

There was "an urgent need in Canada" for research into all aspects of sexual deviation, with a view to development of means of correcting the deviations.

The report said the cases of all prisoners undergoing preventive detention should be reviewed by a board at least once a year to determine whether it is safe for the prisoner to be at large. Special legislation should be provided for the release on licence of such prisoners and for the revocation of licences.

The commissioners said illness cannot be invoked automatically merely because of conviction for a crime while the prisoner is on bail. The judge should be vested in the courts to revoke bail.

Every prisoner sentenced as a dangerous sexual offender should have the right to have his case reviewed every three years by a board. The board or the sentencing judge "for the purpose of determining whether he should be further detained. The judge should be required to hear representations on behalf of the prisoner and those in authority over him.

The board should have power to discharge the prisoner from the sentence of preventive detention, whether that be would be a sentence or refuse to make any order.

TRENTON — A fire at the Queen Street home of N.J. McNair in Trenton was quickly quelled by members of the Trenton Fire Department before it could become a more serious affair.

The call came in to the department last night about 7.45 p.m. when smoke was noticed by the residents of the house. Firemen rushed to the scene and found a new addition to the back of the large building on fire and filled with thick, heavy smoke.

They were forced to use Scott Air Packs before they could enter and at first had trouble finding the source of the fire because of the smoke. It was necessary for some of the fire fighters to chop holes from the inside of the building into the partitions to enable them to get more air to the fire.

The cause of the fire is not as yet known. Fire Chief Ellis said this morning after a quick estimate of the damage has not been completed but he could safely say it will cost about $5,000 to repair the damage done by the fire and smoke. The building was covered by insurance.

At least one part of the new aerial fire truck was used to help the firemen last night. An extension ladder was also supplied with three brilliant lights used to light up the back side of the building and yard to give the firemen needed light. When the ladder was raised it was pitch black to the side and behind the building making it almost impossible to see what they were doing or where to go. Behind the ladder was parked up and started it eliminated this hindrance.

The quick action of the department prevented the fire from getting any further than the ground-level portion of the addition to the large home and the residents were able to spend the night in the rooms directly above the gutted section.

Mr. McNair and his neighbors were high in their praise for the work the fire department under Fire Chief Cecil Ellis had done in keeping the flames confined.

RIGHT ACTION -- WRONG REASON

"The Ontario Hospital Services Commission has plugged a loophole by which a patient could make a profit out of a hospital stay." In these words The Canadian Press reported a new regulation which prevents any resident "from receiving any benefit under any contract whereby he or his dependents may be reimbursed for the cost of any hospital service included in the Ontario Hospital Services Plan."

One Commission official is reported to have said: "It is hardly right for a person to get standard coverage for which he pays only one-third of the cost in premiums, and then to have it covered by other insurance. That would be making his profit out of the taxpayer."

This all sounds so reasonable and right that it is a shock to discover, on examining the logic of the argument, that it is all most unreasonable and wrong.

On double coverage no profit is being made out of the taxpayer. The taxpayer is paying no more than would have been paid if there had not been double coverage. If a profit is made at all, it is being made out of the insurance company, but we may be sure that the insurance company is not losing money. The money it pays out is from the premiums paid in by others and the whole principle of insurance is that all contribute a little and a few are paid out more than they contribute.

There is still a case against double coverage. There were some people who expressed the fear, before the government hospital plan was put into operation, that it would result in people seeking hospital services when they did not really need them. It appears from all reports that this situation has not developed to any alarming degree, but certainly the possibility of being paid for being in hospital is enhanced by double coverage of abuse of the plan. It is true that insurance can be obtained providing payment of benefits for wages lost while ill, but in many cases the cost of a day's stay in hospital is higher than a day's pay, so that double coverage of hospital costs would provide the patient with more money than sick-pay -- which he might draw, in any case, from his employer.

So the Ontario Hospital Services Commission is probably right in making this regulation against double coverage -- but not for the reason given. The taxpayer was not being cheated. The insurance company was not being cheated. Nobody was being cheated by double coverage -- providing, of course, the person receiving it was really ill and in need of hospital services.

A BOOSTER SHOT

We see by a news item in the Kingston Whig-Standard that the New York State Highways Commission is starting to build a new four-lane super highway, to be known as the Empire Stateway, from a terminus in the Pennsylvania state line to the Thousand Islands Bridge near Alexandria Bay, N.Y., and Ivy Lea, Ontario. It is expected that this throughway will be completed by 1961.

We would suggest that our local unit of the Lake Ontario Development Association and our local businessmen in the tourist trade get "on the ball" as soon as possible to spread the word of this area's tourist attractions in southern New York State and Pennsylvania.

This new highway should give the tourist industry in Ontario, which has been declining somewhat over the past few years, a real booster shot. It is up to those within the industry, however, to make it really pay off. At Ivy Lea the tourist has the choice of going either into Quebec and eastern Ontario or coming into our own area. Let's get the trade into our area through the aggressive promotion of our facilities by local and district businessmen and chambers of commerce.

We have but two years to really popularize this area to potential tourists.

WRONG SLOGAN "

After touring the U.S., a German industrialist decided to put up American-type signs in his factory encouraging his workers to greater efforts. The first group of signs he posted said: "Don't put off until tomorrow what you can do today."

The same day the factory workers went on strike, the stenographers demanded a raise in pay, and the cashier disappeared with a bundle of money. (The Frankfurt Rundschau.)

WHY THEY WERE THERE

By EDGAR A. GUEST

"She has bees in her bonnet," she said,
Which is slangy, I have to admit;
But when I gazed up to her head
The bees I could not blame a bit.

For there in her bonnet I saw
Blue roses and green ones arrayed;
Pink violets, too, when they should have been blue,
And petunias most wonderfully made.

There were lilies of crimson and gold,
And daffodils, red as a blush;
And poppies of green, I am told,
Which accounts for the bumble bee's rush.

But, it wasn't for honey, I'll swear,
That the bumble bees stayed in her hat.
They were puzzled, so they wanted to know
Just where she found flowers like that.

Holiday Cruise To Historic Caribbean

By G. A. MORTON
ARTICLE II--

It takes eighteen hours to journey to Port-au-Prince in Haiti from Jamaica and the approach to the capital city is an impressive one. A mountain of considerable height forms a partial land-locked bay on the right side and the city nestles at the base extending some distance up the slopes. As we approached cars could be seen moving along a boulevard which we learned is called the Harry S. Truman Avenue. Fine buildings and trees line the sides.

As we had had no opportunity for a swim so far on the trip we made arrangements to drive immediately to the Cariari Haiti Hotel located part way up the mountain side where we knew there was a pool. It is a very pretty drive on narrow streets to the hotel but it is worth it for the view is unsurpassed. The whole city and water front lie well below in beautiful array. On the border on several miles away is a range of hills extending well to the north and forming the second side of the wide funnel of the bay where we look out to the ocean.

The hotel is new, shallow in depth and all rooms have balconies facing the city. Three terraces lie below and on the lowest of these is a good-sized pool filled with sparkling water which is particularly inviting to Major and Mrs. Gilmour, ourselves. We were supplied with a room and towels and soon we were enjoying the luxury of a cool swim. Cool water. Afterwards, over drinks, we were the acquaintance of Mr. and Mrs. Carlson and son from Washington, D.C. who proved very interesting people. Mr. Carlson, a traffic engineer, has been engaged for two years by the government to find a solution to some of the traffic difficulties of the city of 300,000 people. We can believe it will be quite a task.

BUFFET DINNER

After returning to the ship for fresh clothes the entire party of twenty-four went to the Cariari Haiti for the buffet dinner. This was held in the spacious open-sided dining room and dining terrace overlooking the city. The display of food was both exotic and colorful and included many native dishes which we found to be very good. The night was a gorgeous one, the air refreshingly cool and the city lights added their color and the tinsel luster needed. Wonderful companions, good food and a terrific view added up to a most delightful evening long to be remembered.

The next morning four of us took the mountain drive to Kenscoff, twenty-five miles distant. This was another spectacular trip which took well over an hour and a half and led us to a lofty one thousand feet. The air was considerably cooler and the city and the sea could occasionally fell at the summit during the winter months. Producing fruits and vegetables.

The wealthy residents of Port-au-Prince escape the oppressive summer heat by retreating to the higher altitudes of this mountainous area. We passed some very attractive homes scattered here and there along the route. On the other hand we passed many hovels of native mud and straw. Quite a few of these dismal looking premises had signs on them. Others were begging for money by doing a little jig and moaning a ditty that was hard to hear. They were hoping the tourists would toss them coins.

There was some evidence of severe malnutrition indicated by occasional bloated tummies. Haiti at Cape Haitian an extended drought a few months ago has caused starvation conditions, among 45,000 people. This small country has a population of three and one-half millions and although they make enough to keep alive is something of a mystery to a visitor. There is little manufacturing; as we know it. Mahogany ware, sugar, sisal and coffee, form the bulk of industrial activity, but all these products have competition in other islands and countries.

DIM FUTURE

The future holds no promise of better things for most of the people in this tiny republic for it has been a Negro Republic for one hundred years.

It was a French colony at one time but during the French revolution the slaves rebelled under the remarkable leadership of Toussaint L'Ouverture who had been a coachman of a plantation owner. Two hundred large plantations were destroyed and two thousand white people were murdered. In retaliation the French killed ten thousand black people, but never succeeded in completely reconquering the country. It was from this beginning the Republic was born, and has managed to survive.

Haiti formerly comprised the whole island of what we now know as Haiti and the Dominican Republic. The French predominated in the western end of the island and the Spanish favored the east although the eastern section was merged for several centuries with Haiti. In 1944 the Dominican Republic won its independence which it has maintained to the present.

Voodooism is widely practiced in Haiti and our driver said he took an active part in ceremonies every Saturday night and on Monday or Tuesday nights. Why Africa Called 'Dark'

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

Africa is referred to as the dark continent. No doubt some of us think the adjective derives from the fact that Africa is the home of the Negro race.

However, the explanation for the description was nothing to do with the color of the natives. When the nations of Europe turned their attention to the interior of Africa in the 19th century and decided who should take responsibility for that area no one knew much about it. In other words, lacking information they were in the dark about it. Hence Africa was called the dark continent.

Lazy Eyes Are Hazard

Brockville Recorder and Times

In Britain they have found 500 in 10,000 people tested suffered unknowingly from "lazy eye" a defect of vision that leads to virtual blindness in one eye. Most sufferers are unaware of it until they have an eye examination but throughout their lives they cannot judge distancee properly. This could be the reason behind a great many traffic accidents on this side of the Atlantic too. Perhaps a compulsory eye check should be part of the test for a driver's license. Many lives may be saved.

BEAUTY

There is beauty in the world far greater than we can estimate. Beauty of character, the beauty of flowers in the Springtime, the beauty of our friendships, who sing their choicest songs at morn and eveniide, the beauty of the stars, and of the substance of earth that feeds us to the beauty of spirit.

I happily envy the beauty of things into which have been poured appreciation and oneself. There is a holiness to the color and substance that artists place deep within their canvas. This struck me as I was examining a picture of three and one-half millions and when they make enough to keep alive is something of a mystery to a visitor. There is little manufacturing; as we know it. Mahogany ware, sugar, sisal and coffee, form the bulk of industrial activity, but all these products have competition in other islands and countries.

Strength for The Day

COST OF ADMIRATION

What kind of "grown-up" folks do the young people admire?

Many would say that they admire most the good-natured, happy-going, sincere, broadminded adults who take life easy themselves and want life to be easy for all everybody else.

But you are dead wrong, brother, if you think so. The people who are really admired by young and old alike are the people who are demanding of, who lose the line themselves and make everybody else toe the line. The type of person universally admired is the person who believes in something and who stubbornly sticks to his beliefs and is demanding both on himself and on everybody else.

The feeling everybody requires in exchange for his admiration, however, is that the admired person be sincere and just. Everybody hates a hypocrite and a compromiser. Everybody is ready to gang-up on the chap who sets out to win his person with a different way with another person.

Be just and sincere, and everybody, including young people, will admire you. Human beings do not want to be indulged; they want to be treated with dignity and fairness. What all persons in this world want is a fair deal and a sincere appreciation of their personal worth.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 17th, 1939

Mrs. S. L. Joss and son Donald, Ann Street, have returned from a visit to relatives to Detroit and Toronto.

Miss Fay Bamber of Toronto spent Easter week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George V. Bamber, Flaxboro.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clapp of Selvay, N.Y., who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Farrell, have returned home.

Master Keith Kimmett, Trent Road, has returned home after spending the Easter holidays with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Kimmett, of Deseronto.

Mr. Abe Garrioch, Ann Street, left yesterday for Toronto where he has been transferred to the New Toronto office of the Maple Leaf Milling Company.

Mrs. Ercell Martin, Church Street, has left for South Bay, Prince Edward County, where she will be the guest for a week of Mr. and Mrs. L. Hughes.

Miss Marjorie Doolittle of Ontario Hospital staff, Toronto, and Miss Roberta Jones of the Toronto General Hospital are guests of the parents of the former, Mr. and Mrs. B. Doolittle, Victoria Road.

Mr. William Irving, Sr., and Mrs. J. Irving, who spent three weeks visiting Mr. William Blakely, Rosemont, left today for their home in New York.

30 YEARS AGO

April 17th, 1929

Mr. Charles Hanna is spending the day in Ottawa.

The Hetata Merchants' Association of this city has decided to observe Wednesday afternoons during the months of June, July, August and September as a half holiday. The officers of the association have reduced the amount of love that is left. You have increased it.

This is not a new idea. The Bible tells how God loves His creatures. The Lord "knows" the sparrow that falls to the ground without His knowing it.

So, you see, you loved your father so deeply that you forgot that you could love other people just as well without losing any of the love for him.

SHARE YOUR LIFE

Now, when friends tell you that you must "help yourself", they are right. They tell you, no doubt, that you must find some other interest in life. They are right. But the other interests aren't just sewing or painting. The other interests must be for people.

Sew with somebody, or for somebody. The same with painting. Share your life with people. By "love", I don't mean romantic love, or the distorted "love" of cheesy fiction. I mean sharing interest, sympathy, gladness, hope, fear. Sharing all the things we all have and need.

In pioneer days, when nobody had much of anything except problems, people were happy. If, tomorrow, we lost all the material we have, and had to begin to scramble hard just to give ourselves something to eat, and some shelter, we'd still be happy sharing each other's problems.

Happiness doesn't lie in having things. It doesn't lie in doing things just to be doing something or because it's the spirit, and a the spirit means liking and knowing and sharing whatever we have, little or much, with others.

You loved your father so very much. But you forgot that you could love others, too, without taking anything away from his memory.

Substitute For Hat Pin

Oshawa Times

Discouraging "mashers" has long been a problem for personable young ladies. At one time, the hat pin was a potent defensive weapon.

Now a probation officer at Hamilton produced a perhaps more effective little device which he terms a "lipstick guard."

The personnguard is shaped like a lipstick and at a touch of a finger it ejects a substance which is not harmful for various reasons is highly embarrassing to any masher.

The inventor, a veteran of 17 years' police service, states that he expects the device will be reported, many go unreported.

So with the personnguard, the public will know at a sniff or a glance the sort of activities in which the masher has been engaged.

The device operates on a blowgun principle and fires a solution which has these effects: temporary loss of sight and vision and brings tears to his eyes; produces sneezing and coughing and renders him unable to operate a car; covers his face to the extent of a mask with vegetable dye in varied colors, so that he cannot be easily identified should he attempt to run away. The device is small and three-quarter ounces, fits easily into purse or pocket, and is equipped with a shrill whistle designed to summon aid while the attacker is being chased.

The operation of the device has been approved by the Detroit police department.

LONELY HEART ADVISED TO FIND INTERESTS IN PEOPLE

"Dear Dr. Molner: A year ago I lost my father whom I loved and miss very much. I have no family. Life has but little meaning now.

"Shortly after his death I went to a psychiatrist. The talks and medicine helped for a while.

"I have been trying to sew and to paint, etc., because friends all say you have to help yourself. But I really don't know what to do. I'm depressed, have a poor appetite, and dont sleep.

"Since I am a domestic, when I finish work I am too tired to go out. What can I do to get myself out of this rut? A.M.C."

One should not love one person too much, or wrap one's life in a single person -- neither in a father or mother, nor in a child, nor a husband or wife, nor a dear friend.

By this, I don't mean you should love less; love your dear one just as much, but love someone else, too.

A wife doesn't love her husband the less because a child or children and is loyal, too. The mother of 12 children loves each child as much as she could love one.

What I'm saying is that the human heart isn't like a bucket, or like a bank account. If you take some love out of the heart, you haven't reduced the amount of love that is left. You have increased it.

This is not a new idea. The Bible tells how God loves His creatures. Not a sparrow falls to the ground without His knowing it.

So, you see, you loved your father so deeply that you forgot that you could love other people just as well without losing any of the love for him.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the club car I could not help but overhear an angry old man telling his seat mates all about his labor troubles. He was obviously a prosperous old boy, but I couldn't figure what industry he was in.

"There's no satisfying them!" he declaimed bitterly.

"Well," said one of his companions, "what are you satisfied with?"

"But, hang it!" he said, "why don't they settle down? Why don't they state what they want and stick to it, instead of striking all the time? Then a fellow would know where he was at, and figure accordingly."

"Okay," said the man in the other chair, "you would be reasonable, then, in dealing markets with your competitors, and fixing prices, and raising rates for the use of the industry, with no more competition, no more bother. Right?"

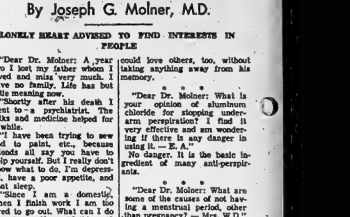
"That's different," protested the old man. "And whose side are you on, anyway?"

"I'm on the side of push," said the other, "and I'm awfully glad I am in a country full of push instead of one of those countries where nobody dare push but the top man. For him, there is only the one way to push.

"Down."

Paid to Let Bed Bugs Bite

Los Angeles Times



As the old India yields place to the new, the odd and colorful profession practised in India since time immorial, is beginning to die out.

Until recently the central Indian city of Nagpur used to have quite a large community of Khatmal-Khilloos who received a curious service to the Marwari sect.

The Marwaris believe that every living creature has a right to live its normal span and that man is duty bound to assist in the process. They extend this right even to bedbugs.

To give the bugs proper nourishment, they hired Khatmal-Khilloos, for a small monetary payment, the Khatmal-Khilloo would lie on mattresses onto which the bugs in the household were transferred whenever detected.

The ravenous bugs would feed on the exposed body of the Khatmal-Khilloo, whose fee would go up according to the duration of the food. The average fee used to be a nickel for 15 minutes. The profession has completely died out now.

At WMS Luncheon

Rabbi Feinberg Urges All Faiths to Co-operate in Preventing Third World War

The averting of a third world war which would spell finish to the human race, can be brought about only by the moral coalition of all forms of Christianity and Judaism, to save the spiritual values that are their common heritage"

This is the advice given a capacity audience attending the annual dessert luncheon sponsored by Bridge Street United Church Women's Missionary Society, in the church hall Thursday afternoon, by Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg, of Holy Blossom Temple, Toronto.

The dynamic speaker, a member of the advisory council of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, in an inspiring address urged that a Canadian Religious Congress for Peace, comprising representatives of every faith, should be convened at once to organize and mobilize the influence of Canada to prevent war.

In warning that mankind is also "drifting like an A-bomb war, under the bungling brinkmanship of politicians and generals who still play the out-moded game of power-diplomacy," he urged that the revolutionization of the methods of war brought about by the advent of nuclear weapons, also require a change in the morality of leadership.

"If a NATO conference can be conducted by divergent nations the military defence which will probably be futile if war comes, different religious can surely meet together for moral co-operation, which alone can make military defence unnecessary," he stated.

He said there is one thing all religions can agree on — and that is the prevention of a war which will destroy mankind.

"However much the various religions may differ about heaven for the dead, they can all agree that this earth must not be made a hell for the living," he said. "It is tragic for church, synagogue, and cathedral to begin their resources in mutual strife when nuclear scientists are imploring the world to realize the dangers of atomic destruction by the very weapons they have created. If a Third World War comes, no church can endure.

"It is more urgent for earthmen to get along together than to get space-men on the moon," the Rabbi said.

At the beginning of his address entitled, "Four Men On A Ship — and Three Fables," the speaker held up a painting which was etched on a special U.S. postage stamp some years ago.

The stamp was dull gray in color and its design was "four human beings linked together on the threshold of tragic death, as the surging waters rose up to engulf them. Underneath were two inscriptions — "These Immortal Chaplains" and "interfaith in Action."

"There is a story behind this picture and the stamp," he said. "In the early hours of February 3rd, 1943, a U.S. Army transport, the 'Dorchester,' was sunk by a German submarine off the coast of Greenland. Four chaplains were on the 'Dorchester' — two Protestants, a Roman Catholic and a Jew. First they helped the officers on that doomed ship distribute the available life belts; then they practically pushed shivering men off the deck to a chance for rescue in the icy waters, then they gave away their own life jackets. Finally, all four stood together on the deck praying when the 'Dorchester' turned up on end and disappeared.

"Some time ago, in Philadelphia, a memorial chapel was dedicated to these four heroes. The chapel has three altars mounted on a turntable for Catholic, Protestant or Jewish services, as the occasion may require — and on the wall is this mural painting of the troopship and the chaplains.

"Do we wonder why the United States made a special stamp and built a Memorial Chapel? Are the forces of religion not being confronted by a similar need now, for brotherhood?

"Today, Canada and China are closer, geographically, than Toronto and Belleville were in the stage-coach era; the world has been shrunk to the size of your parlor by the jet plane and rocket. Yet with all that technical progress, Western civilization is being threatened by materialism, totalitarianism and brutal aggression. Like the 'Dorchester,' the light of faith is being obliterated in the Greenland sea. And like the four padres, all religions are in the same boat," the speaker asserted.

ARE FOUR PADRES.

Religious leaders today are the four padres on the 'Dorchester,' he stated. "By what lofty command can we quarrel with one another while the roof of God's house cracks and crackles about our heads?" he queried.

"Does prejudice up in excuses and arguments, lash out against the other fellow's faith because we are sure of our own, hug every phrase and fiction of superiority to our faith? The fact still remains: religious bigotry is a warmed-up leftover, a primitive vestige from an ancient world, no more relevant for this time than the bones of a dinosaurus.

"I do not mean that we must all believe the same doctrine, adhere to the same tradition, worship with the same ritual," he explained. "Should we surrender or dilute the faith into which God has ushered us? Are we to plan one universal religion? Is that the only basis for brotherhood? A brotherhood which wants to uproot distinctions is no achievement.

Rabbi Feinberg said in Canada we can speak our minds each expressing the deepest intuitions and loftiest yearning of its adherents. Although the address God by different names, find inspiration in different books, understand Him in different tongues, enact the mystery of redemption in relation with deity through different rituals and symbols . . . they all strengthen the unity of society and underging lives with fortitude and faith.

"Each of them has some vision of truth, however incomplete, which God has given them has all the truth, absolute and unadulterated. Only God has the truth"

TENDENCY TO OVERLOOK

"I think there is a tendency to overlook and suppress differences of opinion about religious belief — as though differ-ilies in theological doctrine were somehow tantamount he queried.

He said when people do not hesitate to express clashing doctrines, based on their own traditions, and on their faith, it is a proof that democracy really works.

"We pay tribute and honor to Canada by having the courage to speak our minds about religion," he said. "The greatest act of faith we can perform on the altar of truth is democracy is the natural and unhindered expression of honest and deep-felt convictions."

"You many Christians listening to me now, I do not plead with you to accept my theological doctrine. I ask you simply to realize that our disagreement is natural and legitimate. I urge you to be loyal to your own traditions as I am permitted, in this free land, to be loyal to mine," he stated.

The speaker asserted a really good Christian and a really good Jew can never quarrel about religion. He said hatred arises when unfortunate people in both groups confound piety with bigotry, and convert ignorance into fanaticism.

"Each church, cathedral and synagogue, lose their battle against the inroads of communism and other forms of irreligion, it will be because bridges have not been built between them.

"Earthly salvation for our poor human race will be brought about only by a moral coalition of all forms of Christianity and Judaism, to save the spiritual values that are their common heritage," he said, in stressing the importance of the unity of God-worshipping mankind for the defence of religion and the unity of religion for the defence of mankind.

CAN DWELL TOGETHER

"When we have witnessed unmistakably that Jews and Christians can dwell together in comradeship, then we shall merit the right to proclaim a gospel to the world," he said.

"But how can we nourish this comradeship? What is the secret of religious understanding and goodwill? . . . Last winter on an outdoor walk, I caught a glimpse of that secret. It was at night, and very cold. I lifted my head out of my coat-collar, and looked at the sky. In that crisp atmosphere, I felt I could reach up and pluck a star with my fingers, they seemed so close.

"How many stars can one see with the naked eye? Astronomers give 3500 as a liberal estimate. But a pair of field glasses brings it to 120,000; the 100 inch telescope at Mt. Wilson reveals about 1500 million. Then there are numberless other stars too remote for any instrument. So the grandeur I gazed on that night was only a tiny corner of the universe.

"The extent of the heavens paralyzes the imagination. At the centre of our solar system, the sun, 93 million mile away. Then comes a vast, empty gap, until 25 million miles distant, appears Alpha Centauri. But Sirius is twice as far. Light, travelling at the rate of 186,000 miles per second, reaches us in 8 minutes from the sun; from Sirius, 8 years!

"We behold a great belt spanning the sky like an arch of pearls. You can name it! The Milky Way. We are living on one of a vast earthwheel revolving around a central hub 50,000 light years away. Our little planet, our proud earth is like a speck of sand floating over the Pacific Ocean.

"When our earth can roll like a marble through space, the furrow in the surface of the sun and be lost forever, when the great, burning sun itself is a bit of molten fluff wandering in endless space — then, as mature persons we boast of his ancestry, press himself on his wisdom, or humiliate others in arrogance and pride?" he asked."?

"My friends, humility is the path to brotherhood. They say humility is the core of repentance. On the contrary, the cultured man attains that grace for knowledge teaches us how little we know. One of the greatest intellects in all history, Socrates, compressed true humility into one sentence: "All I know is that I know nothing".

"We do know something — much more than Socrates did 25 centuries ago", he said, notes advances are being made in science, engineering, and medicine. Concerning the issues of religious doctrine — God, the soul, salvation — about which men wax bitter and hostile — concerning these, we have not advanced an iota in exact knowledge based on reason and research. "We have faith that God is; do we know exactly what He is?" The speaker asked. We gaze at the myriads of planets and begin to understand how they move in their orbits: do we know why? A famed Scotish preacher described himself as a man who went about thinking that, after all, he didn't know much, therefore he must be kind? A great Jewish philosopher cautioned us in these terms: "If we knew the precise attributes of God, we would be gods ourselves!" Both glimpsed the truth: we can't be god — but we can be kind.

"Each of us believes, of course that our religion is the most nearly true and acceptable of all the creeds on earth. Insofar as they obey it and reflect its holiness, they are better human beings".

"What men believe about the vast mysteries of life — God, the soul, death — differs in accord with their birth and upbringing. What they do in relation to one another, can be grounded on certain basic principles common to all.

The speaker emphasized that "human conduct can be unified. We are all able to learn how men should act towards one another. But when we quarrel about theology, we are only plitting our inadequacy against another.

POETRY IN STONE

"Long ago, I visited the exquisite cathedral of Notre Dame in Paris; a bit of poetry in stone. Its beauty filled me with exultation. But then I saw the image of a saint, and I said to myself, 'Surely religion forbids the worship of images' . . . I should have remembered that Catholics do not actually worship images, but beseech the saints in heaven to intercede in their behalf. Farther on into the shadows of the cathedral, I saw another image and some people at candles. There, on the altar, was the Sacred Heart of Jesus, and a crutch. He was crippled. Only his pale lips moved in prayer, and tears trickled down his cheeks.

"Did not my heart pray with that Catholic lad as he reached out to God for courage to conquer his handicap? "Surely God is in this place and I knew it not" . . . The boy on his bended knees is humanity throughout the ages, and especially today — puzzled by the riddle of suffering, fearful for continued living, starving for communion with God and one another.

"What matters is how that hunger is expressed, whether men seek Him at the altar of the synagogue, before the crucifix of the church, under the dome of the mosque, or before the image of the Buddha?

"What matters is the form of worship, the style of ritual, the theological definitions, by which men seek Him with their whole hearts?" he said. "In our lives we all are working for the same goal — justice, righteousness, peace, brotherhood.

"These are days of trials and stress. Yet others, few hatred; emphasize the things that divide; we shall reminisce the things all men share in fellowship.

"Canada has been entrusted with a God-given destiny — to become an arbiter among the nations. Our country is a powerful enough to be an object of jealousy and hatred, or to nourish dreams of world-rule —and yet we are powerful enough, because of our natural resources, to exert influence and propel nations. The world's nations of the earth have already begun to seek guidance and leadership from our young land. Before the latter half of the Twentieth Century will have drawn to a close, Canada must become more than ever a symbol of international faith of enlightened will and a will to peace, of courage, strength and sensitiveness, of the striving for security and co-operation.

"But this can be achieved, and the well-being of all humanity served, only if the people of Canada . . . conquer such barriers as religious differences. We shall never advance the unity of man until we establish the unity of Canadians. "When religious creeds dwell together in peace here, we shall only begin to tackle the crucial job of helping humanity to peace."

The Rabbi noted that space, the habitat of God's angels, is the hunting-ground for nuclear weapons, which can doom all mankind.

"Instead of sending prayers on high for God's blessing, our enlightened age dispatches missiles," he said. "The firmament has become a prize of territorial empire, for which Russia and the United States engage in conflict."

The speaker then told an ancient Hebrew legend about Adam who, when he saw night for the first time, crouched in terror and remained there with the intention to spend the night in tears, called "darkness" death," to create fire, he re-ated it.

"Today our plight is different, for darkness and spiritual night surround us," he said. "But we can dispel them by bringing together three lamps — Protestantism, Catholicism and Judaism."

He added in such meetings as the WMS luncheon are to be found the "seed of that togetherness," and urged his audience to strive to take that "seed" outside . . . "to the market place the community, and the world."

The speaker was introduced by Rev. Robert Sherwin, assistant minister of Bridge Street United Church, and thanked by Mrs. J. McArthur, the W.M.S. president.

Head table guests were: Rabbi and Mrs. Feinberg; Rev. and Mrs. Jacob Smazenger; Mrs. Fred Adcock, past president of the W.M.S. and over-all convener; Rev. and Mrs. R. Sherwin; president Mrs. J. McArthur and Mrs. H. M. Davis. Rev. H. M. Davis, minister of Bridge Street Church, was unable to be present.

Following the address mouth-watering desserts were served buffet style to the capacity audience in attendance.

Kiwanis Club Presents Final Travelogue of Series

By EUGENE LANG

The final travelogue of the 1958-59 Kiwanis "Travel and Adventure Series" was presented last evening in the Collegiate Auditorium before a large audience of interested spectators who were on hand to follow the eye of the camera through its wandering in Western Germany. Mr. Curtis Nagel and his associate, Mr. William Moore, were the hosts who were to guide us through the marvels of this fabled and historic land so endowed with fable and legend.

Although we had glimpses of the storied Rhine with its castle crowned crags and verdant velvet vineyards along with a short look at the peasant dances of the Black Forest of Bavaria, the travelogue portrayed to a great extent the modern aspect of civilization of Germany. We ambled through the storybook cities of Hamelin, made famous by the enactment of the famous tale of the Pied Piper; strolled along the aged cobblestoned streets of Nuremberg whose centuries-old half-timbered houses echo and ecoed to the chants of the medieval Minnesingers; took a peek at the castle associated with the Sleeping Beauty; dropped in for a few minutes to the quaint old towns and villages that the Brothers Grimm immortalized for all time; and gilded down the picturesque River Weser in an old sidewheeler of late 19th century vintage.

We travelled through the forest studded Harz Mountains, here catching sight of the rare wilds deer of that region; lounged around on the golden sand beaches of the Baltic, whose cold waters invite only the hardy types to partake of its white-capped waves; and wandered along the ancient highways and byways of Westphalia and Saxony, and joined in the peasant festivals that are forthcoming erupting up in village, town and city.

We visited mighty Hamburg, the shipping centre of Germany, and saw with wonderment the reconstruction that has taken place in restoring its great shipyards, rebuilding its docks and in the general transformation of its business and industrial section from a mass of rubble (which it was at the end of the last war), to the modern centre of avenues and systematically planned metropolis that it has emerged into today.

RECALLS MEMORIES

These are only a very few of the many sights and remembered scenes that the lens of Nagel's camera graphically portrayed for us in our trip of Western Germany. To those who have been there it brought back fond memories that kindle the notion that we shall return again to indulge in the beauties that unfold this wonderful country, and to those who have never been to Western Germany it has given a fine sample of what is in store for their travel plans in the years of the future. Moreover it will whet the appetite of the old and the new, the factual and the fictional — yes, there are all in abundance in the confines of Western Germany.

An added bonus to the scheduled film was the showing of a twenty-five minute visit to the Brussels World's Fair. Here the camera sought out the most vivid views of the 417-acre park that made Brussels the most visited to city in the world last year. We entered the various buildings of the major nations, travelled through miles of avenues embellished with scenic gardens, felt the soft spray of the gargantuan fountains, and gazed in wonder at the architectural marvels that dotted the grounds. Mr. Nagel certainly captured all the highlights of the World's Fair in his colorful pictures and left nothing to the imagination in the commentary on this great extravaganza. In both films the commentary motive was aptly chosen and certainly enhanced the visual effects with its delightful additives.

With this colorful film in the can, Nagel will travel next evening with Mr. Nagel and Company, the Belleville Kiwanis Club should have no trouble at all in selling out completely for next season's series of travelogues, which will bring this informative series into its

'Got Our Backs Up' Says IODE Ottawa Regent

MONTREAL (CP) — Alan Jarvis, director of the National Gallery in Ottawa, said Thursday a needlepoint carpet acquired by the gallery several years ago is not entirely the work of the late Queen Victoria as popularly believed.

"In fact, it's not even, by definition, a work of art," said Mr. Jarvis in a telephone interview Thursday from Ottawa to open an exhibition at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts.

He said the late queen employed footmen and other palace personnel to help her with certain work on the eight-by-five foot carpet, particularly the background for the feature design.

"As for the design itself, it was obviously modelled on earlier work of craftsmen of that era. Of course, it's very attractively done as well. But it's not an original creation."

Mr. Jarvis was commenting on complaints raised by Ottawa delegates at a recent annual meeting in Hamilton of the Ontario Chapter of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

Mrs. John Rooney, the order's municipal regent in Ottawa, said Mr. Jarvis "got our backs up" because he said the carpet was not a work of art, but a museum piece.

Said Mrs. Rooney: "Even if it is a museum piece—municipal chapter members think it should be better protected and displayed. You have to ask an attendant to show the carpet to it's kept behind to see it and we have no assurance that it has even been moth-proofed."

Commented Mr. Jarvis: "IODE members have approached us on this frequently and we have assured them it is well protected.

"In fact, that carpet has been in the gallery since it was opened and protected against moths just as much as our old masters."

He said spot checks and examinations are conducted at least once a month.

The IODE acquired the carpet during the Second World War, and displayed it across Canada raising $105,000 for the nation's war effort. It was given to the gallery in 1951.

Bolshoi Ballet Smash Success In Premiere

NEW YORK (AP) — Eighteen minutes of thunderous applause that rocked the metropolitan opera house Thursday night tell the story—the audience fell in love with Russia's Bolshoi ballet.

Bravos rolled from round dance students who had waited up to 40 hours for standing room and from jeweled society women in $30 box seats.

Galina Ulanova, who led the dancers in Sergei Prokofiev's "Romeo and Juliet," accepted the rounds of applause and bouquets.

Then, the Soviet troupe applauded the audience and the curtain closed on the American premiere of the Bolshoi.

Russian and American flags hung side by side from center boxes. The orchestra played the anthems of the two countries.

Mikhail Menshikov, Soviet ambassador to the United States, shared a box with a capitalist, Nova Scotia-born Cyrus Eaton, a Cleveland industrialist, who had visited Russia.

The glittering audience that crammed the 3,616-seat red-and-gold Opera House represented society, world diplomacy and the entertainment field.

The ballet itself, particularly Mme. Ulanova, appeared to please everyone.

W. G. Rogers, Associated Press arts editor, wrote that she "created instantly an exacting role with the mastery for which she is famous — innocent and girlish, awakening, maturing in the love of the handsome and impetuous stranger from the camp of her family's enemies, and committing herself to marriage and death for his sake."

John Martin wrote in the New York Times:

"To call the work a ballet is perhaps to evoke the wrong image, for it is no way like what we are accustomed to in this part of the world under that title. It is rather a great, teeming dramatic pageant, overflowing with vitality, with choreographic invention, with miming, with spectacle

Talk on Nursing in Denmark Given by Former BGH Grad

"It was in the year 985, as far as we know, the first white man saw the shores of Canada. The name of this early discoverer was Bjarni, the son of Herjolf. He was a Norseman, one of the fair-haired people who still inhabit Norway, Iceland and Denmark."

This was the beginning of a talk on nursing in Denmark given by Mrs. John Asmussen at the regular Nurses' Alumnae meeting on Tuesday night at the Ritchie Memorial Nurses' Residence.

Mrs. Asmussen spent 18 months of nursing in Rig's Hospital, the state hospital in Denmark. She spoke about the general hospital administration as well as the nursing care.

Hospital care in Denmark differs greatly from Canadian nursing. Hospitalization plans in Denmark take care of ambulance service and doctor's calls, dental bills, housekeeping while in hospital, nurses in the home, and recreation in a convalescent home for a short time after a period of illness in the hospital, she disclosed.

Many other services are provided in this hospital. Patients may have radios, television, attend daily church services and write to whomever they choose if their condition permits. A library, occupational therapy, and social services are also found in the hospital program.

Mrs. Asmussen (nee Marion English) was a graduate from Belleville General Hospital in 1949. She is presently visiting in Belleville but plans to return to Denmark in a few days.

The talk was preceded by the alumnae general meeting. Final arrangements for the graduation dinner at the Hotel Quinte were discussed and it was decided to allow all graduate nursing staff attend the dinner this year if they so desire.

Refreshments were served to conclude a most enjoyable evening.

Dr. Williamson Gives Talk to Argyll Chapter

The regular monthly meeting of the Argyll Chapter IODE, was held in the Armories. Several guests were welcomed.

The business meeting was held. Plans were made for the tag day to be held this week. A request regarding the purchase of new drapes for the lecture room was discussed, a motion was passed authorizing the Chapter to purchase same.

Mrs. Sprague introduced the special speaker, Dr. H. F. Williamson, who gave a most interesting and informative talk on Arthritis. This was augmented by a film, "Never Surrender".

Mr. E. Dayid, president of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, was the projectionist. This was a technicolor colored film produced in B.C.

Mrs. A. Duffy, Regent, thanked the guest speaker on behalf of the IODE.

A few items of interest were mentioned, including a reminder of the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic in May.

A number of volunteers offered their services.

Magazines suitable for men, are to be brought to the May meeting for the patients in the Frontier College. A very attractive display of sewing and knitting will be arranged by Mrs. Gavin Scott. These articles are part of the quota for Citizenship in June. All sewing and knitting are to be completed before that time.

A request from provincial headquarters was made for good used clothing to be sent overseas. These articles are sent to England, India, Pakistan and other countries.

Mrs. Scott, Citizenship Court will be held May 12th. Tea will be served following the presentation of certificates in the Armories by the St. Julien and Argyll Chapter members.

The Chapter regrets the convener of Citizenship, Mrs. Rosemary Rowland, has had to resign as her husband has been transferred to Ottawa.

Tea was served by Mrs. McLeod and Mrs. Smith following the conclusion of the meeting by Mrs. Mary Murphy.

Ice-Cold Butter Which Spreads Sought at University of Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — Ice-cold butter that will spread easily on fresh bread is the object of research at the University of Alberta.

The dairy science department has a miniature machine for making butter under "continuous process" method. So far the machine, which resembles the most modern commercial units, is being used to look into the properties involved, said Prof. F. W. Wood, who built the machine.

Eventually, it is hoped, a way can be found to "improve the plasticity of butter so it would have better spreading properties at refrigerator temperatures," he added.

The butter research is being financed by the federal agriculture department.

Working with Professor Wood is Dr. John M. de Man, who has been doing post - graduate work in the department for four years.

Dr. de Man's work has been a fundamental study of the physical properties of butter and the practical application of this knowledge to the production of butter with particular attention to the continuously-made butter.

For this work Dr. de Man already has received two special awards for year from the Alberta Dairymen's Association.

The butter-making machine is only one of numerous pieces of apparatus in the department. Complete equipment is available for the processing of market milk, cheese and ice cream.

All the machines are on a small scale, enabling the department to house an "entire dairy industry in miniature" in one large laboratory.

WMS Aux. Hears Talk on Racial Strife

The Evening Branch of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of Bethany Street Church met in the home of Mrs. Kilbank with a good attendance.

A short business period was held with discussion as to the filling of ditty bags for newcomers to Canada.

The Devotional meditation was conducted by Mrs. Doreen Carscallen, the theme being taken from the First Chapter of Ruth, which dealt with the love and sacrifice shown by Ruth for her mother-in-law in a strange country.

Miss Jean Campbell spoke on the topic, "Racial Prejudice". She related back to the New Testament times where such racial hatred seemed to dominate many countries. Israel was the door-way of the Eastern World with armies from Assyria, Babylonia, Egypt, Persia, Macedonia and Rome, all of which had designs toward the different countries. This caused hatred toward foreign people and interfered with the work of missions for mercy and compassion.

The guest speaker was Mrs. C. Holmes, district president of the W.M.S. Her very interesting and enlightening talk on missions in foreign countries was very much appreciated.

She described the effects of racial differences in countries such as India, Indonesia, East Asia and Johannesburg, where coloured people in need of medical aid were unable to secure it as white people were, and different race could secure medical aid, though they were unequally divided and many coloured people were unable to secure enough food, or anything for their families.

She stressed the great need of many more missionaries to go to these foreign countries which are so greatly in need of women to bring the Gospel to them, and show them ways of improving their agriculture and ordinary living. For only by this means can the people of these countries can we expect a world of harmony, peace and prosperity she said.

Nationalist China Woman's World Says Petite Member

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—Nationalist China today is a woman's world, says pert, petite Elizabeth Hsu, a member of Chiang Kai-shek's Formosa legislature, now visiting the United States at the invitation of the state department.

"We have 16 women members of the legislative yuan (upper house) out of 300," says Mrs. Wang. "In the National Assembly there are 210 women. There is no field in business, industry, labor or the arts where women are not making distinguished records."

Mrs. Wang resembles a Chinese doll in her traditional Oriental dress, but she has a brain like a Supreme Court judge. A graduate of the University of North Carolina, she is married to Dr. Hsu Chang, also a member of the Formosa legislature, and has three sons: Bobby, 17, a student at Cheng-Kung University; Eddie, 15, and Frank, 13.

"We call them by American names," she laughs. "Wang is a name. They have long Chinese names, too, but these are easier."

BORN ON MAINLAND

Daughter of a high official, Elizabeth was born in Kiangsu Province, on the mainland of China, and has lived most of her Chinese schools and colleges before coming to the United States to receive a degree at Chapel Hill, N.C. She then returned to China.

"I was married in the midst of the war, and then afterward came to Formosa with my husband's government. I would be only for a short time—we couldn't imagine that those few months could take over a country of 500,000,000 people permanently. So we left our home and possessions there. And we have been in Formosa ever since."

The constitution of Taiwan (Formosa) was adopted in 1947, but it hasn't been put in effect as the legislature since 1948, as have many other women. There is no discrimination, the need and the opportunity are so great, that the days never seem long enough to get everything done."

Mrs. Wang and her family live in a nine-and-a-half-room house in Taipei and have three servants and a nursemaid, a chauffeur, and a chauffeur.

Women of Formosa don't waste time debating about whether to have a career or marriage, says Mrs. Wang. Everybody has to. As a matter of course, they work at their jobs during business hours, and great is the joy and pride in national issues and running their own homes with gracious assurance. Three servants are helpful in this, of course.

PLENTY OF JOBS

"Everybody who wants to work can get a job in Taiwan," says she. "We have great prosperity, and great industrial growth. There is no beggars, no illiteracy and no juvenile delinquency.

"Taiwan has seven universities and 13 colleges, and there are thousands of students there from overseas—many from Europe and America."

On this island there is a renaissance of art and literature as well as general culture, says the lady legislator. Women are eager to attend art and drama classes, they are interested in all modern things for their homes, and they

By Mrs. Beeckman

SEATING ARRANGEMENTS AT DINNER FOR THE FAMILIES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter has just become engaged to a young man who lives with his parents in the suburb near us. They have telephoned to ask us to come last Sunday afternoon to make their welcome-visit-meeting trip on our daughter and us. Now we are planning to invite them to dine with us very soon, and we thought it would be easiest to "talk" it we have the three of us and his parents and the fiancee and her parents. Please tell me what the seating-arrangement should be at table. — Mother

At your right you seat the father of your daughter's fiance, and at your left, your daughter's fiance, as your husband will you seat the mother of your daughter's fiance, and at his left your daughter.

HER SMALL GODCHILD HAS LEUKEMIA

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently I learned that my four-year-old godchild is believed to be suffering from leukemia. She and her mother reside in another province. I grew up with the child's mother, and we were always great friends. However, since we live so far apart, we rarely see each other and only send a card about twice a year.

I know how heart-breaking this certainly must be to the parents, as I am the mother of an infant daughter. Please tell me what I could possibly say in a note to them. I have never had to write a note of this nature before, and I'm at a complete loss for words. Thank you very much. — Mrs. J. W.

What a tragedy, what a bitter tragedy, that this little lassie has come to this little baby. Your friend needs you deeply. You must write to her, and write soon. If at all possible, telephone to her the happy moment you contact her. There is anything you can do for her and for your little godchild. She needs your prayers, your assurances of friendship and evidences of sharing. Your first note might read somewhat like this:

Dear Dear Dorothy,

I've just had the heart-breaking news about your darling little Cynthia, and I wish I could express your hand in deep understanding. It is impossible to find words adequate to say what is in my heart, and my hope and prayer is that the situation is perhaps not so serious as at first if was thought to be. I know how difficult it must be for you to have to write, but perhaps Bob would drop me a note to tell me more definite news.

I was so particularly happy and pleased to hear about your precious little Cynthia as my godchild, and you may be sure I shall be thoughtful to give me that privilege.

I'm praying for you and Bob and your beloved baby, praying that all will be in comfortable and well for you all as can be, that the news will be better next very soon. And please do let me know if there is anything I can do, any possible way I can be of help.

Dearest love from Jim and me, and our most tender understanding. And God bless you and your little Cynthia.

Lovingly,

FROM PROCEDURE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our Junior Prom is to be held soon, and I have invited a boy who doesn't go to my school. What is the proper procedure for us in going down the receiving-line? —

The first important thing to remember is that when you and your young gentleman enter the room where the reception is being held (after you have checked your wraps) you should go directly to the receiving-line. Do not linger along the way, greeting and chatting with friends.

You greet first the first person in the line, the hostess of the occasion. If you know her, you immediately introduce the boy to her, saying his name most distinctly and graciously: "Mrs. Richardson, this is Mr. Kenneth Lane." If you don't know Mrs. Richardson, you first introduce yourself . . . "Mrs. Richardson, I am Carolyn Hall, a junior in Central High School. And this is Mr. Kenneth Lane, who goes to Park School."

Mrs. Richardson then greets you both, shakes hands with you both, and introduces you both to the person next in the line (and remember that she must depend on your pronouncing the names distinctly, so that she can repeat them correctly). Don't hesitate to introduce yourself and then your escort if you see that occasion suggests you to do this; for example, if the person in the line who is supposed to make the introduction happens to be so occupied that he or she doesn't have the chance to make it.

If with your greetings and introductions there is time to make some gracious comment, you might say, for example, "How beautifully this room is decorated . . . in honor of you!" or "Everyone looks so gay tonight . . . I'm sure we're going to have a wonderful Prom!"

Answer: I had so many requests for your raised doughnuts after I gave the method for making Jelly Doughnuts on March 21st, that I am going to repeat the recipe for Potato Raised Doughnuts and method of making Jelly Doughnuts. Would interested Friday Column readers please clip it this time?

YEAST DOUGHNUTS

One-half cup each lukewarm water and lukewarm milk, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 package dry active yeast, ¼ cup soft shortening, 3½ to 3¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour. To the ½ cup lukewarm liquid in a large mixer bowl add 1 teaspoon sugar from the 1/4 cup and sprinkle package of granular yeast over top and let stand 10 minutes, stirring to dissolve. Measure together the ½ cup lukewarm liquid, remaining sugar and salt. When yeast liquid is ready, stir it in, then stir in the egg and shortening. Add 1½ cups flour and beat until smooth. Add enough more flour to make a soft dough that can be handled easily. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic — about 5 minutes. Let rise again, covered, until double in bulk. Punch down and roll dough to ¼-inch thickness. Cut out with floured 3" doughnut cutter. Let rise uncovered on board until light — about an hour. Crust will form on outside. Drop carefully into hot fat at 375 deg. on candy board or stove, lift with spatula and slide into fat. Add only as many as can be turned easily. As they rise to surface and show a little color, turn them over. Fry/are about 3 minutes to brown both sides. Temperature is maintained at 375 deg. Lift out with long fork without pricking. Drain for a moment then transfer to absorbent paper in warm place. To sugar doughnuts just before serving shake one at a time in paper bag containing a little icing or granulated sugar, cinnamon flavored if desired.

JELLY DOUGHNUTS

Roll out to ¼" thickness, let rest 5 minutes. Cut out with 2½" round cutter. Let stand 3 minutes. Place 1 teaspoon tart stiff jelly or jam in centre of half the rounds, top with remaining rounds and seal edges firmly. Let rise uncovered 25 to 30 minutes. Fry/bake as above.

Question: . . . have you a recipe for Tea Biscuits that are just as nice on the second day? — Mrs. Gregory.

Answer: I think you are asking the well-nigh impossible but following are two that are good when you want them.

TEA BISCUITS SUPREME

2¼ cups sifted cake flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cream tartar, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2-3 cup less 1 tablespoon milk, ¼ cup butter or shortening, little lots, stirring first half with milk, then add rest, quickly mix by hand having added just enough to make it mix nicely. Handle as little as you can, pat out dough and let rise in warm place until just doubled. Now launch down and knead on floured board until it squeaks — about 5 minutes. Let rest 5 minutes, covered, roll out to ¾" thickness, cut with floured cutter, place on ungreased baking sheet, brush with melted butter and bake in hot oven, 450 deg. F. 12 minutes.

Unexcelled.

POETRY CONQUERS PAIN — Mrs. Annie Walters of Woodstock, Ont., almost weeps with happiness as she holds her first published book of poetry. Mrs. Walters nearing 70, suffers from diabetes which forced doctors to amputate her legs. Two years ago her husband died. The 70 poems, written over a period of 20 years, reflect the personal philosophy that enables her to live a useful life despite her pain. Friends in Woodstock helped her get the book published.

Legless Poetess, 70, Sees Dream of Years Come True

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP) — 6 Years of pain and suffering seemed to vanish for Mrs. Annie Walters with the recent publication of her first book of poetry.

Mrs. Walters cried with happiness as she held the first copy of This Is Anele and said: "I never believe it, I simply can't believe it."

It was a dream of years come true for the mother of 10 children. She has been confined to a wheelchair since 1953 when both her legs were amputated because of diabetes which forced doctors to amputate her legs. She lost one leg in 1953 and the other late last year.

HAD 13 OPERATIONS

Comfortably settled in her home after undergoing 13 operations she has not allowed all this to dampen her spirits.

These things in life just have to be faced so I say 'face them.' You can't go around ordering life to suit yourself, things don't work out that way. You have to take what comes and be satisfied. It's best to make the most of what you have."

This make-the-best-of-it philosophy is reflected in her poetry which is mostly concerned with the little things that go unnoticed here.

A devout Roman Catholic, she says: "I really haven't as much courage as you think. I nearly broke down two years ago when my husband died. It seemed almost too much to bear with my own trouble and it was Father Brisson (my priest) who made me see that I really had some thing to live for."

LONG-TIME RESIDENT

A Negro, Mrs. Walters was born in Amherstburg, Ont., moved to Woodstock after her marriage 44 years ago. She lived in several other southwestern Ontario centres during her childhood.

Now she lives with her son and daughter-in-law. She has her own room and slfares the kitchen. She looks after herself while they are at work in the morning. Also she gets around expertly in her wheelchair.

Poetry is only one of her hobbies. She also hooks and braids rugs, does fine sewing and crochets. She enjoys knitting and sewing for her children and grandchildren.

"You know writing poetry is a wonderful way to relieve one's mind of pressure. Thinking on paper through the years has been wonderful medicine for me. It is so nice to think that other people will be able to share my thoughts now."

This Is Annie is a 64-page book and sells for $2 per copy. Friends here helped her get it published.

Health Service Team to North Includes Lady

EDMONTON (CP) — When a federal government northern health service team flies here for its annual visit to Eskimos in the Arctic recently it included a woman for the first time.

Dr. Elizabeth Cross of Ottawa, chief consultant in psychiatric nursing to the North, however. For the first year she has been doing a medical survey in the Northwest Territories, working up and down the Mackenzie River.

"I based at Aklavik and Simpson, where there are hospitals," she explained, "and brought in as many patients as possible.

"There is quite a lot of eye disease among the Eskimos. One of the causes is poor nutrition. Life is hard for them."

The team that is making a three-week tour by air, examining as many Eskimos as possible, is headed by Dr. L. E. C. Davies.

Dr. Cass, a graduate of the medical school of the University of London, England, plans to return to the Northwest Territories after the Arctic survey.

Before coming to Canada she was at Gibraltar, where she organized the services for the British army, with which she spent the early years during the Second World War.

Her work with the World Health Organization of the United Nations was taking her to Amman, Jordan, when trouble broke out in the Middle East, and a change in plans brought her to the Northwest Territories.

Mothers' Aux. Plans Bake Sale on Market

The Avondale Cubs and Scouts Mothers' Auxiliary held their monthly meeting last evening at the home of Mrs. D. Cooke, Wright Avenue, with a good attendance. Mrs. T. Legacey, president, extended a warm welcome, especially to new members.

The business report was given and correspondence read. Mrs. D. Cooke, welfare convener, also reported. Mrs. Legacey elaborated on the regional conference for Scouters and Mothers' Auxiliary which is being held in Picton this week and suggested a delegate be sent. It was also suggested papers be saved for a paper drive that is being planned by the group committee. Community will support it.

Mrs. Legacey expresses thanks to Mrs. W. McPherson, Mrs. D Cooke, and Mrs. J. Jarvis for assisting with the Cub party recently.

Plans are being made to hold a home-cooking sale at the Murray Square building in May, under the convenership of Mrs. Dave McDonald. It was felt that Cub and Scout mothers will donate the proceeds to help their community will support it.

Mrs. L. Legacey and Mrs. Nix will pick up cooking in the Avondale area; Mrs. Morris Smith in the Holmes Road area and Mrs. D. Cooke and Mrs. I. McPherson in the Wright Avenue district.

The activity for the evening was a country auction sale with Mrs. Dave McDonald acting as auctioneer, which was much enjoyed.

A pleasant surprise of the evening came when Mrs. Dave Mrs. D. Cooke, carried in a beautifully decorated cake with the mothers joining in the singing of "Happy Birthday" in honor of Mrs. Dave McDonald on the occasion of her birthday.

The next meeting was tentatively planned as a surprise birthday party for Mrs. McDonald. Mrs. Legacey closed the meeting.

Mrs. McDonald expressed sincere thanks, and said "it is a great joy to belong to an organization where the warmth and friendship is so tremendous and growing all the time."

Miriam S. — Steve keeps after me!

Mr. L. S. — His mother should know he's off his rocker.

Miriam S. — I am a 16-year-old girl and I'm in a muddle about what to do about a particular boy.

Steve is 17 and really very nice. We went steady for about a year, but my parents thought I was tying myself down too young. So we broke off — that is, I broke off. Steve keeps after me all the time, asking me for dates. He says he won't object if I go out with others but that he does not care for anyone else.

I keep telling Steve that my parents don't want me to see him and I have asked him not to bother me, but he keeps coming around and calling me up. I like him off good and proper a couple of times, but still he keeps after me. My mother wants to call his mother, but I swear I'll never forgive her if she does.

Mrs. L. S. — I feel that this thing has gone too far. It's a mother's business to know if her boy is making a nuisance of himself. Somebody needs to tell this girl off.

I have heard Miriam on the telephone with Steve and I know that she has told him off in no uncertain terms. She was downright insulting. Like the following: "Right, there he was again, asking her if she is nothing had been said. Steve is not the following: "Right, there he was again, asking her if she is nothing had been said. Steve is not a discussion about the importance of her getting to know boys of different types, so that eventually she'll be better able to pick a permanent partner. Miriam also understands and accepts the reasons for breaking off with Steve, she'll find her own way of getting rid of him without anger or hostility.

If Steve persists after getting a real brush-off from Miriam, it will be time enough to tell his mother that he is being a nuisance — only that and nothing more.

Miriam has yet to learn that she cannot live her life entirely to please herself. She must learn to consider the feelings of others, and to be tactful and kind in her dealings with people.

The Council: Hold your horses! Mrs. L. S. Don't go telling other

Now Is Time To Correct Heating Ills

If it took a break in the weather to make your home fit to live in,then the balmy days should be plan-ahead days to eliminate the household headaches that are sure to be there to plague you when the temperature dips next fall.

Start your inventory of things to be done by re-living last winter's woes, then take the steps necessary to remedy them. Chilly rooms that are "out of bounds" when the snow flies, cold spots, drafts or exorbitant fuel bills all mean that something is wrong with your heating system.

Here's a check list of possible problems and the recommended solutions to each of them:

1. Furnace failure — the unit that produces the heat that keeps you comfortable must be in good working order. If it did not function properly last season, call the serviceman now while there's an off-season slack and have the furnace adjusted. Have broken parts replaced, chinks or cracks in the flue or chimney sealed to prevent heat loss.

2. Clogged radiators or registers — dirt and dust can rob your rooms of warmth. Cleaning them is a do-it-yourself job to be placed on the fix-up agenda. Vacuum registers of warm air systems to let the clean air flow freely, clean or replace air filters in forced air systems, clean the release valve on steam radiators and release trapped air in hot water radiators.

3. Fluctuating temperatures — adequate control of the heat supplied by the furnace is of great importance during the frosty days. Make certain that the thermostat you now have is functioning properly; if not replace it with a new model.

4. Heat leaks — wasted warmth is a common problem, especially in an older home. Cold walls and windows can rob you a great amount of heat, and for this reason insulation, weather stripping or storm sashes should be installed.

Questions and Answers

Q — How high should the working surface of a home desk be?

A — The standard desk height is 30 inches. For a desk for a growing child, however, either pick a design with a working surface that can be adjusted up or down, or use an adjustable chair or stool.

Q — In coloring pine panelling, how can you tell in advance how the finish job will look?

A — Test your finish first on a piece of waste lumber. Keep in mind two principles as you experiment to find the effect that pleases you most — (1) the broad expanse of finished wall will always appear slighty darker than the same finish on a small sample, and (2) paneling will darken some with time. In other words, keep your test sample a bit on the light side of what you really want.

Q — How long does it take shellac to dry on a floor?

A — The first coat, which should be generously thinned with alcohol, generally is dry enough to walk on in about one hour. No less than three hours should elapse, however, between the first and second coats — and an overnight drying period is recommended before the third coat is applied. Shellac should never be used full strength. It should always be thinned with alcohol.

Q — The space in the rear of our kitchen base cabinets is awkward to reach and most of the time is wasted. Is there any way to put this space to use?

A — One method is shown by the sketch. A carpenter made a "pull-up" shelf unit which sits flush with the cabinet top when not in use. Such units can be made in any size. They can be lifted easily.

Q — How can I whiten yellow-stained piano keys?

A — Mix a paste of alcohol and powdered chalk. Rub the paste on the keys, then remove it with a clean, soft cloth.

How to Paint Cinder Blocks

Cinder blocks so porous that it is better to give them a coat of cement, stucco or portland cement paint before painting them with a permanent finish. If you paint cinder blocks without cementing the surface, they will absorb a lot of paint and holes will still show. Outdoor type, rubber-based masonry paint is best for the outer surfaces.

PUTTY HINT

Before puttying, dust your hands with whiting or flour. This will prevent the putty from sticking roughly to your hands.

Students Give Brick a New Shape

Newly-designed triangular concrete brick, useful for walls and patios, is laid by John Mason of Sacramento, Calif. Mason, an architectural engineering major at California State Polytechnic, developed the brick with a fellow student, Donald Davison, of Long Beach, Calif.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — The triangular brick is a new building idea, especially for walls and patios.

Made of concrete, the brick was developed by John Mason of Sacramento, and Donald Davison of Long Beach.

Each side of the equilateral brick is 11¾ inches long. With mortar it becomes 12 inches.

Mason and Davison said present methods for producing the brick are limited and somewhat more than ordinary care must be used in laying it.

George Hazelrin, head of the college's architectural engineering department, says he believes the new brick has "tremendous possibilities, especially for beautifying walls and patios."

"Wall architecture is turning more to aesthetic values and away from strictly utilitarian purposes," Hazelrin says. "As a result, this brick has unlimited horizons."

Mason said the brick was developed "to provide a variation from other bricks on the market. Wall strength is comparable to any other and it can be used for any structure."

Mason said commercial possibilities depend on less expensive production methods and the designing of a "corner brick" required by California law.

"At present our triangular bricks cost approximately 75 cents each. However, they offer some definite advantages," Mason says.

"Among other things, they eliminate the need for horizontal steel."

Old Fashioned Closets Can Be Modernized

You don't have to build a new house to vanquish your closet problem; just build a new closet —right in the same place. By widening the door opening and building in storage units to utilize every cubic inch of space, you can turn an old closet into a wardrobe that is a model of efficiency. There will truly be a place for everything, and keeping everything in its place becomes almost automatic.

The closet remodelling could be a do-it-yourself project, or you could engage a carpenter. To do it yourself probably wouldn't cost more than $75 to $80 for materials; if you had a professional do it, you might spend up to $200. The whole thing can be done with fir plywood — which is easy to work with, yet strong—and ordinary framing lumber.

To open the old closet up, first take off the door and cut out the wall space on either side so the opening is as wide as the closet itself. You can then build new double doors to fit the opening, with storage shelves right on their backs.

Plan shelves and racks on the doors to suit your needs. If the closet is a woman's wardrobe, for instance, you should have no trouble providing plenty of room for handbags, shoe cleaning equipment, brushes, etc.

Bigger Medicine Chest Needed

The average bathroom medicine cabinet has shrunk considerably in size in the past 15 years. One survey found medicine cabinets of the early 1940's averaging 14 to 19 inches 5 inches deep. Today the average is 13 by 17 by 4 inches deep. Many new home owners complain about the lack of space and frequently have two medicine cabinets installed in each bathroom.

ANCIENT AREA

Pueblo Bonito in the U.S. state of New Mexico was built about 800 years before Columbus discovered the new world.

Changes Are Gradual

Changes in house design trends regionally and nationally — usually occur gradually so that we hardly notice them. All we usually realize is that houses aren't being built the way they were 5 years ago.

Today the main trends seem to be towards design which make for happy, convenient and easy living.

The builders in your community want to know your tastes in house design. And their efforts in this direction are being helped by the work of the Canadian Housing Design Council.

This Council is an independent body composed of builders, architects, manufacturer s and consumers who each year hold a competition for good house design. Builders all over the country submit house plans to be judged on a regional and national basis.

The Canadian Housing Design Council is most concerned with medium and lower priced houses —the houses most Canadians live in. Through surveys they help the builders find out what kind of home you want. The result of their activity over the years will mean Canadian house buyers will have better-designed, handsomer houses to live in that has ever before been possible.

Builders report a time saving of more than 50 per cent when big panels of fir plywood are held for subflooring rather than other materials.

Insulation Helps Keep Homes Cooler In Summer and Warmer in Winter

BLANKET INSULATION comes in long rolls, from which strips are cut to fit wall spaces. Here, husband-and-wife team staple lengths of blanket between studs as part of an attic expansion project.

SIX-INCH THICK BLANKETS of insulation are being installed by workman in ceiling of a new wing, added to an existing house. Batts (or blankets) can also be installed in the attic floor when joists are exposed. They are laid between joists, vapor-barrier side down.

If high heating bills and drafty rooms gave you the shakes this past winter, and you dread the prospects of simmering in your home during the hot days and nights ahead, you can solve both problems at one time and in one operation, by insulating now.

Insulation is just as effective at keeping a house cool in the summer as it is in keeping a house warm in the winter. This is true because all air moves in the direction of from warm to cold. In the winter, the warm indoor air tries to escape outdoors. In the summer, the warm air air tries to come inside. Insulation is simply a wall between warm and cold air.

Because insulation can reduce loss of heat through the walls and ceilings as much as 40 percent, and reduce fuel bills as much as one-third, this home improvement can pay for itself in fuel savings in a relatively short time. On this basis, the extra comfort that the homeowner and his family will enjoy the year around comes as a cost-free bonus!

Insulating a home is a job which can usually be handled by the home owner himself at considerable saving in labor costs.

INSULATING WALLS

The exception to this occurs where it is necessary to insulate finished walls or ceilings. These jobs call for the services of an insulating contractor who has the skilled personnel and special equipment necessary to literally "blow in" the insulating materials via compressed air, wherever required.

Among the places in most houses which are readily accessible for the do-it-yourself installation of insulation are attics, new rooms being added on, crawl spaces, walls of attached garages and basements.

Batts and blankets of insulating materials are designed specifically for simple installation with the use of just a few ordinary tools. Batts, available in 4 and 8-foot lengths, usually are preferred for installation in attics. Blankets, usually in 50-foot rolls are preferred for ceilings or for floors above crawl spaces.

Another form of insulating material is the "fill type" which comes loose in bags. This is simply poured between the attic floor joists and smoothed to an even depth.

Insulation materials are made of mineral wool, rock wool, glass, slag, paper pulp, gypsum, asbestos, cork, aluminum foils, vermiculite, cotton and other vegetable and mineral matter.

INSTALLATION TIPS

Here are some tips to help you do a tight, effective job of insulation:

1. Buy thick insulation. Three inches in walls and four inches in ceilings is considered adequate for heating economy in the average house, but thicker amounts are more effective.

Many far-sighted homeowners today are installing batts 6 inches thick in ceilings, and putting the thickest insulation they can get in walls. This is because they plan to air condition their homes in the future, and know the importance of thick insulation to effective and economical cooling.

2. Use the sharpest knife you can find to cut the batts and blankets for odd-sized spaces. A sharp blade speeds the job and makes it more accurate. Always cut along a straight edge, such as a piece of board.

INSULATION BATT (mineral wool) is being stapled here to gable-end wall of an attic. Batts of standard width are cut as necessary to fit narrow spaces.

MINERAL WOOL insulation is "blown" into the wall of a house through a hose leading from air-compressor machine in truck. Workmen first remove strips of siding and drill holes in sheathing. After insulating, siding is carefully replaced.

3. Measure spaces carefully, then cut the insulation slightly larger than the space to be filled so that the insulation can be wedged in tightly. Keep in mind that any openings around the edges or small, unfilled spaces will let heat escape like air from a punctured tire.

LEAVE VAPOR BARRIER

4. When you cut a piece that is to be butted against part of the house framing leave a flange of vapor barrier at the top and bottom of the piece so that the ends can be stapled down.

5. Use a staple gun. It's faster than a hammer and tacks and you'll have one hand free to hold the insulation in place. Staple the flanges to the studs on both sides and the end flanges to wood framing members at the top and bottom of the wall. Space staples 6 inches apart.

6. Install the batts or blankets with the vapor barrier toward the side of the house that is heated in winter.

Insulating material for do-it-yourself projects is available from building material dealers.

'CHINESE BUILDERS

HONG KONG (AP) — The official Peiping People's Daily reports 2,000,000 public mess halls, 4,000,000 nurseries and 110,000 homes for the aged have been set up in Red China so far under the program for people's communes.

"Should I Buy a New Home Now?"

The desire to own one's own home is natural. It's based on more than mere sentiment. Besides the pride of ownership which comes with possession of real property, long tangible benefits accrue to the home owner. For a home means increased comfort, healthier, happier surroundings for the entire family, and added economic security for the present as well as the future.

The decision to buy is the result of weighing the pros and cons of rental living on one hand with home ownership on the other. Rented quarters carry less financial responsibility, but also mean a compromise in family comfort with nothing but a collection of rent receipts to show after a lifetime of occupancy.

While the purchase of a home usually represents the largest single financial obligation a family undertakes, it brings the rewards of ever-increasing equity in a property which has been selected specifically to meet the needs of family living. This is not only a bulwark against the threats of recession and inflation but, after the mortgage is paid up, constitutes rent-free housing with expenses only for taxes and maintenance — a most desirable property which is worth much more than its original cost.

CONSIDER OWN POSITION

Before making a decision, however, you should consider your own particular circumstances. Is there a chance you will be moving from your present community within a year or so? If so, the house you purchase should be chosen with a view to easy resale. It should be in a price range, have facilities, and be in a location which will be attractive to as many as possible of your potential future buyers. You should examine available statistics on the movement of second-hand homes in your community to help you make your decision. You should discuss this matter with experts — your builder, your banker or your local Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation officials, and estimate what equity you will have in your new home at the time you may be obliged to sell.

These investigations will help you decide whether or not your particular circumstances make it advisable for you to buy rather than rent at present.

If you have no plans for moving from town in the very near future, however, chances are your best financial proposition would be to purchase a new home.

PROPERTY VALUES ON RISE

Once the decision to buy a home has been made, the next question which arises in the mind of the potential buyer is, "when should I buy". In a sense, the best time to buy a home would have been last year, five years ago, or almost any time during the last 20 years. Because those who made careful purchases then have found that their homes have steadily increased in value. Cash tends to lose value during periods of national economic stress, while real estate rises in value during the same period.

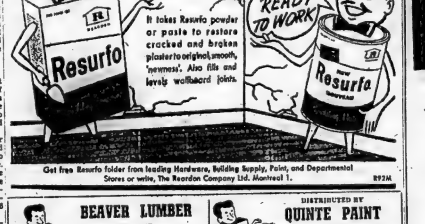
Is this a good time to shop for a new home of your own? The experts reply with a resounding "yes" to this question. For one thing, competition between builders has never been as keen — and this spells a better buy for the house-hunter. There is, too, a wide selection of types of houses from which to choose. Sturdy, attractive new materials and equipment have gone into them.

Manufacturers, as well as builders, have focused on designs to make life easier for the housewife and pleasanter for the whole family. The new house designs go widely as individual needs and tastes.

Land values in most areas are rising; they doubtless will be higher in 1960 than they are today. This means that every penny spent on a home today is money well-invested.

QUALITY BEST IN HISTORY

The quality of building materials today is the best in history. Basic materials, such as lumber and concrete, are plentiful. They are stronger and more durable, the result of industry-wide research to produce better homes.



Great progress has been made, too, in technical construction through constant research, field testing and experimentation in building materials. Improved equipment and finishing — in heating, plumbing, painting and wiring — have added beauty and comfort, as well as value, to new houses.

Some people may want only to dream of acquiring a house of their own. But those who really want to do something to make that dream come true would do well to join in the great weekend sport of exploring the 1959 houses in their communities. As in everything else, the best guide is seeing for yourself.

Your first step should be to consult a home builder who builds the style of home you desire. In selecting a builder, you may wish to consult home owners in your community or contact the Quinte Home Builders Association. Your builder can furnish valuable advice in helping you plan your home and arrange for financing. The satisfaction in being able to call a little strip of this globe your very own is hard to beat!

SUNSHINE AND SHADE to suit each person's mood of the moment are both present on this lawn and patio; the result of careful planning and strategic placement of trees and shrubs to obtain this effect. Photo by American Association of Nursery men.

Plant Trees To Provide Needed Shade

There's a simple trick in planting shade Trees, according to the American Association of Nurserymen. Plan them at some distance to the west of the place you want shade, slightly north of due west. If you plant the tree, or trees, right over the spot, the shade will fall to the east of it in the afternoon.

The hottest part of the summer day usually is in mid and late afternoon, when the sun's rays slant considerably. Plant the shade tree far enough to the west so the slanted rays will be intercepted and the shade will fall where you want it.

For shade directly over the outdoor living area in mid-day, when the sun is at its zenith, the shade tree should be planted at the edge of the area but not where an outdoor fireplace will scorch leaves on the lower branches.

The same rule holds true for shade on a terrace or patio. If the terrace is on the east side of the house only the directly overhead sun needs to be screened off because the house will shade the terrace in the afternoon. In this case, the shade tree can be right beside the terrace to guard against mid - day sun. But if the terrace is on the west side of the house, two trees may be needed, one at some distance in the west, in order to block the hot afternoon sun and one close to the terrace to intercept the sun's direct rays at mid-day and up to three o'clock or so in the afternoon.

Shade trees can make a difference of five to ten degrees in the temperature of the outdoor living area or on the terrace. They must be planted in the right locations to achieve the best results. Consult with your nurseryman. A difference of five to ten degrees on a hot summer day means the difference between comfort and discomfort.

These suggestions for locating shade trees also can be used to make various rooms inside the home more comfortable by shading one or more windows and/or the wall of the house that face the hot afternoon sun.

SPRING CHLORDANE treatment against grubs will keep this man's lawn free from brown spots all season. To wipe out the grubs before they destroy grass roots, he's using a soil insect killer, Ambol Hose-Spray.

FHA Suggests Ways To Cut Home Maintenance Costs

The Federal Housing Administration has drawn up a program of suggestions designed to hold down the cost of home maintenance. Among the points covered are the following:

Roof and the flashing around chimneys should be checked annually for breaks, warping and rust.

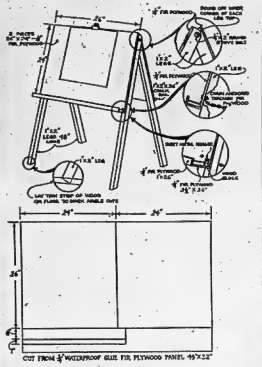
Exterior walls of masonry should be examined for cracks and warping.

Exterior windows and doors should be examined for openings, which should be sealed with putty or caulking compound.

Exterior painting should be done every three or four years. Any painted area that peels or blisters should be examined for moisture intrusion.

The cords of electrical appliances should be inspected periodically to see that they are not worn or frayed. If they are, they should be replaced.

Faucets and other valves should be checked for leaks. A small continuing drip can wear a groove in the metal that may require replacement to stop the leak.



Attics and crawl spaces should be checked several times each year for dampness or moisture condensation. Such conditions may indicate the need for additional ventilation or other corrective measures.

Metal railings and other metal work that show rust should be wire-brushed with rust-resistive paint.

Your Youngster Like to Paint? Make Him This Plywood Easel

Little Ulrille, his innocent eyes aglow, is liable to turn his newly-discovered crayon technique on the nearest wall, unless Dad is smart enough to outguess him.

In many cases, the problem is solved before it becomes an issue by presenting junior with a drawing board cum blackboard all his own — and with an ample supply of chalk.

EASEL FOLDS FLAT

The sturdy folding easel shown here is easily constructed in the basement workshop from fir plywood and a few lengths of ordinary lumber. It folds flat when not in use.

The two drawing surfaces are 24 x 26 inches in size, and made of fir plywood. Four 48-inch lengths of 1 x 2 will make the legs. A piece of scrap will suffice for the chalk ledge. Two quarter-inch stove bolts, two inches long, provides hinges for the legs. A piece of chain, or cord, will limit the leg spread.

To build the easel, first bore holes in the top of each leg, for the stove bolts. Round corners. Then screw the drawing surfaces to the legs, allowing a slight difference in width between the two sides so that the completed easel will fold flat.

One of the drawing surfaces can be thoroughly undercoated and then given two coats of blackboard paint for future chalk work. The other surface can be painted and equipped with a large paper clip to hold drawing paper.

Circuit Breakers Replacing Old Fashioned Fuse Boxes

Remember the good old days? When the lights went out, you went to the fuse box, gingerly pulled the switch cutting off the electricity, and then tried fuse after fuse on a hit or miss basis until you found the one which had blown out.

And maybe you didn't have any good fuses.

Well, those days are rapidly disappearing For today, more and more homes are equipped with circuit breakers.

These devices look and work like a kitchen light switch. Instead of blowing a fuse when a wire is overloaded, the breaker automatically moves to the "off" position To restore electrical service, all you have to do is flip the switch to "on". If the fault which caused the original interruption in power is still present, the breaker will continue to trip until the cause is corrected.

There is no danger of getting an electrical shock from a circuit breaker. Handles are insulated and grounded. And unlike the old fuse box, you cannot try any of those dangerous tricks like inserting a fuse of a higher rating, or a penny, or a piece of tinfoil.

Breakers are safe, too. For aceplance, Underwriters Laboratories make it mandatory that a circuit breaker open and close without failure more than 10,000 times.

They are also economical. They compare favorably in cost of installation with fuse systems and there are no maintenance costs, no fuses to buy.

No Concessions Offered by CNR In Bypass Plan

WOODBRIDGE, Ont. (CP)—No concessions on the proposed Metropolitan Toronto CNR bypass were offered to more than 1,000 persons by company officials at a meeting held near here.

J. L. Caan, director of the Toronto terminal project, was on hand to reply to recent objections by township councils and planning boards in Toronto, Vaughan, Markham and Pickering Townships that they were not consulted.

Mr. Caan said: "I feel that you will appreciate that the most careful consideration has been given to the whole project, the railways know from experience the difficulties that have arisen in the past from a premature announcement and above all we knew that we must avoid the penalties of land speculation."

The meeting was called by Vaughan Township council in response to persistent delegations from ratepayers' groups objecting to the proposed bypass. Ratepayers feel the proposed 3,185 acre freight marshalling yard south of Maple would cause devastation of property in the township.

Counterfeit Tens Flood Quebec And Ontario

MONTREAL (CP) — The biggest batch of counterfeit Canadian money in the last 15 years is flooding Ontario and Quebec, the RCMP say in the bogus $10 bills, although reasonably good copies, are easy to spot.

They said Wednesday about 1,200 of the phoney $10 have turned up in Quebec and another 100 in Toronto since the flood began two months ago.

They suspect a tie-in between the counterfeiting and illegal narcotics rackets since some of the 25 persons who have been arrested and charged with possessing or making the counterfeit money have also had drugs on their persons or in their homes.

By ordinary counterfeit standards the bills are good copies, police say, but it is easy to distinguish them from genuine bills, especially when the two are compared.

The things to watch for:

The counterfeit money feels different; the words "British American Bank Note Company Limited" printed at the bottom of the bill are indistinct and difficult to read; the left eye of the Queen's portrait on the phoney bill is obviously faulty.

Basic Under-Pinnings of Foreign Policy Will Remain Unchanged

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The resignation of cancer-stricken John Foster Dulles as U.S. state secretary promises to make little difference in international affairs for some months to come.

It raises immediate speculation as to what effect his departure from the state department here will have on Eisenhower negotiations in Germany scheduled to open next month and perhaps run through the summer.

This is bound up in the secondary question as to what bearing the resignation will have on the future course of American foreign policy.

The likelihood is that the basic under-pinnings of foreign policy will remain unchanged.

Though Dulles often has been referred to as the architect of U.S. foreign policy, in actual fact the responsibility for it rests with the president. The U.S. constitution makes this clear.

Eisenhower, who often expressed high admiration for Dulles, unquestionably has accepted fully with ownership every step his foreign secretary took? He can be ex-tol-late Max Yergan Foundation. Mao announced in December he wanted to step down as chairman of the republic to concentrate on his work as Communist party chief.

Observers said Mao may retain the office partly because of its great prestige in China and partly to provide guidance in handling the Tibetan situation.

Rhodesia Plans New Preventive Detention Bill

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters) — A new preventive detention bill, described as "imperative," has been introduced in Parliament by Justice and Internal Affairs Minister Reginald Knight.

The old bill—"Giving the government of this central African territory wide powers to detain persons without trial—was one of a series arising from declaration of a state of emergency, Feb. 26 following racial disturbances in Nyasaland and Northern Rhodesia.

Major objection to the original bill was its provision for a tribunal of five members of Parliament as opposed to a local panel to which detainees could appeal against their imprisonment.

The new bill proposes that a review tribunal headed by a judge or retired judge should be created.

Town on 4-Day Spree on Mass Tax Refund

REGINA (CP)—The community of Island Falls in remote northeastern Saskatchewan is recovering from a four-day spree.

Since the weekend, 21 persons have been charged with offences ranging from creating a disturbance to breaking, entering and theft.

It began Saturday after residents received their income tax refunds from the government all at once—an estimated $9,000 for the 160 residents of Island Falls and the 450 natives in nearby Sandy Bay.

"They had a little too much money," said RCMP Constable M. L. Hart, only law officers in the district, in a telephone interview.

He said he has been to bed only one night since last Friday.

Residents of "Uptown" and "Downtown" planes to bring in liquor from Flin Flon, 30 miles southeast, he said.

The disturbance started Saturday night in Sandy Bay and continued intermittently until Wednesday, Tuesday night Hart sent for help and five RCMP officers flew in from Prince Albert. The trouble was about over when they arrived.

Const. Hart said he spent all Saturday night and Sunday breaking up fights. He arrested 18 persons in the Island Falls jail would hold.

The excitement came before a Justice of the Peace Tuesday and Wednesday, one day and night apart, for creating a disturbance. Their fines averaged $40 each.

Thursday, five others appeared before Magistrate H. E. Taylor of Flin Flon. Four were sentenced to three months each in jail. The fifth was charged with obstructing an officer, one with resisting arrest, and one with breaking, entering, and theft.

Four more persons will be dealt with.

"Things have quietened down now," said Const. Hart, who has been in the area since November. "They're a little scared."

Island Falls is 300 miles northeast of Prince Albert. Most of the district residents work for Consolidated Mining and Smelting Power Company, which has a generating station at Island Falls.

Joint Canada And U.S. Stamp Will Be Issued

OTTAWA (CP)—Symbolic links surround the Canadian maple leaf and the United States eagle in an almost-identical stamps to be issued by both countries in June commemorating the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The stamps in red, white and blue—the national colors of both countries—go on sale June 26, the days Queen Elizabeth is scheduled to open the waterway at Montreal.

The background is blue and the lettering and numerals red. The Canadian stamp is a five-cent denomination and the American four.

SLIGHT DIFFERENCES

The only differences in design are those from the bilingual character of the Canadian issue which has the words "Canada St. Lawrence" across the top to the left of the Seaway" and "postes" at the lower left corner below the English equivalent "postage."

In large capitals across the bottom of the Canadian stamp is "CANADA" and at the same spot on the U.S. stamp "UNITED STATES."

Canadian artists A. L. Pollock of Toronto and Yves Trudeau of Ottawa co-operated with American designers to produce the design for the approved stamp issue by the seaway co-sponsors.

Canada will issue 40,000,000 seaway stamps and the U.S. 120,000,000. Letters stamped with the seaway commemorative on June 26 will bear the cancellation "first day of issue" as is customary. The U.S. stamp will have first-day sale at Massena, N.Y., where the U.S. Seaway Development Corporation has headquarters.

FLYING SAUCER

LONDON (Reuters) — The proprietor of Britain's "flying saucer," a kind of boat that skims across water supported on a cushion of air, will begin operational trails in June, it has been announced. The craft — 30 feet long and 24 feet wide and built by Saunders Roe—will be on a public display during its first trials later will be put through its paces off the south coast of England.

VITAL LINKS — Seven major bridges handle the flow of traffic to and from Montreal Island which holds Canada's largest city.

Now there is talk of relieving bridge traffic congestion — particularly evident during summer weekends — by construction of new crossings of the St. Lawrence River from the southeast side of the Island.

One project, now in progress, is Champlain bridge which will reach from Verdun over Nun's Island to Laprairie, on the St. Lawrence south shore. It is due for completion late in 1961 or early 1962.

The Champlain bridge will connect with highways leading downriver and to the United States. (CP Newsmap.)

Eskimo on 5,000 Mile Hike Asks Anglican Church for Aid

SWASTIKA (CP)—Eighty miles a day is not very good when one is hitchhiking more than 5,000 miles, so Melvin Beaulin, 23-year-old Eskimo, asked the Anglican Church for help.

The church responded by giving him a ride to Edmonton, a little more than half-way to his destination of Aklavik at the mouth of the Mackenzie River in the Northwest Territories.

Melvin had left Aklavik a year ago to get medical attention in Southern Ontario for a form of blood poisoning.

He left hospital at Stratford Sunday and arrived at Swastika, 100 miles, a distance of 250 miles, three days later. He walked 60 of the 70 miles from New Liskeard to this community near Kirkland Lake.

Footsore and broke, his long stay in hospital had exhausted his funds, he asked Rev. A. E. Patterson of the Anglican Church here to help him find work.

Mr. Patterson first asked welfare officials in Kirkland Lake if they could help. They said they no contacted diocese headquarters in Timmins and he responded with a train ticket to Edmonton and funds for meals.

Melvin is also given to Bishop monton Sunday and has instructions to contact Rt. Rev. H. E. Clark, Bishop of Edmonton.

RCMP officials here were told Melvin's story and it is hoped that the department of northern affairs will help.

Melvin's adventures started with a 29-day 1,100-mile dogsled trip from Aklavik to Moyo, 200 miles north of Whitehorse in the Yukon Territories. Harry Harris, a friend who made the trip with him, now is in Skagway, Alaska.

Then Melvin Eskimo name is Caklian, travelled by train and bus to Calgary, Edmonton, Prince Rupert and the Toronto-area village of Woodbridge.

His attention was to work once he reached Southern Ontario. But when he arrived at Woodbridge he weight had dropped to 115 from 180 and was too weak to do hitchhiking so went to Stratford and there he remained until Sunday.

Melvin, who will be 24 next month, speaks two languages fluently. He said in an interview he is learning a 10th. He can read and write English, French, Eskimo and Cree. He speaks Chippewan, Dogrib, Loucheux and Slavey. "All Indian dialects and is learning Sioux."

He learned French at the age of six from the French wife at the Hudson's Bay Post. When Father Lacasse picked it up so quickly she suggest I learn other languages. Melvin claims the poorest of all my languages.

PM Criticizes Business for Big Price Rise

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker says there have been reports of some manufacturers and vendors "inexcusably" raising prices by means that the tax increases announced in the budget a week ago.

Replying in the Commons Thursday to Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) he also said there is no legislation under which the government can prevent such increases from making such increases. It was "questionable" that such a law could be within the legislative powers of the federal government.

The government had no intention of regulating prices other than under emergency conditions. If Mr. Winch had any knowledge of price increases not justified from monopoly or restrictive trade practices he should report them to the federal combines investigation branch.

Mr. Winch asked whether action was planned against "unscrupulous manufacturers who are making prices by more than the tax increases announced by the minister of finance a few days ago."

Mr. Diefenbaker replied there was no power to control prices "in excess of the increases in the tax."

"However, there is no legislation at the present time which would result in such a situation. I can tell the honorable member also that the only power which price control legislation could be passed, if I read the authorities correctly, would be under the emergency provisions, the emergency being defined by the courts, and the government has no intention of introducing price control legislation as has been suggested."

"If the honorable member has knowledge of any manufacturers who are raising their prices illegally by the exercise of monopoly or restrictive pricing power, I suggest he bring the facts in each case to the attention of the combines branch of the department of justice which is constantly on the lookout for such practices."

Mr. Winch: "Did I understand the prime minister to say 'illegally' not 'immorally'?"

Crossword Puzzle Fraud Reaches Into Canada With London Arrest

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Joseph Dyson, 31, of London, one of two Canadians named by the FBI in international newspaper crossword puzzle fraud, appeared in court Tuesday charged with attempted bribery of a post office employee. He was remanded to April 23.

Post office investigators said Dyson is charged with offering $500 last January to a railway mail clerk, Lawrence Sawyer, if he would give him a registered letter from New York addressed in solution to a crossword puzzle being published in seven; Western newspapers.

The arrest here is a new chapter in the international investigation of crossword puzzle fraud, in which 11 persons were arrested in Britain, the United States, including three in Detroit.

WARRANTS ISSUED

Warrants at that time were issued in the United States for the arrest of Dyson and of George Dingsdale, Toronto, and Edmonton, replied that the union would take the necessary steps to keep trains from running on CNR trucks anywhere in Canada.

Mr. Gamble said there had been no talks yet with other unions to see whether they would support a similar action. He could not say for his personal opinion, Mr. Gamble said the railway board has to be explored."

Last May 11 when the brotherhood called a strike against the CPR on the same issue, most railway unions supported it but not support it. CPR maintained near-normal operations and the strike ended after three days.

The union subsequently signed a contract with the CPR on about the same terms it balks at today with the CNR.

The strike has been set for a strike. The union is awaiting the results of a strike poll, expected on the weekend.

Firemen's Strike Would Not Affect CNR Operation

MONTREAL (CP)—The CNR says a firemen's strike would have no effect on its operations.

Spokesmen for railway unions would not support a strike called by the firemen, who seek a 40-hour week aboard yard and freight diesels indefinitely. S. F. Gamble, CNR president of operations, says:

"Regardless of the possible moves appearing by the brotherhood, we intend to maintain normal service and the union officials will be no interruption to the free flow of traffic."

S. F. Gamble, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen replied that the union would take the necessary steps to keep trains from running on CNR trucks anywhere in Canada.

Mr. Gamble said there had been no talks yet with other unions to see whether they would support a similar action. He could not say for his personal opinion, Mr. Gamble said the railway board has to be explored."

Indians in Buckskins Fight In White Man's Court, Take Wampum Oath to Testify

BRANTFORD (CP) — Indians came to court in buckskins Thursday and took the wampum oath of the long house religion as they continued their fight against the federal government and a tractor company.

The case of Mrs. Verna Logan Mohawk claim mother and wife of a chief — was adjourned to Monday.

Mrs. Logan has applied for an injunction to prevent sale of 3½ acres of the 30,000-acre Six Nations reserve to Cockshutt Farm Equipment. Behind it is the old battle of the hereditary chiefs of the Iroquois Confederacy to regain the reacquisition they lost in 1924 when the federal government turned them out in favor of an elected council.

The injunction, sought in County Supreme Court, also seeks to have the orders-in-council establishing the elected council declared ultra vires.

Defendants are Clifford Styres, chief councillor of the elected council, R. J. Stallwood, superintendent of the Six Nations Indian Agency here and the attorney-general of Canada.

The chiefs maintain the Six Nations are an independent nation which holds that Great River Country under treaty with the British government.

The land in question has been leased for a number of years by Cockshutt Farm Equipment which made application to purchase it. The elected council voted in favor in 1952.

Mrs. Logan, acting on behalf of the hereditary chiefs, challenges the right of the elected council to deal with Indian land.

The chiefs took over the reserve March 5, seizing the long house, but were ousted when the RCMP raided the reserve. The council, termed "illegal government" by the chiefs, was re-established.

In County Thursday, Mr. Stallwood told Mr. Justice J. M. King that sale of the Indian land was desirable.

"From whose viewpoint," the jurist asked.

"Certainly from the company's viewpoint," Mr. Stallwood replied.

"Can you tell me any way in which sale of this land would benefit the Indians?"

"It would increase their capital fund," Mr. Stallwood replied.

He claimed that increases in the band's capital funds would make possible reduced supplementary grants by the federal government.

Mrs. Logan, who said she has never voted or accepted a government allowance cheque, told the buckskins to take the oath of the long house religion.

"There is no one who can surrender our land—our God-given heritage," she said.

Emily General, former school teacher and member of the Order of the English in 1939 to carry the chiefs' fight to the British parliament said he gave up teaching in 1947 because the Indian agent asked him to swear allegiance to the Crown.

"I would swear allegiance to the Queen of chiefs, but never to a foreign government. Since I could not continue to teach unless I took the oath, I quit teaching."

It is our duty to protect the land, the forests, our wild animals for the benefit of generations for future generations."

No Hostility Toward Germans In Britain

BONN, West Germany (Reuters) — British Labor Minister Ian Macleod told West Germans here Thursday night that there is no hostility to the German people in Britain.

Macleod gave details to reporters of what he had said at a private meeting of the West German Society for Foreign Policy.

Normally, he said, such meetings are released to the press but officials of the society agreed that Macleod should disclose something of what he said in view of the present troubled state of Anglo-German relations.

The British minister told the meeting there is no campaign in Britain to mar Anglo-German relations, but a free press would criticize politicians both in its own country or in any other country.

Macleod, asked if he would proffered to some German opinion that Britain regarded "mein" can have to handle the Berlin crisis, said he had told the meeting Britain is part of the defence of Europe and therefore part of the future of the whole free world."

Nasser Accuses Communists Of Hatching Monster Plot To Dominate Middle East

BOMBAY (Reuters) — Strained relations between the United Arab Republic and Russia dipped today following an accusation by President Nasser of the United Arab Republic that Communists have latched a master plot to dominate the Middle East.

Nasser said in an interview published in the Egyptian daily Arab Communists, with Russian backing, plotted to overthrow his regime in Egypt and create a "Red fertile crescent" in the Middle East.

"The Communist master plot" he said, "is enormous. Communists built up over three years of friendship with Russia.

The Arab leader told R. K. Karanjia, editor of the Bombay weekly Blitz that the Communists had aimed for a crescent-shaped federation of Iraq, Syria, Jordan, Lebanon and the sheikhdom of Kuwait, to possibly with the support Russia access to the Persian Gulf, the Gulf of Aden and the Indian Ocean.

IN MOSCOW

Nasser said plans for the federation were worked out at the 21st congress of the Soviet Communist party in Moscow in January, 1959.

He said the Communists got control of Iraq and had set out to build up a Communist underground in Lebanon against a campaign against neighboring Arab countries.

Nasser also claimed that the Communists had planned a coup in Syria before the Syrian merger with Egypt in the United Arab Republic in February last year.

The merger was "rushed through" by the head of the conspiracy, he said.

METRO WINNIPEG PROPOSED — A commission named in 1955 has recommended a sweeping transformation of the Greater Winnipeg area into eight incorporated cities with a central council to administer a host of metropolitan services.

The Greater Winnipeg Investigating Commission was named to study the question of amalgamating the city of Winnipeg and the 15 other municipalities making up the Great Winnipeg area with a total population of 410,000. Winnipeg's population is about 355,000.

The commission recommended that the area should have a strong central government to handle major municipal services. It suggested elimination of some present municipalities and creation of new ones to form a Great Winnipeg metropolitan system comprising the city of Winnipeg and the seven municipalities of St. James, West Kildonan, East Kildonan, Transcona, St. Boniface, St. Vital and Fort Garry.

Map shows proposed boundaries of the new divisions and present boundaries. It also locates the Perimeter Road, a 53-mile highway which was started in mid-1958 by the Manitoba government.

Due for completion by the end of 1960 it would enable traffic to move from one part of the metropolitan area to another without passing through downtown Winnipeg.

The commission recommended extension of some boundaries to the road and in other cases, where boundaries already extend beyond the road, suggested they be maintained. (CP Newsmap.)

BRITANNIA'S INLAND CRUISE — The royal yacht Britannia will carry the Queen this summer on a 3,000 mile cruise up the St. Lawrence River and through the Great Lakes, the world's deepest inland waterway.

This map details the Britannia's cruise from the time the Queen opens the St. Lawrence Seaway at Montreal June 26 until Her Majesty and Prince Philip leave the yacht at the Lakehead July 9 to fly to Calgary.

After the seaway opening, the Britannia will take the Queen to the international section of the seaway near Cornwall where on June 27 the Queen will unveil a plaque at the international power plant.

After this ceremony, the Queen and Prince Philip will motor to Cornwall for lunch, then drive along the north shore of the St. Lawrence, boarding the Britannia at the Iroquois lock.

Stops at Brockville and Kingston are also listed on the royal itinerary before the yacht enters Lake Ontario to sail to Toronto.

While the Queen is visiting Ottawa and points in western Ontario by land and air, the Britannia sails to Sarnia to pick up Her Majesty for the remainder of the cruise.

The cruise will take her to Port McNicoll for a July 4 motor tour of the Muskoka area. Then the Britannia sails from Port McNicoll to Chicago for a July 6 visit and back through Lake Michigan for a stop at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 8, and on to the Lakehead. (CP Newsmap.)

Sleek Royal Yacht Britannia Brings Queen, Ike to Seaway

By DON ATTFIELD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The royal yacht Britannia's sleek blue prow knifes into fresh water this summer for the first time at the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Since being launched in 1953 she has logged 100,000 miles in most of the world's sea lanes, but this summer she leaves the brine for the first time to sail a 3,000-mile route through the world's longest inland waterway.

The ship will be in the world spotlight when Queen Elizabeth and President Eisenhower aboard, her bow snags a ribbon across the St. Lawrence River at Montreal June 26.

After the opening, escorted by Royal Canadian Navy warships and RCMP patrol boats, she will carry the Queen through the St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes on the first long leg of the 44-day Royal Tour.

PLAN BIG WELCOME

Hundreds of pleasure craft will swarm about the ship in mass excursions organized by yacht clubs along the route.

The United States is to send a force of 28 warships to the opening. They may also join the Canada on the trip down the river.

Several problems in connection with the trip have been solved.

The Britannia is liable for seaway tolls. She must pay $566.14 each way, but Canada will pick up the tab. The U.S. paid 25 per cent of the seaway's cost and under a contract receives a proportional share of toll receipts, and Canada has no authority to waive tolls even for the Queen.

The top 17 feet of the yacht's high mainmast will be hinged so it can dip back as the Britannia passes under low bridges.

QUESTION OF FLAG

The question concerning the flag to be flown is a delicate one.

Although the Queen will be acting as Canada's sovereign, the British Admiralty says it is not the practice for naval vessels to hoist flags of host countries when in foreign ports, although merchant ships do it.

One suggestion has been that an admiralty flag on the foremast be replaced by the Canadian naval ensign while in Canadian waters.

The American presidential flag will fly beside the Queen's personal standard on the mainmast while Mr. Eisenhower is aboard.

The Britannia already has made one departure by inviting two officers and 15 ratings of the Canadian navy to serve with the Britannia's 270-man crew.

The 412-foot, 5,700-ton Britannia, with blue hull and white upper structure, is the pampered child of the Royal Navy. She gets the best of everything, and seamen line up to serve aboard her. She cruises at 20 knots.

Two apartments set aside for Prince Charles and Princess Anne will not be occupied, but palatial quarters of the Queen and Prince Philip and accommodation for 25 household staff will be. All are in the ship's after section, an area that can be converted into hospital bays should the Britannia be called on for service in wartime.

The Britannia visited Canada once before. She picked up Prince Philip in 1954 after he attended British Empire Games at Vancouver.

The royal party both arrives in and leaves Canada by air. The tour starts at St. John's, Nfld., June 18, but the Queen boards the Britannia at Sept-Iles, Que., June 20. After visits to Gaspe Peninsula, Que., and stops at Quebec City and Trois-Rivieres, the vessel arrives at Montreal for opening ceremonies and the St. Lambert lock, first in the seaway's series of seven giant water steps.

The Britannia then proceeds to Cornwall, Brockville, Kingston and Toronto, where the Queen disembarks. She continues through the Welland Canal across the Niagara Peninsula and Lake Erie to pick up the royal party again at Windsor, Ont.

After stops at Sarnia, Ont., Georgian Bay, Chicago and Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., the Queen disembarks at the head of Lake Superior to continue her tour by air and rail.

The Britannia then makes a leisurely return journey, with stops at Hamilton, Montreal and Murray Bay, Que., to meet the Queen when she arrives back in New Brunswick and take her on visits to Charlottetown and Cape Breton Island.

FLYING SAUCER?

WINDSOR (CP) — Several residents telephoned the control tower at Windsor airport shortly after dusk Wednesday to report a strange illuminated object hovering over Detroit. However, it wasn't a flying saucer. Tower officials were puzzled themselves, until they identified the mystery object as a U.S. Air Force B-47 bomber heading toward Detroit from the Southwest.

BONARLAW

Farmers' Union Holds Regular Monthly Meet

BONARLAW — The regular meeting of 171 Farmers Union was held on March 16th in fair attendance, in the Orange hall.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Morion Reid, who opened the meeting. The correspondence was dealt with. One letter in particular was of great interest. It was sent by the Minister of Agriculture, Mr. William Goodfellow, in reply to a resolution sent in by farm unions regarding government compensation for farm animals lost by rabies.

The letter outlined the action taken by the government which is as follows: It has been agreed the Federal Government will contribute 40 percent, and the provincial government 40 percent, and the counties 20 percent, toward the losses sustained by the farmers. Payment will be retroactive to April, 1958.

Maximum payment for cattle has been placed at $250; horses $100; sheep $40; swine $40 and goats, $40.

A uniform method of evaluating will be worked out between the county evaluators and officials of the Ontario Live stock branch.

The application of this plan will depend on the acceptance of the individual counties which will be required to pass the necessary by-law which will then permit payment on animals certified by federal veterinarians as having died as a result of the disease.

According to most recent returns 1,104 cases of rabies were confirmed among cattle in Ontario from April 1st, 1958 to Feb. 28, 1959, 120 cases reported among sheep; 49 cases among horses; 18 among swine and one among goats.

Mr. Goodfellow replied, too, that in the letters which have suffered losses because of rabies will feel indebted to our organization for the interest displayed on their behalf.

Mrs. Murray Meiklejohn gave a humorous reading.

Several discussions followed. The next meeting will be held May 14th at the hall. Everyone is welcome.

The ladies served refreshments supplied by all, and a social evening was enjoyed.

Curling Club Finishes First Season in Black

PICTON — Prince Edward Curling Club concluded its first season with a banquet attended by 126 members, and featured by the presentation of many prizes. It was revealed that the Club is investigating the possibility of erecting its own club but a vote of the membership favored withholding any action until the Agricultural Society was able to decide if it could put up a building for use in connection with the County Fair, to be used for curling in winter.

That the first year had been a most successful one was stressed by president Stan Blake who recalled that the Club started without any funds but had purchased stones, half interest in an ice planer and other items and had a balance of about $500 on hand. A total of $4,051 had been received during the year.

Mayor H. J. McFarland and Lt. Col. W. Moore, Picton Camp Commandant, special guests, commended the club on its progress. A pair of curling boots was presented Beath Morden in appreciation of his work in arranging draws. Colin Carter, vice-president made the presentation. Dr. C. S. Slack was master-of-ceremonies and a number of special curling songs were sung. A quartet composed of Dr. R. F. Evans, Rev. Frank Whitely, Victor Lord and Dr. E. D. PICTON — A member of the Canadian Holstein Breeders' Association for the past forty years, Fred H. Hubbs of Bloomfield was presented with a veteran breeders' pin at a banquet meeting of Prince Edward County Club's annual banquet held Wednesday night at Bloomfield United church.

By BOB THOMAS

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP)—Lee Remick is blonde and can fill a sweater as well as Lana Turner, but there the comparison ends.

Last month, Lana had a tiff with director-producer Otto Preminger over costumes for Anatomy of a Murder and she walked out of the movie. A lot of folks said of her replacement, "who's Lee Remick?" They'll be finding out.

The role is even more provocative than the one that introduced Lana 20 years ago in They Won't Forget. As Lana did in that film, Lee plays a girl whose flaunting of sex fosters violence. What's more, she'll wear a sweater, too.

DIFFERENT TYPES

But in other respects, the two actresses offer a striking contrast of the traditional and the new in film stars. Lana is the classic case of the girl who was discovered on a mail-shop stool and fashioned by a studio into a living legend.

On location here, Lee commented:

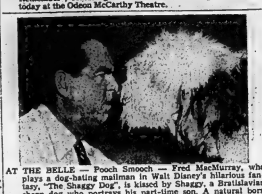
"I just couldn't be that way. I'm simply not the glamor-girl type. I would be uncomfortable trying to fit into a studio's conception of what a movie star is supposed to be.

"I suppose it was different years ago when the studios took people with no experience and made them into screen personalities. The stories didn't know what they wanted. But when you've had training in TV and stage work, as most of us have nowadays, you know what you want, and it isn't glamor."

"TERRIFIC" SCHOOLING

Jimmy Stewart heard this and added in defence of his cra:

"But don't knock that studio training. We used to battle the bosses and complain a lot, but it was really terrific schooling. You got to do all kinds of roles and you could make mistakes and profit by them."



"I'm not knocking it," Lee said. "That kind of training just isn't available any more."

Her father owned a department store in Quincy, Mass. She got started in summer stock at an early age, moved into road companies and TV dramas.

Her first movie was A Face in the Crowd, which she admits was "a dismal failure." But she made a firm impression as the hip-swinging baton twirler who charmed Andy Griffith. Twentieth Century-Fox got her for another sexy role in The Long, Hot Summer, and she agreed to sign for one film a year.

AT THE PARK — A scene from the Bowery Boys funniest comedy "Bowery Battalion," starring Leo Gorcey and Huntz Hall, showing today and Saturday at the Park Theatre. On the same program Cecil B. DeMille's mightiest adventure-romance ever filmed in Technicolor "North West Mounted Police", starring Gary Cooper and Madeleine Carroll and a cast of thousands. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

AT THE BELLE — Pooch Smooch — Fred MacMurray, who plays a dog-hating mailman in Walt Disney's hilarious fantasy, "The Shaggy Dog", is kissed by Shaggy, a Bratislavian sheep dog who portrays his part-time son. A natural born Disney character, he shares top billing with Fred MacMurray, Jean Hagen and Tommy Kirk. Continuous showings today at 4.30, 6.50 and 9.05. Continuous Saturday from 9.15 a.m.

Raiders Will Keep Franchise

DETROIT (CP)—Ben Benton, general manager of Detroit Raiders of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, said Thursday Raiders are confident they will retain their league franchise despite an application for the franchise from a rival Detroit group.

ORFU secretary George Schmidt announced Wednesday the rival application for the franchise would be discussed at a meeting in London Saturday.

The rival Detroit group is headed by Bob Gassaway, former co-owner of the Raiders and Joel Mason, Wayne State University coach.

Mason said he thought it unlikely the league would provide two franchises for Detroit, but was confident the Gassaway group would acquire the one franchise now available.

Confident, but cautious, Whitby's Wren their exhibition none of the Intaches braggadocio regarding the forthcoming Allan Cup series in an interview with this department last night.

The Dunlops' blonde managerial mite refused to go limb-crawling when queried about the upcoming struggle between his 1953 world champions and the Vernon Canadians, conquerors of the best senior "A" squads the west could produce.

"Some people regard this year's Allan Cup series as a walkover for the Dunlops. They could be right, but I do not believe it. They are taking the Spokane series of two years ago as a criterion," Blair said.

"They forget the Spokane Club came east and was forced to sit around on their fannies while we were playing the North Bay Troopers in the Eastern Canada finals. The Flyers did nothing but workouts for some 19 days — and it didn't do them any good."

"That is the reason, or partly the reason, why I see a more or less close series between the Dunlops and the western champions. The Vernon Canadians will arrive in Toronto practically fresh from their western victory over Regina and they will not be forced to sit around twiddling their thumbs waiting for official opposition."

While figures the Dunlops are as strong if not stronger than the team which won the Allan Cup two years ago, Blair is not telling the westerners short. "They look like a good club and should put up some strenuous battles. We are playing the series a game at a time and if we can win it in four straight we shall do it."

The Canadians are not strangers to Allan Cup play. They met and defeated the Chatham Maroons for the national silverware three years ago, winning by four games to two.

Despite his 145-plugging, hat-trampling and general hell-raising career the chap gathers, Blair has a deep-seated affection for the senior league he was instrumental in creating three years ago.

Regardless of the rumors that explode like a Punch Imlach prophecy from time to time, the Eastern Ontario senior loop will be as big if not bigger next year, he said. "It has the healthiest condition of any senior circuit in Canada, most of which are tottering on the brink of the grave with one foot already in it."

"As far as I and Whitby are concerned, you can forget about the Eastern loop ever folding or severing connections with the OHA, the NOHA or both, next season. They have put together their problems and they can get themselves out of their own messes."

He admitted the Eastern loop has had and will have its difficulties, but felt confident they can be overcome. "Sammy Pollock and his Hull-Ottawa Canadiens who finished the season on a fine note will be back stronger than ever. Kingston also wrote a healthy if not bigger next year, and they too will be back and despite the Cornwall grippe. I figure Miron and his Cheviks will be around when the roll is called."

"This league," he said, "has too proud a record to fall by the wayside after a brief three-year operation. If the Dunlops win the Allan Cup this year, the Eastern League will create a mark unequalled in the history of senior hockey in Canada. Fifteen in one. Three Allan Cup titles, two world championships and a Memorial Cup trophy—her in three years of existence is something no other league can claim."

Speaking of the Allan Cup and world titles, Blair said morial Arena here.

"As soon as the western Canada champions were decided," he said, "I intended making arrangements for one of the Allan Cup final games to be played in Belleville. As current world hockey champions and last year's Allan Cup winners, I felt your McFarlands, and your fans were entitled to have one of the games in their arena."

"This is the way they do it out west. Last year one of the Kelowna-McFarlands games was played in Kamloops. The same system, I felt, should be adopted in the east. However the removal of the ice in your arena has spoiled that opportunity."

All the cup games will be played in Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, starting Sunday. The Macs' Booster Club is planning taking members by bus. Those interested should contact Joan Gander at Reitman's store, Front St.

Boom-Boom Cracks Swami Imlach's Crystal Ball

Scores Winner, Sets Up Two In Canadiens' 3-2 Victory; It Could Be Over Saturday

TORONTO (CP) — Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion became the second-highest scorer in Stanley Cup history Thursday night and at the same time put a big crack in Punch Imlach's crystal ball.

Geoffrion scored the winning goal and set up the other two as Montreal Canadiens defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 to move into the semi-finals on a record-shattering fourth straight cup.

Now Leafs must beat the mighty Canadiens three games in a row to take the best-of-seven series crack. Imlach predicted they would take before the final round started.

Geoffrion's three points boosted his National Hockey League playoff total to 30. Before the game he was tied with Chicago Black Hawks' Ted Lindsay with 90 points, 32 behind the leading Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal.

SECOND IN GOALS

Geoffrion also ranks second among NHL playoff goal scorers with 49. Richard, who owns a stock of records, heads that department with 81.

The goalie Boom Boom set up were another NHL rookie Al (Bud) Donald, his first playoff goal, and Ralph Backstrom. Floyd Mahoney Hich and Billy Harris scored for Toronto.

Leafs had plenty of chances to win, especially during the scoreless third period, but their fierce refusal to shoot at the Montreal net when they were inside the blue line reduced many opportunities to nothing.

Harris finally finished off a scoring play by tipping in a rebound set up when Montreal defenceminder Jacques Plante kicked Gerry Ehman's long shot out to Harris, who put the loose rebound into the net. That was at 3:45 of the third.

THREE IN FIVE MINUTES

Within a five-minute span later in the period Geoffrion had a 3-1 lead. Leafs closed the scoring with less than two minutes to play. Mahovlich pushing Solman's goal mouth pass through a scramble of players.

Both goaltenders pulled off sensational saves. Johnny Bower of Toronto made 29 stops and Plante 28. When Leafs were shooting at the net they robbed them, especially during the first 10 minutes of the game.

Geoffrion, who a month ago returned to the lineup after a 10-day rest in Florida failed to cure a stomach ailment which still bothers him, was the most dangerous man around the Toronto net.

In the first period Bower stopped at least three bullet-like drives by the 25-year-old right winger. But the Leaf goaltender couldn't stop Geoffrion's blazing 20-footer at 15:56 of the third.

"I put everything I had behind that shot," said Geoffrion after the game.

McDonald's goal, five minutes earlier, was the one which tied the game 1-1. The left winger slapped a slow one between Bower's legs on a pass from Backstrom after Geoffrion had carried in the Leaf blue line.

At 13:01 Backstrom, deflecting McDonald's rebound past Bower, put Canadiens ahead to stay. In the dressing room, Backstrom said McDonald passed to him on the play but Bower insisted that he kicked McDonald's shot out in front and then Backstrom batted in the rebound.

Leafs' greatest chance to break into the scoring was early in the second period when they had a two-man advantage for 82 seconds but, despite keeping the puck in the Montreal end for most of that time, they didn't get a direct shot on the goal.

Then I shifted back to McDonald—and bang, he connected."

Backstrom said McDonald's pass for the second Montreal goal was perfect, right on his stick from near a corner.

Leafs Whip Sugar Kings; Royals Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Woody Smith, Miami Marlin's leading rookie-hitting man for the last two seasons, proved not once but twice Thursday night why he was the International League's all-star third baseman last year.

His first big hit was a homer with Rocker Castleman on base that tied the score in the first game of a double - header. It ended in extra.

In the extra eighth inning of the scheduled seven-inning game Montreal squeaked across a run to win 3-2.

Then in the nightcap Smith hit an infield single with two out in the 11th inning to give Marlins a 6-5 win.

LEAFS BASH CUBANS

Toronto Maple Leafs, who lost Jim (Peewee) Wilson, the league's most valuable player last year, to the majors, are piling much of their pennant hopes on the pitching of mainstay Don Johnston and a newcomer Hal Woodeschick.

Woodeschick came through Thursday night to win his first game in the league 9-3 at Havana over San Sugar Kings.

While Leafs pounded three Havana hurlers for 15 hits the big Irishander settled down to spend seven hits as he went all the way.

The evening's results gave Toronto a split in their four-game series which end tonight. The other teams were idle.

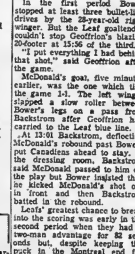
EXTRA-INNINGS

It was a nightcap made it three-in-a-row for extra-innings contests.

Manager Fred Valentine started the 11th with a single for Marlins and was sacrificed to second. He male third on a groundout and after Bert Hamric was intentionally passed Smith stepped up the ball game.

Royals had pulled even on three singles and a Miami error in the seventh and gone ahead in the top of the eighth when Castleman sacrificed to tie.

In the first game, Dick Wallace singled, stole second and made it home on a long liner to centre by Mike Brumley to get the win for Montreal. Jim Archer was the victim when Tom Lasorda spread out six hits to win.



Woodeschick struck out eight for his victory. Leaf hits included triples by Larry Raines, Joe Amalfitano and Joe Altobelli.

Raines' triple and a single good for one run accounted for the first three Toronto tallies. Amalfitano's drove in the second of two runs in the sixth and Altobelli pushed in two more in the ninth.

Emilio Cueche was the loser, giving up eight of the 15 Toronto hits.

SAXTON COMMITTED

MAYS LANDING, N.J. (AP)—Former world welterweight champion Johnny Saxton, dazed and obviously shaken, was sent back to the state hospital at Ancora Thursday for further diagnosis and treatment. Judge Leon Leonard ordered the commitment after three psychiatrists testified that the former champ is not able to stand trial on him. He was sent to Ancora April 4 after the fatal shooting at the Atlantic City jail after he was arrested on a charge of breaking and entering.

In The Dressing Room

TORONTO (CP) — A smiling Toe Blake refused to admit his Canadiens would win the Stanley Cup for the fourth straight year Thursday night while in Toronto proper Maple Leafs' dressing room coach Punch Imlach refused—for appearances anyway—to be anything but optimistic.

After Canadiens' 3-2 win over Leafs which gave them a 3-1 in games with only one more win needed, Blake said briefly: -

"I must say we're in a good position. But then New York Rangers thought the same thing three weeks ago," he said in the Montreal dressing room.

Blake was referring to Leafs' lots - season drive which sent them into the last playoff spot on the final night of the schedule while Rangers were losing six of their last seven games.

BLAMES SHOOTING

Punch Imlach, not happy with his Leafs' shooting but not willing to blame his club for the loss, reierred to the same situation of three weeks ago.

"This is the first time we've been really close to elimination since we made the playoffs. This club won't quit. They didn't tonight.

"We've had shooting troubles before. And it's still haunting us."

There was great jubilation in the Canadiens dressing room.

"Attaboy, Boom," chorused the Montreal players.

The grinning Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, who spearheaded a three - goal Montreal uprising in the third period, said he knew his big goal — which put Canadiens ahead to stay — would be the winner-news headed for the net.

"Johnny Bower (Leaf goalie) didn't move until it was in there," said the Boomer, "I felt it was a sure one all the way."

A pair of rookies, Ab McDonald and Ralph Backstrom, worked with the boomer and each collected a goal.

McDonald's goal was the one that finally pulled Canadiens into a 1-1 tie with the Leafs.

FIRST IN MONTHS

It was his first goal since mid-February of the regular season, since then he has been in a long slump but has worked hard and played well defensively.

McDonald also had a hunch that his shot was a sure goal.

"I had shot on net just before, on the same shift I worked, and then when Boomer threw me that pass I let go again—there it was, my first playoff goal."

McDonald was so elated he forgot to dive into the net for the puck as a trophy.

"It was McDonald's goal that gave our bench a boost," Blake said happy) coach Toe Blake. "The whole gang came right up as one man.

"Shortly before Doug McDonald's goal I took him off the ice because I thought he was going to. I sent Don Marshall in, but Backstrom was the boomer and Ralph Backstrom.

Vernon Reaches Cup Finals After Rugged League Test

VERNON, B.C. (CP)—Vernon Canadians will be trying for their second Canadian Senior A amateur hockey championship in four years when they meet Whitby Dunlops in Toronto Sunday in the first game of the Allan Cup series.

But although veteran coach George Agar says this year's team is stronger than the one which took the cup in 1956, the long trail to the finals has been a hard one this year.

The Canadians, who claimed the western championship Wednesday night with a 4-1 victory over Regina, took the Allan Cup in 1956 after a 10-year drought. This year they've already played 28.

So far, their toughest competition has been in their own Okanagan Senior Hockey League in British Columbia's fruit belt. It took them the full seven games to defeat Kamloops in an OSHL semi-final.

FINAL CLOSEST

Closest was the final against Kelowna, which the Canadians won when Agar scored with 13 seconds remaining in overtime in the seventh game. They took the series with two wins, four ties and one loss.

Vernon also had to go the full seven games to defeat Kelowna Maple Leafs of the Western International League in the B.C. final.

Th victory over Regina Cape came in Vernon's third western final, they lost to Fort William Beavers in 1954-55 and won in 1955-56.

Agar, in his sixth year as playing-coach for the Canadians, is a 40-year-old veteran of 18 years of minor league hockey. He has scored more than 400 goals.

In his last professional season with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League in 1951-52—he won the individual title with 93 points and was named to the league's all-star team.

ELEVEN CUP PLAYERS

Eleven of the players on the team which defeated Chatham Maroons to take the Allan Cup in 1956 are still with Vernon—goalie Phil Gordon, defencemen Tom Sleczyk and Willis Schmidt, and forwards Johnny Harms, Odie Lowe, Walt Trentini, Sherman Blair, Merv Bidoski, Art Hart, Frank King and Agar.

High - scoring Billy Hryciuk, playing coach of the Kamloops Chiefs, and rugged Russ Kowalchuk and defencemen Harry Smith of the Kelowna Packers, were picked up by the Canadians from OSHL teams for their series against Regina.

Kansas Wins Two In Row; Braves Still Unbeaten

Garver Blanks Chisox 2-0 As Orioles Blast Yankees; Dodgers Uncover Hit Star

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

At 33, Ned Garver is perhaps the American League's No. 1 junkman, dealing in soft curves and brass. He makes the most of his nothing against the Chicago White Sox.

The stubby right-hander has made a career of taking from them what has for them what ain't, rolling a 3-0 record in 11 seasons of pitching for second division clubs. The White Sox have been tagged for 24 of those victories, the most Garver has taken from any single club.

He got the latest in his 24-15 life-time record against Chicago Thursday, pitching a five - hit shutout that included but one walk, as the Kansas City Athletics handed the White Sox a second straight defeat 2-0.

It was Garver's 15th shutout in the majors, seventh best among still active pitchers in the league, and his third consecutive success against the White Sox. It also repaired his season record at 1-1, after a one-run defeat by the Cleveland Indians, the league's lone unbeaten club.

YANKS LOSE FIRST

The New York Yankees finally fell Thursday, losing their first game in 1st decision at Baltimore that gave the Orioles their first victory. Washington whipped the Boston Red Sox, 4-1, and Detroit were idle.

Garver gave up nothing but singles and breezed home for the first complete game by the A's staff this season. He was helped along by two-run homers from Frank Hoiman and Bob Cerv and Early Wynn (1-1), who gained his 250th victory last week.

The Orioles, through against the Yankees with a fourrun eighth inning blast by Billy Gardner's first hit of the season and relief pitching by Art Ditmar was the loser, but it was Ryne Duren, the champ fire-balling ace, who gave up a tying single by Gene Woodling ahead of Gardner's clincher. Billy O'Dell won it in relief of Georgs Bamberger, a 33-year-old rookie who tamed the Yanks on three hits for five innings in his first start after 7 years in the minors.

While Tasby homered and opened the big eighth with a single for the Orioles, who also got a double by Bob Nieman, Elston Howard homered for the Yankees with Norm Siebern's drove in three runs with a bloop double and a single.

Right-hander Vic Ramos, the only winner (2-0) and complete-game pitcher Washington has had so far, resumed his old habit of beating the Red Sox. He did it on four-hit pitching in 9 hits, weathering a three-run ninth for a 14-hit-time record against the Red Sox, who had beaten him four times in a row. Rookie Bob Porterfield's first major league homer, a three - run swat, and Norm Zauchin's second of the year gave the Nats a four-run fourth inning against loser Herb Moford. It was Reno Bertoia's two-run single in the eighth that put it away, however.

Moore May Fight Sugar Ray

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore very possibly will fight Sugar Ray Robinson in September.

But first he'll defend his title July 14 against Canada's Yvon Durelle in Montreal — and hold your hats.

"It could be just like the first one."

So predicted Jack Kearns, Archie's co-manager, referring to the "fight of the year"—or was it any year—the two staged last winter.

Archie stopped Durelle, but not until he was knocked down three times in the first round and again in the fifth by the fisherman from Bale Ste. Anne, N.B.

Kearns disclosed that San Diego's Moore and New York's Robinson are virtually agreed on money-matters. The date and site see the main disputes. Robinson wanted it in New York in June; Archie preferred Los Angeles in September. That was the situation when negotiations stalled several weeks ago.

Now Kearns says it could go to either New York or Los Angeles.

DANGEROUS FIELDING

OSHAWA (CP) — A youthful Oshawa ball player whose fingers struck in a knock at the top of a six-foot wire fence Thursday was rescued to pitch another day. Henry Pryszlecny, 10, a pupil at Holy Cross separate school, climbed the fence to retrieve a baseball and became trapped. A companion supported him on his shoulders until assistance, an Oshawa fire department truck, arrived. Firemen used wire cutters to untangle him.

The Dodgers have been a long time walking on Don Dessnier, a scrawny kid they didn't really want in the first place. Now it looks as if their patience has paid off.

Still a rather frail looking guy, although the Dodgers have fattened him up with liver oil and vitamins, Dessnier has been a robust fill-in for the ailing Duke Snider in centre field. With Duke nursing a sore, Dessnier has figured in all three Los Angeles victories.

He did it again Thursday night, socking a two-run homer, a single and a fielding gem—double that brought home the winning run in the 7-6 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals at Los Angeles.

After batting a timid .200 in 106 trips through 43 games last season, Dessnier now is 7-for-23 (.330) in four games, rapping three homers and driving in six runs. How 23, he stands 5-6, 155 pounds, has a two-inch, 15-pound gain since the liver oil treatment began two years ago.

WANTED OTHERS

"We signed him," Dodger vice-president Fresco Thompson admits, because we wanted two other kids. They were all buddies at an Oakland City high school back in 1952 and when we signed Don we wanted (I don't know exactly where they are now), they said couldn't we sign their pals, too.

"So the scout gave him $500 or something like that, and that's how we got Demeter."

The Dodgers also have a share of fourth place at the moment in the National League, 1½ games behind Milwaukee's still undefeated first place Braves, who trounced Philadelphia 9-4. Chicago Cubs, who share fourth, whipped San Francisco 6-5.

Other Thursday scores and Card pitchers: St. Louis used 25 players, a league record and matching the major league mark for a nine - inning game, with Harry Brecheen the only pinch-hitters, with George Crowe the only one to get a hit, and that a 9th league record.

Johnny Klippstein, third Cincinnati pitcher, was the winner with Clem Labine's help in a two-run ninth. Ken Raffensberger, for the Cards, while Chuck Essegian batted in three runs.

BURDETTE WINS

Lew Burdette gained his second victory and complete game with a six-hitter for the Braves, who won with four runs in the eighth out of losing reliever Jim Meyer (0-1). A bases - loaded walk, a passed ball, Johnny Logan's squeeze bunt and Felix Mantilla's second RBI single got the rally runs home after Dave Philley's ninth consecutive pinch hit, and RBI double, busted Burdette's 3-2 lead in the seventh.

Ed Bouchee homered for the Phils, while Ed Mathews' third home run of the season chased Phillies' starter Robin Roberts in the sixth.

Five giant errors, for a total of 17 in six games, gave the Cubs six unearned runs, five coming as they scored seven in the sixth. Dale Long's two-run homer was the clincher in the fifth off loser Glen Hobbie (1-4). Glen Hobbie (1-0) won it with relief help. Pedro Brandi and Orlando Cepeda, hitting his third in two games, homered for the Giants.

Mountain Out of Molehill, London Will Fight Champion

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Floyd Patterson - Brian London heavyweight championship bout, scheduled here May 1, began telling today after weeks of mystery.

The challenger is here and working out and Patterson is scheduled to arrive Saturday.

Officials said final contracts, including a return bout clause if London wins, will be signed shortly after Patterson arrives.

Promotion evidently was the single that caused all the secrecy. Cecil Rhodes has been replaced as promoter by Al Farb of Indianapolis and the Hoosier Boxing Club with Bill Rosensohn, the Patterson — Ingemar Johansson promoter, as an assistant.

The explanation given was that Rhodes model off on his plans to promote the fight but the unofficial word was that Rhodes didn't like the contract with Rhodes, which included giving the industrialist television rights to the Patterson-Johansson bout and two future Patterson fights.

London said Thursday he hadn't tried to dodge reporters in New York. He also issued a warning:

"He (Patterson) is taking this as a tuneup but he might get surprised."

Seattle Takes First Game

CALGARY (CP) — Seattle Totems took a 2-0 lead in games in the best-of-seven Western Hockey League final series Thursday night by blanking Calgary Stampeders 4-0.

The series now moves to Seattle, with the third game scheduled for Saturday night.

JOIN PROTEST

LONDON (AP)—The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has joined the mounting clamor for a safer and easier Grand National steeplechase. The RSPCA said it had sent a letter to Home Secretary Sir Walter Monckton to receive a deputation to discuss "proposals designed to improve the conditions of the race in future years."

Palmer Takes Golf Lead

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, who developed the necessary muscles for a power game while growing up on a Pennsylvania golf course, led Cary Middlecoff and six others by one stroke as the $50,000 Houston Classic golf tournament began its second round today.

Palmer, son of a pro and owner of golf clubs at Latrobe, Pa., carded fired a sizzling six-under-par 66 Thursday.

Middlecoff and five others were a hole-in-one on the 185-yard 15th par 3 Memorial Park course.

Two Toronto players carded 75s, three over par. Jerry Magee was out in 37, home in 38. Al Balding had 38 and 37.

Pitching — Ned Garver, Athletics, blanked the White Sox on five singles, walking only one and striking out one, in 6-0 victory.

Hitting — Don Demeter, Dodgers, had three RBI with a one-run homer, a single and a fifth-inning double that counted the winning 7-6 victory over the Cardinals.

Warriors May Leave Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP)—Refusal by the operators of the Winnipeg Arena to lower the rent of the Western Hocky League Winnipeg Warriors may mean the end of professional hockey here.

R. S. Misener, president of Winnipeg Enterprises Corp., arena operators, said Thursday the board of directors is satisfied that the present rental is "not unreasonable."

Warriors' rental has been 20 per, cent of the gross gate at their games.

Last month, Jack Pierce, Warriors' general manager, said he has lost ~10,000 since bringing professional hockey back to Winnipeg in 1954, gave the highest rental in the WHL, and was a reason he may move the club to San Francisco.

San Francisco and Los Angeles are expected to be admitted to the league at an annual meeting in Seattle Monday and Tuesday.

The entry of Victoria Cougars also is doubtful. Though the club finished third in the loop's overall standings, the community-owned Cougars lost money.

Ottawa Ties Cage Finals

OTTAWA (CP) — The best-of-five final between Southern Alberta Intermediate and Ottawa Fellers for the Canadian Senior A basketball championship tied up becomes a sudden-death affair Saturday night.

Fellers trounced the tired but game Chinook squad 79-59 Thursday night to tie the series at two games apiece and force a final game Saturday. It was Ottawa's second straight win and they are now favored to go all the way.

For the Lethbridge team it was their eighth playoff game in the last 11 days. They won the western championship last week by defeating Winnipeg Kodiaks in four games.

Sparkling for the eastern champs were Ed Jachuk and Don Guest, scoring 16 and 13 points, respectively.

Chinook may have lost the services of star forward Tom Karren who suffered a badly twisted ankle early in the first quarter.

Once again big six-foot-seven Calnook centre Bob Bradley outrebounded everyone with 20 points. It was the fourth night in a row he led both teams in scoring.

Sunday School Lesson

Better to Fail Than to Sin

By ROY L. SMITH

It often happens that we read stories in the Old Testament which outrage our sense of justice and decency. The inspired writers tell, as in this week's lesson, about some horrible atrocity, and then say that those who perpetrated it did so under the instructions of God.

It will help us to remember that the race has made progress in the matter of morals and spirituality, just as it has in matters of agriculture and architecture. That which once seemed beautiful now appears ugly and that which was once esteemed to be good is now recognized as being wrong.

But even in these confused situations there are experiences which are clear-cut and well defined, and with one such we deal this week — the case of a king who tried to blame his sinning on the people.

HISTORY OF A SIN

The young man Saul who served as the first king of Israel was a country gentleman quite without political experience who undertook to rule a people who had never become accustomed to being governed. Having no precedents to go by except those of the pagan kings by whom he was surrounded, he undertook to imitate them. In doing so, he ignored the prophet and counsel of a wise old man who lived with him, and he undertook him if he were invited to do so.

Flattered by the fact that he was a king, and desirous of making a good impression on his kingly neighbors, he wanted to make a great showing out of the fact that he had been a notable victory over one of his enemies. But the old prophet had warned him, in all sincerity, against any such procedure. The victory he would win would be won for him by forces and powers outside himself.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for April 19: "SAUL'S TRAGIC FAILURE," 1 Samuel 14 through 15; 31.

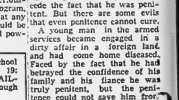
The young king, rationalizing the case, undertook to atone for the wrong thing he had done by doing something else. That he considered a sacrifice on the national altar would have been a splendid thing to do, but to make any offering as a substitute for right conduct could lead nowhere but to disaster.

No man ever makes anything but trouble for himself when he violates the moral law. And no amount of rationalizing can ever atone for such a violation.

FAILURE WORE A SIN

If Saul had gone out to do battle with the nation's enemies, and had failed to win the victory, he would have been in a vastly better position than he was by winning and then disobeying.

A business man in a certain little western town was accused by another business man of being a hypocrite, reciting a long list of the other man's failures, as if failing were a sin. And it was true that the accused had failed, that he had made mistakes, and that he had fallen far short of his goals. But he had tried.



The accuser, on the other hand, was no such person. He had not failed, but for the very good reason that he had never tried to be splendid. The accused had taken the leadership of the community chest, and had given his best, for all of this the campaign had fallen short of its goal. And in that same campaign, the accuser had refused even to take the captaincy of a lily block. The accused was a member of a church, and as such had tried to live up to his ideals. But the accuser had never joined a church, had never raised any real fuss about it, and had never tried to reach any height.

One man was a failure, but the other man was a sinner.

Let us not confuse the two. To the benefit of the doubt, and concede the fact that he was penitent. But there are some evils that even penitence cannot cure. A young man in the armed services became engaged in a love affair in a foreign land, and had come home diseased. Faced by the fact that he had betrayed the confidence of his family and his fiance he was truly penitent. But no penitence could not save him from the evil effects of his evil sprees.

There is no more baby or wonderful virtue than penitence, but there are some effects of evil that cannot be turned aside, even by an honest penitence and a forgiving God.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, April 18

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Take no heed of that intuitive feeling for it will only lead you to error with emotional or financial tie. Relax. P. M. is ideal time to pay social calls, discuss business and/or plans for the future. Be active.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Avoid getting into altercation possible between close tie and a stranger. Tend to own knitting. P. M. you can then quietly relax or spend time discussing money matters quietly and putting across your good ideas and suggestions.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — You may not know exactly what to do about a private worry in A. M. Do not resort to histrionics. Prayer will solve most ideally. P. M. take a little trip and be gay and charming. Review your usually sunny disposition in outside world.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Take care you are not extravagant in the morning in search of some pleasure that is not really worthwhile. Go to civilly endowed places that cost nothing and give a fortune in knowledge and cultural attainment. P. M. seek data you need.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Do not add fuel to existing small conflagration in household interest now. Make that beautiful smile of yous dissolve all hurt feelings and unhappiness. P. M. is ideal for entertaining your friends and having lots of fun personally.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — Put aside as untrue some gossip or ugly news which reaches you in A. M. Do not let it disturb you. Keep busy doing your shopping, making calls, etc., but take care while driving. P. M. keep secret favor from influential person.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Lend an ear to that person with inflated ego who wants to tell you how to run your life, but do not follow suggestions at all. P. M. be off to some very enjoyable sport or social affair and be happy.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be careful you do not act in such a way that others will be irked. Instead impress right persons with your ability to take orders from high ups and carry them through with efficiency and intellect. P. M. follow good hunches.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Better be sure you finish whatever important work is before you during the day hours, though you desire to meet new people, make new arrangements. P. M. relax at some mutually pleasurable sport with bosom pal.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Any forcefulness at all would take away from your ability to gain your hopes and wishes now. Work methodically and diligently. P. M. is then ideal for planning your activities and understanding the views of fellow workers.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — The reason that all seems to go askew for you today is that you are too quarrelsome in and help others. Relax and await the evening hours when you are thinking more clearly, and acting with determination and purpose.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Forget dull routine work today and get out into the open air, learn about modern inventions, ideas, etc., and converse with inspiring persons. P. M. is then fine for being with kin at residence and entertaining charmingly there.

If your child is born today ... The child born today will have a remarkable personality that will attract him or her to many influential persons, and will not be backward about using it to get what is desired. However, teach early that some service or gift of equal value must be given in return in order that Divine justice be done and life be lived successfully and happily. Good chart for acting, public or civic work.

Canadians Furnish Supplies To Remote Hill Communities In Southern Part of India

By RUSSELL ELLMAN

POOMBARI, India (CP)—Sick and undernourished children in this remote mountain village in south India are receiving milk, clothing and medical aid donated by Canadians.

Twice a week a mobile dispensary visits 14 isolated communities in the 7,000-foot Palni Hills of Madras state, providing the only medical service for 18,000 villagers. The work is made possible by Canadians through the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, the country's largest overseas voluntary relief organization.

School children, farmers, businessmen, women's groups and church associations of all denominations raised more than $150,000 in cash and gifts last year for USC work in India. Projects include community development schemes in city slums, vocational training centres, co - operative health programs and orphanages for beggar children adopted by Canadian foster-parents.

IN CANADA'S NAME

Like the Colombo Plan, USC assistance is given in the name of Canada with the approval of both the Canadian and Indian governments. Field work is done by Indians themselves and is inspected once a year by USC executive director Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova.

At Kodaikanal, a scenic hill station in the Palni Hills, the local branch of the All - India Women's Conference is in charge of the mobile dispensary. Voluntary workers include a registered staff of doctor, midwife and medical assistant.

Canadians give more than one-half of the $2,000 annual budget for the Kodaikanal branch, not counting an additional 10,000 pounds of surplus powdered milk now being given by the Canadian government for the first time in India. Sweaters and pullovers are bought in India, often under self-help schemes that provide income for unemployed women.

When the mobile unit recently visited Poombari, a village of 1,800, about 175 barefoot women and children in tattered clothes lined up on the dusty road with bottles and containers for milk. Some needed the milk so badly they immediately ate the powder.

Dr. Gnanam Samuel, a Tamil woman doctor who worked for 14 years with a United Church of Canada mission in central India, held a roadside surgery. At this high altitude many suffer from coughs, colds and tuberculosis.

In the afternoon the van arrived at another village just in time to treat a baby badly scalded by boiling water. The previous evening a woman's life was saved when the van rushed her to hospital after she suffered a heart attack.

TRICKY DISTRIBUTION

Clothing and blanket distribution can be tricky since demand is always greater than supply as nights often are bitterly cold. On occasion supplies have run short and angry women have mobbed the van's staff.

Medical aid, clothing and milk are regarded as emergency measures to meet an immediate need but in Poombari Canadian funds are also being used on a long-term project. The All-India Women's Conference has assigned a midwife and social worker to the village and set up a community centre, dispensary and school.

Village elders took three years to approve the scheme and now each family gives two annas (two cents) a month for the centre's rent. Most of the 36 school children work in the paddy and garlic fields and attend school on a part-time basis, there being no compulsory education in India. Women's craft classes are held in the afternoon and adult lessons at night.

Poombari, built in terraces on the mountainside, has only a rudimentary drainage system. Children wash in polluted water from open gutters, disease - carrying flies swarm in the narrow lanes and sometimes six persons live in dark, one-room mud houses where there is hardly space for four to stand. In one home the only decent bit of clothing was a Canadian gift blanket.

The stench is overpowering and there is only one sweeper to clear away the filth in the village. But as an example of how to help raise health standards, the women's conference has built Poombari's first latrine.

Aussies Starting to Wonder Whether Geophysical Year Made Reds Their Neighbors

By WARREN WHITE
Canadian Press Correspondent

MELBOURNE (CP) — Australians are beginning to wonder whether they have gained Russia as a permanent new neighbor—in Antarctica, 2,000 miles to the south.

The recent International Geophysical Year brought to the Antarctic the scientists of several countries and led to far-reaching discoveries.

Australia, which claims a large slice of the territory, now finds a 100-man Russian expedition encamped on that particular slice and with ever apparent intention of remaining at "the bottom of the world."

Leader of the Russian expedition, Dr. Mikhail Somov, in a recent visit to Australia to discuss Antarctic research results, said in a press interview: "as long as there is need for scientific investigation the Soviet expedition will be in Antarctica."

RUSSIAN MYSTERY MAN

This "mystery man" of the Soviet expedition who in 1950 started a fuss which made history—drifting 376 days on a north polar ice floe—told something of the Russian discoveries.

A branch of his expedition in the Antarctic in the middle of last winter recorded a minimum low temperature of minus 125.3 Fahrenheit — so cold that gasoline turned to jelly.

The Russians have done a considerable amount of exploring around the pole of inaccessibility —the most interior point of the Antarctic Continent.

Somov said: "Near the pole of inaccessibility we found the ice was 12,250 feet thick. That is a record—it is deeper than the ice at the South Pole itself." To pole itself is set off to one side of the roughly circular continent.

Somov described preparations for a Russian trans-Antarctic attempt to begin in October. The crossing would be over 3,750 miles—1,500 miles farther than Sir Vivian Fuchs covered last season.

The Russians would use huge tracked Kharkovchankas. Each would carry two drivers, a navigator, a radio operator and 12 scientists.

The big snow vehicles each contain bunks, a kitchen, armchairs, a radio room, snow melter and laboratory. And each 35-ton, 550-horsepower tractor can tow fuel sledges.

The expedition plans to travel via the geomagnetic pole, the South Pole itself and the pole of inaccessibility.

FRIENDS WITH AMERICANS

Somov said: "At the South Pole our expedition will celebrate with the Americans who live there. We are all friends in Antarctica."

Antarctic men here consider the Russian route one of the hardest imaginable. It crosses territory 14,000 feet above sea level on the polar plateau.

There would be considerable disadvantage. Crevasses in this area are known to be extremely hazardous. Some have been found 3,000 feet deep.

Somov said he thinks Antarctica is unlikely for some time to be of value for mining of the large stores of minerals known to be below the land surface.

There have been suggestions that a bomb power would be required to melt the ice before mining operations could be undertaken in most parts of the continent.

Perhaps the inaccessibility of these minerals for the time being has been the main reason for lack of international friction in Antarctica.

Despite the fact that the Australian government has admitted it has no clear idea of how long the Russians intend to stay on the Australian-claimed territory in Antarctica, there cannot be said to be international tension.

The reverse is true. An Australian explorer said: "Many Antarctic observers believe possibly the most important discovery made in the Antarctic in recent years is that at the bottom of the world, men of science of 12 nations can co-operate to exchange ideas and data on a scale previously unknown."

Herter Named U.S. Secretary Of State

Ike Announces Undersecretary Succeeds Dulles

Same Team Carries on In Foreign Policy Field

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Christian Herter today was named by President Eisenhower to be the secretary of state.

The president personally announced his choice with Herter, undersecretary since 1957, standing at his side at a press conference.

Herter is being elevated to the cabinet to succeed cancer-stricken John Foster Dulles, who resigned last Wednesday.

The president said he will send Herter's nomination to the Senate next week. Swift confirmation is predicted.

Herter was asked whether he plans any change in U.S. foreign policy. He replied with a smile he does not want to get into that matter until he has been confirmed.

The new secretary, 64, also declined to speculate on who will succeed him in undersecretary.

He added, however, that he believes it is "a reasonable assumption that the same team will carry on."

PHYSICAL CHECKUP

Herter announced that, at Eisenhower's personal request put to him last Monday, he underwent a complete physical checkup at Johns Hopkins University Hospital at Baltimore, Md.

Herter said he had not been informed yet regarding the results, but White House press secretary James C. Hagerty declined to that the medical results were satisfactory in every way.

"Everything is fine," Hagerty said.

Herter has suffered from arthritis of the hips for several years. There has been some concern as to whether he would be up to standing the grueling burden of the office.

Herter was flown to Eisenhower's vacation headquarters this morning by helicopter from his plantation at Green Pond, S.C. Herter arrived at 10:57 Friday from Washington to spend the weekend.

EISENHOWER OFFERS

Eisenhower and Herter met with reporters in a conference room a few feet from the president's temporary office above the golf course on the grounds National Golf Club. Herter walked into the room without the lightweight leg braces he usually uses, but he had left them in a nearby office.

With a broad smile, Herter—former governor of Massachusetts and representative of the House of Representatives—told reporters:

"I feel fine. . . . I get around pretty well."

He added that he uses the canes only to ease the weight on his arthritic hips.

Replying to another question, Herter said he does not expect that his arthritis will hinder him in any way in the performance of his duties. He specifically predicted the ailment will not restrict his travel.

FIREMEN'S STRIKE ON DIESEL ISSUE DUE FOR FAILURE

Claim Other Unions Not Giving Support

OTTAWA (CP)—Any firemen's strike on Canadian National Railways over the diesel issue is pretty sure to be a failure.

The threatened strike, it is believed, has little hope to be a success —support of other unions.

Information here is that the 3,500 CNR firemen would be on their own—or so close to it that it would not matter—if they tried to tie up the transcontinental rail service to enforce contract demands.

Firemen would be only scattered support at the most, informed quarters say, for what union men in Canada regard generally as a losing fight by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) to buck technology.

After two strikes against the CPR on the issue of the use of firemen on diesel locomotives with the union eventually conceding their gradual disappearance on the road—the union now is at grips with the big publicity spotlight.

It is the same fight that it lost to the CPR.

The labor generally, backed by the firemen in their first strike against the Canadian Pacific in January, 1957, it did not in the second strike last May.

NO SUPPORT

And, according to the best information here, it will not support the firemen against the CNR in what it considers a lost cause.

This is the way one non-fireman labor leader put it:

"The issue last the diesel fight in the CPR case. The Canadian National ran a management must know that we're not going to fight it all over again, just to suit them."

Main point is whether firemen are needed on fresh-water type diesel locomotives. The CPR said no, and made it stick after two firemen's strikes, though agreed to spread over several years the discontinuance of firemen from service.

The firemen's union eventually conceded to the CPR on the diesel issue, with minor concessions. Now it has come down to about the same pre - strike point with the CNR as it was with the Canadian Pacific.

Whether the union will stage a strike, even with announced job strike membership votes behind it—is problematical.

MOCK ATTACK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mock hydrogen bombs smashed down on the United States Friday in a massive, nerve-jarring attack of communities and millions of people tested their ability to survive. The bombs were detonated casualties and damage was available. They will be used in the beginning of Operation Alert 1959, the annual civil defense drill.

Armed Convicts, Troops Fight Pitched Battle

Machine-Gun, Rifle, Tear Gas Shells Used

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP) — Fifty heavily-armed National Guardsmen stormed the Montana state prison under cover of bazooka, machine-gun and rifle fire early today to smash a rebellion and rescue 16 hostage guards.

The revolt ended when two convict ringleaders, cornered in the prison's northwest tower, committed suicide.

The other rebel-bound prisoners who holed up with their ringleaders surrendered to the helmeted troops. Their surrender marked an end to the furious pitched battle.

Two National Guardsmen were wounded. Lieut. Francis Pullien was shot in the right hip and knee. His condition was not serious. The other guardsman was wounded but did not require hospital treatment.

Warden Floyd E. Powell said Jerry Myles, about 50, and 19-year-old Lee Smart, placed the muzzles of their rifles to their heads and pulled the triggers. Myles was a burglar with a long criminal record. Smart was convicted of murdering a Colorado salesman.

They and three others had retreated with the hostages up the tower when the guardsmen called on them to surrender. Three convicts emerged with their hands up, their troops again called on Myles and Smart to surrender. Their refusal got no response, they fired a bazooka shot at the tower.

The leaders of the three holdout convicts were found when the guardsmen moved into the smoking ruins.

The troops poured a withering barrage of fire into the cellblocks where the convicts centred their resistance earlier. There was a spattering of return fire which ended after 45 minutes.

The rebellion, most violent in prison history here, lasted little more than 24 hours. It was the prison's deputy warden was dead, shot to death when the convicts seized control at the dinner hour Thursday. A guard was stabbed and later freed.

Fifteen of the guards held hostage appeared in good condition. The 16th guard, identified only as Backman, had been struck in the face by rifle fire.

Held with them during the rebellion were four convicts described as "stool pigeons." Their fate was not immediately known.

BLAST HOLE IN WALL

Four bazooka shots were fired. Their bombshell explosions rocked the entire area before dawn. The bazooka was actually an anti-tank weapon in warfare, shelled a gaping hole in the south wall of the north cellblock where the hostages were held.

Cliff Matthews Of City Given Important Post

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Victor Newson, assessment commissioner in Cobourg, Friday was elected chairman of District five of the Association of Assessing Officers of Ontario. He succeeds Clifford Bliss, assessor for Thurlow Township, north of Belleville.

Clifford Matthews, deputy assessment commissioner of Belleville, succeeded Wally Parnell, Peterborough deputy assessment commissioner, as district secretary-treasurer.

Lawrence S. Oke, Bowmanville town assessor, was elected urban vice-chairman, and L. C. Hall, assessor for the city of Haliburton county, was elected rural vice-chairman.

Clipping Along On Three Wheels, Did Not Know It

CHICAGO (AP)—A motorcyclist who was free-wheeling his 10-year-old car for 6½ miles on three wheels was finally halted by policemen.

Don Lind and Patrolmour Birk noticed a shower of sparks as they passed a car, which was clipping at a fast clip on three wheels, and turned back to investigate.

The deputies waved to Samuel E. Thatcher, 41, to halt and told him about his missing wheel.

"You say I only three wheels?" repeated Thatcher incredulously. "I'll have to see this myself."

He did, then said: "It was a little hard to steer, but it was always a hard steerer."

Thatcher, a construction worker, was charged with reckless driving.

Trucking Firms May Be Faced With Wide Strike

TORONTO (CP) — A widest strike against two interprovincial trucking firm's may spread to a shutdown of trucking operations across Ontario next week, says a motor transport official.

William Murray, manager of the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, said Friday member firms will act to move merchandise off the two firms' hit by an unauthorized strike by members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters in parts of Ontario and Quebec.

He said such a move was likely to lead to an Ontario-wide strike. The bureau negotiates on behalf of 61 transport firms in Ontario.

The dispute began in Montreal Thursday where 650 employees of Kingsway Transports Limited walked off the job. They were joined by some 1,000 Montreal employees of Smith Transport Limited.

The strikers said they were protesting the increasing use by the highway transport firms of piggy-back rail services in which truck trailers are loaded on railway flatcars for transport between large cities. They said this led to a reduction of the number of drivers requires on interprovincial runs.

About 1,200 employees of the same two firms in Toronto and Oshawa stopped work Friday in sympathy with the Montreal walkout.

The walkout also has spread to approximately 200 employees of Husband Transport Limited and Hoar Transport Company Limited. Picket s also formed outside Inter-City Truck Lines Limited in suburban Cookville.

The Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau has obtained an injunction to prohibit picketing at Smith Transport and applied to the Ontario Labor Relations Board for permission to prosecute the union and employes of Kingsway Transports for taking part in an illegal strike. The Toronto and Oshawa strikers are members of Local 938 of the teamsters.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A few showers spread across Southern Ontario early today as a storm centre moved across the Great Lakes from Northern Ontario. Rain was more general in Central Ontario while farther north light to moderate snow was reported in regions from Lake Superior to Hudson Bay. Following this disturbance cooler air is expected to move into Southern Ontario today, ending the showers, but leaving predominantly cloudy skies with more seasonable temperatures.

Another disturbance, developing in the southwestern United States, threatens to bring rain into Southern Ontario Sunday afternoon or evening.

Great Lakes Shipping Tempo Increases As Ice Weakens

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The tempo of steamship traffic on the Great Lakes is gradually stepping up as the winter's ice which has backed up underway channels for months weakens its grip.

Ships were on the move from Kingston near the foot of Lake Ontario to Sault Ste. Marie between Lakes Superior and Huron.

Most activity centred around Port Colborne where a dozen ships were clearing, preparing to leave and moving into the harbor.

The Canada Steamship Lines St. Catharines was first to break through a heavy icefield in eastern Lake Erie and enter the port Friday. The CSL freighter George Ian Bay forced a passage during the day from the port into open water. It was followed by the Hagarty, Burlington, Alexander Leslie, Valley Camp and Black River.

Later the Frank A. Sherman and James D. Norris, both of which made unsuccessful bids to break out of the icebound harbor 10 days ago, also cleared.

Traffic on the Welland Canal linking Lakes Erie and Ontario was held up temporarily in one lock until a fender guard is repaired. The package freighter Fort York plowed into the guard as it headed down the lakes. But the Sinclairoil and the Imperial Oil tankers Quebec, Hamilton and Clingwood started in from Montreal through the canal Friday night.

Following the Stadacona into harbor were the Westmount and

End of Checkoff Predicted If Money Used for Party

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Burnett, industrial relations manager for Canadian Industries Ltd. predicts management will balk at continuing to check off union dues if some of the money is used to support a new labor - supported political party.

During a panel discussion on 1959 trends in labor-management relations at the annual conference of the Personnel Association of Toronto, Mr. Burnett said Friday:

"We will have no recourse but to demand the complete abolition of compulsory dues checkoff if the money is used to support the political party labor is seeking to establish."

The 1,000,000-member Canadian Labor Congress and the CCF are sponsors of the new party. Union members are being sounded out on a program and on methods of financing it.

NON-CONFIDENCE MOTION BY CCF BADLY DEFEATED

Capital Tax on Gains Requested

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons has defeated a CCF non-confidence motion which proposed, among other things, a tax on capital gains in Canada.

Liberals Friday sided with the Progressive Conservative majority in the vote of 167 to 34, which came on the fifth day of the eight-day budget debate.

The CCF motion criticized the government for not presenting "a planned financial and economic program" which would reverse the trend of rising interest rates and establish a capital gains tax.

It was an amendment to a Liberal want-of-confidence motion that accused the government of "bad faith" and "flagrant disregard of pre-election promises" by budgeting for higher taxes, record expenditures and a large deficit.

Only with the help of two Liberal MP's were the CCF members able to bring about a recorded vote on their submendment. There were only four of the eight CCF members available when the Speaker put the question—one members short of the number required to bring about a recorded vote.

Liberal whip J. A. Hisbet Cochrane, and Raymond Eudes (L—Montreal Hochelaga) acted with the four CCF members by being on the vote but cast their votes with the other Liberals to help defeat the CCF submendment.

Debate then continued on the Liberal motion.

The issue of opposition criticism was set by Chesley W. Carter (Lib.-Burin-Burgeo) who said Finance Minister Fleming's budget confesses that the "piper has played, the people have danced to his tune and now the piper has to be paid."

One Leap Does Not Satisfy Chou, Demands 40 Per Cent Output Rise

TOKYO (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai told Red China's working millions today they will be expected to boost industrial and agricultural production by 40 per cent over last year's volume.

Addressing the opening session of the National People's Congress in Peiping, he said the 1959 goal for industry and agriculture is 287,000,000,000 yuan compared to last year's 205,000,000,000.

China doubled steel and iron production during the Red Leap Forward in farm output during 1958. Chou's address indicated that far from being allowed to take a breathing spell, the Chinese will be required to make an even greater effort.

Chou said that last year's "great leap forward" was a result of the victory of socialism and of the first five-year plan which ended in 1957.

Twenty Standard Bred Horses Die As Fire Sweeps Leamington Stables

LEAMINGTON (CP) — About 20 valuable harness horses were burned to death today when fire destroyed a large L-shaped stable at the Leamington fairgrounds.

"You could hear horses screaming and trying to kick their way out," said George Hamilton, a worker at the stables.

Bert Rogers Stable of Montreal, "it was terrible."

The fire broke out near a power switch and raced through a tinder-dry wooden structure before stable crews had a chance to reach most of the 30 horses inside.

Another 100 horses are stabled in nearby buildings which did not burn. The ill-fated structure was in the northeast section of the grounds.

An unofficial estimate placed damage at $250,000.

Among horses saved was Champ Vole, owned by Maplewood Stables of Montreal, which was third money winner on the United States circuit last season. Champ Vole is valued at $50,000.

An accurate count of the horses lost will not be possible until the debris of the burned part of the building cool and can be examined.

Mr. Sherman said it was the worst barn fire he had ever seen. "The whole roof was soon burned. I don't know who he got the horses out but there is a struggling horse out of the stable and the wind blew the door shut. He couldn't see his way out."

Stable boys and handlers were forced to flee as the flames knifed through the building, the boys escaping with only the clothing on their backs. Silks, harnesses and other equipment had to be abandoned.

Fled to India of Own Accord Dalai Lama's Reply to Reds

TEZPUR, India (CP)—Tibet's Dalai Lama reached the outside world today and denied Chinese Communist charges that he came to India under duress.

He accused the Communists of destroying Tibetan monasteries, killing lamas and sending Chinese into labor gangs.

The fugitive ruler disclosed in a prepared statement that the seeds of the revolt spread over Tibet's Himalayan country were sown as far back as 1952.

"The Dalai Lama would like to state categorically he left Lhasa and Tibet and came to India of his own free will and not under duress," the statement said.

Trucking Firms May Be Faced With Wide Strike

TORONTO (CP) — A widest strike against two interprovincial trucking firm's may spread to a shutdown of trucking operations across Ontario next week, says a motor transport official.

William Murray, manager of the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, said Friday member firms will act to move merchandise off the two firms' hit by an unauthorized strike by members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters in parts of Ontario and Quebec.

He said such a move was likely to lead to an Ontario-wide strike. The bureau negotiates on behalf of 61 transport firms in Ontario.

The dispute began in Montreal Thursday where 650 employees of Kingsway Transports Limited walked off the job. They were joined by some 1,000 Montreal employees of Smith Transport Limited.

The strikers said they were protesting the increasing use by the highway transport firms of piggy-back rail services in which truck trailers are loaded on railway flatcars for transport between large cities. They said this led to a reduction of the number of drivers requires on interprovincial runs.

About 1,200 employees of the same two firms in Toronto and Oshawa stopped work Friday in sympathy with the Montreal walkout.

The walkout also has spread to approximately 200 employees of Husband Transport Limited and Hoar Transport Company Limited. Picket s also formed outside Inter-City Truck Lines Limited in suburban Cookville.

The Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau has obtained an injunction to prohibit picketing at Smith Transport and applied to the Ontario Labor Relations Board for permission to prosecute the union and employes of Kingsway Transports for taking part in an illegal strike. The Toronto and Oshawa strikers are members of Local 938 of the teamsters.

Six Women Will Be Acquired To Assist in Reassessment

TRENTON — Field work on the reassessing of Trenton will begin next Tuesday or Wednesday, J. Allan Smith, assessment commissioner, announced yesterday.

He reported that for this job six women have been employed and have been properly screened. They will report for work on Monday when Mr. Smith will give them their instructions on what they are expected to do and how best to do it. Their work will consist chiefly of measuring and to take down statistics. They will also take information for the town's voters list. All the information they gather will be turned into the assessor's office where the property concerned will be classified.

Following this information being received the assessor will go out and put each house in its category and everything will be checked and double checked before the assessment is made.

Mr. Smith said the work the women will be doing will not be the complete reassessing within the meaning but that over the years many changes have been made in properties especially since the last assessment was made in 1948. He said some of the homes and buildings have have built new additions, etc., which have not been properly recorded. As far as land measurements are concerned, the assessor felt the present ones would have are adequate.

Mr. Smith claimed it would not be necessary for the women doing this work to go through each room of the houses and it will be necessary for them to disturb sleeping persons or children. The office already has a considerable amount of information on many houses in Trenton and in due course will be checked.

Some of the things the girls will be looking for is the type of heating system, floors, walls (whether plaster or dry), and if the house has a basement or not. Any serious defects in the house can be pointed out to the home owner during the visit of the women.

The town assessor said women have been chosen for this work because they will be more tactful and second because at the time of day they will be working the housewife will likely be home by herself and most women would not like to have a stranger man calling while her husband is at work.

The women will travel in teams of two and are: Mrs. William Sandwell, Mrs. Ralph Cowley, Mrs. Freda MacGillivray, Mrs. R. Phillips, Mrs. Grant D. Macaulay and Mrs. Eleanor Martin. They are all residents of Trenton.

Loss Is $20,000 As House Burns At Glen Miller

TRENTON — Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lohnes of Glen Miller were left homeless when flames destroyed their six-room bungalow last night. Cause of the fire is not known. Total damage was estimated by Mr. Lohnes this morning at $20,000.

The Trenton fire department was called out about 11:30 a.m. and two trucks answered the call.

The house was built about five years ago and was a modern type dwelling with a two-car garage attached to the side. It was in the garage that the fire apparently began, flames destroying a 1958 model car which was in the garage at the time.

Mr. Lohnes, a contractor, was out of town, but rushed home when he was informed of the fire.

Mrs. Lohnes and their two children were asleep and Mrs. Lohnes said this morning that she had been awakened by a car horn. When she smelled smoke she rushed over the house and saw heavy clouds of smoke coming out of the garage door. The fire spread from the garage to the attic of the house and firemen had considerable trouble in getting at the flames. The living room was next to the garage, was gutted and the furniture completely destroyed. Also gutted were the bathroom and two of the three bedrooms. The remainder was damaged by flames but suffered considerable damage from smoke and water.

The firemen used their good line-operated pump, a portable, a part of the new aerial ladder, a line pulled over the nearby Trent River onto the burning home.

Nothing was saved from the house, but the building itself, the contents and the car in the garage were all covered by insurance.

Mr. Lohnes says he plans to rebuild on the same site.

Interesting sessions will be held on Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning dealing with the work and problems of the B & P clubs. A new regional adviser will be elected, and well known Trenton High School teacher, Miss Ann Johnson, has been nominated for this office by the Trenton club.

An extensive and interesting program has been compiled by the Trenton host club under the capable direction of Miss Marion Baker, convener of the regional meeting. At the present time, all over Trenton, little groups of workers are busy with the multitude of tasks entailed in a meeting of this kind. A specific project undertaken by the Trenton Club in connection with the meeting is the compilation of a tourist brochure for Trenton. Mrs. Fay Jeffery first vice-president of the Trenton club, is in charge of this task.

The Trenton club is putting forth every effort to make this regional meeting an outstanding and one long remembered event for their guests.

DAMASCUS, Syria (Reuters)—Five Iraqi tribesmen were killed Wednesday in a 30-minute attack on a Syrian army post in north-eastern Syria, an army spokesman said Thursday night. The tribesmen said 80 horsemen of the Yazidi tribe attacked the United Arab Republic's Khazne post with gunfire.

CLU President Special Speaker At Dinner Meet

Mortimer Levy, C.L.U., president of the National Life Underwriters Association of Canada, was guest speaker at the Belleville Life Underwriters' Association's monthly meeting held in the banquet room of the Belmont Restaurant yesterday at noon. Mr. Levy gave a tribute to the World Hockey Champions, Mr. Levy outlined some of the advantages which the national association offered, both to the public and to the life underwriters of Canada.

The national association represents some 9,500 life underwriters across Canada. Through its association's educational and training courses made available to its members to improve their knowledge and understanding of the various aspects and advantages of their business Canada's insurance buyers are assured of the best possible service by people who can readily understand their needs and schedule an insurance policy adequate to meet those needs. The national association also urges its members to the insurance companies concerning various aspects of employment and the proper development of knowledge, attitudes, sales and skills and habits, the national association tries to improve the standing of a client-insurer across Canada.

Mr. Levy then discussed a few of his own personal views on the selling of life insurance and the attitude of the average client. Stressing the theme of "Keep it simple, stupid," which the speaker described as his "Kiss formula," he urged proper programming of a client's insurance needs and the selling of this program to the client through a pressure, down to earth approach. In order to do this well, it is necessary necessary to sell him what he wants rather than what he needs; the selling of the coverage which the client needs will help to cover after the initial sale, explaining the speaker. As a person's position or advancement in life changes, so do his insurance requirements.

SHOULD SET TARGET

The good underwriter will anticipate this, set a target for his individual client, and help him to develop his coverage accordingly.

The individual underwriter should have a personal insurance program which is fully adequate for his own requirements. This he may use as an example to his customers. To find out the individual's requirements it is usually necessary only to ask him whether he is concerned about old age for himself, income for the insurance, emergency cash, or education for his children, the speaker advised his audience.

Mr. Levy also urged those present to constantly strive to increase their knowledge through reading and studying and to maintain high ethical standards to assure the public of receiving the best possible service.

The speaker, who was ably introduced by Don Williams, was thanked by E. W. Harrison and presented with a Belleville cheese. Those gave the minutes of the previous meeting.

Perc McGuire, president of the local association, acted as chairman for the meeting.

OSD Pupils Face Capacity Audience in School Play

A capacity audience was on hand last night for the opening night performance of "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," presented by the pupils of the Ontario School for the Deaf.

The excellent and extremely colorful production will also be presented tonight and Monday night in the school auditorium.

Prior to the start of the program, school superintendent J. G. Demeza gave an address welcoming all present, particularly the parents of the children and 27 girls from Peterborough Collegiate Hi-Y Supper Club, who came to Belleville for the performance. In his address Mr. Demeza explained the value of an annual presentation of this type in training the pupils in poise, speech and such, and noted this was the 13th different annual production. He also explained the value of rhythm (it takes the place of music) in the school's speech program, and the effects of residual hearing on pupils speech progress noting in particular the percentage of residual hearing possessed by the principals in the play which varies 30 to 50 percent. Supporting members of the cast are classed as profoundly deaf, he said.

MANY GRADUATES RETURN

Mr. Demeza remarked that the popularity of the play among the pupils is evidenced by the fact a large number of graduates return each year to view the production.

In conclusion he expressed appreciation of the annual support given the school by the general public.

The program opened with a humorous pantomime entitled "Wash Day Blues," which revolved around the difficulties of a not-too-bright "housecleaner" putting up a clothesline for his wife. The hapless "housecleaner" was played by Herbert Alton, and his wife by Patsy Bishop.

The Rhythm Band, composed of senior pupils, played "The Overture to the Pied Piper of Hamelin." The play then followed.

Assisted by ladies from the choir of Bridge Street United Church and members of the O.S.D. staff who, under the direction of S. Alec Gordon, sang incidental music to the play specially composed by Mr. Gordon, the cast gave a well executed and enjoyable performance.

COLORFUL PIPER

From the opening scene when the Pied Piper, dressed in a short yellow tunic with red sash, long flowing yellow cape lined with red and yellow, and high yellow hat trimmed with red from which a long feather projected, comes upon a group of children playing in the main square of Hamelin town and proceeds to play the flute for them, to the final scene when the children come skipping gaily back to the arms of their lamenting parents, the three-act play holds the audience's attention.

Principals in the cast are: Bruce Gregory as the mythical rodent exterminator, who loves Gerta, the mayor's daughter, played by Ruth Massicote; Eugene Fowler, who plays the grasping, selfish mayor of Hamelin; and Asko Marttinen, who plays Paul, the little lame boy who was instrumental in having the children returned to their selfish parents. The three councillors, Franz, Karl and Frederick, are played by Billy O'Neill, Gilbert Lillie and Gerald Sullivan, respectively.

RATS ARE FEATURE

The cute little "rats," who almost romp away with the show, are Aleksander Brill, Norman Frappier, Wayne Goulet, Arnold Lewis, Loran Mosher, Paul O'Connor, Wally Pomeroy, Erwin Sinn, Mark Cosey, Bobbie Schultz, Peter Vekeman, Bruce Watson and Robert Lang.

One scene which particularly drew chuckles from the audience was when the rats rush onstage and scare away the mayor, councillors, and a delegation of mothers protesting the rat menace. They then proceed to make merry and engage in an energetic dance — all except one quite chubby little "rat" who does nothing more strenuous than waving his arms and flicking his long "tail."

The people of Hamelin were played by Evelyn Caldwell, Isabel Thornicroft, Sharon Kilbreath, June Braden, Anabelle Crenk, Lee Hunter, Mary Anne Oare, Lucy Kasm, John Wright and Jack Cyopeck.

During the presentation, slides of the dialogue were projected on the front wall for the convenience of the audience.

ENDING CHANGED

The three-act play was adapted from the poem by Robert Browning by S. Alec Gordon, who also composed the vocal selections and music. Contrary to the poem, the O.S.D. version provided a happy ending.

The colorful costumes were made by the girls in the sewing class under the direction of Mrs. Mary Mercier. Scenery by Mr. Vaughan and the boys in the woodworking class; stage sets by Mr. Graham and members of the evening art club; hair styles by Mrs. Lewis, beauty culture teacher and make up by Mrs. Lewis and Mr. Graham; scripts and slides by Public Church of the commercial department, and his pupils; and programmes by Mr. Mercier and the school's print shop, and his boys.

Warn Merchants To Be on Watch For Bogus Bills

Warning for Belleville merchants to be on guard against the possible passing of counterfeit money, was made today by Belleville city police, after bogus money was passed yesterday in Arnprior by two men.

Police suspect the bogus money is from the same plates as the counterfeit money which has turned up recently in Montreal and other Quebec centres, and the belief is that the passers are working their way west into Ontario.

The two bills passed yesterday in Arnprior were of $10 denomination and both carried the same serial number M-D 3078178. Main distinguishing feature of the bogus money is that the Queen's head appears blurred.

One of the men passing the money in Arnprior was described as being 21 to 23 years of age, about five feet ten inches in height with a fine cut and fair hair. He was wearing a foreign sports jacket. The second man was about 5 feet seven inches and weighed about 170 pounds. He had a normal appearance with a dark round face and was wearing a dark shirt-jacket with check design.

The men were driving a 1958 Chevrolet with a Quebec licence plate numbers unknown.

New Policy on Adoption Helps To Reduce Children in CAS Care

The Board of directors of the Children's Aid Society met last Thursday.

In his opening remarks Prof. E. D. Morgan welcomed Arthur Cummins of Belleville, Irwin McCoy of Marmora, and R. D. McDonald of Trenton, newly elected to board membership. He expressed hope that the experience would be a satisfying one.

Mr. Chas. L. Hyde, treasurer, reported receipts for the first 3 months of the year were down $2,000 from the same period the year previous. At the end of March accounts receivable amounted to $21,766.83. The municipalities maintaining children in Children's Aid Society should arrange for more prompt payment of their maintenance accounts. At the present time the society is paying more than $200 a month in back interest charges commenced Mr. Hyde.

Director of the society, Bruce Kerr reported 225 children in Belleville at the end of March. This is the lowest number of children in care in many years. When on the 1st of January the period of adoption probation was reduced from 12 to six months it was possible for many adopting parents to make application to the Children's Aid Society sooner. More than 30 adoptions were finalized during the month of March alone.

TWELVE CHILDREN ADOPTED

C.A.S. intake of children is up from 1957 figures, Mr. Kerr continued. However, many of these children are in short periods, for whom a relatively speedy placement in adoption has been made. So far in the year 12 children were placed for adoption. As is usual, these children are mostly those ready for the supply. Mr. Kerr said several pre-school and kindergarten age children are available for adoption and there are many waiting for children. Demand for placement in the 10 year and over age group. It is encouraging to note that a significant more people are expressing interest in the adoption of older children. It is hoped the trend will continue. Foster homes for children are also in short supply and despite advertising by press and radio few people have responded. Many people feel they are ill equipped to counsel and guide a foster child and in adopting this attitude, are unmindful of the fact that the Children's Aid Society workers and case-workers who are trained and supported by it.

Mr. Kerr said that consideration must be given to a rate increase for municipal grants in support of protection services. It costs each municipality more than $700 a year to maintain a child in Society care and a high percentage of these have broken up, remain broken up. At the present time the C.A.S. receives more than $160,000 annually to care for neglected children and slightly more than $20,000 for the work which brings children in over-burdened homes where they are maintained at the expense of their parents only when they have risen sharply within the past few years and there is every expectation that they will continue to rise.

NO ALTERNATIVE

Professionally trained social workers and experienced case-workers are necessary if the services of the present members of the staff, are to be retained it will be necessary to meet the salary schedules offered by other welfare agencies. At the present time the federal government is leading the field and private welfare agencies as well as CAS have no alternative but to fall in line or go without staff. Mr. Kerr concluded his remarks by asking the question "Would it not be more sensible to spend $160,000 a year on prevention and $20,000 a year in caring for neglect."

Mr. Morgan named the following standing committees which were approved by the Board: finance committee: Wilfred E. Reid, chairman; Mrs. Jane Forrester, Mrs. E. Mc-Cullough, L. E. Hyde, Harold Jaland, James Sprackett and F. I. Worrall. Property: Mrs. E. F. Bowerman, chairman; Miss C. J. Tickell, Mrs. S. Wonnacott, D. E. Bush, Mr. Malcolm Gray, Pierre and Elmer Wood. Personnel, Mr. George Wishart, chairman; Mrs. Jules Zuber, Miss J. Tickell, A. Cummins, Dr. James Nelles, Rev. E. Smith and D. C. Stirling. Child care committee, Mrs. F. S. Fairman, chairman; Mrs. E. P. H. Nurse Gives Talk to Bayview H-S

On Tuesday evening the Bayview Home and School Association held its regular monthly meeting in the school.

Mrs. A. J. Peri, vice-president, conducted the meeting in the absence of president Gordon Hutchinson. Mr. Reid's room won the banner for the coming month.

Mr. Reid introduced Miss Hughes, Public Health Nurse on the staff of the Belleville Health Department and school nurse for the Bayview school. Miss Hughes was formerly a public health nurse and midwife in England.

In speaking to the group present, she outlined the work of a public health nurse and said they are essentially teachers.

Public health nursing aims to improve the standard of health in the community and an example of this is the pre-natal clinics and well baby clinics which are held in the city, she said.

In her work in the schools with the children, Miss Hughes stressed the habits of good health while she gives them their early physical examinations.

At the conclusion of the evening the mothers of Mr. Reid's room served refreshments.

Girl Parked Horse But Got Parking Ticket

LANDER, Wyo. (AP) — When you park your horse in front of a parking meter for short rein.

Shannon Higdon, 11, tied her horse to a parking meter and deposited a nickel. When she returned her horse was gone.

Lander police had confiscated the animal — on two counts. Police Chief Eddie Wolff said the horse violated the law by walking on the sidewalk — and it was taking up two parking places.

He let Shannon off with a warning.

MENTAL HEALTH WEEK.

The other day The Ontario Intelligencer carried a short announcement that all Ontario mental hospitals, out the exception at Kingston, will be opened to the blic next week. Although the announcement did t say so, it seems certain that this is being done in nnection with the observance of Mental Health Week he Canadian Mental Health Association, among other ng-term objectives, is featuring "Operation Friendlip." This involves more than a quick visit to a mental spital during Mental Health Week, but it includes ch a visit. The Association stresses the healing pow- of friendship where mental illness is concerned.

Those with old-fashioned ideas about the mentally may wonder how a normal person could be friendly the usual sense of the term, with a mental patient. ctainly most mental patients are quiet and harmless and are sensitive to their surroundings, including the ttitudes of others. As a matter of fact, after reading list of the ten main characteristics of good mental alth, we wonder whether any of us are enjoying it here is the list:

1. A tolerant, easy-going attitude toward yourself well as others.
2. A realistic estimate of your own abilities - - either under-estimating nor over-estimating.
3. Self-respect.
4. Ability to give love and consider the interest of hers.
5. Ability to take life's disappointments in stride.
6. Liking and trusting other people and expecting hers to feel the same way about you.
7. Feeling part of a group and having a sense of sponsibility to your neighbors and fellow men.
8. Acceptance of your responsibilities and doing mething about your problems as they arise.
9. Ability to plan ahead, and setting of realistic als for yourself.

It seems to us that anybody who meets all ten of ese requirements is more than a person in good mental alth. He or she is almost an angel. It is just ossible, too, that the person who met all these standrds would be unbearably dull. Some of the most teresting persons we have met failed to measure up several categories - - they were far from easy-going, they never planned ahead, they had an exaggerated idea of their own abilities, or they refused to identify emselves with any group, or they would not have cognized a responsibility if it had slapped them in the ce. All of them sick, apparently - - and wonderful.

QUEEN'S SCHOLARSHIPS

As is usual with the impending visit of our Queen Canada in the near future there is much headscratchg going on by various people as to what gifts might presented to Her Majesty to commemorate the occasion. The suggestion was advanced last week by olumnist Anne Francis of the Ottawa Journal that ese people present scholarships to Her Majesty on ehalf of the people of Canada. The scholarships ould be awarded later to Canadians for study at home r abroad.

We feel this suggestion has great merit and thought ehind it. We feel that such scholarships would, if established, offer the greatest possible achievement to hich a Canadian scholar could aspire.

The contributions of the communities and organizations, which would normally be making some present ation or other to Her Majesty on the occasion of her oming the Seaway, could be consolidated into one rge sum which would provide advanced education for anly who might not normally receive the opportunity

We would suggest the stipulation that recipients ould not receive any other scholarships, thus freeing her scholarships they might earn but would not receive them otherwise. It is not suggested that he latter would normally be unsuitable to receive scholrships but, rather, that there are not enough scholarships to go around to all of those deserving them. The queen's Scholarships could be so arranged that a reasonable sum could carry its education to the furthest possible extent of his capabilities and thus would not be hampered through the loss of other scholarships.

We feel that Her Majesty could not receive any her gift which would be more meaningful or more mplimentary. It would, we feel, be a distinctively anadian gesture in recognizing our Queen of Canada.

Holiday Cruise To Historic Caribbean

By G. A. MORTON

ARTICLE 12

Returning from the tour to Kenscoff we lunched at the Cassel Haiti and the afternoon was spent in the shops. These are located in a compact group in the centre of the city not far from the docks and one can unloading a cargo of dried cod and blooters. Luxury merchandise such as French perfumes, fine porcelains, china, tortoise shell carvings and jewellery of exceptional beauty, cashmeres, sterling silver, beaded bags and gloves from Paris and innumerable other items could be purchased at bargain prices for Port-au-Prince is a free port. The merchandise is attractively displayed and the clerks would go to all kinds of trouble to please their customers.

As in other ports of call rum including the most expensive brands was a third to one half less than Ontario prices. Brandy and cognac fifty years old was offered at seventy-fifty. Rum punches and coolies are the most popular drinks and the people on the islands are certainly past masters in fixing up attractive-looking drinks decorated with fresh pineapple, cherries and lime and using lime juice as a mixer. The cost runs from fifteen cents to sixty cents depending on the opulence of the bar.

Arcades over the sidewalks as mentioned in an earlier article, give protection from the weather. Sitting on chairs and boxes by the walls are women doing embroidery and lace work of the finest quality. Here, too, the prices are low, by our standards.

MAHOGANY PLENTIFUL

Most of our party brought home mahogany work of attractive workmanship, although most of the articles were of factory made. But trays of mahogany and innumerable shapes were sold in the shops of the city. All the stores handling tourist goods have a section of apartment selling this ware. Personally, we found it difficult to pass any display of mahogany and as a result we have enough of such articles to last for years. Haiti certainly is the place to buy some of the things we have mentioned and to save up a home. At least beyond modest requirements.

Port-au-Prince business places are housed in two or three-storey buildings faced with a stucco-like material of non-descript colors and most needing a coat of paint. Sidewalk sections are not always even so it is necessary to watch your step or take a nasty header to the ground. The street pavements have been torn up in many places and not repaired so that considerable dust floats in the air. Motorists generally gave the pedestrian a break and do not drive on the "A" Intercolonial sidewalk almost as in some other foreign cities we have visited. American cars are favored but there is a fair sprinkling of small European cars.

In one of our shopping forays, a Negro tour conducted himself to us in an endeavor to steer us into stores he favored. We tried to brush him off, but it was no use. He was our companion inside stores or just outside the door and even if we separated and went to different stores he always caught up with us. He was dressed in clean clothes so he was not too objectionable. In fact his character, and his apparent good humor plus his refusal to bow to our wishes, amused us more than we expected. There was nothing unusual in the water front which we wanted to visit but the tour director advised against it because he said it "was too filthy."

Johnny said: "Sho, Boss, Ah'll take you there." Leading the way we walked down alleys crowded with sellers and buyers and much the same sort of thing as we had seen in Kingston, Jamaica. All kinds of fruit, vegetables, chickens tied by the legs, boobs selling some kinds of home-made drinks, others selling food such as cooked meats, fish, and baked goods. Blacksmiths were making brazier for holding cooking fires, tinsmiths were making and selling pots, pans, pails and tin cups. Also, to be seen were made to feel uncomfortable and the filthy, ragged appearance, dress and unaccustomed smells they were no worse than in any other native Haitian town. The people in Haiti speak a French patois.

CLEANLY-DRESSED WORKERS

One thing we noticed the morning after our arrival in Haiti was the clean appearance of the stevedores as they walked along the ship to their jobs. Everyone of the dozens of men had on clean pants and shirts which, considering the character of work they had to do was surprising. In fact these men in Haiti were cleaner looking by far than those on Kingston or Santiago, Cuba. Certainly there was no slow-down in their port although it was apparent over some matter delayed the unloading of the cargo for about 90 minutes one morning.

And what about Johnny? Oh yes, of course. Well, we paid him off with enough silver to more than compensate him for his cheekiness. His ingratiating manner probably has won him the satisfying approval of more than one soft-touch tourist.

We are glad he happened along.

(To be continued Monday.)

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE ULTIMATE COST

Jesus in one of His parables tells the story of a man who discovered a rich treasure in a field. He went and sold everything he had to purchase the field and with it, of course, the treasure.

There is more to this parable than meets the eye. The man did not just buy the treasure; he bought the whole field. He went the whole way to get the treasure, and he did this with joy. He did not give a portion of his possessions for the field; he gave all that he had. He wanted the treasure. To get it he would have to pay the price, and he did it with eagerness.

Many of us in the Christian life when we come to know the joy of living and walking in the sweet fellowship with God, we know that it is worth whatever it costs — all that we have! The whole field to get the best of treasures! And all dressed with a grim sense of duty, but with joy.

Too often we think of the Christian life as a burden to be assumed. The New Testament sets it forth as a privilege to be enjoyed. It is treasure in a field. It is worth all it costs — and its cost is our all.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE HAND CLASP

We all carry around with us certain clues to our personality and keys to our character by which inward self. We do certain things through habit and they serve as a human being. Then there are invisible paths to our character. Our walk is one of them. Our hand clasp is another.

The personality of men's hand shaking is an old one, but one that receives little attention nowadays. There is either weakness or strength evidenced in the hand shake. When that greeting is firm and whole hearted, we know we have met a man worth knowing and trusting. Weaklings advertise themselves through their hand shakes, though they don't know it!

How to work a group of men and cordially shaking hands. It is a perplexing and embarrassing art to the sincere. Men show their genuineness quicker, and more pronouncedly than woman. And all hand shaking is not the same. Why should I say hand clasp?

Our walk is a picture of our personality, too, and may suggest the type of a man. So I say signature, but that hand clasp is the surest key to a man's character. Some Certain Day always a revelation. Whether in joy or sorrow that hand clasp reveals the great deal, and often without speaking a single word. It is a thing of warmth and often great ness. People boast about taking the hand in Italy as a direct path to the heart of a person. Meaning and understanding are in a genuine and sincere hand clasp. It is often unforgettable. There is comfort in it!

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner:

My husband's fingers crack open and are painful. The condition seems to be worse in cold weather but it occurs in the summer at times. He is a draftsman, so you can see how important it is to have clean, smooth hands. — Mrs. H.A."

This sort of problem is difficult to handle. Many doctors have failed to come up with the answer, and I must confess that I have it either.

These cracks most commonly occur on the tips of the thumb and forefinger; I suspect that there is a reason for this. (Indeed, there has to be a reason for everything; what I mean is that I suspect that you can see the reason, or part of it. Pressure. These are the points of pressure when w. pick up, hold or handle things.)

The skin gets dry and rough, and the pressure is the last straw, and the splitting and bleeding occurs. Skin oils are less plentiful in the winter. Excessive washing adds to the dryness, and so when this problem is present, the less; necessary and the least amount of soap required for cleanliness, is the best course. Soaps with excessive alkali, or the like may help.

For another, the cracking of the fingers is frequently seen in individuals whose health is run down, or who mind a friend with a severe anemia. The cracks are often painfully cracked finger tips the other day. As we grow older, cracking is more likely to occur.

LOOK FOR IRRITANTS

All or most of these factors probably contribute, but do not in themselves cause the cracking. The specific cause doubtless is some irritant. Many irritants that come readily to mind are: alkalies in washing powder, industrial oils and many chemicals.

Today's victim being a draftsman, has a variety of things to consider. Ink, the metal in his pencil or pen, chemicals in the drafting paper, inks, carbon paper, possibly even such a thing as an eraser or the paint on a pencil. Wetting fingers, because of dryness in winter, may be more vulnerable.

He'd best keep in mind that it can be something else entirely, too. Even a cosmetic. I learned a few years ago that one hand cracked due to an after-shave lotion he used — a popular variety at that.

Or, yet again, what about draining instruments? A sensitivity to nickel is known to have bothered many; other metals can be guilty, too.

Once the fingers crack, low grade secondary infection may then become an aggravating factor, delaying normal healing as well as increasing the pain-ness.

Recently I've found a silicone ointment to be successful in such cases — an ointment containing Vitamin A and an antiseptic too. Since vitamin A has some influence on skin health, no pressure seems reasonable. If occupational irritation is either known to be present or suspected, an antibiotic ointment may be useful.

Grease don't respect trade names of ointments in these categories. I don't mention them because I'm in the business of plugging any particular brand. And besides, you can't depend on feeling that any one product is bound to be the answer, the least bringing crystals, continue it. If not, try something else.

Your doctor and druggist together will know of ointments which fill the above requirements. But remember that these cracks in the fingers are likely to be at either complex problem with a variety of elements, not just one, contributing to the trouble.

"Dear Dr. Molner: You recently discussed hemorrhoids. Could this be helped by an operation? — C.P.B."

I understand that experimental work is being done in this region, but to my knowledge, the results have many limitations.

Note to J.M.K.: Abnormally dry skin is one of the classic signs of abnormal thyroid gland, so your doctor was sensibly logical in giving you thyroid. Too much thyroid very often has an effect on the nerves.

Leg cramps and foot pains? Both can be stopped! To learn how, write to me in care of The Ontario Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundas, Illinois, requesting my pamphlet "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," and enclosing a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 3 cents in coin to cover handling.

Deseronto Days 1919-1932

Written expressly for The Ontario Intelligencer

by HARRY M. MOORE

ARTICLE 12

As we have previously stated, Deseronto had a fine baseball team in 1920, a team which for lack of financial backing must drop out and thus permit Picton, which Deseronto had beaten, to represent the district in the Intermediate "A" series for championship and possession of the Toronto Telegram's trophy. Thus there was little sport of any kind left. It was soon brought to our attention that a large number of the town boys were looking for trouble unless something was done to keep them at play.

Recalling our early days of baseball in a Mohawk village, there was nothing for us either. There were no handouts of baseball bats or balls. For gloves, we used whatever came handy, and we recall a time when one from an elder sister when caught using her kid gloves. Growing up and moving from one location to play ball but with this difference, we were never better equipped. It was in Trenton we pitched out our arm, quit ball, then our arm was in Cockburn, north of Toronto, a hot bed of lacrosse, and there a stick and ball were handed to us. Suffice it to say we never had to buy any equipment after that, and we played ball.

Anyway we were now in Deseronto where a large number of boys were looking for trouble, no one to see that they belonged to some sort of sports club, a club that would provide these youngsters to a lacrosse meeting. Naturally we got busy and formed many of the Indian boys who would go for their game in a big way and which proved a success. Several of them became stars.

From the beginning we were to be able compete in the late James Whitton, whose son Bus- is now a leading figure in both lacrosse and hockey. That first year there were a few practice games with the Indians at Campbellford - Hastings-Havelock district. Boys learned to play the game and in two years time it became a big league.

Deseronto had come into being, there were two groups, middle-class and Indian. The Indians beat Hastings in Trenton and thereby won the Eastern Ontario championship. The juvenile line didn't do so well. The third year the midgets became many of the players had developed speed, stepped up to juvenile and with an association provincial semi-final lost to Wallaceburg. In a match in Deseronto in Port Hope, Weston was protested by St. Catharines and was thrown out because two of its players were proven over - age, and then a strange thing happened. The OALA, of which we were members, awarded the game to Deseronto.

By that time the boys had grown, many were married and even now, they must seek employment and as they did, in various parts of Ontario, across the American line. Some of those youngsters are: Ted Lickers, in the livery of teams in Montreal, Ogdensburg, N.Y., Cabarina, Brantford and several other points, and by now grandfathers as lacrosse players have been forgotten. However the game did this much for them, it kept them out of trouble and that was the main reason for organizing them.

TURNED TO BOATING

Lacrosse days over and most of the boys scattered across the country we turned to boating and regattas. By this time Bus Whitton was a leading figure in "Miss Deseronto". Soon there were such boats in Napanee, Picton and Belleville, and so there were regattas and swimming races.

"Curly" Boulter of Belleville was a leading one of the Bay waters in those days and he not only won here but at other regattas up Toronto way. We were at Clear Lake, north of Bracebridge, at the annual regatta of Hamilton and Don Wood. Petersborough sat a new 31-mile-an-hour record over the measured mile in boats of their own making and different makes of outboard motors.

However during those "lean" years there were two La-Bor Day celebrations that will long be remembered. Deseronto

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

CHANGE OF NESTING

The majority of birds that lived in North America thousands of years ago still breed here, but their nesting habits have altered drastically. Swallows, chimney swift, barn swallow, and many others have changed over from using trees and rocks to accepting man made structures. This is largely from necessity, as man is spoiling so many natural nesting sites; but in some cases the new type of home construction is actually preferred.

At one time the phoebe was satisfied with a rock shelf or a cleft in the walls of a ravine, but when man began to build bridges, girders were found to be equally desirable, as they made a flat foundation in localities where insects swarmed, attracted by the water. Then wooden beams of houses, even window sills and shelter tops were taken over by phoebes.

Bluebirds originally used holes in hollow trees. But man is given to removing unsightly objects, so bluebirds commandeered holes in wooden fences. Now as these fences are becoming obsolete, and English sparrows or starlings grab crevices about buildings before these very early migrants return, bluebirds are depending on and more upon little houses especially constructed for them.

MAN-MADE HOMES

House wrens and tree swallows are experiencing much the same difficulties. Natural cavities and those cut by woodpeckers are now hard to find, so little man made homes of suitable dimensions are greatly appreciated. Blackcapped chickadees will excavate a cavity in a very old birch or pine stump if no natural holes are available, and they can sometimes be persuaded to occupy a bird box.

Once upon a time chimney swifts made their homes only in hollow trees. Now they find man's chimneys quite superior. Barn swallows have moved from niches under overhanging cliffs to buildings, and purple martins first used cavities in trees or cliffs, but today prefer large apartment houses made for them. Wood ducks are still generally found nesting in natural hollows in old trees, but they, too, will use bird boxes. Nighthawks have taken to laying eggs on our gravel roofs rather than on gravelly ground.

Most of these birds with a preference for modern housing are ones that return quite early in the spring. Some of them have already come, and will soon be house hunting. Perhaps you can have your bird boxes erected in time — but be sure to get the correct dimensions for the bird you want to entice.

OVERSEAS MARKETS

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan says that without the confidence of overseas customers Britain would be severely handicapped in the contest for world markets—"like a boxer with one arm tied behind his back." Macmillan told a rally organized by the British Productivity Council: "There have been times in our history when we have been said to have muddled through and we have suspected that others rather envied our ability to survive in this way. "But in the commercial field, it is efficiency, not muddle, that commands admiration and support."

A Lift for Living

Trust Leads to a Firm Faith

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Today I want to follow with you the steps by which one of the most formative figures of history found a steadying and saving faith. He reached such ringing assurance that on the eve of his death he could say: "I know whom I have believed and I am sure that he is able to guard until that day what I have entrusted to him."

As you know, these are the words of the veteran Saint Paul written to his young recruit Timothy. Paul's belief began where faith normally starts — in the bosom of the family, a child breathes the atmosphere of faith in the home, for only by faith can people dwell together in families. We live by faith every waking moment. By faith we ride to work, by faith we plan tomorrow's program, by faith we dine with our friends. Robert Louis Stevenson was right when he said that faith forms the axles of the universe.

We may assume that Paul's childhood was normal and as such was nurtured in the faith common to all normal homes. Moreover, his family was deeply religious, adhering to the tenets of a strict Jewish sect. His was a home of culture. Paul was proud of his standing in society as a Roman citizen, an honor not commonly accorded to people in his position. He was fiercely proud of his religious heritage.

But inherited faith, to become vital, must be invested. Some people fail to see this. They keep piling on the faith of their parents. Because they went to church twice a day in their childhood they think they have stored up enough religious faith to last a lifetime.

WATCHED MAN DIE

Paul's faith came alive in his own experience. He watched a man die for his faith. The man's name was Stephen. Paul could not get out of his mind the words and face of the martyred Stephen who as the stones fell on his body, looked steadfastly into heaven saying: "Behold, I see the heavens opened and the Son of Man standing on the right hand of God." Also the bleeding lips prayed for his accusers.

The radiant face and forgiving spirit of the Christian martyr put the germ of belief into Saul's mind. What did Stephen have which his fair-complexioned friend was Stephen's secret of triumph over pain and death and bitterness? The questions haunted him.

Shortly afterward on his way to Damascus Paul had his epochal experience on the road. The record is that a blinding light engulfed him and he fell to the ground. He heard a voice crying, "Saul, Saul, why do you persecute me?" Saul asked, "Who are you?" The voice answered, "I am Jesus whom you are persecuting."

Paul did not stop to argue and call for proof. He asked, "What will you have me to do?" Christ replied, "Rise and go into the city and it shall be shown you what you shall do." Paul obeyed, and set out for Damascus without stopping to ask what all was involved.

FOLLOWING PRINCIPLE

Here Paul was following a principle essential to faith. We require faith in God or in a fellow men by first showing faith in them. If a neighbor invites us to dinner we do not require a written guarantee that there will be no poison in the food. If he asks us to ride in his car he does not ask us to sign a waiver releasing him from all responsibility for accidents. We begin our friendships on trust.

Likewise in our religious faith we begin our friendship with God on trust. Like Paul we must commit the will and set out to follow before we can calculate all the results. One of the weaknesses of contemporary Christianity is that there is so much discussion of religion and so little decision. In colleges there are increasing numbers of students studying comparative religions, they are seeing good points in all the various faiths but they are unwilling to commit themselves to any one faith. As Halford Luccock says, "Many people are trying to make their way into the Kingdom of God. But if we are to have a firm faith, there must be a point of definite decision.

Until we have committed our wills to God, we find as did Paul, that "suffering produces endurance, endurance produces character and character produces hope." My own faith in God is strengthened by the fact that those who through suffering might seem to have the most reason to doubt the goodness of God are the ones who believe in Him most firmly. These are times that test our faith, and thank God, there are so many whose faith stands the test.

Wedding

CARTER — WASMUND

WELLINGTON — A pretty wedding was solemnized in the Wellington United Church parsonages on Saturday, March 28, at 1:30 p.m., when Rev. Arnold Poulter, when Eunice Irene Wasmund, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wasmund, R.R. 2, Bloomfield, became the bride of Charles Edward Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Carter, R.R. 3, Demorestville.

The bride was attired in a blue suit with black accessories and corsage of red roses.

Mr. Ron Benway, R.R. 3, Demorestville, was groomsman.

The reception was held at the bride's home, where the bride's mother received, wearing a light blue suit with corsage of pink carnations.

The groom's mother assisted, wearing a pale green suit with corsage of pink carnations.

Decorations included pink and white streamers falling from the centre of the room to corners of the table which was covered with a white linen cloth and centred by a three-tier wedding cake. Servers were Mrs. Bob Armstrong, Mrs. Clelland Eddy and Miss Edie Ward.

For a short trip through eastern Ontario, the bride donned a short fur jacket over her suit, with a corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter will reside at R.R. 3, Demorestville.

Eastminster Group Told About Centre

The April meeting of the Women's Federation of Eastminster United Church was held on Monday evening with Mrs. Mayhes presiding. The meeting was opened with a cordial welcome to all, by Mrs. Hymn "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee" was sung.

After the various reports were given and many items of business discussed, including the spring tea and rummage sale, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Ellis who was in charge of the devotional period.

This period was opened with the singing of "Work For the Night is Coming." Mrs. Beach read the Scripture from Ecclesiastes 3:1-8, with Mrs. Hotchkiss leading the prayer.

"Time" was the theme for this meeting and Mrs. Ellis spoke on the value of time and how many people don't seem to realize the value of time in the whip of God.

Everyone has the same number of seconds per minute, the same number of minutes per hour, the same number of hours per day, the same number of days per year, and yet there are many who seem to have time for the spiritual things," she said.

Mrs. Dales sang a delightful solo, "My Task."

Mrs. Ellis introduced Mrs. Dobbs from Holloway Street United Church, who gave a descriptive and informative talk on "The Story of Five Oaks," which is a Christian Workers' training centre at Paris, Ontario. Many interesting slides were shown and Mrs. Dobbs described each in detail.

At the conclusion of the meeting the group adjourned to the basement auditorium, where refreshments were served.

"In closing, I ask all members to give your whole-hearted support to the incoming executive, particularly to the spiritual director, as much work will be made easier by each accepting her responsibilities," Mrs. Logan said.

Mrs. Loyola Rorabeck presented Mrs. Logan with a gift of pearl rosary, suitably inscribed, for her untiring and kindly direction during her term of office.

Very Rev. L. B. Garvin thanked the executive for their co-operation in work and co-operation.

THANKS VOTERS

Mrs. Herbert Brown took the chair and in her opening remarks said: "I want to thank those who voted for me, giving me the golden opportunity to give service to God and to our country.

"I hope under the guidance of our spiritual director; the advice of the past presidents; the co-operation of the new executive; not forgetting the Catholic Women's League councillors, and full support of the members, to have a most successful year.

"Successful first spiritually, because that is the foundation on most important endeavor; second, socially — only through social aspects of life can we put into practice our Catholic social action and lay Apostolate work; and June the Eucharist.

"We all realize the great need for more room in the new St. Nicholson College is soon to be erected. What an incentive it will be to work hard on our money-raising project when we have a goal in sight for the advanced Catholic education of our sons and daughters.

"To attend our Spiritual on April 26th, the feast of "Our Lady of Good Counsel." It is not a mass possible to receive Holy Communion in a body at the 8 o'clock mass and attend the Holy Hour in the evening following by social hour in the academy. Councillors will be on hand to accept membership," she concluded.

The Diocesan convention will be held in Kingston May 31st and June 1st. Delegates and alternates were appointed. Anyone wishing to attend would be most welcome.

Spring Cleaning

By Alma Mason

Springtime is a time of rejuvenation, a time for the restoration of natural beauty. Old and young alike long for and welcome with pleasure the silver sunshine of April and May. For some winter weary housewives, the spring hides a drab understratum under its outer contentment. Spring house cleaners glance wistfully through cloudy windows—then determinedly gather up scrub brushes and dust cloths and cleaning pails and busy themselves shining the interiors of homes to match the new exterior cleanliness of lawns and gardens.

All the world in the spring freshens itself inside and out. Often, though, there is one vital spot left in impurity and neglect. The heart is forgotten. Sometimes after a long, turbulent winter it is damp and grey and has the smell of decay pricks the nostrils. Let us revive it to beauty from by room.

As we clean the kitchen cupboards this year, let us stack the kitchen of the heart. It is grubby with selfishness, dark with doubt. It will need an energetic arm to bring back its enchantment. The dining room of the heart will need a sturdy broom to make room for the luminous kindness it lacks. It has been piled high with the rubbish of dusty words. The heart's bedrooms are dismal with jealousy. The windows will need to be freshly papered with trust and rugs of love will have to be spread on the floors. The halls are enclosed with hatred. The attic should be opened to the warm faith shine in. We find fear has tarnished the living room. It will require draping with sympathy and polishing with truth. Finally, we climb up to the attic. Here we are confronted with a tremendous task. We have stored away in the attic boxes crammed with old sins and their grouches and grumbles. We realize that none of the debris of the attic should be left to accumulate and multiply.

When we opened the heart and let the sunshine of honesty in, the untidy heart became a thing of distaste and repugnance. Cleaning commenced in earnest and surely we cleaned each cluttered corner. Restoration became an enchanting miracle. We gained with pride of achievement, unlimited courage and long hour hope. Now, with our cleanliness and loveliness facing us everywhere, we proudly fling wide the doors to the searching summer sun of contentment and happiness.

SPRING CLEANING

Why the discontented frown — the shrug of self disdain?
There's no room for troubles when the spring is here again:
Spring clean all the cobwebs from your cold and selfish mind.
Then cast away each bitter doubt — new life you'll surely find.

Climb up to the attic and destroy the sighs and tears,
Sweep it clean of grouch and grumble; dust it well of fears,
Scrub the floor with sympathy and paint the walls with truth,
Hey, you discover you've renewed the dull old attic's youth.

Then start on the bedrooms and the living room and hall,
Whisk cobwebs of dark jealousy from each dismal wall,
Hang up pictures that will cheer the guest who tarries there
And lack a loving carpet on the floor and on the stair.

Renovate the kitchen and transform the dining room,
Those painful hasty words you said need a sturdy broom,
Here must human kindness hold the ties of kindred fast
And here must be the furniture of love that long will last.

Now your life is ready for the searching summer sun,
You've driven out the winter and the spring has begun,
Here's fresh hope and happiness have gained a splendid start;
You say—I'm sure it's been worthwhile to spring clean this old heart."

This and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

This is a continuation of the subject of Wednesday's column on the status of the thirteenth session of the Status of Women Commission. The discussion on the access of women to the mass media proved to be stimulating, mainly because the progress report which had been prepared by the UN Secretariat was not adequate, especially when dealing with the access to the broadcasting profession. It was a lesson in diplomacy to hear the quite blunt and critical remarks given in the preliminary debate and then to read the benignsounding phrases of the resolution arising from the debate. This subject will be left until the fifteenth session and the resolution asks for a further report on the progress of women in the teaching profession based on authoritative sources, taking into account the debates in this past session.

Under the heading of economic opportunities for women, the Commission had before it a report by the UN Secretariat on the access of women to training in the professions and in the fields of architecture, engineering and the legal profession. Statements made by delegates about conditions in their respective countries and the recommendations that studies of other professions should also be undertaken, made a question, one by Argentina that cottage and semi-skilled industries should be studied, was asked by the United Kingdom that the "middle class" of professional women, thousands of women were employed, should be given special consideration, was interesting advanced.

It was interesting to hear the World Health Organization as to the expanding opportunities for women in the dietary engineering, a rapidly developing profession. WHO is giving assistance to governments for environmental sanitation programmes in the field. The World Health Organization welcome the Commission's advice on the increasing opportunities for women in the field. The World Health Organization welcome the Commission's advice on the increasing opportunities for women in the field. The interest in measures designed to increase the number of women in the medical, dental and paramedical professions; for the period 1955 to 1956, WHO fellowships in these professions had been awarded to 1,000.

Also considered under economic opportunities for women was the question of age of retirement and the right to pension. This is a matter which has come up time and again brought forth much interesting material. It was generally felt that there should be no difference between men and women workers with respect to the age of retirement, pensions, social computing, and rights to pension, and that retirement age should be flexible, rather than determined according to rules applicable to men and women. It was felt that non-governmental organizations should be consulted about the equal rights of women and to retirement and pension, and it was recommended that all states members of the UN facilitate the employment of women in the world would implement the services.

A report by the UN Secretariat on UN advisory services program in the field of human rights was then considered. A report on the importance of making greater use of expert assistance in the Arab states, including "follow-up" activities. The value of holding seminars in various parts of the world would implement the

UN Children's Fund Slowly Revises Old Story of Want

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Hunger and disease are an old story for 750,000,000 people in underdeveloped areas of the world.

But experts say that a new chapter is being written this year in the United Nations Children's Fund spreads its money and knowledge in hard currency items solve health problems.

One of the fund's top-ranking workers is Canada-born Mrs. Adelaide Sinclair. Former executive assistant to the deputy minister of national welfare at, Ottawa, she joined the international organization two years ago as the fund's deputy director.

Mrs. Sinclair, writing in a special issue of the bulletin issued by the fund, says one of the most important questions is how the fund decides where to give its help.

GOVERNMENTS ADVISE

The answer, says Mrs. Sinclair, is that the fund does not decide. The country with the problems determines what its children's greatest needs are.

"Each government knows best its most serious and pressing problems" she says.

"Governments might call in experts from the Children's Fund and the World Health Organization to discuss a job the country can't do alone. Once the question is clear, staff and technical experts have been analyzed, detailed proposals are made.

IMMENSE TASK

But the work of the Children's Fund is not simple as it attempts to attack hunger and defeat disease, on slim budget.

Last year the fund's income was $23,000,000 of which Canada contributed $600,000. Canada is expected to match this amount this year.

Fund officials have estimated that the budget will reach about $30,000,000 by 1960 but this amount still is small when compared with the need.

Jotting Down Don't-Forgets Makes for Happier Bon Voyage

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

By the time you read this we hope to be savoring our Bastille Day lift French on the Paris morning newspapers. But as we write we are still wallowing in pleasant anticipation of our trip to Europe — and all the inevitable little chores of preparation we'll try not to leave for the last minute if we probably will.

Our list of things to do and get grows as discouragingly as the legendary monster: for every item we had we chop off two take its place. Between what has and what hasn't been done, it's now sizeable enough to make a fisherman's worth of the less obvious items, that you, like us, might easily forget if we didn't start jotting them down well in advance.

Luggage selection — It was time we replaced our battered pigskin bags for sufficient wayear. Together with the straw baskets that come free with the goodies we always buy in the native markets of the tropics, they were making us look like refugees from grants than tourists.

We are deeply devoted to the proposition of the fewer bags the better, preferably one to a traveller. This simplifies matters immeasurably when it comes to collecting, claiming baggage, custom-clearing and carrying them.

At $9 each we picked two tin different colors for quick identification (Black Steamer Trunk lightweight) cases of the convenient and popular new type with one of it's huge tapered flap. The other sides are metal-reinforced, with four accessible inches, but with poor accessibility.

The same key fits both locks and there's a spare. We'll each carry one on our persons. Incidentally, that should always be kept locked in hotel rooms.

After all this talk about limiting ourselves to one bag each, we're planning to buy a fabric-along a small-to-medium size additional bag for what we buy en route.

In addition, Shirley's purse will be packed with two plastic tote bags with zippered compartments for passports, tickets, money and the like. It is roomy enough for extra cigarets, film, cosmetics, reading books and any small but heavy articles we may think of we've just as soon not have added to the weight of checked baggage.

Tobacco — Cigarets are expensive in Europe and European brands are not our taste.

Most pipe tobacco, particularly English brands, is as good as any but we've found most of it too moist to keep lit. And it is, of course, illegal to smuggle Europeans like their cigars so dry that we'd discard them as "we'll bring our own dry fills with habits with us.

Medicines — Assuming there's no reason why your doctor won't let you use any of these, you might follow our lead in having handy aspirin and paregoric. Paregoric is a cure for the tiniest tacks-of-all-cures; vitamins; a stomach settler; and a laxative if it can't be induced to mix with water in best, since local tap water usually just limpid its effectiveness).

We don't use them, but you may want anti-motion sickness pills. And if you're under any kind of treatment remember to get your prescription refilled.

Some books still do not supply soap and most European toilet issue seems to be made from rejected sandpaper, so you might add these.

A few don't-forgets:

Electric shaver converter plug. Identification tags for your luggage.

If you're closing up your house, make sure a friend or relatives has your complete itinerary and the police know who it is. Shut off the gas, and the water and the phone; board out the pets; discontinue mail and delivery temporarily; and have the post office divert or — preferably — forward mail.

If you're leaving children home with a sitter, give detailed written instructions of their routine written out in case they don't know enough food and petty cash around.

The little things in your packing — names and addresses of people and shops to look up; exactly forgotten articles of apparel such as garters, suspenders, shoe laces, shoe horn, handkerchiefs, grooming aids, ball point pen.

And make sure your bills, insurance premiums, mortgage and car payments are up to date.

If you think of anything else . . . well it's too late to tell us. But let it come — quick, before you forget as we did.

CANADIANS IN SUDAN — Three Canadian women are on the staff of a nursing school established under the auspices of the World Health Organization at Khartoum in the Sudan. Here at her desk is Evelyn Taylor of Toronto, senior nurse educator and director of the nurses' training centre. Nursing as a career is receiving increased recognition in the Sudan and the first class of graduates will be used to instruct other Sudanese. Other Canadians at the school are June Taylor of Toronto and Rose Fisher of Halifax. (CP Photo).

Three Canadian Nurses Making Good in Sudan

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—The work of three Canadian nursing instructors in the Sudan was described by an American colleague visiting New York on home leave.

Evelyn Jatheson and June Taylor, both of Toronto, and Rose Fisher of Halifax are the Canadian members of the Khartoum nursing school staff along with two Americans and one Syrian girl. The school is under the auspices of the World Health Organization.

Mrs. Ethel Murray of New York, who went to Khartoum in 1957 after a tour of duty in Liberia with the W.H.O., interviewed while on leave here, said she believes the Sudanese students receive better training than some American nurses—"I really do."

"We teach the regular three-year nursing course that is standard with the international Council of Nursing", said Mrs. Murray, adding that all the students speak English.

"We have all taken Arabic lessons and we take a great interest in conversing with the people in their own language."

Highly trained in their profession, the nurses range in age from 25 to 40. Most of them have BA and MA degrees from such universities as McGill and Montreal.

"Education is needed because in the W.H.O. work we are dealing with different cultures," said Mrs. Murray, noting that Miss Jatheson went to Khartoum from North Borneo.

Each instructor specializes in a particular field at the school. June Taylor, for instance, handles obstetrical and surgical instruction.

"Miss Fisher is the 'baby' of our staff—she is 25—but when she came out in 1958," said Mrs. Murray.

The students are given practical training and receive lectures in English on the functioning of "the whole machine." They travel into the interior of the country for public health and maternity training.

Contact Club Joins WA for Cosmetic Talk

The members of the Contact Club of Christ Church met on Monday evening for a short business meeting.

A number of "thank-you" letters were read and acknowledged. The roll call showed 30 members present. The girls were reminded of the Corporate Communion on April 19, and as many as possible are urged to attend. Progress of plans for the Fashion Show and coffee party were given.

The meeting was adjourned and the members joined members of the Evening Branch of the W.A.

The Evening Branch had as their guest Mrs. Jordan, who has been employed by a cosmetic firm for ten years. Mrs. Jordan's talk was both interesting and helpful. She gave many hints on how to use make-up properly and did a skin analysis on Mary Muir.

The meeting closed with the serving of refreshments by members of the W.A.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

REGISTERED NURSE WRITES SPECIAL THANK-YOU NOTES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me an appropriate wording for notes I would like to write to various undergraduate nurses who are my profession (I am an R.N.), including graduates and nurses, who ask me considerably in the matter-ing my lincence and my pride in my profession. Also, what about women (two of them not even members of my profession) went to the trouble and attempt to destroy both? And this attempt was successful. They got rid of my health and the passing away of my mother. Thank you for your help.—R.N.

Your note of gratitude and appreciation for the help of diverse kind people, in the main, might be worded somewhat like this: Dear Doctor Adams,

I wish I had the words to thank you adequately for your wonderful understanding and for your kind letter now in the most difficult days when I was struggling to maintain my license to carry on in the profession I chose—how and most unfortunately had been dealt a blow against me. I am deeply grateful for your faith in me and your willingness to help me to find a way to express this faith. Always I shall strive to deserve your faith and your loyalty.

God bless you, Doctor Adams, for your goodness and humanity. Sincerely grateful to you, and again my deep and abiding appreciation.

Sincerely yours,

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

"JESUS, TENDER SHEPHERD, HEAR ME"

Jesus, tender Shepherd, hear me;
Bless Thy little lamb tonight;
Through the darkness be Thou near me,
Watch my sleep till morning light.

All this day Thy hand hath led me,
And I thank Thee for Thy care;
Thou hast clothed me, warmed and fed me;
Listen to my evening prayer.

Let my sins be all forgiven,
Bless the friends I love so well;
Take me, when I die, to heaven,
Happy there with Thee to dwell.

This tender bedside hymn for children has been a favorite with little boys and girls for well over a century.

A Scottish minister's daughter, Mary Lundie Duncan, was its author, and it was written to be sung as an evening hymn for her own children.

Mrs. Duncan was born at Kelso, Scotland in 1814. She married a minister, the Rev. William Wallace-Duncan, and her sister became the wife of the eminent Scottish hymn writer, Dr. Horatius Bonar. Dr. Bonar was the author of many of the church's great hymns — "I Heard The Voice Of Jesus Say", "Thy Way, Not Mine, O Lord", "I Lay My Sins On Jesus", and others.

Mrs. Duncan's writing career was cut short when she died in 1840 at the age of 26. Some 30 of her hymns were published by her mother in a little memorial volume entitled "Hymns For My Children".

"Jesus, Tender Shepherd, Hear Me" is sometimes sung to an old German melody and sometimes to a second tune which was composed for it about 1838 by Charlotte A. Barnard, a young English woman. Mrs. Barnard was born just two days before Christmas, in 1830, the year that red to Charles Cary Barnard in 1831 and several years later she adopted the pen name of "Claribel". Under this pseudonym she turned out several collections of songs and ballads which became unusually popular. She died at Dover, England, in 1839.

One and one-half lbs. raw chicken livers, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon cayenne, - cup rendered-out chicken fat or butter, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, 1 clove garlic, 2 teaspoons dry mustard, 2 tablespoons grated onion, 2 tablespoons grated onion. Add 1½ cups water to livers and simmer gently 30 minutes. Add all remaining ingredients and put through finest knife of food chopper 3 times. (If desired now add 2 egg yolk and ¼ cup fine bread crumbs and stir over low heat until thickened a little more). Press into plastic moulds or small cartons, cover with foil or light lid to seal. By Viva Richmond Graham

"Your forebears have economized for you. Through long ages, they sat mutely by their fireides, spinning and weaving in quiet leisure. Your song is made of their silences." — from "My Life" by Emma Calve.

Luck played a part in the coverlet quest, in answer to the door-bell's ring at the Antique Shop established by Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Wrightmeyer on Dundas Street.

"Coverlet? Yes, we have several, though I really am not an authority on them," replied Mrs. Wrightmeyer modestly. "However, I've been told this attractive, durable type of bed covering was once a universal, pioneer fireside craft, handed down from generation to generation, and the second heyday of the four-poster bed (then a chief indicator of all owners' rank and influence) when a baker's dozen of quilts were a must in every bride's trousseau. Costly coverlets, (once known as coverlids) were highly prized; objects of great and esteem, even bequeathed in wills.

"Adept in the mysteries of securing beautiful dyes from roots, bark, gums and blossoms at hand, creative fingers of pioneer housewives not only skilfully spun, dyed and wove linen and wool, but performed each successive step beside their own firesides. (Spinning requires warmth.)

"Now, here are some early coverlets. Notice the seams down the middle, since the old looms were very narrow (from 28 to 40 inches wide) and two widths were needed to cover the breadth of a bed." Mrs. Wrightmeyer drew forth a red and blue one, as well as a navy and by blue basic wool coverlet woven on a white linen warp in an Greek-key geometric design. Then elaborately designed, one-piece coverlets, the sort usually met, of a later date, woven upon French looms invented between 1846 and 1850.

DESIGNS CONVEY MESSAGE

Designs, explains Miss Lazier, "speak of the primitive, history or geography with such fanciful names as: "Checkers," "String Quilt," "Rose and Tulip Rose" (on one side) and "Chariot Wheel" (on the reverse side), "Lee's Surrender," "Rose of the Valley," "Churn-Whirl," "Lover's Knot," and "Mrs. Cleveland's O." Pioneer women proved themselves true daughters of Eve in originating new patterns by their individual sense of colour and composition, and displaying ingenuity.

"Great interests are the gifts of history to the heart," says Santayana, and such an interest is of decorative weaving. "That was woven by my great grandmother," you hear it from where I may see it daily, even if it is worn. It means a lot to me," and "my grandmother gave this to me. She was the most wonderful lady in the world," are the sort of remarks which testify that these precious heirlooms are not to be sold. Jaques, "weave a tender spell." They are destined rightly to constoried treasury of Canadiana such as the charming story told by the late Mrs. A. E. Anderson, (beloved mother of Mrs. Ralph Bell) of the gift of a small northerly Hastings county village. Her coverlet was ever enlivened by quiet, simple delights such as the frag- rance of new-mown hay, and the little bake shop each Saturday, when she and her young husband, come noon, would walk down and buy a hot, fresh loaf of white bread, the first of the weekly treat.

REFRENDED STRANGERS

"Interest was always heightened, whenever strangers appeared, who were soon refrended, especially by my husband. Thus, on such a Saturday noon, in spring time, he met and talked with a young Englishman, just over from Liverpool. (That is what he said), to take up farming some distance from our village. I thought him very nice and waiting wife, and wrapped up the rest of the cold loaf (we highly prized by our guest who stayed for lunch) and sent it home with him. He came back to believe, but for many Saturdays after that, the Englishman, who came in "to do some buying in the village" would drop around just at lunch time and stay for lunch. He always seemed famished. I always found myself admiring both the rest of the fresh loaf "which she loved to eat," spread thickly with things like jam, pickles or jelly — or anything I might have on hand for his wife. At times, I will confess, I felt unfairly slighted by this seemingly so self-indulgent and neglectful of a wife we just never met!

Those were horse-and-buggy days. One Autumn day, we had occasion to drive by the Englishman's farm. My husband suggested that we stop long enough to pay them a short call. A quick glance revealed —why we had a weekly guest; why we never saw his wife, Everything was in order. Yet, the welcoming joy of the young gaunt woman, clad in blue, tattered gingham that matched hopeless-haunted blue eyes this peered through tousled black hair quite illuminated the dull, one-room dwelling. In the entire miserable environment that held a chinaless teapot, a bare deal table, a pot of beets (the sole contents of the kitchen shelf), an old wood-stove, one bit of beauty shone forth, the beautiful coverlet on the bed.

"Because it was the only possible conversation-piece, I commented on its beauty. And I realized how much it meant to my wife as she replied: "My grandmother, whom I adored, made it, her own mother's loom used, gave it to me before I was married."

When we prepared to leave, as my husband helped me into the buggy, we vowed we suddenly ran into the house returning at once with something in her arms which she laid in my feet, saying, "Please, I want you to have this," declaring she wanted to express their thanks and appreciation for what we had done for her and her husband, and my coming to call: "You're the first we've seen for some time here."

It was—the beautiful coverlet.

If you could have seen the pleading in her eyes. Refusal was impossible. I had to take it.

I wept all the way home, and as I scolded: "But . . . it was all she had. It meant all the world to her!" my husband put his arm about me and said, "There there, my dear, when it is far better to receive than to ever refuse."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Charles F. — She says she still loves me.

Eileen J. — I was only 18.

Charles F. — I have recently returned from Navy service to face an awful shock. My parents told me that the girl I planned to marry had been involved with a married man of our community and that there had been quite a scandal.

I didn't think Eileen would have the nerve to look at me again, but she called me and begged to see me. I finally went and was shocked by the difference in her. She had lost about 20 pounds and really looked like a case for a mental home. She told the whole thing had been a horrible mistake, that she had always loved me and still does and wants to marry me.

My parents say I'd be nuttier than she is if I march down the aisle with her, but in a way I feel I love her more than ever. do feel she is basically a good kid and I know that my self involved with was the lowest thing on two feet.

Eileen J. — I know how Charlie feels and I certainly wouldn't blame him if he never wanted to look at me again. Even if we hadn't planned to get married before Charlie left for the service, why would he or anyone else want to marry a girl who had been the scandal of the community?

All I can say in my own defence is that I was only 18 and this man was more than twice my age. He had had many affairs before and everybody admired him for his handling of it. I was so flattered when he took an interest in me that I was just swept off my feet.

I have never been really serious about any of the escorted and fascinating seducer of more than one girl of 18 of sound character and upbringing also knows better than to subject herself to such an unusual temptation. Yes, every seducer is a bit of a psychopath and the most aggressive male becomes disheartened in the face of persistent, quiet disinterest.

An important question both Charlie and Eileen ought to ask themselves is why is Eileen now so impatient for marriage? After a disappointing love affair, individuals find it necessary to take some time to pull themselves together again. They don't know their real feelings until they have given themselves a recuperative period.

Much of what Eileen says suggests that it is not love so much as fear that draws her to Charles at this time. Her lack of understanding of Charles' "awful" parents' indolates immaturity of thinking and feeling. Surely, even a very young girl can understand that parents wouldn't want their son to marry a girl who has just been involved in a scandalous affair.

Eileen is clearly in a dreadful position at this time and is trying desperately to save herself. The only reason that we can see for Charles' loving her "more than ever" is that he is touched by her helplessness. These two elements make a very poor basis for marriage. If there is any real love involved on either side here, it will survive a good long wait.

INTRODUCING new foods to your baby isn't always easy—each one has its own particular eating pattern. If you find he vehemently rejects a new taste even when he's hungriest at the very beginning of a feeding, stop—give him a few bites or swallows of something he knows. Then try the new one.

The Golden Years

A Little Cash, Initiative, Courage And You Can Retire in a Trailer

By THOMAS COLLINS

"My experience might help other persons who are retiring with small incomes. . ."

This is an educated and well-mannered widow speaking. She has found peace and happiness in the sunshine of Phoenix, Ariz., and is living comfortably on $100 a month.

"A few years ago I was left alone by the death of my husband," she says. "Only those can understand who have experienced the loneliness of three meals a day and long, long evenings with no one to speak to.

"We had a small house, but I was unable to keep up repairs and expenses so decided to sell and move into a small apartment. Set I found my small income would not provide even the very poorest apartment. I had to go into my small savings to get by.

"And with no money, not even to go to a movie, I found myself more lonely than ever."

She then tried sharing an apartment with another woman. She discovered that after having her own home for many years and doing things as she pleased, it didn't work out.

She next tried "living in" with a family, helping with the children in exchange for room and board. "But I was not able physically to perform the duties heaped upon me. I never had an hour's privacy except when asleep because the children followed me into my room. . ."

LONGED FOR PRIVACY

She says she loved children, but she longed for a few hours of privacy in order to rest and collect her senses.

Finally, one day in Phoenix she passed a trailer court. She went in and talked to the proprietor. She left with an idea.

"By watching the ads in the paper I was able to purchase a good used house trailer for cash," she says. "I took my savings and paid cash because I wanted something I could call my own.

"In the court where I live are many older people. Some are employed, others are not able to work, but they live comfortably and contented. There are some who are ill or slightly crippled who would not be able to live alone were it not for the kindness of their neighbors to assist them. Kind neighbors offer to drive them to church, to market or to the doctor."

"A person alone can live here for $100 a month. A couple would need $125 or more if a car is used frequently. . ."

NEED COURAGE

Before you try what this woman has done, be reminded that she is a remarkable widow. Not many women her age would have the initiative and courage to keep hunting for the life they wanted until they found it. If you have the same sort of stuff, be you man or woman, contact the Chamber of Commerce in Phoenix and ask about trailer courts. Or the chamber of commerce in any other part of the country you like. There are used trailers and trailer courts all over.

You'll be cutting things mighty close on $100 a month for an individual. And as a couple, even with a paid-for trailer, I wouldn't try it for less than $150 a month. Still, if you've got the spunk, this widow shows what can be done. There's a lesson in it for those of you with $200 to $400 a month retirement income who wonder what dire things are going to happen to you. Nothing will if you strike out to find what you want at a price you can pay. It may be a trailer in Phoenix. It may be a red-clay pottery in the hills of Tennessee. It may be anything — we're all different.

Garden Notes

Frost --- The Unknown Quality

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

It would be natural to suppose that the deep freeze of the past winter would reduce our garden pests but don't toss away the spray gun. The soil pests which remain active in cold weather dig in deeper but many do not need to do that. The slimy slug, which due to its high moisture content should be killed by a light frost, survives the hardest winter under a bit of wood or a few leaves. Aphis and red spider mites lay their eggs on bare branches and they have already begun to hatch out. The coldest winter does not decimate their numbers.

A long cold winter seems to favor the pests. Their enemy the bird is starved and hampered in extremely cold weather when the ground is from or covered with snow for long periods. In mild spells the birds pick up thousands of caterpillars and insect eggs. When they begin to feed their broods the number is greatly increased. Those of us who have feeding stations know that the cardinals, jays, woodpeckers and many others are with us all winter and since a bird is said to eat three times its weight in a day the toll of insects is very heavy, especially in mild winters.

Ground frost, wind frost, air frost and frost by radiation; even the experts do not agree on their cause and effect. There are those who tell us to plant fruit trees on a high area as frost flows down into hollows. Others advise planting in low land, claiming that wind frost does the most damage.

You who have no choice of high or low ground in a small garden may still have the protection of a wind break by planting your fruit trees on the south side of a house, a garage, or plant a high hedge.

Strawberries and semi-hardy perennials are in greater danger of frost damage where mulch has been applied than where the ground has been left bare. Early mulching is a danger to these plants. It will keep down weeds, conserve moisture and keep berries clean but do not apply it until all danger of frost is past. The soil under the mulch is warmer than open soil but the air directly above a thick straw mulch may be as much as 10 degrees lower than that over bare soil.

To plant a garden in the frozen north an air force officer stationed at Whitehorse in the Yukon has built a seven-foot fence of wood with plastic glass siding to counteract the constant winds. The soil which is highly alkaline and has a sub soil of gravel has been treated with sulphur to neutralize it and a quantity of sawdust dug in to provide humus. He only insect pests are black flies and mosquitos.

Scouting activities

By CRIS F. LEGGAT

The 10th Belleville held their annual "Parents' Night" Wednesday, at Holloway St. United Church with about 100 people present.

Holloway is a friendly group and makes everybody welcome. Invocation by Rev. C. W. Coleman and Flag Break by the Sea Scouts opened the meeting and from then on formality ceased to exist. A pack of 44 Cubs rendered a "Grand Howl," worthy of real wolf country. DCM Mac McClelland explained the opening ceremonies of a Cub pack. Harold Gullingdyke introduced CM Art Gibson, who, with his Cubs, gave some interesting demonstrations. Scout Harold McDonald assists Akela Gibson who with the Sixers form a pack to be proud of. The Sixers are: Yellow, Dennis Rump; Blue, Brian Smith; brown, Roger Scriven; red, Donald Deadman; grey, David MacCormick and white, Harold Townsend.

SM Harold Frederick, introduced by Dr. J. H. Craig, had his boys erect a tent without tent pegs, quite a trick.

It was a large tent and the Scouts showed real proficiency in the use of knots. In a very few minutes the tent was up.

D. C. Phil Alicorn approved it after a thorough inspection. The Sea Scouts were efficient and looked exceedingly smart in their uniforms. A small Troop consisting of eight Scouts: Jim Tilker, Ted Booker, Arlen Wadsworth, Gary Thibeault, John Hutchison, David Craig, Larry Lucas and Keith Bishop-hour. Maybe with an overflowing Cub Pack it is good to have a small Troop, lots of room for going up.

Mr. Lyle Bowers introduced D. C. Phil Alicorn who explained the purpose of the District Staff. Groups needing assistance would find ready and willing help from staff members who work at all times to further the cause of Scouting in Belleville. The D.C. presented D.S.M. Harry Smith, D.C.M. M.J. McClelland and D.C.M. Mrs. Lillian Ashley. Several members of the L.A. were present including secretary J. H. Hodgson who puts in a great many hours in the interests of Scouting. F. J. Lancaster, L.A. president, spoke on the life of Baden Powell. His remarks were brief but included many highlights of this great man's history.

Mr. Elgin Moynes thanked the speaker and then the Scouts served a bountiful lunch prepared by Mrs. Craig and the Mothers' Auxiliary. The Cubs forming a circle held their closing ceremonies concluding with the Cub vesper and benediction by Rev. T. F. Townsend.

Chairman Maurice Martin may be assured that the parents and guests appreciate the efforts of the group committee. It was a very well organized affair. Everybody was pleased at the good behavior and smartness of the Cubs and Scouts and now have a better knowledge of what the 10th leaders are doing. A good show well presented.

LOCAL ASSOCIATION

Groups wishing to show films on water safety please contact Dr. J. H. Craig.

The Cub camp at Quin-Mo-Lac will be from August 15th to 22nd.

1st Belleville — A ambulance badges to James Pickering, Robert Hobbs, Barry Athey, George Fisher, David Fort.

STAR-GAZING

LAS VEGAS Nev. (AP)—Space scientist E. B. Doll says that within 50 years fairly large colonies will be established on the moon. He also predicts that artificial planets carrying several thousand persons will be placed in orbit around the sun or one of the planets. Doll, was star-gazing in a talk before the World Congress of Flight.

ARMED CONVICT

into the compound quickly took control. Floodlights bathed the area as the sporadic firing waned and died. Clouds of tear gas climbed into the crisp air.

Guard Laurence Corrant, one of the hostages, said they were concerned at convict threats to douse them with naptha and then them alive if an armed assault was attempted.

"We heard the convicts yell 'They're coming in!' We got mattresses and held them up to the bars of the cells to keep them from throwing in the naptha. We heard the bazooka' shots, then some running.

RELEASED FROM CELL

"We were still holding up the mattresses when we saw a national guardsman. He told us to get them out of the way. He opened the cell and we left on the dead run. We ran through the main cellblock, and out through the women's quarters."

Another guard, David Hinton, 28, said: "I thought I wouldn't get out. I didn't sleep a wink last night. I'm going to sometime today, I guess, but I woke up at the sound of the shooting."

Mrs. Victor Baldwin, wife of another hostage guard, said: "I was dead afraid for the national guard to try to rescue them. I didn't want them to go in, but thank God they did."

During the shooting, the free hostages escaped from the prison across the street to the administration building. There they were met by prison officials and their wives. They embraced tearfully and went to the sheriff's home of Warden Floyd Powell.

IDENTIFY LEADERS

After their release, the hostages guards identified the ringleaders of the revolt as Jerry Myles, about 30, a burglar with a long criminal record; Lee Smart, 19, and George Alpon, about 25.

Warden Powell said earlier he believed the rioters had at least two 30-30-calibre rifles and 19 rounds of ammunition.

Myles had been speaking for the convicts during the rebellion over a loudspeaker system. He complained of unsanitary conditions and poor treatment. He and other rioters called for the resignation of Orbie Erwin Hutto, warden of the Montana board of parsons. Wright, 42, disclosed Friday he had submitted his resignation three weeks ago.

The start of the original violence was the deputy warden Theodore Rothe, 40. Guard William Cox, 41, was stabbed.

Warden Powell himself was seized by the convicts Thursday. He spent three hours as their captive, then was freed with the help of convict Earl H. Jackson, 41, who was armed with a meat cleaver.

four Imperial Oil tankers, the Quebec, Collingwood, Hamilton and Cornwall, also an Imperial Oil tanker.

Meanwhile, the T. R. McLagan, flagship of the CSL fleet, was freed from a shoal in Lake Ontario, 20 miles west of Kingston, where she had been stranded since Wednesday. The McLagan was en route from Picton, to Buffalo with a cargo of 20,000 tons of iron ore pellets when she went aground.

Two - way traffic through the Soo canal began Thursday. Commander E. J. Bodenior of the United States coast guard said the icebreaker Mackinaw was having little trouble shepherding ships through an icefield in the eastern end of Lake Superior and the cutter Mesquite had opened a channel through river ice below the Soo.

Transport Minister Hees concluded discussions in Washington concerning pilotage regulations in the St. Lawrence Seaway. Canada has proposed that certain ships carry a pilot through the St. Lawrence Seaway and the St. Lawrence, Canso and Welland canals only in narrow waters. The U.S. wants pilots used throughout the seaway and the Great Lakes. Both countries agree Canadian and U.S. ships should be exempt from foreign pilotage regulations.

Before leaving Washington Friday, Mr. Hees said he was optimistic that "agreement could be reached on a uniform international pilot law.

High School Activities

On Friday, April 3, four Hi-Y girls, Ann Blakely, Carlene Smith, Ruth Slavin, and Kellie Burr left for the annual Hi-Y Conference, which was held in Montreal this year at the N.D.G. Y.M.C.A.

At each of the four banquets, a different speaker addressed a successful men who had travelled to all parts of the world, each in the work and development of the Y.M.C.A. On Saturday noon a representative from the United Nations talked on what the U.N. was doing to foster International Brotherhood.

QUADS BORN

FRANKFORD — About 150 Cubs, Scouts, Rovers, their pals and friends, assembled in Rose Lowery Hall, Frankford, last Wednesday night for their annual father — and — son banquet. It was one of the most successful social events ever held in the village.

M. W. Broughton, District Commissioner, who was guest speaker, traced the history of the Scout movement. He said with seven million Scouts in 57 countries, it ranks as the largest, most successful boys' movement in the world.

The speaker urged committees who sponsor Scout groups to take an active interest in the training of the boys.

"We are not interested in finding the best boy in town but in finding the best in every boy in town", was the way the committee described Scouting's emphasis on individual character training.

In conclusion he congratulated the Frankford Lions Club on their fine sponsorship of Scouting in the area.

A highlight of the evening was the presentation of a cleverly carved S-out emblem, handmarked specially for the occasion by famous trained trophy was presented to the Scouts by Arnold Stickle on behalf of his son, Francis, who was formerly assistant Scoutmaster of the troop.

FLED TO INDIA

Tibet in the near future. He was seen as slamming the door on Peiping's hopes for his return.

Breaking traditional silence, the 23-year-old god-king charged that the Chinese Communists had broken their 1951 promise to respect Tibetan autonomy.

"By the end of 1955," he said, "a struggle had started in the Kham province, and this assumed serious proportions in 1956. In the subsequent struggle the Chinese armed forces destroyed a large number of monasteries. Many lamas were killed and a large number of monks and officials were taken and employed on the construction of roads in China, and the interference in the exercise of religious freedom increased."

The Dalai Lama, riding in a jeep, headed a convoy of followers as it left India's forbidden northeast frontier agency and arrived at Foothills, a military post marking the entry point from the lower regions of the Himalayan mountains into the hot plains of India's Assam area.

Wearing horn-rimmed spectacles and a maroon robe touched with yellow, he then drove by car 50 miles to this tea-growing town.

At Tezpur, he and his 130-member party entered an air-conditioned train bound for the Himalayan hill station and resort of Mussoorie where Tibet's religious and temporal ruler is scheduled to arrive Tuesday to take up residence under India's grant of political asylum.

In the Dalai Lama's 25-jeep convoy, furnished and guarded by the Indian army, were his 80-year-old mother, Ryaun Dzemmo; his sisters, Tsering Domme and Pema (Lotus); his 14-year-old brother, Ngari Rinpoche, and his elder brother, Gyalo Thondup, who came from his home in the Indian border town of Kalimpoong to meet the family.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

One of the Eastern senior "A" league's Damon-Pythias duos who were instrumental in raising the loop status to its present category three years ago, wants a divorce.

Yep, that's it. Ray Miron, boss man of the Cornwall Cheviex wants former palsy-walsy Wren Blair and his Whitby Dunlops kicked out of the loop, or something to that effect.

Mr. Miron objects to the long travel between his seaway city and Whitby. He would like to see Brockville in—and Whitby given the heave-ho. He claims one Samuel Pollock of the Hull-Canadiens agrees with him.

Here is what Miron told Don Scutter, sports editor of the Kingston Whig Standard:

"Eastern Ontario would be better off without Whitby in the league."

"From the point of view of travelling," claimed Miron, "it costs too much money to go to Whitby once a week or so to play a game. Sammy Pollock of the Hull-Ottawa Canadiens agrees with me on this. Wren Blair of Whitby has always claimed that the visiting club puts people in your arena. "Well, Blair had the world champions this year, and we hardly put more than 800 fans in the rink when Whitby played in Cornwall.

"Our revenue adds to $24,000 this past season," revealed Miron, "and our salary expenditures were over $30,000. How can you operate a club on this basis?

"We would be better off if Hull ran its senior club. Sammy Pollock operates all his teams in the Ottawa area and we could get Brockville back in the league. This would give us six clubs and the farthest travelling would be from Cornwall to Belleville.

"The Toronto Maple Leafs are talking of entering a senior club, but I don't see how it would be an advantage to our league. When would we play them? Right now we play in Whitby on Saturday nights. Toronto is talking about playing on Friday nights. How could we get our players off work to go away to play Friday and Saturday? It just isn't practical.

"We're crazy to run senior hockey for the benefit of the players," claimed Miron. "Two years before we entered the Allan Cup competition they had a senior team that reached the Eastern Canada semi-finals. Our salary roll then reached $1,100 a week. Now we're paying $1,350 a week and we can't give away tickets to people and have them come to the games.

"How can you compete with Whitby which has 16 players living in Oshawa or close to there and the rest from Toronto.

"You can get dozens of players to come to your training camp who are willing to play for you and don't worry about what you are paying. But you open the season and a week later they hear what every one else in the league is getting and they quit. Others will be paid as much. Most of them aren't worth it, but what are you going to do?

"Last fall I had Dick Matiussi and Ted Saunders at training camp, and they came to me and said they weren't happy and wanted to go to Toronto and see why they hadn't been given a chance to turn professional.

"What happened? They end up playing for Kitchener-Waterloo. Saunders scores 45 goals over the season and Matiussi develops as one of the stars of the Kitchener-Waterloo series.

"We offered them $100 a week and a job which was supposed to be the salary limit for average juniors. What did Kitchener give them that was better than our offer?

Miron, who claimed he still couldn't understand how Kingston could draw $20,000 more at the gate than Cornwall and still not be able to get a franchise, says he'll be back in the league next season if the rest of the clubs are willing to come down to our level and pay equivalent salaries.

"I pointed out to our bank manager that we have been the only club in Canada to beat Whitby twice in the playoffs for the Allan Cup, but he came back with 'this won't pay the interest on your overdraft.'

"Right now we figure that over the summer we can pay our debts. But next season if we didn't have to go to Whitby we'd stand a chance to make a bit more money."

Score Was 4-1

Canadiens were beaten 4-1 by Petes Friday night—their second loss in a row—leaving the best-of-seven final 2-2 with one game tied. The sixth game is Sunday at Hull.

Connelly scored four times for Petes in their 5-2 win over Hull Wednesday and tallied three times Friday as well as assisting on Wayne Body's single. Babcock assisted on all four goas Friday night.

Meanwhile, DeJordy, obtained from St. Catharines TeePees to replace injured goalie Jacques Caron, turned in his third steelar performance. He was rock-ed of a shutout by Gilles Tremblay who scored the first goal of the game early in the second period.

Before Hamilton was back, Connelly scored again when Tremblay was off for hooking.

Tremblay got his goal, a 15-foot slap shot, was within a half-minute of the end of the second period. Canadiens put on a terrific drive later in the period but Petes successfully defended their lead and Boddy scored the fourth goal when Tremblay was again off for tripping.

Petes' Connelly scored a pair of scrambly hockey with little work for the goalies.

Canadiens' power play didn't click twice when Hull - Ottawa was shorthanded in the period.

Things got hotter in the second with Chuck Hamilton getting a minor for slashing and a major for fighting with Yves Sarazzin. Connelly's hat trick—all three Tremblay scored Hull's only goal on a power play.

Confident Blake Thinks Habs Will End It Tonight

But Imlach Won't Give Up 'We Will Not Be Defeated:' Lays Plans for Fifth Game

MONTREAL (CP)—The toughest job in hockey, says Montreal coach Hector (Toe) Blake, is talking about it.

Blake, about to lead his National Hockey League champions tonight into what could be the last game of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup finals, said Friday night that on the side of glory, he's running out of quotes.

And he doesn't mind conceding the talking championship to rival Punch Imlach of the Toronto Maple Leafs. He's already won the Stanley Cup three times straight and can afford to be generous.

Imlach isn't running out of quotes but the Leafs appear to be running out of the magic that carried them from the league's last place to a Stanley Cup final. They trail Montreal 3-1 in the series, and face the formidable task of beating Montreal on it's home ice.

ROCKET RETURNS

Canadiens are running out of nothing but words, and are even getting some things back. Maurice (Rocket) Richard, hockey's greatest all - time scorer, said Friday night he is recovering well from a groin injury that sidelined him for the last game in Toronto and might be able to play tonight.

Everybody else appeared to be in fine shape except for big Jean Beliveau, who probably will through for the season with a back injury. Lately, he hasn't been needed much.

Blake, who has a gift for crunchy quotes, says: "We'll play this series one game at a time," and "this team is confident, but not cocky," was confident himself Friday night but not cocky.

"I don't want to believe I'll think the Stanley Cup is a bewitched thing. I'll have to be back in Toronto Thursday was a big one, but he had warned Canadiens against letting it go to their heads.

WHO CAN OUTLAST WHO?

He mentioned that the talk about Toronto's young team outlasting Montreal's veteran crew appeared ill-founded.

"I was heartened when I read that Dick Duff was exhausted after he scored the overtime goal on Tuesday," Blake said. "I knew our guys weren't that tired." Tuesday's game was won 3-2 by the Leafs.

Imlach, who talked the Leafs into believing they were of championship calibre even when they were floundering in the 10th position, isn't going to stop now.

"We won't be beaten," he said. "I've made all the arrangements for the next game in Toronto Tuesday."

"We're more determined than ever to win. We have come from behind and we can do it again.

"The Canadiens aren't champions yet."

Toronto's veteran left winger Bert Olmstead — a long - time member of the Canadiens until he was traded to Leafs before the beginning of the season, named Montreal's Bernie (Fleury) Geoffrion the man the most likely to ruin Olmstead's chances to play for the Stanley Cup tonight.

Geoffrion had his best last year and he came back to score six goals in the playoffs and help Montreal defeat Detroit Red Wings, Olmstead said. "He was sick before the season started, but he won the game for Canadiens Thursday. He is one of the best money players in hockey."

Geoffrion fired a goal and assisted on another in the third period Thursday when the Canadiens broke up what had been a close game and kicked the Leafs 3-1 in Toronto.

Favor Ottawa To Win Cage Crown

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Senior basketball championship best-of-five series between Southern Alberta Chiefs and Ottawa Fellers will be decided tonight in the fifth and final game of the series.

Fellers, down two games to none Wednesday night, bounced back to take the next two by convincing scores and thereby put themselves in a commanding position.

After blowing a 23-point lead, the Lethbridge club took the opener Monday night 70-53 and had to come from behind to take a 58-55 win Tuesday. That put them two games up and only one more to go to win the series and the championship.

But Fellers, a comeback team all season long, spotted the Albertans 77-50 Wednesday night and 79-50 Thursday to force the deciding game.

The Lethbridge team has been hit by flu, a complaint which benefited the Ottawa player since the series started.

Renews Bid For Another Title Fight

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lightweight Kenny Lane's casing today renewed its bid for another crack at the title with champion Joe Brown.

The Muskegon, Mich., challenger said he thought he earned another chance at Brown off his sixth - round technical knockout last night over another ranking lightweight, Johnny Busso of New York.

Jack Kearns, Kenny's manager said his $75,000 guarantee to Brown for another fight with Lane, still holds. "Let 'em make the match and I'll find the site," said Kearns.

Lane lost a close decision to Brown last July.

Leafs Pound Four Pitchers For 11-7 Win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The half-happy Toronto Maple Leafs—and Archie Wilson — are wagging meaningful tails in the International League.

Expected to make it a two-way battle for the pennant with defending champion Montreal, the Leafs pounded four Havana pitchers for 18 hits Friday night and six of them were over the Saw-ger Kings. The Leafs had 15 hits in Thursday's victory.

Wilson, who hit .274 last season, was the big man for the Leafs Friday. He was five-for-five, including two homers, as the latter broke it open in the late innings.

ROYALS GET 16 HITS

Montreal brought its record to 2-2 with a 14-hit attack and an 8-3 triumph over Miami. In other games, Buffalo defeated Columbus 4-1 and Rochester nipped Richmond 2-1.

Stan Jok also hit a homer in the Toronto onslaught, but counsel was Wilson in the seventh and eighth innings according for four runs as the Leafs scored three times in each frame. Tony Gonzales slammed a pair for Havana and George Alvarez hit one.

Reading Willace and veteran Sandy Amoros drove in six runs between them for the Royals. Willace had a triple off Ken Drews with the bases loaded in the sixth as the Royals beat Jesse Monteal's decisive five-run rally.

LEAFS FIVE-HITTER

Righthander Dallas Green, assisted by Fred Rodriguez in the final inning, limited the Jets with five hits as the Bisons broke into the win column in their home opener. Rookie Mackey Harrington provided the big output on attack for the Bisons. He collected two hits, scored twice and drove in three runs with a long winning run.

Rookie Jim McKnight's error in the fifth with the bases full in the ninth inning gave the Red Wings their victory over the Virginians. Ben Flowers held the Wings scoreless for seven innings before Richmond tied it in the eighth on a walk to Wally Shannon and a double by Charles' James off reliefer Johnny James.

"She's improving. I think that last one was over the green!"

Blair Has Good, Bad News For Western Puck Champions

WHITBY (CP)—Good news for Vernon Canadians:

Coach Wren Blair of Whitby Dunlops says the team is weaker offensively than it was when it won the Allan Cup in 1957.

Bad news for Vernon Canadians: Blair says the team will be stronger defensively as the best-of - seven Allan Cup final which opens at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Whitby will be attempting to do what Blair says no other senior team has done before—win the Allan Cup the year after winning the world hockey championship.

Whitby entered the finals by way of a 2-0 victory over Hull Legion in the best-of-three Eastern Canada senior championships. Vernon, who arrives here today, defeated Regina Pats, also in the best-of - seven western championships.

WON'T PLAY ON SUNDAY

But the opening day of the final is not auspicious for Blair's team. Fred Etcher, an opponent of Sunday hockey, will not be playing. Blair calls Etcher and Gordie Kyle "the best penalty-killing team in senior hockey."

Bobby Hassard, "one of the best players we have had here since the team moved up from Senior B to Senior A ranks in 1957, will take Etcher's place.

Sid Smith, former National Hockey League player, will be over as playing coach when the team visits Oslo and kept Whitby afterwards, is unhappy about the recent eastern championships.

He said Hull, described by Blair as one of Senior A calibre by Ontario Hockey Association standards, did not supply opposition to a team entering Allan Cup finals.

"I don't call Hull, Hull," he explained. "There are tipoffs you look for—how a pitcher holds the ball, the wrist motion he uses at the start of the winding, and how he swings his arms over his head."

Did Philley read Burdette when he banged out the double?

"I can't tell you," answered. Then he grinned and added:

"I will say the pitch was over. I wanted to—and friend, it was as wet as a bottle of beer."

Philly Says Newk, Wynn Use Spitball

CINCINNATI (AP)—The 1958 major league baseball season is only a week old but already the spit ball controversy is back in full bloom, this time with new names—Don Newcombe of Cincinnati and Early Wynn of Chicago White Sox.

Newcombe and Wynn were linked with using illegal pitch by Dave Philley, the pinchhitter supers of Philadelphia Phillies.

Furthermore, Philley said in an interview Friday, plenty of others throw the spit ball and the umpires take no action to stop it.

Philley also renewed accusations that Lew Burdette of the Milwaukee Braves pitches the spit ball.

LISTS EXAMPLES

Referring to a pinchhit double he banged off Burdette earlier this week, Philley said:

"He threw me a spitter, it's obvious. Willie Jones and Richie Ashburn had been concentrating all day about the spitter. Those guys would never do anything about it.

"Plenty of pitchers use it. Don Newcombe has one. Early Wynn has a beauty. Burdette throws it but I guess he's easy to pinch-hit against.

Philley, a 36-year - old outfielder, said he makes and memorizes pitchers' throwing habits.

"When I first came to the Phils after 15 years in the American League, I didn't get a hit my first 12 times at bat," Philley recalled, adding:

'READ' PITCHERS

"Know why? I hadn't begun to read the pitchers in this league. Now I have my own book on plenty of them. I can read them clear as a newspaper.

How does Philley read the pitchers?

"Rudy York taught me," he explained. "There are tipoffs you look for—how a pitcher holds the ball, the wrist motion he uses at the start of the winding, and how he swings his arms over his head."

Did Philley read Burdette when he banged out the double?

"I can't tell you," answered. Then he grinned and added:

"I will say the pitch was over. I wanted to—and friend, it was as wet as a bottle of beer."

Tribe Wins Five In Row; Red Sox Blank Yankees

Brodowski Indians' Big Star With Hitless Relief Jobs; Mizell Wins for Cardinals

By ED WILES
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Boston Red Sox not only brought up Dick Brodowski too soon, they also gave up on him too soon.

At the moment, the big right-hander has saved two of Cleveland's five victories and has claimed one for himself. He's done it with three hitless relief jobs for the Indians, who remain unbeaten while everyone else in the American League has lost at least twice.

Now 26, Brodowski was hoisted from Class D by the Red Sox in 1953 and had a 5-5 record. Back from service in 1955, he was 1-0 and peddled to Washington. The Senators let him go after an 0-4 showing, but the Indians brought him back last season after a two-year, 26-16 record in the minors.

JUST THREE RUNS

Combining his five appearances of last year with his 4 1-3 innings of work this season, Brodowski has a 0.00 earned run average for 14 1-3 consecutive innings of relief. He has given up just three hits in gaining this possible but improbable ERA.

He stretched that string with a two innings of perfect relief, Friday night as the Indians beat Kansas City 4-3 for a one-game lead over Chicago. The White Sox twirled the Tigers' tail again with a 6-5 decision over winless Detroit. Boston blanked the New York 4-0 on Tom Brewer's two-hit pitching, and Baltimore defeated Washington 4-3.

A double error by A's third baseman Hal Smith on Gordon Mirosch's ground ball gave the Indians the tie-breaking run in the two-run six-inning at Cleveland. All of Kansas City's runs came on homers — first-of-the-season shots by Whitey Herzog, Roger Maris and Smith—off Gary Bell, the best the A's opening day Brodowski's relief help.

Vic Power's first homer gave a second inning run to the Indians, who counted their others on a passed ball and a bases-loaded walk. But Daley was the loser in relief.

Brewer, who was beaten in Boston's opener by Bob Turley's two-hitter, beat the Yankee ace in a return match for the Red Sox' first shutout against New York since Aug. 7, 1958, when Willard Nixon beat the champs 1-0 in 11 innings. Pete Runnels (3-for-3) and Gene Stephens (3-for-3) doubled in succession for a first-inning run off Turley, then paired singles to get the Sox started for a three-run fifth.

Mickey Mantle's single in the fourth and Andy Carey's single in the fifth were the only hits allowed by Brewer, who retired just 15 in order. It was only fourth victory for the right-hander in 17 decisions against the Yankees.

Jim Rivera's pop, two - run double wrapped it up for the White Sox in the eighth inning. Breaking a 4-4 tie against Reliever Ray Narleski, now 0-3, Rookie Rodolfo Arias was the winner in relief, with some clutch help from Turk Lown. Rookie Norm Cash hit his second homer for the Sox. Both have been three-run shots off Frank Lary. Eddie Yost and Al Kaline homered for the Tigers.

Three walks and a sacrifice fly from pinch-hitter Gene Woodling gave the Orioles their tie-breaking run in the eighth off Washington's relief ace, Dick Hyde (0-1). Milt Pappas won with a six-hitter for the first complete game by the Oriole staff. Three walks, starting pitcher Jack Harshman's singe and a error gave the Nats their three in the second inning.

Imlach Named Top Personality

TORONTO (CP) — Punch Imlach, manager-coach of Toronto Maple Leafs, was announced Friday night as the top personality in hockey in a poll of fans conducted by Hockey News.

Toe Blake, coach of Montreal Canadiens who lead the Leafs 2-0 in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup finals, won the coach of the year award for the second consecutive season.

Rudy Pilous, owner and president of Buffalo Bisons in the American Hockey League; was voted executive of the year and Andy Bathgate, high - scoring right winger of New York Rangers of the NHL, topped the poll as player of the year.

The way he mowed down the San Francisco Giants on four hits Friday night, maybe Whitey (Vinegar Bend) Mizell has seen the errors of his ways.

Big Whitey, a 6-3 southpaw, has been a star character in the St. Louis Cardinals' "home movie" scheme, in which they film their pitchers and batters in action to discover flaws. The Cards have developed a lot of film, but Mizell never has developed into the pitcher he was expected to be when he won 22 games in his first two seasons with the Red Birds, back in 1956.

Now in two starts, he's put together two complete games. He finished what he started only eight times last season, when he won just 10.

LOST FIRST TRY

His first try this season brought a 6-3 defeat at the Giants — not a three-game set at St. Louis. But while giving up 10 hits, he gave up only three earned runs.

Friday night he didn't give up a hit at all for 8 1-3 innings, finally coming off with a 4-1 victory. Sam Francisco, Orlando Cepeda, who had two of the Giants' hits, fanned the side with the game's bonus run of the season in the ninth.

The Quinte Classic Bowling League, unbeaten Milwaukee and winless Pittsburgh played a 2-2 deadlock through after nine innings. The Chicago Cubs bombed Cincinnati 9-4 and took second place as Cincinnati slipped to third with a 5-1 defeat by Philadelphia.

The Cardinals chased young Mike Cuellar (0-1) with a two-run first inning when the first four men hit safely. Stan Musial's single and a double by Kenny Boyer produced the runs. Hal Smith's home run made it 3-0 in the fourth off Stu Miller, who pitched five-innings of one-hit relief.

HITTING POWER WINS

Solo home runs by Lee Walls and Ernie Banks and a two-run shot by Walt Moryn powered the Cubs to victory. Walls' game-winning blast came after Moryn's single and a double by Kenny Boyer produced the runs. Hal Smith's home run made it 3-0 in the fourth off Stu Miller, who pitched five-innings of one-hit relief.

'Not Fatigue, But Mistakes Cost Us Game,' Says Imlach

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs, at the point of no return if they lose, go into the fifth game of the Stanley Cup final tonight against Montreal Canadiens buoyed by manager-coach Punch Imlach's confidence that they can still take series.

It is a formidable task because the Leafs are on the short end of a 3-1 count in the best-of-seven showdown in which Canadiens have been the favorites all along.

"We could just as easily have won the Thursday game in Toronto, which we lost 3-2, and the series would have been all tied up," said Imlach after his team's arrival Friday night.

"After the game some of the boys said we lost it because they were tired. I had a look at the films in the morning and saw mistakes in judgment and checking we had made.

NOT TIREDNESS

"So I went into our meeting and told the boys it wasn't tiredness at all but their own mistakes which had cost us the game. If they had started believing that stuff about being pooped, they'd be ready to get all pooped again. Now they know what it was."

Imlach recalled that before the series opened here he said all his team needed was one victory in Montreal.

"Of course we'll have to win two here now, but we're going to take this Saturday game."

If sixth and seventh games are necessary they will be played in Toronto Tuesday and in Montreal Thursday.

It was when he looked at the films that Imlach said he saw what now has become probably the most celebrated unrecorded goal in Stanley Cup history.

He said the movies showed that the puck fired by George Armstrong early in the third period Thursday went right through the net. It was the third time it was claimed, that the same thing has happened.

SAY WENT THROUGH MESH

Imlach's explanation was that the puck must have hit in such a way as to carry right through the mesh.

What's more, he said, still full of confidence, that he ordered a second net to be draped over the present net for Tuesday's game in Toronto.

King Clancy, the Leafs' good-will ambassador-at-large, said he fitted a puck through the netting Friday after he had learned what the films showed.

Imlach said there was no mistake about what the film showed. The film was also treated so that the puck showed clearly in white. The sequence showed the net bulging and the puck striking the end boards.

Coach Toe Blake of Canadiens declined to get into an argument over the affair.

"I thought the puck just missed the net and that our goalie, Jacques Plante, may have kicked it. Anyway, the Leafs have been trying to get every gimmick going for them in this series in an effort to upset us. They won't do it."

CAMPBELL TESSE

From National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell came this brief comment: "The game was in charge of the officials, and the equipment is supplied by the home club and is supposed to be in order."

Coach Blake was confident his team can wind up the series tonight but made it plain he would not be the lookout for over-confidence on the part of his players.

"We're in the driver's seat," said Blake. "But we still have to win another game and we're not going to do it by reading the newspapers, watching television or the games or listening to the radio.

"The Leafs aren't going to be that fool that our boys will do what they have done before the final—come up with one that wins."

DAVIS CUP PLAY

WINNIPEG (CP) — Import tackle Frank Rigney, who led the offensive blocking in Winnipeg Blue Bombers' Grey Cup win last year, has signed with the Western Interprovincial Football Union club for the 1959 season.

Castro Might Have Made Minor Leagues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fidel Castro, as a baseball pitcher, had excellent control. He may have lacked major league stuff, but he could have made the grade in the minors.

This diagnosis of the Cuban prime minister comes from Jon Cambeis, who for years has scouted baseball prospects in the Caribbean area for Washington's American League club.

Cambeis said Friday he had a contract in mind when he watched Castro pitch in the late 1940s. Cuba's revolutionary leader was then a beardless undergraduate at the University of Havana.

"He had good control and major league spirit," Cabeis said.

Castro talked baseball Thursday night at the Cubell embassy with another right-handed pitcher, Pedro Ramos of the Washington Senators. Ramos won his second game of the season earlier in the day at Boston. He is one of several Cubans on the club.

Ramos said Castro hoped the major leagues would some day place a team in Cuba.

WORLD RECORD SET

TOKYO (AP) — Russian lightweight Rudolf Plyukfelder has claimed a world weight-lifting record with a three-lift total of 1,003½ pounds at the Sino-Soviet match in Taiyuan, Peiping radio says. The Russian's mark was five kilograms better than the official world record of 992 pounds, set by Soviet champion Trofim Lomakin, in 1957.

Hunting Dates Set Three Years Ahead

Ontario hunting seasons for deer, moose and upland game birds have been set for three ensuing years, Hon. W. J. Spooner, Minister of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, announced recently to the Legislative Committee on Fish and Game.

Commenting on the Department's decision, Dr. W. J. Harkness, Chief of the Division of Fish and Wildlife, stated that the long distance dating of seasons will assist hunters to plan vacations well ahead, and permit camp operators and outfitters to accept advance reservations with some sense of security.

From the biological standpoint, he said, there seems to be no logical reason why these seasons — which have varied little from year to year — may not be extended over a longer period than a year.

Hunting dates for 1959, 1960 and 1961 are as follows:

MOOSE

In Lake of the Woods area residents only may hunt from Oct. 1 to Dec. 24 in 1959 and 1960, from Sept. 30 to Dec. 23 in 1961.

In Rainy River District, residents only may hunt from Oct. 22 to Nov. 25 in 1959.

In Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury, Swastika and Timmins areas, residents may hunt from Oct. 15 to Dec. 24 in 1959 and 1960 from Oct. 14 to Dec. 23 in 1961. Non-residents may hunt from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15 in 1959, from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15 in 1960, and from Oct. 14 to Nov. 13 in 1961.

In the rest of Northern Ontario North of Lake Superior and the previously mentioned areas, residents and non-residents may hunt from Oct. 1 to Dec. 24 in 1959 and 1960, from Sept. 30 to Dec. 23 in 1961.

In the area south of No. 17 Highway in the Sudbury district residents only may hunt from Nov. 26 to Dec. 1 in 1959.

In Rainy River District residents and non-residents may hunt from Oct. 22 to Nov. 25 in 1959 and 1960, from Oct. 21 to Nov. 25 in 1961.

North of the northernmost CNR line west from the Quebec boundary to the Manitoba boundary, including all of the Kenora District, residents and non-residents may hunt from Oct. 1 to Nov. 25 in 1959 and 1960, from Sept. 30 to Nov. 25 in 1961.

North of Lake Superior and from the west boundary of Thunder Bay District to the Quebec boundary, residents and non-residents may hunt from Oct. 15 to Nov. 25 in 1959 and 1960, from Oct. 14 to Nov. 25 in 1961.

Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury, and North Bay north of the French and Mattawa Rivers, residents and non-residents may hunt from Oct. 31 to Nov. 25 in 1959, from Nov. 1 to Nov. 25 in 1960 and 1961.

On Manitoulin Island there will be a season for bow-and-arrow hunting only, both residents and non-residents, from Oct. 19 to Nov. 13, 1959. All hunters will have their opportunity of shooting a deer from Nov. 14 to Nov. 25, 1959.

Will Pull Wraps Off London Sunday

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Brian London will test through a two-hour workout Friday in preparation for a heavyweight championship bout with Floyd Patterson May 1.

At least that's what his followers said.

Newspaper men were not allowed to watch the former British champion in action at his training headquarters. Photographers, however, got permission to pose London for a few pictures.

Nick Baffi, London's United States representative, said the challenger's workout will be opened to the public starting Sunday.

"He's in shape to get into the ring right now," said Baffi. "He ran four miles this morning and didn't even breathe hard."

Patterson will arrive by train from New York today.

T-V TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Winter months mean rain, sleet, wind and snow . . . all of which help to play havoc with television aerials. Although the average TV viewer may not realize it, his television reception may now be far below par because of the beating his antenna has taken during the severe weather.

In view of the big dividends in improved reception compared to the low cost, it pays to have your aerial checked, cleaned and adjusted in the spring!

Good weather means easier working conditions and low summer rates on antenna service are now in effect at CHCH-TV SERVICE, 264 Coleman St. While we're checking your antenna, let us install an electric rotor for even more television pleasure. For free estimates phone WO 8-0781 (in Trenton EX 2-7689).

AT THE PARK — Cary Grant as a moneyed-American and Ingrid Bergman, as a famous Continental actress, have a gay time at a society shoot in London. In this scene from the Warner Bros. release, "Indiscreet". The Technicolor romantic comedy opens Monday at the Park Theatre for a two day engagement. On the same program a whole new world of adventure, Gregory Peck and Ann Blyth in Rex Beach's "The World in His Arms", color by Technicolor with Anthony Quinn. There will be but one complete show for these two attractions, starting at 7.30 p.m.

Fans, Visitors on Location Like to Talk to Eve Arden

By BOB THOMAS

ISHPEMING, Mich. (AP)—The personality who attracts the most attention from people watching the filming of Anatomy of a Murder is a tall, wry Eve Arden. The actress is simply Television.

Fans and visitors at the Marbet Inn where the movie troupe is quartered often pass up players in the word only on films. They often ask, "Why aren't you making Our Miss Brooks any more?"

This is heartening to our Miss Arden, who hasn't done the Brooks series in three years. Yet it continues to play and play, bringing her added fame. If no more the movie Miss Brooks will be her interest for a healthy chunk.

WHAT NEXT?

The question at this point in her career is: What next? She and husband Brooks West are in production on the movie in seven years. We won't count a full-length version of Our Miss Brooks which failed to break any box office records.

Will she try another TV series?

"I don't think so, not for another year, anyway," she said. "I've had offers, but I think it is too soon to return. I got bites by the play bug when I did Auntie Mame on the coast last year. I'd like to go back to Broadway for a year."

SECOND SERIES FLOPPED

She did a staggering 134 chapters of the Brooks saga. When it folded off the network, she was enlisted to try another series, in which she played a lady lawyer. It was a disaster and lasted only 26 weeks. I asked her for a post mortem.

"I had no control over it," she explained. "I was determined that I wouldn't play the same character again, and the network assured me I wouldn't. But as it turned out, the show was planned as the same kind of laughs. . . .

"Toward the end, we were finally getting the kind of quality I was looking for. But then it was too late to save the show."

Firemen Pay Parking Fee To Reach Blaze

NARBERTH, Pa. (AP)— Firemen had to pay their way in to put out a blaze in a new coach on the Pennsylvania Railroad's Paoli-Philadelphia line.

The firemen had to go through a parking lot to get to the fire. The lot has a barrier. The barrier doesn't go up unless somebody puts a quarter in the slot.

Two fire trucks sped up to the barrier, stopped and waited while the firemen went through their pockets for quarters.

One fireman on each truck had the necessary two-bits.

GUINEA PIGS ROAMING

SAULT STE. MARIE (CP) — Lands and Forests department conservation officers are looking for roaming guinea pigs—but not fort any old guinea-pigs. These are described as a "rare, long-haired mutant strain" which laboratory officials hoped to breed here until they were stolen a year ago from the health department laboratory. Two were killed by a dog east of the city limits recently, the conservation officers learned. No one quite understands how the animals managed to survive the winter.

Freight Subsidy Of $20,000,000 Is Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — Government legislation aimed at easing the impact of the last freight rate increase by a $20,000,000 freight subsidy was approved by the Commons railway committee Friday and was referred back to the Commons.

After several days of studying the bill the committee defeated an amendment proposed by Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Lasalle) which would stipulate that the subsidy be used to knock off at least seven per cent from rates increased by 17 per cent last Dec. 1.

The Progressive Conservative majority on the committee defeated the amendment of the former transport minister after Commissioner Leonard Knowles of the board of transport commissioners said the change would mean the $20,000,000 available for reductions would run out before a full year.

Transport Minister Hees told the committee at an earlier hearing that it was believed the $20,000,000 subsidy would result in a rate cut of about seven per cent. The actual reduction is to be worked out by the board of transport commissioners.

The committee defeated another amendment proposed by Mr. Chevrier, only to be told later that the bill itself will accomplish what the Liberal member sought.

The bill stipulates that the $20,000,000 reduction should apply to rates which were increased 17 per cent last Dec. 1. Mr. Chevrier proposed deletion of the reference to 17 per cent so the benefit would also apply to rates which were not raised by that amount.

Jack H. Horner (PC—Acadia) said the amendment would mean the benefit would be extended to rates which were raised Dec. 1 and subsequently reduced to meet competition.

Other Conservatives also opposed Mr. Chevrier's proposal and voted it down.

Later, however, Commissioner Knowles said the subsidy still will apply to competitive rates established after the Dec. 1 increase, if the effect of the subsidy is a reduction lower than the competitive rate.

Negro Author Says "It Is Fine to Be British Until One Visits Britain"

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — On paper, Edward Richard o Braithwaite should be highly employable.

Educated in the United States and Britain, he had graduated as a physicist and did post-graduate work at Cambridge University. He had also piloted Spitfires during the Second World War.

With abilities to match, Braithwaite in the electronics field, he set about trying to find a job which would enable him to use his specialized training. But when employers found he was a Negro they made all manner of excuses.

Angry and bitter, with his war gratuity rapidly dwindling, Braithwaite took up a teaching career inspired by a casual conversation with a stranger in a London park. Since then, he has became Britain's only Negro child welfare officer.

In his first novel, To Sir With Love, Braithwaite, now 36, tells of his encounter with color prejudice in Britain and about the trials and satisfactions of teaching in a London slum area.

Born in Georgetown, British Guiana, Braithwaite talks about the feelings of colonial people towards Britain.

STRONG TIES

"The ties which bind them are strong, and this is very apparent on each occasion of a royal visit . . . yes, it is wonderful to be British—until one comes to Britain . . .

"The Briton at home takes no responsibility for the protestations and promises made in his name by British officials overseas."

Reflecting on his experiences in the United States, the author says Britons, in criticizing instances of open, obvious prejudice among Americans, frequently fail to realize that the U.S. "has granted to its Negro citizens more opportunities for advancement and betterment than any other nation in the world with an indigent Negro population."

"In Britain I found things to be very different. I have yet to meet a single English person who has openly admitted to anti-Negro prejudice: it is even generally believed that no such thing exists here."

Truckers Cross Teamsters Union Picket Lines

Leaders Divorce Selves From Wildcat Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Teamsters Union pickets have made no attempt to stop transport company employees from going about their jobs as union leaders divorced themselves from the wildcat truckers strike in Ontario.

Late Saturday after the first of about 25 highway transports rolled from the Direct Western Transport terminal through a band of pickets without incident, they were joined by 50.

Earlier 1,000 members of Toronto-based teamsters' local 938 voted to extend their walkout throughout Southern Ontario in sympathy with the truckers.

Top union officers were absent from the meeting.

'A statement by F. W. Murray, manager of the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau which bargains for management, said that officials of local 938 have told their members through shop stewards to ignore pickets lines in the Toronto area.

3,000 ON STRIKE

About 3,000 drivers and warehousemen have struck against two trucking firms which have their head offices in Montreal but operate in both Quebec and Ontario. The strike has spread to Southern Ontario.

The strikers, all teamsters members, said they are protesting the increased use of piggyback rail services in which truck trailers are loaded on flatcars for transportation between large centres.

Mr. Murray said that 80 per cent of the firms in Toronto area are unaffected by the walkout and no companies are closed down. Hamilton and Windsor locals regard the strike as illegal and have told their members to cross picket lines, he said.

The bureau, which represents more than 100 trucking firms, "regrets this irresponsible and illegal action," his statement added.

SPREADS TO ONTARIO

Employees of Smith Transport and Kingsway Transport in Montreal walked out the 24th without notice Friday and the strike quickly spread to five other companies in Ontario.

It hit employees of the same firms in Windsor, Sarnia, Chatham and infiltrated into Husband Transport Limited and Hoar Transport Limited in Sudbury and Timmins.

In suburban Cookville pickets lined up outside Inter-City Truck Lines Limited. In Brockville Dominion-Waterways and McNeil Transport companies were being picketed.

Pickets at Direct-Winters terminal in Toronto made no attempt to stop company employees who were reporting for work.

In Belleville union officials told Smith Transport employees to stay on the job. Ken Hurley, union steward for local 938 there, said the strike was not called by the union.

APPLY TO LABOR BOARD

Labor relations bureau spokesman applied to the Ontario Labor Relations Board Saturday for permission to prosecute, say union official or member "participating in the illegal work stoppage," said Mr. Murray.

Kill 31 Persons In Accidents Across Canada

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Accidents took the lives of 31 persons during the week-end in Canada as the advance of spring lured more people from their homes.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday showed six of the deaths were on highways compared to 12 last weekend when a total of 19 persons died. There was one drowning, one person died in a fire and nine miscellaneous deaths were recorded across the country.

In Alberta four Calgary district men were killed Sunday when their light plane crashed in a farmer's field.

Quebec's 12 traffic deaths led the provinces. Ontario and Alberta each had six deaths. Five died on Ontario's highways and one in a shooting accident, while Alberta also counted one traffic death and a fire death. Saskatchewan had one traffic death.

Three persons were killed in British Columbia, two of the deaths result of road mishaps. A glider pilot was killed after he bailed out of his aircraft at 5 low altitude and his parachute failed to open.

Manitoba had one miscellaneous death, Nova Scotia a drowning, and Prince Edward Island a traffic fatality. New Brunswick and Newfoundland were the only fatalities-free provinces.

Macmillan Takes Refuge in London, Open Country Home for Charity

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan took refuge in the peace and quiet of London today after a hectic weekend in the crowded countryside.

He opened his country home to visitors—at a shilling, 14 cents a head—it was a raindrop of a day, and more than 4,000 sightseers trooped into the house, trampled his daffodils, crushed his grassy lawns and drove the fire department into the bushes.

The money went to one of his wife's pet charities.

Macmillan was sitting in his living room when the first paying guests rushed in.

"Let me shake your hand," he greeted a woman, "for saving England."

She was followed by others. Then the prime minister retreated to his spacious grounds.

The sightseers pursued him.

He hurried down a garden path.

"Please, sir, your autograph," chorused a pack of young boys.

Macmillan fled into the garden.

"Mr. prime minister," began a man, "I want to tell you what is wrong with England."

Macmillan headed for the house. After two hours, he returned, and the crowds renewed the chase.

Macmillan dashed into his cook's house. His pursuers found safety and quiet in the kitchen's stocking feet.

"This is my day off," he snapped. "And it's getting to be a bit of a bore."

"Mr. prime minister—"

"I don't mind opening my home, but I'm not opening myself," he said.

After that he decided to return to 10 Downing St., his London home.

BOLIVIAN GOVT CRUSHES RIGHTIST REVOLT, 22 DEAD

Rebels Tried to Seize City Hall, Radio

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Bolivia's poverty - plagued government today appeared to have crushed a rightist revolt that flared in La Paz, leaving 22 dead and more than 50 wounded.

President Hernan Siles Suazo announced the defeat of members of the Falange party who tried to seize the city hall Sunday, attacked an army barracks and marched on the government radio station and other municipal offices.

Government forces broke up the attacks and then began a cleanup of rebels.

Many of the wounded were reported to be bystanders caught in the crossfire.

The insurgent leaders were captured: Rafael Loayza, a reporter, and Luis Saenz.

MARTIAL LAW

A government radio station said Siles had declared a state of siege — modified martial law—throughout the country.

There were no reports of trouble outside of La Paz.

The Falange is the main opposition to Siles Zuaza's Nationalist Revolutionary Movement party. Siles was elected in a successful revolution seven years ago and won more than 80 per cent of the votes in national elections in 1956.

The president in a broadcast said the revolt was planned by the Falange head Oscar Unzaga de Vega and Carlos Victor Aramayo, whose large tin properties in Bolivia were nationalized in 1952. Aramayo now lives in Europe.

Firemen's Union Given Authority To Call Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—The locomotive firemen's union now has full authority from its members to proceed with a strike vote against the CNR if necessary, W. E. Gamble said today.

The 2,000-member Canadian vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC), said that a poll of western Canadian union lodges overwhelmingly gave the vote.

"We have authority from our membership to call a strike against the CNR if necessary," he said, in an interview.

He also previously received support for a work stoppage from Ralph Cousins, CLC executive members of the publicly-owned railway. A vote of lodge chairman in Eastern Canada was ordered after negotiations with the railway broke down last week.

Mr. Gamble said the union's top negotiating team—made up of union officials from the three regions—is considering the dispute with the CNR and would possibly make an announcement Wednesday.

STRIKE CALL

Asked if a strike call would be issued then, Mr. Gamble said: "At present I have nothing to say about that."

PRESIDENT AND THE NEW SECRETARY OF STATE — President Eisenhower shows at the summer-White House with Christian Herter whom he nominated as secretary of state to succeed John Foster Dulles. The new secretary flew over by helicopter from Green Pond, S.C., where he is spending a short vacation. (AP Wirephoto).

Greet Herter Appointment With Criticism, Enthusiasm

LONDON (AP)—Britain's press greeted Christian A. Herter's appointment as U.S. state secretary with varying shades of emotion ranging from sharp criticism to hopeful enthusiasm.

The Labor party organ cites Herter's arthritic condition and says his new job is "too much for any semi-crated invalid." In a blunt editorial, The Daily Herald declares that sick old men cannot rule the world and adds President Eisenhower "is a broken man, incapable of the energy required to grasp important matters for any length of time."

Herter's nomination got an enthusiastic reception from newspapers in Paris, where he was born of American parents. There was approving comment too in Formosa and Greece.

The London Sunday Times hails Herter's appointment, calling him "a man whose record qualifies our most hopeful trust."

The London Observer notes, however, that Dulles was a man who created policy and that it seemed Herter did not command the same respect and confidence from Eisenhower.

The People, a left-wing British weekly, comments: "Herter will be one of the influences brought to bear on the president in foreign affairs. Dulles was the only voice the president listened to."

The major Western powers, meanwhile, were reported agreed on Berlin and German proposals to offer Russia at the foreign ministers' conference, but they still were split on Britain's plan for arms reduction in central Europe.

Representatives of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany, in discussions in London, were said to have agreed on these main proposals:

The West will deal with East German officials on Allied traffic to and from Berlin if the Kremlin names the East Germans as its agents and guarantees Allied rights in the city. Lacking any new East-West agreement on Berlin, Allied troops will stay put in West Berlin and if need be launch a new Berlin airlift.

The Allies also will offer a new approach to German reunification by proposing free elections for an all-German government after two years. East and West Germans would be encouraged meanwhile to develop functional co-operation through a series of joint commissions on trade, culture, political association, freedom of movement and information.

Britain is expected to continue urging her Allies to accept the idea of an experiment in arms control in mid-Europe for a first step toward a cold war truce. The new Soviet proposal for both Germanies, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The other three Western powers agreed that Britain has no relation to a German political settlement. They also complain that the suggested zone fails to include any Soviet territory.

Fidel Castro Wants Elections In Cuba as Soon as Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fidel Castro says the Cuban people are more interested in getting rid of Batista than having free elections right away.

The Cuban premier told revolutionary leader aides he wants free elections in Cuba as soon as possible, but first he must overcome that might be.

Political democracy is not possible where people are hungry, Castro said in a television interview Saturday night.

He had another chance to expound his views today in a luncheon appearance before the National Press Club. He planned to leave from there for overnight stop at Princeton, N.J., before going on to New York. He is due to visit Canada.

Castro and Vice-President Richard Nixon had a meeting of hours and 20 minutes in a conference originally scheduled for 30 minutes.

Neither disclosed what they talked about.

"What is a revolution," he told his television audience. We have to solve many problems. We're working. As many more people help us, the more we will be prepared and the faster we can dissolve our problems and the faster will be the election, because we are most interested in them.

"In the past . . . the politician went through the country buying votes, offering positions to those who were unemployed, offering a bed in the hospital, or a place in the law school, offering to buy the vote. There is a lot of corruption.

"Real democracy is not possible over hungry people, because corruption disguises democracy. Real democracy ought to be established with adequate social justice and employment for everybody."

He said later he did not explain his views about Cuban politics as well as I should have liked."

He told reporters his provisional government does not want to stay in power one minute longer than is necessary before having free elections." He added "if there were elections now there would be a complete victory for the revolutionary party."

Yugoslav Claim Against Russia Made by Tito

Charges 100 Leaders Were Liquidated

BELGRADE (Reuters)—President Josip Tito Sunday chose the 40th anniversary of the Yugoslav Communist party to accuse Stalin of liquidating more than 100 Yugoslav Communist leaders who took refuge in Russia before the Second World War.

This was regarded here as the gravest Yugoslav charge levelled publicly against the former Kremlin leader since Yugoslavia broke away from the Soviet bloc 11 years ago. Stalin died in 1953.

Tito said Stalin regarded the "dreadful purges" more than 100 Yugoslav party leaders living in the Soviet Union during the period between the wars as "Trotskyite agents" and had them outlawed in Yugoslavia.

He said the approach to Communist officials that the Yugoslav party lost "a large number" of its leaders because of political demoralization and physical execution during Stalin's great purges."

Vice - President Aleksandar Rankovic said later in a speech to 60,000 rain-soaked Yugoslavs in Belgrade's Republic Square that his country's Communists disputed the Soviet thesis that Communist parties had a "leading" role in the state.

The Yugoslav Communist party should "act by political means and should not be above the heads of the people," he said.

OPENING NOTE

The two leaders sounded the opening note for country - wide celebrations, aimed partly at demonstrating unity in the face of a new Soviet bloc campaign against Tito.

Tito charged that Stalin's policy of enforcing conformity destroyed the Communist party of Communist and created a "splendid Communist type."

Tito denounced the "steady liquidation" of attempts to force Yugoslavia into the Soviet bloc "at any price."

He cited as an example a "certain decentralization in the administration and economy of the U.S.S.R. and certain other countries."

Canada to Share Work On Anti-Missile Project

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian scientists will manufacture some of the instruments to be carried in a United States research satellite scheduled for launching in California in 1961, the defence research board said today.

Objective of the satellite is launching it to obtain data on the upper layers of the ionosphere, an electrically-charged belt 60 to 300 miles above the earth's surface.

The ionosphere affects radar and communications and therefore the satellite will have military implications.

It is understood that the satellite will form part of the joint Canada-U.S. research into development of a system to destroy ICBM (intercontinental ballistic) missiles.

The Canadian instrumentation will be done by scientists of the Defence Research Board's telecommunications establishment at nearby Shirley Bay. The work is the main function of the establishment.

The launching will be from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California.

The satellite will be put in near-to-earth orbit so that the Canadian scientists can gather data provided by it.

The Canadian scientists will also provide some instruments for the American high-altitude rockets. The telecommunications establishment has already done such work for U.S. Nike-Cajun rockets fired last fall from Fort Churchill, Man.

CNR Engineers' Union Signs New Contract

MONTREAL (CP) — The engineer's union today signed a new contract with the CNR for its 1,000 members in the Atlantic and central regions of the railway.

The three-year contract provides for a series of wage increases working out to 9.3 per cent the life of the agreement.

It leaves the firemen's union as the only major group of CNR employees without a new contract.

The CNR and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen have been negotiating a contract for 1,000 engineers in the Atlantic and central regions. The agreements expiring April 30, 1961, include health and welfare plans, and seven statutory holidays.

Auto Workers Request Conference On U.S. Small Car Sales in Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—A government-management conference to discuss the question of United States-built small cars entering Canada was sought today by United Auto Workers (CLC).

A Canadian delegation headed by Canadian director George Burt of Windsor will confer with the union is alarmed at the prospect of big manufacturers building small cars in the U.S. but not in their Canadian subsidiaries' plants.

The U.S. auto industry is strong in its North American small cars in the U.S., the position of Canadian-built cars is becoming alarmingly faded.

"If Canada is needed, we believe, a first for the Canadian government to find out from the big three what its intentions are regarding small car production in Canada.

"If it intends to make the small cars here, then it is time to act when market conditions warrant,' or some such excuse, get big three production, that is why not good enough because the dam-

Discoverer II On Way Down

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Discoverer II is on the way down.

It may have already perished, according to an air force official, but the fate of the fate of the satellite's orbit indicated it would burn up in the atmosphere between 7 a.m. EST today and 10-a.m. EST Tuesday.

Discoverer II was fired into orbit early April 13 from Vandenberg air force base, 10 miles north of here. It ejected its nose capsule over the Arctic. The cone still is being sought.

Royal Navy Buys Torpedoes From Canadian Firm

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian Westinghouse Company Limited, Hamilton, has received a $3,000,000 British order for 300 naval torpedoes, it was learned today.

The torpedo is the Mark 43 type which has been in use with the Royal Canadian Navy's and RCAF's anti-submarine forces for two years. It is also used by the United States Navy and now will go into operational service in the British Navy.

The weapon is an acoustic homing torpedo which can search for, detect and attack a submarine without external guidance and which can be launched from ships, planes or helicopters.

Officials here are elated at the British order because they feel it shows that Canada can sell as well as buy against a complex weapon system.

The torpedo, though developed by the U.S. Navy, is manufactured entirely in Canada.

Canada's share in British purchase is regarded as a start toward increased sales of Canadian defence equipment to Canada's allies.

The order has no direct connection with defence production-sharing between Canada and the U.S. Arrangements are being worked out whereby Canadian industry will get a "fair and reasonable" share of U.S. defence department contracts.

TO GREAT DEPTHS

The Mark 43 torpedo, eight feet long and 10 inches in diameter, is in effect an underwater guided missile. It can search to great depths," a navy spokesman said. It is powered by an electric motor.

First contract between Westinghouse and the defence production department was negotiated in November, 1958, and the Canadian navy took its first delivery of the torpedo in March, 1957.

The Mark 43 can be dropped in its long-range Argus anti-submarine planes. The navy also has a carrier-borne helicopter squadron which can drop the torpedo. HMCS Bonaventure is believed to be lurking.

Belleville's representatives did very well in the diving division of the annual Ontario YMCA Swimming and Diving Championships meet held in Hamilton on Saturday. Fire Damages Service Station As Gas Explodes

The weekend was very busy for the members of the Belleville Fire Department. A major fire occurred at Orville Mark's Shell station on the corner of Foster and Dundas East at 1.01 p.m. Sunday. Whilst blowing out the gas lines on a couple of trucks some of the gas hit an exposed light bulb and exploded. Although neither man experienced much damage from the resulting flash fire, a lot of damage was done to stock in the service station and to the paintwork on the building.

A second fire occurred on the Marshall Road in Sidney township when a garage, owned by John Huffman, caught on fire. The first alarm came at 5.47 p.m. and the first trunk answered. Due to the lack of water and the intensity of the fire, two more calls, at 5.54 and at 6.02, were placed for two more tankers to assist in quenching the flames. The garage was almost completely destroyed.

There was a call to Thomas' Tourist Camp on the Trent Road from an alarm due to an overheated stove. Fortunately no serious damage was done.

Barring a false alarm to 28 Hillside Street, all other calls were on account of grass, bonfire, or rubbish fires getting out of control. The local firefighters answered calls to 57 South Front Street, Rosewood Drive, Massassaga Road, 38 Valleyview Crescent, 271 Charles Street, Trent Road, and the south end of Foster Avenue. These bring to 18 the number of grass fires which have required the fire department to put them out in a week.

He also races a stable of runners at Woodbine and Fort Erie. The fine stable of hackney ponies, carriages and roadsters also took the visitors' eyes.

George H. Stokes Ex.-M.P. Dies Sunday in Hospital

GEORGE H. STOKES

George Henry Stokes, former member of Parliament for South Hastings, an adopted son of Hungerford township, and leader in the public and religious life of his community, resident at 285 Coe Street in this city, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday. He had been in failing health for the past six months but was only a patient at the hospital for about 10 days before his death.

Mr. Stokes was born in Ravendon township 87 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Stokes. At an early age he moved with his parents to Hillier in Prince Edward County and left from that community to the Thomasburg district. He was educated in that district, and later moved to Hungerford township, where he resided until 1932 when he came to this city after being appointed Sheriff of the county in 1931, a position he held until the latter part of 1934.

After moving to Hungerford township he immediately took an active interest in municipal affairs and was appointed clerk of the township, a post he held for many years. Fired with the desire to be of more service to his community he ran and was elected to the town council, ship and sat in county council, where he took an active part in all the debates and in the works of several committees, the most important being the road and bridge committee. He served as chairman of that committee. He was elected warden in 1929 and while serving in that capacity was called to higher service by being appointed Sheriff of the County, a post he held with credit to himself and his colleagues at the county buildings.

1946 he offered himself as a Conservative candidate for the House of Commons, and after a claim of the delegates and was elected to the House of Commons. Again in the 1945 election he was candidate, received the nomination and again elected to Parliament. In 1949 he retired from active political service and when health permitted during the past few years he was an active member of the Sheriff Thomas W. Solmes.

FAIR BOARD HEAD

While a resident of Hungerford he not only took an interest in municipal affairs but he was also an enthusiast in the agriculture progress of his community. He became a director of the Hungerford Fair Board and later was honored with the presidency of that society, a position he filled with distinction. He was also a director of the Belleville Fair Board. Both in the township and since coming to Belleville he was a faithful member of the Presbyterian Church and in this city was an active member of the congregation. He was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian and was honored by the congregation by being appointed an elder at the time of his death.

George Stokes was a kindly man and held a wide circle of friends of all political persuasions. He was a lover of the open fields and was never too busy to listen to complaints or problems to rectify them. He was a splendid neighbor and a great family man and it was always a pleasure to hold conversation with him. He will be missed in many circles.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mary Ann Craig, one daughter, Mrs. J. M. (Marion) Wilson of Ivan Hamburg, two grandchildren, Donald George and Mary Ann Wilson, and one great grandchild, John S. Wilson and one brother, John Stokes, who died in 1938.

Talented entertainment was provided by a vocal group of youngsters who are gaining fame throughout the district—The "Singing Morrow Sisters" from Trent Valley.

Guests were welcomed on behalf of the Batawa by B. F. Fines, and appreciation of all present was expressed by Jack Allen on behalf of the sectionmen working in that area. The meeting was held in the downstairs portion of the Queen Street home of N. J. Hall. The fire started in the addition to the rear of the building and the quick response of the firemen kept it from spreading any further. The third house fire in the month came in early Monday morning at Glen Miller when the home of Mrs. Lloyd Sine was gutted.

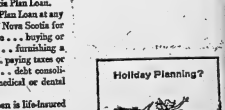
Firemen Spend Busy Month

TRENTON — Grass fires continue to plague the Trenton Fire Department over the weekend, with two calls coming in on Sunday to make it a total of 13 since April 1.

The firemen have also answered eight calls for faulty oil burners, eight service calls other than grass and oil burner fires and three calls to burning buildings in the late month.

The grass fires came from just about every corner of the city and two of them were calls from outside of town limits. The eight service calls ranged from the opening of locked doors to car fires.

The town police are still investigating the latter. It was reported that in one of the car fires a match was found in the spot where the interior of the car was burning and it was believed someone may have thrown a lighted match in the car on purpose.



One TV fire also occurred during the first half of the month when a baby sitter called the fire department that the set was burning. The youngster had the presence of mind to turn the set off from the wall and stop the flow of electricity to the set.

When the firemen arrived they quickly threw a tarp over the set in the event the picture tube should blow from the extra heat and then were forced to use "CO-2" to extinguish the blaze.

The three building fires were all a result of faulty electrical Railway property which caught fire after the grass around it had been burned by the sectionmen working in that area. The second was in the downstairs portion of the Queen Street home of N. J. Hall. The fire started in the addition to the rear of the building and the quick response of the firemen kept it from spreading any further. The third house fire in the month came in early Monday morning at Glen Miller when the home of Mrs. Lloyd Sine was gutted.

The two calls for grass fires on Sunday came from near Wilkinson's Corners on the Belleville Road and from the corner of Joseph and Queen Streets."

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

On more than one occasion, we have commented on the question of whether the Liberal party in Canada is always liberal and the Conservative party is always conservative. Precisely the same sort of questions can be asked about political parties in other democratic countries.

Now, however, we learn that distortion of the original meaning of a political name is not confined to this side of the Iron Curtain. An article in Service d'Information Francais, outlining the political setup under the constitution of the Fourth Republic, says that communes are "the smallest administrative division of the department" and states "the origin of the commune goes back to the Middle Ages." This did not seem to fit with laudatory remarks about "the First Commune" in the writings of Karl Marx so we consulted the encyclopedia. There we read that "The rising of the Commune of Paris in 1871 - - was a revolutionary assertion of the autonomy of Paris. -- The theory of the uprising was that every commune should have a free autonomy, the central government being merely a federation of communes." Just how far the ideals of the First Commune (which was not a first-commune at all) differ from the all-powerful state apparatus of today's Communist lands is self-evident.

GAGLARDI SPEAKS OUT

We have conceived a sneaking admiration for Hon. A. Gaglardi, the gentleman who is highways minister in British Columbia and who rushes about the province at a speed in excess of that which the law says is permissible. We are aware that we have criticized Mr. Gaglardi in the past, but this was on the basis of the belief that he was just another exponent of that tired old school of thought which believes that certain people are above the law. Now, however, we find that Mr. Gaglardi is not chanting "do as I say, not as I do" quite the contrary. He is saying what he is doing.

He declares: "The safest speed anywhere on properly-designed highways is 65 miles an hour. The most dangerous speed is 35 miles an hour. At 35 most people are cotton-picking, yakking and dilly dallying. People shing nibble their fingernails, then try to bolt. Sometimes they don't get away with it. At 65, they are at paying attention to what they are doing and what ahead."

We share Mr. Gaglardi's dislike for the slow driver. is statement that 65 is the safest speed is probably rroneous, but at least he had the courage to express opinion. There is just one question. If Mr. Gaglardi holds these views, is it not his duty as minister highways to change the law to embody these views or, if he cannot persuade his cabinet colleagues of e desirability of such a change, to resign from the binet?

THIS IS DIFFICULT TO BEAR

If there is any good thing to be said about the anned hunt for bears in the Timmins district, it is at this drive may reduce the danger that a similar oject will be undertaken in North Hastings.

The Timmins hunt, organized by Mayor Leo Delalanne, is designed to obtain bearskins for the hats of e British Guards.

The Guards are picturesque but we still think that bearskin looks better on a Canadian bear than on a itish soldier.

There are two other reasons for hunting bears beside decorating the troops.

One is for fun. The Timmins hunt is described as "the largest mass assault on wild animals in this rthern Ontario area." So they are not being hunted sport. "Mass assaults" and the thrill of hunting incompatible.

Another reason for hunting bears, and a good one, to get rid of a nuisance. But if the bears were so ch a nuisance that a mass assault was indicated, it uld have been staged in other years, before the ards ran out of hats.

The bears are not being hunted for either of the y customary reasons. They are being hunted for entirely different reasons -- for hats for the Guards publicity for Timmins.

We think these are both bad reasons.

Holiday Cruise To Historic Caribbean

By O. A. MORTON

ARTICLE 11

After lunch the next day our ship started its two-day trip to the Panama Canal Zone but not before we visited the stores for some last purchases which had been overlooked or to duplicate some special items which some people had purchased. Most of the others did the same thing as. Our cabin looked like a junk shop before we got some of the stuff packed away out of sight.

A half hour or so before we pulled away a fleet of small boats came alongside loaded with more of you know what. Then began a great game of bargaining between the passengers and crew on one side and the occupants of the boats on the other. Most of the stuff was mahogany ware, small tables and stands. Still much pointing and yelling deals were made and money was handed over in basket, by the crew, tied to cords and up came the articles by the same method to the purchaser. Prices were cheaper than in the stores but the quality was not so good. It made for an entertaining half hour and everybody seemed to enjoy every minute of it. This was the only one we visited where such bartering was done. The crew made some purchases as well using cigarettes instead of cash and probably getting better deals than the passengers.

SHORT VISIT

The next two days were absolutely delightful with pleasant breezes and not too long. The visit to Cristobal on the Atlantic end of Panama City and the Pacific side was for a half day only. The ship had just a few hundred feet of Irish dockage here which would take us to the Panama Railway station but soon until ten-thirty to see what we could. It was here that we saw the "silver" and "gold" (colored) gave forth in endless streams of chatter and points of interest as we passed by. This caused Major Gittus to make the remark that every one of our stops that "Victor was a touch of the old Army formation." However, he did tell us enough to keep us interested.

Cristobal and Colon are practically one city and we had time to show the tourist. The highway to Panama City does not run parallel to the canal but follows a circuitous route to avoid the mountains. The whole canal is hilly and partly forested. Here and there are small roadside stands selling fruit such as pineapples, watermelons, jamaicoes, papayas and many other local items. We had tried the bananas in Jamaica and found them inferior in flavor and texture to those we get at home. The pineapples, though, are more juicy and much sweeter and much better than we get at home. Then there is the mango which will be shipped as far as it bruises easily. This is something of the shape of a pear, the skin must be stripped off for eating and the place for this is beside or over the sink for the pulp must be pulled with the fingers, a fibrous matting which is firmly attached to a large stone. This makes for a very messy method of eating fruit but definitely worth the effort. This was ended at the conclusion of our meals for eating in our cabins although it was much more fun to have staged a mango-eating contest with the participants dressed in bathing suits. And then to the showers! Some people will undoubtedly not be had in Canada for we are missing some perfectly good fruits.

A stop was made at a stand owned by a Chinese grower to purchase pineapples, watermelons, tomatoes and a watermelon. The pineapples were about a dozen nice fruit and the melon was 75 cents for a fair-sized one. This we placed in the ship's refrigerator then forgot about it until "dinner we were at the train for Montreal. It looked real good, too.

There are three double sets of locks on the Panama Canal and we visited the Miraflores unit near the western entrance. Several ships were being routed through but we did not have time to watch the process. The story of the canal hardly needs repeating here for it can be read in any encyclopedia. Suffice to say that the locks are 1000 feet long and 110 feet wide. The total elevation which must be surmounted is 85 feet. The canal route is forty miles, but part of this is through open bodies of water. These are Gatun Lake through which ships travel twenty-four miles and small Miraflores Lake. It takes eight hours for a vessel to make the trip and crews come on board at the entrance to take over for the whole trip. They then return and make the same trip the next day, but never pilot and man the ships from the opposite direction. Small electric locomotives geared to tracks supply the power to move the vessels through the locks. Four are used — one stations in London. Don't get in

Table Napkin Buttons On

Windsor Star

There are times when etiquette just doesn't make sense. Take for instance the usage of the table napkin.

Etiquette says it should be placed on the lap, or on the knees. No, this isn't the most satisfactory position, quite apart from the difficulty of keeping it there.

A man is more apt to spill a drop of soup, or soft-boiled egg, on his tie or upper garments than on his knees. A napkin on the knees affords scant protection where it is most needed. The best place for it is tucked in around the neck, or affixed to an upper part of the vest or shirt. That's where mothers place the baby's bib, and they are right. Adults require a bigger one.

The Irish, a curious blend of logic and illogic, came up with an idea. Certain hotels had napkins made with a button hole in the corner. It could be attached to a waistcoat button — the customer making the choice of what button.

at each side, bow and stern for complete control of the ship's movements.

The first thing the Americans did before active work on the canal was begun was to get rid of the mosquitoes responsible for malaria and yellow fever. Col. George W. Gorgas, head of the medical commission, knew these insects bred in stagnant water so a great campaign was begun to dig drainage ditches and canals. All pools of water were systematically sprayed with oil and hundreds of inspectors checked houses to make sure no receptacles which might catch rain water were left as breeding places for the mosquitoes. Even the sewage systems of Colon and Panama City were renovated and finally streets were paved. Only after the task of sanitation had been completed did the engineers and construction crews take over.

During our drive through the country, drainage ditches could be seen leading through swamps and low lying wooded areas. The Anopheles mosquito hasn't a chance in Panama.

To be continued tomorrow.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A BIG MAN'S JUDGMENT

In the war between the states, General Robert E. Lee sometimes found himself bitterly opposed by his subordinates. He was one officer who, behind Lee's back, often said hasty and severe story things about the General.

One day Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy, asked Lee whether he thought this man could fill a certain important post. Lee replied in terms of keenest praise of the man's ability. When sometime later Lee's friends expressed surprise that he had spoken well of a man who had spoken ill of him, the great-hearted General replied: "I was not asked for this man's opinion of me but for my opinion of him."

It is hard for us to keep ourselves out of situations. Indeed, most of our distress in life is because we feel that we are in our own way, stumble over our own feelings and our aversions, our resentments. We think so much someone has hurt us or slighted us, and our resentment hides from us the great service we could render another cause to which we are devoted.

What difference does it make what others think about us? What do we and our tender feelings matter? Let us forget ourself. If a good end is to be served, let us be big enough to admit that someone for whom we have little liking may serve it well — or better than we can.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The mayor of Timmins, Ontario, was so shocked, on getting a close look at the grandeur of Buckingham Palace on a recent visit overseas to see the most-sateen condition of the Guards' bearskin headdresses that he promptly issued a proclamation for the boys around Timmins to go out and collect more bearskins, of which there are plenty in that region. And they are going to re-clothe the Guardsmen with nice new glossy two foot high headdresses.

But it goes farther than the headgear. You are supposed to review the Guards from a distance. Indeed, it is best to view nearly all ceremonial from a decent distance. This goes for convocations at our own local colleges or for the opening of legislatures as well as for coronations in London. Don't get in the front row. Get back about Row M.

I have sympathize with the mayor of Timmins. The last coronation I was at, I had to rent a morning coat and striped pants from Moss Bross, the famous London out-fitters and while I was being fitted, I saw carts and barons trying on the robes and regalia of their ordinal, and even a couple of rented coronets, one of which had a big moth-eaten hole in the rim in order to fit a bishop's noggin. I was told that far more than half the regal assembly were in rented clothes. Most of the gentleman in the highest society is that a gentleman's clothes look as if they were his uncle's. Pretty fitting clothes are for the bourgeoisie.

New Houses Look Alike

Winnipeg Tribune

Federal authorities have boasted in the past year or two about the number of houses starts. Some of the new houses make us wish that the builders had been stopped before they started.

Block after block of houses alike as cracker boxes, without individuality or imagination, are monuments to the planners who have to live in them and to the whole community.

We're not sure how much law Mayor C. N. Kushner of West Hollywood can find to do when he dug in his heels against look-alike homes in the Garden City developments. But it's a safe bet that he had the support of a great many people in all parts of town.

Let's hope his protest will result in more variety, originality and individuality in construction of small homes. Surely something more could be done than merely offer a choice between 18 fancy bricks stuck on the wall right or left of the front door.

Ash is Found Under Ocean

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

What with all the firing of rockets at the moon, the orbiting of satellites around the sun and the sending of radio messages from earth to Venus, the dark and mysterious floor of the ocean has been almost forgotten. But the oceanographic scientists, delving deep into the Pacific Ocean near Bikini ship, Velma, now have compensated for this neglect.

They announce the discovery of a layer of clean white ash of volcanic origin. Obviously it must have sprung from a tremendous volcanic eruption or massive collision of heavenly bodies in outer space within the last 100,000 years. It is expected to be nearly a year before studies of the 11 deep sea cores, more than a mile and a floor several hundred miles west of Central America are completed. The cores were taken from a 500,000 square-mile area. Here the ocean is remote from submarine life or other debris indicates 100,000 years. It is within a relatively short period. Here, indeed, is mystery to be unfolded.

Man's knowledge of the oceans, which cover two-thirds of the earth's surface, is meagre indeed when compared with the knowledge of the ocean to man. These great waters have long provided transportation and food.

NINE-MONTHS-OLD BABY DOESN'T NEED FLU SHOTS

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it wise to give a nine-month-old baby flu shots?—Mrs. T. B."

I don't see any reason for doing so. At that tender age, the little ones have enough shots to contend with — the very necessary ones to protect against diphtheria, whooping cough, polio, etc. Likewise, since young babies stay at home they do not have as much exposure to flu. I say flu shots are better used for older people. This is my opinion now, and others might disagree with me because flu is most dangerous to persons at the extremes of age — the very young and the very old. I prefer flu prevention for the extremely young by avoiding exposure.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Could you tell me, something about histamine headaches and is a characteristic pattern? Severe pain, usually one-sided and behind the eye? Is there a special cure?—B.S.F.

Histamine headache is set off by a sudden release of histamine in the system, and in that sense is related to allergy and to hay fever, although it is not identical.

Histamine causes dilation of the blood vessels, and in this form of headache there is a characteristic pattern: Severe pain, usually one-sided and behind the eye, with lacrimation and red, tearful eyes profusely. Treatment (and here again you will note a general resemblance to allergy treatment) is aimed at giving very small injections of histamine until the system adjusts. This is a slow process, but is usually quite effective.

No, sir. Positively not. The pock marks are the result of some skin trouble that happened to you, not a result of something inherent in you and your ancestors.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What about the dreaded disease, arteriosclerosis? I understand there has been very little research on this disease.—Mrs. M. T."

I think you have been misinformed. There has been a great deal of research on it, and there still is a lot more being done these days.

It's a thickening — or "hardening" — of the arteries, and it does cause trouble sometimes, to be sure. But calling it a "dreaded" disease makes it sound like cholera or smallpox. Most of us over 40 (and probably younger) have a trace of it, at least. For practical purposes, I think we are wisest to view it as just one phase of growing old. Conclusions in time we will learn how to retard it. At present we know that it bothers some people very much, and causes virtually no trouble to others. We know we do not know why, any more than we know why some people live to be 4 and others don't.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

EDWARD EVERETT HALE

Many are the short, meaning-ful compositions that have become famous. One of them is the story by Edward Everett Hale, "The Man Without a Country." It first appeared in the Atlantic Monthly. It tells the story of a man who cursed the United States and never wanted to hear its name again. He got his wish. He lived to see the day when all that his own tears blotted the memories as he wrote. Many another gem, like William Ernest White's story "Mary White," or Stephen Crane's "The Blue Hotel of Courage," stand apart as having been written from the heart.

The Hale masterpiece was written in 1863 at a critical time in the war between the States. We be immortalized a character, Philip Nolan."

Hale was a giant of a man. I once heard him give a sermon at the University of Chicago. It was an experience I shall not forget. He spoke in short, simple sentences, and always had something to say. He was a prolific writer. His story by Edward Everett Hale, "The Man Without a Country," has been taken to and any one else can do the same with his words. Here they are: 1. Know what you want to say. 2. Say it. 3 Use your own language. 4. Never use more than necessary. 5. Remember that a short word is better than a long one. And the fewer the better. 6. Cut it into pieces. No other man was so illuminated by rules and he.

Edward Everett Hale's uncle was Nathan Hale, who was hung by the British for spying. He said: "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country." A man stirred to the depth of my heart every time I look upon that Nathan Hale was brother to the grandfather of Yale University.

Softball Meet Falls Flat One Team Shows

The Belleville and District Softball League's entry deadline meeting yesterday afternoon fell flat on its face when only one team representative showed up for the meeting.

At previous meetings, four teams, Belleville Bobcats, Point Anne, Cobourg and Trenton, indicated they were definite starters. Two other clubs, Picton and Campbellford, were contacted and both were to attend yesterday's meeting. The other teams were asked to be present since a vote would be necessary before the four entries could be accepted.

The entry deadline meeting was set for 2.00 p.m. at Moira Street firehall. Present at the meeting were: President Harry Morgan, secretary-treasurer Bob Bland and a representative from Campbellford.

Campbellford wanted to file entry. The other team representative was not present to vote on the issue. Other league business also had to be abandoned.

President Morgan made several calls after the "meeting" ended and while he received a couple of explanations both he and Bland were disgusted with the whole matter.

Morgan said this morning that Trenton and Picton just did not attend and that it is unlikely now that Picton will enter.

Cobourg manager Huck Matthews said by phone that he had not been notified of the meeting. Bob Trenchie's Bobcats were holding a practice and did not bother to send a representative. Point Anne, apparently not definite of an entry now, did not send a representative either.

Morgan said this morning, however, that he is confident of a five-team grouping despite the lack of interest yesterday. "I think we will have Bobcats, Cobourg, Trenton, Point Anne and Campbellford and the only thing I can do now is to call another meeting, likely later this week," he said.

Prosperity Given as Goal By French President of C of C

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

WASHINGTON (CP) — "Your role, gentlemen, is to create wealth everywhere."

With these words Edmond Gilliard l'Estaing of France, president of the International Chamber of Commerce, today gave direction to the opening session of the chamber's weeklong congress.

In his keynote address d'Estaing pointed up the practical difficulties between the chamber's aim—that of freer world trade among all peoples — and the practical difficulties which exist.

TARIFF PROBLEM

The practical difficulties revolve around the fact that while countries on one hand may wish freer trade, on the other hand they wish legitimate protection by ways of tariffs for their developing industries, and the key point is definition of "legitimate" protection.

d'Estaing said:

"It is tempting to accept, if not actually to press for all kinds of protection so as to be sheltered from competition and to save one's self from the constant effort of creation, adaption and renewal, which, however "are the life blood of free enterprise."

He said the belief that some countries are rich and others poor by virtue of fundamental and unchangeable factors of nature's "ridiculous in view of the new constituent of prosperity such as men today know how to create."

ALL CAN PROSPER

"There is probably no area in the world which cannot enjoy prosperity. There are only areas which have not yet been developed, which must go through different stages which, with the help of modern techniques, they can cover fairly quickly."

Paul G. Hoffman, American industrialist who now is managing director of the special United Nations fund, told delegates that 60 of the 82 member nations of the UN "and, in addition, some 30 territories, with, in all, more than 1,000,000,000 people, should be considered undeveloped."

"These people are living at a subsistence level, are undernourished and without the barest of health or educational facilities."

These countries were not inherently poor, but suffered under-utilization of their physical and human resources.

To trigger these resources to action, he said would not be too burdensome a cost and a program need not be a "giveaway."

The less developed countries could effectively use some $20,000,000,000 of goods and services for capital formation in the next decade and many of the goods and services that would be needed could be produced out of unused capacities in advanced nations.

In addition, Hoffman said probably $5,000,000,000 worth of technical assistance and similar services would be required in the same 10-year period.

"The core of my belief," he added, "is that if the $5,000,000,000 required for technical assistance and services over the next decade were to be made available to show where the new resources are under the ground, in the soil, in the forests, and to develop human skills to exploit them—then, the necessary extra $20,000,000,000 would be made available, on a repayable basis."

TRADE MARKS

OTTAWA (CP) — State Secretary Courtemanche has indicated there may be no report on trade marks by the royal commission on patents, copyright, trade marks and industrial design. He said in a Commons reply to Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, that the commission's report on patents now may be delayed until the fall. The commission was established in 1954 and has presented reports on copyright and industrial design. Chief Justice J. L. Ilsley of Nova Scotia is commission chairman.

Sales and Ad Club Will Hear Don Henshaw

Guest speaker at tomorrow evening's monthly dinner meeting of the Belleville Sales and Advertising Club, will be Mr. Don Henshaw of the MacLaren Advertising Co. Ltd. Born and raised in the United States, he was very active as an announcer, sportscaster, writer and program director during the early development of the field of radio broadcasting.

In 1936 he visited Canada to assist in the broadcasting activities surrounding Toronto's Centennial Celebration, and remained to this day after being greatly attracted by the local scenery. He turned his hand to advertising and, during the last war, was connected with the Canadian government as a public relations counsel for the Victory Loan campaigns.

A popular speaker throughout Canada and the United States, Mr. Henshaw travels about 40,000 miles a year covering his speaking engagements. Otherwise he still writes for radio and television and spends his idle hours with his hobbies of photography and woodworking.

When not on the move, he lives in Toronto with his wife and two children. He also devotes much of his time to crippled and handicapped children's work and for a number of years led one of Canada's largest Bible classes for men.

The dinner meeting will be held in the Columbus Hall on Tuesday evening at 6.00 o'clock.

Captain J. S. Downs Honored By Regiment's Senior NCO's

Recently the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment added another historical item to its brilliant archives.

For the second time in its history the "Plowboy Regiment" elevated a regimental sergeant major to the commissioned ranks.

On February 5 Regimental Sergeant Major J. S. Downs, Trenton, was given his captain's commission. The first event of this nature occurred some years ago when the present commanding officer, Lieut. Col. Angus B. Duffy was promoted from RSM to the rank of lieutenant.

Under new military regulations a regimental sergeant major with his rank confirmed for a period of nine years, can be promoted to the substantiated rank of captain.

On Sunday, wearing his brand new "three pips", Captain Downs was honored by the warrant officers and senior N.C.O.'s at a testimonial dinner given in the lecture room of the armories.

FROM ALL POINTS

They came in their blues and khaki from Belleville, Trenton, Madoc, Picton, Norwood, Port Hope and Millbrook. Special guests including Col. Duffy and Major A. S. McConnell, ED, MBE, chaplain of the regiment, RSM L. V. A. Simpson chaired the dinner and reception.

Col. Duffy and Major McConnell responded to the toasts to the regiment and the 'White Battalion'.

Captain Downs, in a brief address of appreciation said, the Hasty Pees had always been blessed with good non-commissioned officers although some had not been so good. He reminded his former associates of the sergeants' mess that the fate of any regiment depended on the NCO's. History revealed that the senior NCO's of the Hasty Pees had done a wonderful job.

The military saga of Trenton-born Captain Downs reads something like that of his commanding officer.

He joined as a "boy" in 1924 and became the batman of then Trenton company commander Captain Sherbert. When he was 16 he was given the rank of private and joined the signal platoon under Sergeant Angus Duff, D.C.M.

In 1939 he transferred to the Irish Regiment in Toronto remaining there until 1941 when he returned to Trenton and rejoined the Hasty Pees. In 1942 he went overseas and joined the regiment at Middleton, England. A year later commanding officer Lieut.-Col. Sutcliffe promoted him to the rank of corporal prior to the regiment leaving for Sicily.

He saw 13 months active service in Sicily and Italy returning to England for special courses when prolonging the unit in Northwest Europe, where he was promoted to WO 2 of "D" company.

Returning home with the Hasty Pees he assisted in forming "A" Company, Trenton with Captain Fred Burt and the present RSM Simpson. He was promoted to a WOL and made regimental sergeant major in 1949 a post he held to the time of receiving his commission.

In charge of the arrangements of a very successful regimental function were, WO 2 Howard Kokesh; Sergeant C. Ouderkirk; Sergeant Frank Butler and Sergeant R. King, Trenton.

Frankford Girl Visits Jerusalem

Editor's Note: The author, Miss Elva Locklin, who is on nursing duty in the R.M.M.S. Hospital, Nazareth, Israel, has kindly consented to give our readers some of her impressions of life in this ancient land. Her first letter appeared in our columns early in February. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Locklin, R.R. 1, Frankford. Her letter was written April 16.

NAZARETH, Israel — A recent trip to Old Jerusalem again proved impressive and enlightening with its compositions of past and present.

This colorful old city seems to stand as an entrance to the eastern world. In it is a strange mixture of old and new. Arabs with long eastern gowns and heads covered with white kerchiefs drive about in modern American cars. Men and mules move aside to let them pass, then continue on their way with their loads of cartons or other carriage. Shops display British wares along with bright Damascus silks, soft velvet crusader jackets, olive-wood boxes and mother-of-pearl brooches.

The narrow streets which could almost be spanned by outstretched arms were crowded. The bright colors of the Arab dresses and the many hues of the fruits, added to the gleam of copper kettles, gave a sense of gaiety. Along these streets at rare intervals stood a lamb or sheep. A pause to photograph one sheep with pink-dyed fleece and the lamb standing goodly by, drew a large crowd of spectators.

There is no lack of hospitality! Shopkeepers leap quickly off stools as strangers approach and call forth a cheerful "hello." If the prospective customer enters the shop he is offered tea or coffee for refreshment.

Turning from the streets to the churches often brought little relief from the milling crowds. Pilgrims and sightseers flowed in from all parts of the world. Old people, bent with age, came eagerly to view the sites where Christ had walked on earth. Some of these were in tears as they entered the churches. Younger people came seeking a new sense of direction.

The Church of the Holy Sepulchre saw many of the pilgrims.

This church is believed by many to cover the site where Christ suffered, was buried and rose again. In it Roman Catholics, Greek Catholics, Armenians and Coptics each have their own sections. Three of these groups were holding services at the same time. Older priests and young boys were carrying lighted candles while chanting forth their messages.

Other churches had fewer visitors. The church-of-the-cock-crowing showed an old unearthed dungeon and pillars used while scourging prisoners. Turning off the Via Dolorosa into a Franciscan convent led to cobble stones which supposedly stood in front of Pilate's court. These still reveal markings used by soldiers for dice games while awaiting the decisions on their prisoners.

A very ancient olive tree still stands outside the Church of All Nations in the Garden of Gethsemane. The Garden has been closed to visitors but is exposed to the view over a low fence.

A Sunday morning service in the beautifully kept Garden Tomb added weight to the Easter story. This place is also thought by some Christians to mark out Calvary and the Resurrection tomb. In front of the tomb is a rocky ledge. The tomb itself is a small, rocky cave. Paths lead through a flower-decked garden from the tomb to a large rock resembling a skull.

This old city which its seven gates is a mixture of the past and present. Modern cars and new British cosmetics may be seen here. It also takes us back over the years and centuries. It is a constant reminder of the greatest events in history. The Golden Gate bears this out — sealed to remind all who pass of the Great Triumphal entry. Guides assure visitors that it was closed after that event but will be opened when Christ returns.

Mrs. R. Atkins New Quinte Institute Head

An interesting business meeting of the Quinte Institute was held at the Institute Hall on Thursday, combined with the regular meeting.

The president, Mrs. K. Vivian presided and welcomed all members and visitors. Mrs. Jeffery, the secretary dealt with all correspondence and business, asking the conveners of all standing committees to give a short resume of last year's work. The auditors gave their report on the year's finance and the books showed a good balance on hand.

Mrs. MacMullen spoke on rug making and future work of the 4-H club. This group of girls is doing good work under leadership of Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Clark. One project for juniors has been completed. Mrs. J. Proctor and Mrs. A. Dafoe reported 11 junior girls finished this class of work. The past president, who is also the district president, conducted the election of officers.

She highly commended Mrs. K. Vivian, who had been a most successful president for the last two years. The Quinte Institute work for 1959 started had the extra heavy work on the president, who accepted the deed of the Quinte Women's Institute Hall as a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Jack Parrott. Under the president's supervision, the work of remodelling the seating, installing cooking facilities, kitchen and dining hall supplies, purchasing new chairs, table cloths, dishes as well as supervising the catering to several parties and banquets, was accomplished. A big "thank-you" goes to Mrs. K. Vivian, the retiring president," he stated.

Mrs. G. Reid declared all offices vacant and Mrs. C. Wood, convener of the nominating committee, brought in the new slate of officers.

The past president conducted an impressive installation ceremony stressing the duty and responsibility to each office.

The slate is as follows: president — Mrs. Robert Allen; 1st vice-president — Mrs. J. Parrott; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. C. Wood; secretary-treasurer — Mrs. Eva Jeffery; pianists — Mrs. J. Parrott and Mrs. R. Reid; district director — Mrs. K. Vivian; alternate — Mrs. D. Allan; press reporter — Mrs. H. Grills; alternate — Mrs. N. Brown; branch directors — Mrs. B. Atkins, Mrs. K. Vivian, Mrs. J. Parrott, Mrs. E. Jeffery and Mrs. A. Wood; standing committees — Mrs. E. Leeming, Mrs. A. Greatrix; flower committee — Mrs. D. Leeming, Mrs. E. Vivian, Mrs. F. Dorrister, Mrs. Bedell and Mrs. E. McAuliffe; conveners of the standing committees are; agriculture — Mrs. D. Leeming and Mrs. E. Leeming; Canadian industries — Mrs. D. Atkins and Mrs. Isabel; historical research and current events — Mrs. C. Woods and Mrs. F. Bedell; home economics — Mrs. F. Mitchell and Mrs. A. Greatrix; health — Mrs. A. Coates and Mrs. E. Sandercock; citizenship — Mrs. Denyes and Mrs. Sanderock; education — Mrs. A. Mitchell and Mrs. C. Keene; resolutions — Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. Brown; public relations — Mrs. H. Grills; property committee — Mrs. J. Parrott, Mrs. K. Vivian, Mrs. E. Sandercock, Mrs. R. Reid, Mrs. E. Jeffery and Mrs. Robert Atkins.

At the conclusion of business Mrs. Robert Atkins took office as president. She spoke of a few ideas which she thought might be of value to the W.I. as a group and asked all to work in unity for home and country.

At the closing of the meeting a social half hour was enjoyed.

Mrs. F. Wilson Gives Talk on "Five Oaks"

The Afternoon Woman's Association of Holloway St. United Church held its monthly meeting in the church on April 16th.

The president, Mrs. F. Wilson, graciously welcomed members and visitors, and called on Mrs. K. Parks, who, with her group, had planned an interesting meeting. In spite of the flu epidemic which kept several members in, there was a good attendance.

Mrs. O. Bertrand read the Bible lesson and a meditation on the value of prayer. A solo, "Sweet Hour of Prayer," was given by Miss Joan Bertrand with guitar accompaniment. This was followed by prayer.

Mrs. Fred Wilson brought impressions of two days spent at the Christian Leadership School at "Five Oaks," Paris, Ontario.

The school, which plans to accommodate 70, had 117 for the conference. Mrs. Wilson displayed the membership badge and considerable interesting literature. In her informative address she described the worship services, Bible study groups and handcraft classes.

Dr. and Mrs. Beverly Oaten, with the Rev. Jans Bone and staff, were warmly praised for their splendid Christian leadership.

All who attended the school returned to homes and churches with new inspiration and courage.

Mrs. Wilson thanked the Holloway Street group for sending her to this famous school and campour at Paris beside the 100-year-old oak tree, a symbol of growth and strength.

A splendid film strip of Five Oaks was given by Mrs. G. Dobbe. The pictures showed the beautiful school and grounds at various seasons of the year. They included the garden following an ice storm, a charming view of the hillside from the window of the "Upper Robin" of this modern split-level building. The enormous "Totem Pole," instead of the legendary "Thunder Bird," has a white dove above a cross.

Many camp workers attend classes during the summer, where they work five hours daily, surrounded by the beauty of the handiwork of God. "Truly the hand of God seems very near at Five Oaks," she said.

Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Dobbs repeated the challenge which they received: "Go back with God to your homes and churches."

Mrs. Clifford Smith expressed the appreciation of all members to both speakers for their wonderful exhibits and challenges.

Announcement was made of a dessert luncheon to be held in April by the Evening W.A.

The treasurer, Mrs. A. Campbell, presented and moved the adoption of her report. This was seconded by Mrs. D. Cook.

A letter was read from Miss Phyllis O'Neill, student at Alma College. This message was in appreciation of the gift sent to the college by the W.A.

There was a letter of thanks from Mr. and Mrs. Percy Westover for special remembrance on their wedding anniversary. Several "letters of thanks" were received from the recently shut-in members.

There was a brief report from the personage committee and plans were made to give financial help to the Vacation School which is slated for July.

Mrs. K. Parks and her group served refreshments during the social hour at the close of this fine session.

The Sap Run

by Mary Moore

As I write my first notes on my first syruping - old experience, I am sitting in Helen and George's kitchen heated by a woodstove. Their Chesapeake retriever, Donna Babe of Onaga, is sitting on the floor beside me wondering if she will accept me into the Pollock fold.

There is a bit, shiny gallon jar of maple syrup on the table behind me, and beside it are several empty clean ones waiting to be filled.

Dinner Menus

MONDAY

Broiled Round Steak Cakes with Horseradish; Baked Idaho Potatoes; Tossed Chef's Salad; Date Bran Muffins; Rosy Baked Rhubarb; Vanilla Wafers; Coffee.

George was out in the sap house until 1.00 a.m. finishing off the previous gathering. I think he was grateful for the reprieve that yesterday's low temperatures gave him for it meant a poor run. This morning's sunshine though means he will be running full pelt through the new "Maple Flo".

Aha! You don't know what "Maple Flo" is, do you? I didn't, but now I not only know what "Maple Flo" is but I know what the United States counterpart "Natural Flo" is, for that is what Ray Forbes is using in his sugar bush.

"Maple Flo" is modern sap - gathering equipment made of transparent plastic tubing. One-quarter inch or three-eighths inch tubing is attached to the tree by a spile or nozzle - like hard plastic tip inserted in a hole bored to about 1 ½" depth with a brace and bit, through the bark and outer surface of the hard wood, I presume.

This small bore tubing is joined up to the tubing in neighboring trees and to the larger bore mainline tubing which leads to the gathering drum.

What seems most incredible to me is that modern sap-gathering technique is that it flows against gravity. That sap when it is running full flows out of those trees under such pressure that flowing up and over rises it doesn't even give it pause. You can actually see it through the tubing gurgle up and over hummocks and little hills and up and over one side of the gathering drum and hear it pouring into the filling barrel.

George told me to taste it. It was crystal clear and cool and slightly sweet and the ultimate in thirst - quenchers I thought. For a moment I wondered if being a city dweller was all it was cracked up to be. I stayed in the sap house and watched and studied the fires a little, while George was boiling down the sap and I am experience every one should have at least once in his lifetime. It gives you a better understanding of the strong folk who live on and live by and love farms.

George and Helen are sending me home laden with the finest maple syrup in Belmont-Methuen County, and if Ray Forbes challenges this statement, he'll have to offer me a taste of his! So watch tomorrow for maple syrup recipes par excellence. Helen and I will be up to our ears in syrup.

GOOD MANNERS

— By Mrs. Beeckman

SUGGESTED MESSAGE TO WRITE IN GUEST BOOK

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would you please give us suggestions as to something to write in the Guest Book of neighbors of ours, and how to sign what we write? The wife has just given me the book for our message and signature. My husband and I came here some time ago to make our home, and this people have now bought a permanent home here. They are neighbors of ours, and we are very happy to have such nice neighbors. Thank you for any suggestions you will give us.

— Reader

I have always treasured in my memory that fine and wise sentence: "A good neighbor is a blessing, and another sentence, too — "They who have a good neighbor have a precious possession." Would you like to write one of these in the Guest Book? I want to these good neighbors who are bringing you such happiness? For example: "A good neighbor is a blessing." (I have been.) Or, "They who have a good neighbor have a precious possession." Would you like to write one of these in the Guest Book? I want to these good neighbors who are bringing you such happiness? For example: "A good neighbor is a blessing." (I have been.) Or, "They who have a good neighbors Sallie and Philip, are indeed blessings to your devoted friends, Arthur and Grace Lane."

I'm sure all for both, you sign your husband's name first.)

FOR THE DANCE IN HER SCHOOL GYMNASIUM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A semi-formal dance is to be held in our school gymnasium soon.

(1) Would it be proper for me to invite a boy who lives about twenty miles from where I live if I provide transportation from one way, as he does not drive?

(2) I am planning to wear a white dress with red dots and red sash. Should I wear white gloves? — Reader

(1) Yes. It is more convenient for you to provide one-way transportation for the young man . . . if, for example, you know someone from his neighborhood who is driving to the dance . . . It would be most thoughtful for you to suggest this, and I'm sure he will be grateful.

(2) With your type of dress, it would, I suggest, be very much more appropriate, for you to wear white (white, not off-white) and very short "shorties" gloves. If, when you arrive, you find that the other girls are not wearing gloves, it's easy to check them with your wrap.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council tries to solve problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. L. D. — Jenny's in love with a divorced man.

Jennifer D. — He's a good solid man.

Mrs. L. D. — My husband and I are terribly upset about our daughter, Jennifer, who is 17 and in love with a divorced man of 30.

Jenny has worked for this man as a part-time typist for the past year. She has talked Mr. T. breathed Mr. T., lived Mr. T. nearly every waking moment. When she is finished talking to us about him, she calls up her girl friends and starts on them.

Well, we thought it just silly and laughable until Mr. T. started spending. He has gotten into the habit of taking her out to coffee after work, walking her home and kissing her on the forehead at the door.

Now my husband says that if Jenny doesn't quit that job right away my personality, he is going to have dealings with Mr. T.

Jennifer D. — My parents are absolutely the limit! You'd think I'd done something awful. I've done nothing. I've sworn that if my father goes to talk to him I'm just going to run away from home. I can do it too — and they know it. I have savings and I'm an expert typist.

One of my friends told me her parents would be glad if she went out with a good, solid man like Mr. T. The kids are about out with and the ones I have dated are just awful! Besides, we'll be ready for marriage in another year or two and these kids have at least ten years to go.

As for Mr. T. having been divorced, it's just a laugh to hear my parents talk on that subject! My father was divorced himself. Yet he threatens something dreadful if I bring Mr. T. into the house.

The Council: No, Mr. L. D.! Don't phone Mr. T. Face the facts, face and don't go doing anything "drastic" and don't try to force Jenny to quit her job. It isn't the right way at all.

Instead, the L. D.'s should invite Mr. T. in and offer him a cup of coffee and get him to talk.

When a 19-year-old girl is in love and seems to be getting some manner of response from a man, it is important for the parents to know as much as possible about him. So far, all the L. D.'s should know is that he has been divorced. And how many children must he support? AND WHAT MORE ABOUT HIS PAST?

The answers to these questions can be obtained by a direct or hostile approach. The L. D.'s owe it to their daughter to treat her acquaintances with courtesy and real interest. It is quite possible that they will find that they like Mr. T. — or that Jenny will cool off a bit when she sees him in an ordinary home setting.

From the surface evidence it would seem that this man is rather immature and has to be so flattered by Jenny's breathless adoration that he can't resist making the most of it. When confronted with older people — especially a pair of interested parents — he may lose a lot of the authority of manner that attracts Jenny.

When parental eyes give a man a serious going-over, he man is likely to disappear if he is not serious. If he is, the L. D.'s better get acquainted.

CHILDREN'S ZOO

EDMONTON (CP) — The city is trying to line up animals for the new children's zoo scheduled to open in June. All types of barnyard animals and fowl are sought, as well as fawns, otters, raccoons, penguins and skunks.

Christ Church Chi-Rho Holds Gala Dance

Christ Church Chi-Rho entertained members of their parish and those of neighboring parishes and faiths in the first of their forthcoming annual parish dances. Wednesday evening's program proved to be a gala affair.

Round and square dancing were enjoyed and variety dances such as Paul Jones, spoon, elimination, and snowball dances were featured. Many of the participants won "spot" dance prizes donated by local merchants.

The door prize, a beautiful towel set, was won by Mrs. Stanley Dier. During the intermission, as all dined, the prizes for the high lady and gentleman card players were presented to Mr. and Mrs. V. Warwick.

The Chi-Rho extends its heartiest thanks to all who supported them by their attendance at the dance.

With an eye to the future growth of the fellowship, Christ Church Chi-Rho branch would welcome all interested persons to come out to their meetings which are held in the church auditorium on the 1st and 3rd Wednesdays of every month.

SEIZE SINGERS' EFFECTS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Sheriff's officers have seized personal effects of the Kirby Stone Four, a well-known United States vocal group now appearing in Winnipeg. The order was made on behalf of Charlie Marrone of Don Carlos Casino Limited who alleged breach of contract resulting in a $2,870 loss to the casino.

Nymphs, Spent Spinners and Trout

All trout, I suppose, are cantankerous creatures, moody most of the time and hard to please. But of the entire Salmo family, the brown trout is the gentleman who will bring on graying hair, stomach ulcers, and frayed dispositions. Without question, the brownie is one of the greatest reducers of the ego that swims in fresh water.

Some years ago the editor of one of our outdoor magazines came to central Pennsylvania to join us in fishing for brown trout. He is a seasoned angler when it comes to squaretail, freshly stocked rainbow, landlocked salmon, etc., but his experience with brown trout, up to that time, had been quite limited. Had he known of the indignities with which he would be confronted during the week that he fished with us, I doubt that he would have come.

In preparation for his visit, my son and I had tied a liberal supply of imitations of the fly hatches which probably would be on the water during his visit. On the evening of his arrival we told him that we had tied up enough flies for everyone. He was not impressed.

"Flies!" he exclaimed. "Never do I go away on a fishing trip unless I take with me more flies than I can possibly use. Look!" he said dramatically as he began to take fly boxes from his duffel. He had flies all right, hundreds of them — big, fuzzy things that probably would do little on our brown-trout waters save cause not a little sub-aqueous merriment and, possibly, alarm.

FRUSTRATED EDITOR

As we had predicted, the fly hatches showed up on schedule. My son and I, having the artificial counterparts, caught fish plenty of fish. For three days the editor labored mightily but nary a brown trout came to his offerings. Steadfastly he refused our flies but gradually his face took on an expression of dazed suffering.

On the fourth day he could stand it no longer. "All right, Jack," he said as we stood together on the bank, watching my son play a freshly hooked trout, "I give up. Let me have some of those flies of yours." Then he, too, began to catch fish.

How many times have you watched an angler cast unproductive dry flies over a school of rising brown trout? For that matter, how many times have you done so? Every man who fishes for brown trout knows that now and then a school of rising fish simply will not take his choicest offerings of dry flies. What then, to do about it?

The great majority of the stream insects which we see flitting on the surface after the year are of the May-fly family. You know the kind — graceful little insects with erect wings and fairly long tails, varying in color from dark blue-grey (a/a most black) to light buff or white.

It is these which the majority of our dry-fly patterns attempt to imitate.

To be sure, the fish do feed on these little insects but it must be remembered that the winged insect is only one stage — the adult stage — of that insect. It begins, of course, as an egg. This hatches into a tiny larva or nymph. Then, when the appointed time comes, these little nymphs cast loose from the bottom, drift to the surface, and there crack their nymphal cases to emerge as winged insects.

With many of the May flies, there are only those three stages of development, but there are others of that same family which have a fourth stage. The winged insect which first emerges from the nymphal case is the sub-imago or semi-final form. This one, instead of staging the nuptial flight, depositing eggs on the water, and then dying, flies to the bushes and trees along shore and there, after an interval anywhere from hours to several days, again cracks its case and emerges in imago or final form. These are known as "spinners."

It is when you see a school of rising fish, feeding actively, you must find out what form or stage they are taking. They may be feeding on the drifting nymphs, they may be taking the newly hatched flies, or, more often, they may be taking spinners which have been washed under by wave action and are drifting awash.

To imitate the adult insect or dry fly is fairly easy, but to imitate the nymphs and the spent spinners takes some doing. Most sporting goods stores have a good assortment of nymphs in stock. Don't choose blindly. Familiarize yourself with the naturals in the streams which your fish and then select the good imitations.

There is not, so far as I know, such a thing as a spent spinner on the market. Sure, there are spent flies but they are spent-wing dry flies, not spent spinners. There is a great deal of difference. About the best imitation you can buy is a small well dry, tied on a light-wire hook. Fish these awash, drifting at the surface, handling them much as you would a dry fly.

There is no space her to go into the thing in much detail. If you want more particulars, there is an article in the April issue of Field And Stream, written by yours truly, dealing on the very subject.

DO YOU KNOW

the 6 reasons why Allstate is Canada's fastest-growing auto insurance company?

1. SAVINGS Substantial savings are common with Allstate compared with rates charged by most other companies. As you'd expect, savings depend on where you live and how your car is used.

2. SERVICE Allstate claims expediters have the authority to settle claims themselves . . . right "on the spot" in many cases. Allstate has the largest full-time, salaried claims staff in the auto insurance business. Wherever you drive in Canada or the States, you know help from Allstate is always as near as the nearest phone.

3. POLICY FEATURES Allstate prints its policies in large type, in a convenient booklet form. Illustrations help you know exactly what you're buying. An example of the protection available from Allstate is the $50 "Disappearing Deductible" collision insurance. If collision repairs to your car cost over $50—as they often do these days—this coverage pays more than ordinary collision insurance. In fact, if repairs cost over $100, you pay nothing, and Allstate pays all of the repair bill.

4. PAY-AS-YOU-DRIVE If it's inconvenient to pay the premium all at one time, you may take advantage of Allstate's Pay-As-You-Drive plan. A small amount down puts your policy in force, and you have several months to pay the balance. A fee of (25¢) per payment is all you pay for this service.

5. EASY TO BUY Allstate's modern, relaxed selling methods make Allstate insurance easy and pleasant to buy. You buy direct from an Allstate Agent at most Simpson's and Simpson-Sears stores, or at Allstate Insurance Centres. This keeps selling costs low—savings are passed on to you. If you prefer, simply call and ask an Allstate Agent to visit your home.

6. MAY WE HELP YOU? Those are the first words you hear any time you call Allstate. This is more than just a friendly greeting. It represents the spirit of friendly helpfulness that Allstate feels towards its customers all the time—not just when you buy a policy. Why not look in your phone book for the Allstate location nearest you, and stop in or call soon?

Antonelli Whips Cards 3-1 For Shining New 3-0 Record; Homer in 12th Beats Yankees

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

San Francisco finally is getting a look at the real Johnny Antonelli, the man who must win big if the Giants are to top Milwaukee loose from the National League pennant.

A year ago Seals Stadium fans must have been wondering if it was true what they read about Johnny. He didn't win a game until April 26 and he didn't grab his third until May 18. He struggled around .500 until mid season and finally wound up at 16-13.

This is a new year and a new Antonelli. The 30-year-old left-hander boasts a shiny 3-0 record. He scattered eight hits Saturday while pitching the Giants to a 3-1 victory over St. Louis.

Because of the difference in games played at this stage of the season, the Giants now are even with the leading Braves in the "games behind" column but trail by 1½ percentage points.

DODGERS CLOSE BEHIND

Los Angeles stuck on the heels of the Giants by scoring five in the eighth inning to beat Chicago 6-1. The Dodgers are only a half game behind the Giants going into their three-game series with San Francisco at the Coliseum, starting tonight.

Johnny Podres, who usually does his best in the Coliseum, revelled from a miserable start and threw a four-hitter at the Cubs for his first victory.

Duke Snider finally came through with his first homer of the year, moving into 10th place on the all-time list. It was his 352nd homer, moving him ahead of Hank Greenberg on the role of select sluggers.

Cincinnati's power - packed lineup did a little slugging at Crosley Field, burying the Phillies' 12-5 despite some unsteady pitching by rookie Jim O'Toole. After the rookie had walked seven, Bob Mabe went in in the fifth. Mabe allowed only two hits in 4 2-3 innings.

DRIVES IN FOUR

Frank Robinson continued his slugging spree, knocking in four runs with a homer and a single. It was his third home run of the season.

Milwaukee had to postpone its scheduled game with Pittsburgh because of cold weather and a threat of rain.

On Saturday, Giants scored four runs in the eighth inning and two more off the Cards 8-1; Pittsburgh scored three runs in both the second and third innings and four in the fifth as they hammered Milwaukee 11-5; the Dodgers edged Cubs 3-2 despite a three-run Chicago rally in the ninth; and Philadelphia topped Cincinnati 15-10 in a slugging match.

Jim Davenport led the Giants attack with three singles in a perfect day at bat. He now has five straight singles. On his last time up, he was hit by a pitched ball thrown by loser Larry Jackson. Willie Mays knocked in two runs, scoring Davenport twice. Orlando Cepeda, the home run man, had to settle for a long double and a single in four trips.

Podres and Dave Hillman were locked in a 2-2 tie when the Dodgers broke loose in the eighth. Wally Moon's single drove in the first two runs. Junior Gilliam, Don Demeter and Charley Neal also singled in the big inning.

Jim Owens, first of four Phil pitchers, was charged with the defeat. The Reds knocked him out in the second when they scored four runs.

Five Horses, Man Die When Barn Burns

EDMONTON (CP)—One man died and five thoroughbred race horses perished Sunday when fire destroyed a barn at the Edmonton Exhibition grounds in the northeast section of the city.

Killed was Ronnie Cann of Edmonton, 24-year-old stable hand.

Preliminary investigation by fire department officials indicated the man was pinned in the barn by a collapsing horse.

Eighteen horses, including 10 owned by former Alberta attorney - general Lucien Maynard, were in the 60-stall wood barn. All but five were rescued from nearby barns by stablehands and firemen.

Maynard who owned four of the dead horses, estimated his loss at $15,000.

Cause of the two-alarm fire has not been determined.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

This may be good news for the greater majority of Canadian five-pin bowlers — and not so good for the rest.

There is a movement afoot to nationalize a scoring system — the 3-3-5-3-3- now in vogue in the western part of the country. Eastern keglers have been favoring the 4-3-2-1-3-5 method.

Naturally some confusion reigned when the best of the east met the best of the west in national competition, with counts being strange to one of the contestants.

John Martin, president of the Greater Toronto Bowling Proprietors' Association and owner of the O'Connor Bowl, is advocating the adoption of the count which would make the two corner pins worth two points apiece, the next pair three points and the head pin five.

Said Martin: "In order for the game to go big time, it is has to have a national count. The suggested count is what was adopted in the west but it isn't a western count. It was born in Hamilton in 1953."

Cec Hardwick, one of this city's better known bowlers, thinks the new count is the better one. With the head-pin counting five, bowlers can concentrate on it— and this would make for better bowling and bowlers, he said. The newly-formed Quinte Classic League, one of the top loops in the city, adopted the new count this year and 24 members heartily endorse it.

Incidentally, the Quinte Classic League which just concluded a highly successful "first" season, proved very popular with its executive and members. Out of a pell taken at the entire league, only one member indicated he would not be back next season. He said the reason was business commitments.

Classic keglers liked the new scoring system. Such bowlers as Ken Peacock, Bill Bateman, Jim McKenzie, among others, are in favor of it.

We understand the new system has been discussed by other leagues, but so far nothing definite has been done, regarding its adoption.

The new count was used at the east-west championships held recently in Calgary and four of the existing records established this year were accomplished under it.

"This points out the fact," said Martin who witnessed the championships, "that the system much enhances scoring. The aim of the game is to go for the head-pin. The average bowlers would improve his game if he got five instead of one. On a spare, for instance, if you left up the former counter pin, you'd get 28 instead of 26; if you left up the former five, you'd get 32 instead of 28 and if you got only the head pin you'd get 20 instead of 16."

The new system has been in operation in several Ontario centres this year, including the ten-team interclty league of Kitchener, Galt, Guelph, Ingersoll, Waterloo, London, St. Thomas, Paris, St. Catharines and Welland.

Martin said Bill Graham, president of the Ontario Bowling Association, completely endorses the new count. Don Graham, Sarnia, who heads the Ontario Bowling Proprietors, is strongly recommending it to the governing body.

Martin plans to inaugurate the new count at his third annual $10,500 O'Connor Open from May 1 through the 3rd. This epic attracts the cream of the male keglers in the country. Approximately a dozen or so from this city are participating.

Ernie Wright, manager of Toronto's 88-lane Olympia-Edward alleys, says, "It's the same game and should have the same count. But let's do something to give more challenge and make the second ball more important. You'll improve the game by making the head pin the counter. Other sports like hockey and golf have done everything to speed up their games but we haven't done anything to encourage people to stay at ours."

"Let's face it," he said, "Five pins is a family game and people get discouraged if they can't score. We tell people to hit the head pin and, if they do, often don't score. I'm in favor of anything that will help the average bowler. Right now we get them in and then chase them out with our stupid count. With the head pin as the counter, the game would be more enticing, you'd get more people and they'd be less discouraged.

Some of bowling's top brass in the country may not be kindly disposed to the nationalization of the new count. The only fair way, in our opinion, is to let the bowlers themselves decide. A cross-country ballot could be taken and in this way the consensus of trunders as a whole would be forthcoming.

Stanley Cup Undisturbed; Stays Put Another Year

Habs Polish off Leafs 5-3 With 2-Period Score Power To Win Fourth Title in Row

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — How far with two goals. Rookie centre can Montreal Canadiens go? Can Ralph Backstrom, defenceman they be stopped at four straight Tom Johnson and right winger Stanley Cup championships?

Not many National Hockey League coaches would relish pondering such questions today in the wake of Canadiens' victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs in the final series.

The Habs wrapped up an unprecedented fourth successive cup Saturday night by demolishing Leafs 5-3 and winning the best-of-seven series 4-1. They let loose their frightening power in the first two periods and beat back one of those sizzy - head windups that has been pulling off for weeks. And they accomplished it with their superstars—Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Jean Beliveau.

The Montrealers are producing so many new players who seem destined for greatness that they could easily dominate the league for years. They also had a good taste of playoff money; a taste that lingers.

IMLACH'S TRIBUTE

"Let's face it," says Leaf coach Punch Imlach. "They're a great team. Every man they send over the boards is an excellent shooter and skater."

That was a sincere tribute from a man who became something of a professional genius for Leafs, demonstrating the persuasive power of words as he coaxed them from last place in the league into the semi-final series against Boston Bruins and into the final.

Even Montreal coach Toe Blake, not given to wild displays of optimism, admitted that his club has a sensational club on the leash.

"It has to be considered a great club to win four titles," he said after Saturday's engagement. "They did it without the big guys and against a team that wouldn't quit.

"I can't say this was the greatest of Canadiens' teams," the 46-year-old Blake said. "Not even the best I've had in the last four years. But they're not just ordinary, either."

Blake's "big guys" are the Rocket and Beliveau. Beliveau didn't get into action against Leafs after suffering a spinal injury in the semi - final series against Chicago Black Hawks. The Rocket, hampered by a late-season groin injury and recovering from a serious ankle fracture, sat out most of the series.

LATE DROP FAILS

Canadiens blasted their way into a 5-1 lead by the end of the second period and you couldn't have blamed Leafs if they had curled up their tails and headed for cover. Instead, they staged a late drive that gave the jitters to Canadiens and 14,790 fans in the forum.

Leaf goaltender Johnny Bower was benched for the last two minutes and 5 seconds. Sir Formards took cracks at Jacques Plante but the lanky Montreal netminder held them off, diving into plieups and kicking out short blasts time after time.

"You can't tell what will happen with all the milling going on right in front of you," he said. (Bobby) Pulford had two good shots on me. Twice the puck left me on the left knee in exactly the same place.

"Another time the puck was just outside the goaline and referee Eddie Powers was standing over it and watching it like a hawk. I finally managed to fall on it."

Imlach figured his boys missed too many chances in the early stages.

"And things weren't breaking for us," he said. "Gerry Ehman had two great opportunities in the second period. He had only one-man to beat but things didn't work out. If he had got those goals it would have been a 4-3-5-5 game and it would have been different."

Canadiens started a runaway in the first period when Backstrom, Geoffrion and Johnson beat Bower. Mahovlich was in the penalty box when Backstrom took Geoffrion's pass and flipped it behind Bower at close range.

Geoffrion sent the Habs in front at 11:12 of the second period, deflecting George Armstrong's shot past Plante from close range as Montreal defencemen Doug Harvey watched from the penalty box. Canadiens moved ahead 4-1 at 9:55 when Bonin—with his 20th of the playoffs — grabbed Henri Richard's rebound and pulled Bower aside.

SHOT OF RECORD

Bonin was two goals short of the record jointly held by the Rocket and Beliveau.

Leafs were shorthanded on defencemen Carl Brewer's minor penalty when Geoffrion made it 5-1 at 19:25 of the second period. Mahovlich scored on a shot later at 12:07 of the third period and Olmstead clinched a shot that captured past Plante off Harvey at 16:19.

It was the 11th Stanley Cup victory for Canadiens in the trophy's 52-year history. No other club has won so often. It was also the ninth straight time the Habs made the final. They won five of the last seven.

Blake, who has had a Stanley Cup winner in each of his four years as Canadiens' coach, beat the old mark of three straight set by Hap Day when he coached Leafs in 1947-48-49.

WALKING RECORD

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hungarian Frank Spring, 37, of the Vancouver Olympic Club, won the 15-kilometre walking event Sunday in the record time of one hour, 19 minutes, 44.6 seconds. Second was Ken Lane, one hour, 25 minutes, 36 seconds. Sipos continued walking after winning the race to establish a record of 10 miles of one hour, 17:51.8. The previous record was one hour, 21:42.4.

Miami Takes Two From Leafs; Royals Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Havana Sugar Kings' Tony Gonzales isn't wasting any time learning about this year's International League pitching. He already has walked out five home runs and driven in 11 in the first seven games.

Sunday, he broke a 1-1 tie with the Montreal Royals with a grand slam home run that gave the Kings a 6-2 nightcap victory. Montreal won the opener on Mike Brumley's homer, 1-0.

Columbus and Buffalo split a slugfest, with Buffalo taking the opener 10-9 and Columbus the nightcap, 15-12. Rochester swept two from Richmond, 8-3 and 3-1, and Miami swept Toronto 6-2 and 8-5.

HOMER PROTESTED

Gonzales' blow came in the second game of a set off a wave of protests by the Royals who thought the ball was foul. Umpire Joe Linsalata called it fair by inches.

Rochester, who also had two singles, sent Robert Vargas to the mound for the Royals. Vicente Amor survived a rocky start for the victory.

Miami, which has the Royals only home run in seven games played Tuesday, whipped Toronto Bi-be Birrer pitched a four-hitter for the victory.

Ed Bressoud, Havana laced Montreal 10-1; Miami won a close one from Toronto 3-2 on Vic Power's homer. Bisons stayed 12 innings before Columbus suddenly clicked for the five runs and won 15-12.

There were 6 hits, and 20 pitchers were used in the Columbus-Buffalo twinbill. Bobby Dr-ggrecco's homer with a man on in the 9th gave the opener for Buffalo while Leo Rodriguez had three RBI to more Columbus' way. Woody Smith sparked Miami's triumphs. He scored what proved to be the winning run in the first game on a dash from second base on Bill Lajoie's grounder. He hit two homers and a double for five runs in the nightcap.

Harry Byrd, who gave up a ninth-inning run after Smith's heroics, was the winner in the opener and Jim Archer won the nightcap. Don Johnson and Joe Hoerner were the losers in relief.

Bob Keegan and Bob Miller combined to pitch Rochester to its double victory. Keegan, aided by Dick Salado's three run homer, bested John Gabler in the opener.

Miller, winning his second against no losses, walked only one and fanned four. He gave up one run to Fritz Brickell. Bill Stafford was the loser, while Gene Oliviera netted off Richmond reliever Johnny James.

NEW CHAMPION

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Italy's European lightweight boxing champion Duilio Loi Sunday won the European welterweight crown. He took a 15-round decision over titleholder Emilio Marcosol of Italy.

Brilliant Wayne Connelly Again Leads Petes to Win

HULL, Que. (CP)—The comeback-minded Peterborough Petes spearheaded by the brilliant performance of right winger Wayne Connelly, are within one game of a berth in the Memorial Cup hockey final in only their third season of play.

The OHA Junior A champions could enter the final against the western champion Winnipeg Braves by downing Hull-Ottawa Canadiens tonight at Peterborough in the seventh game of their Eastern Canada final. Petes iced the series 3-2 with one game tied.

Petes, who captured the OHA title last year by defeating Jim Michael's in the last three games of a best-of-seven series, have taken the last three games over Hull-Ottawa—all on the sniping of Connelly who has 10 goals in the series.

Connelly, 18, in his third season with Petes, scored both goals in Sunday's 2-1 triumph after earlier scoring once in a 2-2 tie, four times in a 5-2 win and three times in a 4-1 victory last Friday.

Coach Scotty Bowman of Petes isn't counting Canadiens out yet. Bowman, who was assistant Canadiens coach to Sam Pollock last year, figured the defending cup champions should have scored at least two goals in the second period Sunday when they had an edge in play.

Habs' coach Claude Ruel was downhearted at the result and felt Canadiens should have won the game easily. The team didn't get any breaks around the Petes' borough goal he said.

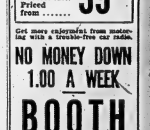
A crowd of 1,500 cheered the wide-open play and brilliant netminding of Dennis DeJordy of Peterborough and Canadiens' Claude Cyr, Sunday. DeJordy is a replacement from St. Catharines Teepees.

Cyr was tremendous, particularly in the last period when Canadiens were outshot 16-9 as they played loosely in an effort to route the tying goal.

After a scoreless first period Roger Desparriere of Canadiens had a goal disallowed at the five-minute mark of the second period when referee Frank Daignault said a Hull-Ottawa player was in the goal crease.

Minutes later Petes calmly protested that a shot by Fred Dart had trickled over the goal line and that Cyr had dragged it out before the goal judge or official could see the play.

Connelly, a 36-goal man during the regular season, opened the scoring at 17:39 of the period by tipping Tom Thurlby's sliding shot past Cyr, who was screened on the play.



Connelly then scored the winner at 8 seconds of the first period when his goal-mouth effort Laperriere and went past Cyr.

Harold White counted for Canadiens at 7:51 with teammate Andre Tardif in the penalty box for tripping.

Cyr then pulled a half-dozen sensational saves, including two labelled sieves by Connelly who first had a breakaway, then stole loose puck in front of Canadiens' goal.

DeJordy saved the game for Petes by getting a pad on Serge Boudreau's hard blast from directly in front of the net at the 17-minute mark.

Only eight minor penalties were called, four to each side.

Whitby Takes Allan Cup Opener From Vernon 5-2

But Officials State Score Is Indicative of Nothing; Big Russ Scores, Has Assist

TORONTO (CP) — Whitby Dunlops won the first game of the best-of-seven Allan Cup final Sunday but officials of both clubs agree that the top-heavy 5-2 score is indicative of nothing.

They said Vernon Canadians, who never really got started Sunday, will be a different team in the Leaf Gardens Wednesday night.

Said Whitby playing coach Sid Smith: "That was just the first game. They haven't got their legs yet."

HEAT A FACTOR

He said the heat in the gardens was "tough."

"They'll definitely improve. They can hit and they've got some pretty fair hockey players."

George Agar, playing coach-manager of the Okanagan Senior Hockey League team, said: "they're (Whitby) as good as some of the teams we played out west."

"I know our club can play better. I guess a few of the boys took a bad line for an off game." He too said it was hot in the gardens.

The series is between two former Allan Cup champions. Vernon won it in 1956 and Whitby in 1957 — the year the team switched to senior A hockey from senior B. Dunlops won the world championship last year. Both teams have players who were on the previous championship teams.

LED ALL THE WAY

Dunlops led 2-0 at the end of the first period and 3-1 going into the third.

Smith, who stepped down from Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League to take his coaching job, scored one of the goals with others coming from Bob Hassard, defenceman Harry Sinden, George Samolenko and Pete Babando. Russ Kowalchuk, picked up by Canadians from Kelowna Packers of their league, scored Vernon's first goal and set up the second by Rexy Bidoski.

GOALTENDING GREAT

Long John Henderson, a former NHL Boston Bruin, was the hero for Whitby. The goalie made 22 stops, seven less than Vernon's Hal Gordon, but several of them had goal written on them.

Gordon shone in the first and second period when he kept Whitby's score from getting out of reach.

Hassard opened the scoring at 5:18 of the first period, intercepting Vernon defenceman Tom Steczyk's pass at centre ice and scoring a 25-footer.

At 17:33 Sinden made it 2-0, taking a pass from Sandy Air behind the Vernon net. Vernon was shorthanded at the time.

It took three tries but Kowalchuk put Vernon back in the game at 11:01 of the second when Whitby was a man short. He shot, the puck rebounded, he shot again with the same result and finally scored.

Smith made it 3-1 at 18:35 while each team was playing five aside when he took a pass from Samolenko from behind the net.

BOTH MISJUDGE

The teams exchanged goals within 49 seconds of the third, in both cases apparently because the respective goalies misjudged.

At 8:10 Samolenko let go a 30-foot drive about a foot off the ice which Gordon fanned at with his glove and missed. Goalie Henderson fell on the ice too soon and Bidoski, a left winger, picked up the corner.

Babando, another former NHL player who has seen service with Chicago Black Hawks, Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings, rounded out the scoring when his shot went in off the skate of Vernon defenceman Willie Schmidt.

Referee Al Paradise of Winnipeg called 14 penalties, nine to Vernon.

Habs Collect $4,000 Each, Leafs $2,150

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens, winners over Toronto Maple Leafs in the Stanley Cup final, will collect $4,000 each for their achievement in the playoffs and another $1,000 for finishing on top in the National Hockey League race.

A few of the Montrealers stand to increase their extra money by $1,000 to $3,000 on the basis of all-star team selections and nominations to various individual awards.

On the basis of finishing places in the league standing and performances in the post - season playoffs, the NHL hands out money in units of 18. Any further division is left up to the team members.

For finishing first in the NHL, each of the Canadiens will get about $1,000. As winners of the semi - final cup series against Chicago Black Hawks, there's $1,250 for each Montrealer. For winning the final over Toronto Maple Leafs, each of the Canadiens gets $1,750.

Maple Leafs will collect $2,150 each. They made fourth place in the league race, which means $150 for each player. On top of this, each Toronto player gets $1,250 for winning over Boston Bruins in the cup semi-final and $1,000 as members of the runner-up team to Canadiens in the final.

Four of Perrault's shutouts against the regular-season champions have been on Buffalo ice.

Hec Lalande and Bob Solinger were the Bears scorers with Solinger's goal his 38th in league playoffs, adding to his playoff record.

Chinooks Win Cage Crown Over Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Southern Alberta Chinooks are on their way home to Lethbridge with the Memorial Cup after coming from behind to defeat Ottawa Fullers 81-72 and win the Canadian Senior A basketball championship Saturday night.

After winning the first two games, they had lost two straight — and were down 47-45 at half time in the final but came back to win.

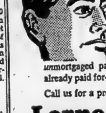
"We came down here to win it and win it we did," said Chinook coach Dean Bennett. "That day off we had Friday really helped us and the boys had the determination and drive they needed to pull this one out of the bag."

"Maybe the fellows were a little overconfident after their two big victories Wednesday and Thursday—I just don't know," commented Ottawa coach Dave Stothart.

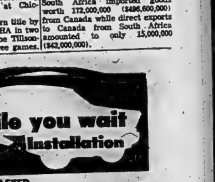
Al West and Tom Kerren, both playing with slight touches of flu —a complaint that plagued Ottawa early in the series—led the winners with 19 and 18 points respectively.

Bob Bradley netted 14 points to be the series top scorer with 164 points.

High man for the night was Ottawa rearguard Glenn Pettinger with 26 points, 21 of them scored in the first half.



It was the first time either club had taken part in a Dominion final. Chinooks now will make up the rubbers of the team to represent Canada in forthcoming Pan-American games at Chicago.



Fullers won the eastern title by defeating Montreal YMHA in two games and upsetting the Tillsonburg Livingstons in three games.

SALESMANSHIP NEEDED

CAPETOWN South Africa (CP) South Africa's secretary for commerce and industries, H. B. Kotzenberg, says aggressive salesmanship by South African exporters could reduce the heavy balance that is at present in Canada's favor. He told a meeting of the Canadian-South African Businessmen's Association that in the last 10 years South Africa imported goods worth 172,000,000 ($496,650,000) from Canada while direct exports to Canada from South Africa amounted to only 15,000,000 ($42,000,000).

WHAT THE RADIATOR REVEALS

Although hidden behind a fancy chrome grill, the radiator still serves the same purpose as ever . . . keeping the engine cool. Should the radiator become clogged up or develop a leak, overheating can result—with serious damage to the engine.

By opening the hood you can see most of the radiator behind the fan. Any sign of moisture on the rad is an indication of a leak. With the engine running at operating temperature squeeze the radiator hose . . . when the water is circulating properly you can easily feel it pulsing through the hose.

Happy Birthday... this year, and every year

Happy birthday—with all those things provided which are closest to a young fellow's heart on such occasions. And every promise of a good life in the years ahead . . . because a prudent father has safeguarded the future for his family with adequate life insurance. He has made sure that even if his life should be cut short, they could still have their present home—still live much as they do today—still have those "extras" for such important events as birthdays.

Bob Weese, Barry Simpson Are Named Queen's Scouts

By CHRIS LEGATT

A colorful ceremony in which two Belleville boys were named Queen's Scouts, was the highlight of a recent "Parents' Night" held by the 6th Belleville Group.

Named Queen's Scouts in the ceremony were Bob Weese and Barry Simpson. District scout leaders were present during the ceremony.

The evening was opened in a proper Scout manner by a "Grand Howl" by "A" and "B" Cub Packs led by C.M.J. McAllister, Chairman Lew Andrews briefly welcomed the parents explaining that boys preferred eating to speeches. A very appetizing "Scouters dessert-lunch" was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary. This is a new organization for the 6th and they have already won favor with the Cubs and Scouts—they like all boys, enjoy good food nicely served. Congratulations ladies on your first very successful project.

Members of the new group are, Mrs. L. Andrews (president), Mrs. M. McClland, Mrs. D. Weese, Mrs. J. Joby, Mrs. R. Winstanley, Mrs. L. Latchford, Mrs. W. Williamson, Mrs. M. Lorne, Mrs. D. Miles, Mrs. Coe, and Mrs. Simpson. Mrs. Rose Irwin and Mr. Percy Kerr of the Tabernacle Men's Club, sponsors of the group, assisted by serving coffee

D. C. M. Mac McClelland led a rousing sing — sonk. Mac was their Akela and is always a welcome guest. Cubs Alex McLaurin, David Whitehead, Allan Colden and Tim Weese, of "A" Pack and Cubs Scott McClelland, Allan O'Hara, Bruce Prindle and John Locke entertained the parents with skits, very well prepared and presented. Mrs. N. Howard, wife of "B" Pack Akela wrote the skit for "A" Pack. Scouts Alan Martin and Barry Simpson did a variety of characterizations, magic and puppets. A remarkable performance in spite of last minute preparations because of the sickness of Bill Burley who was to have taken part. The 6th have an enviable reputation for their acting abilities.

QUEEN'S SCOUTS CEREMONY

S. M. John Bablak assisted by A. S. M. Howard Anderson and A. S. M. Jim Joby performed the solemn ceremony. Also present were D. C. Phil Allcorn, A. D. C. Les Boyle, D. S. M. Bob Williamson and D. C. M. Bill Sweet. S. M. Bablak proudly read the records of Scouts Barry Simpson and Bob Weese, who repeated the Scout Promise on bended knee and were then presented with their coveted Queen's Scouts badges. A prayer of dedication completed the ceremony. Queen's Scouts Weese and Simpson in turn saluted the parents, Cubs and guests, each to a tremendous applause. We, too, would add the congratulations of the local Association to these two boys, knowing how hard a boy has to work to qualify for this most honored title of Queen's Scout.

The Cub Vesper by both Packs led by C. M. Norman Howard and C.M. Jim McAllister brought this memorable and enjoyable evening to a close.

Sprinters Tie World Marks

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — San Jose State's Ray Norton, co-holder of the world record for the 100-yard dash at 30, tied the world mark for 100 metres at 10.1 seconds Saturday in a meet here.

At Abilene, Tex., Bill Woodhouse of Abilene Christian College became the third sprinter in the history of track and field to run the 100-yard dash in 9.1. He came back in a few minutes to run the 220-yard dash in 19.5.

Peg Braves Western Champs; Oust Flin Flon

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Braves hustled their way into the Memorial Cup final Sunday, outskating Flin Flon Bombers for a 3-0 victory that clinched the western junior hockey championship.

It was Braves' fourth straight win on Winnipeg ice after losing the first two contests of the best-of-seven western final at Flin Flon. They now meet either Peterborough Petes or Hull-Ottawa Canadiens in the Canadian final, starting here April 24.

Braves coach Bill Allum said after the game he doesn't care which of the eastern clubs Winnipeg meets: "We'll take them as they come."

"I know nothing about Peterborough. And the less I know the less I have to worry about."

Reminded that Braves had been defeated 5-2 in an exhibition game by Hull-Ottawa earlier this season, Allum replied: "That was an exhibition game, this is different."

TO CHOOSE PLAYERS

Allum said he had not decided which players, if any, he would choose for the three playoff replacements allowed western clubs entering the Memorial Cup final. He said he would discuss the matter with team manager Bill Addison and a decision likely would be announced today.

In Sunday's deciding game, Laurie Langrell, Bob Leiter and defenceman Lee Mueller scored the Braves' goals, but it was the rock-ribbed Winnipeg defence, inspired by the brilliant goaltending of Ernie Wakely, that stopped the powerful Bombers.

A crowd of 9,108, believed the largest in western junior hockey history, gave Wakely a standing ovation for his dazzling performance in stopping 37 shots—many of them labelled for goals.

The fast-body-checking Braves, led by hard - working Howie Hughes, kept a tight rein on Bomber forward Gord Berenson. Cliff Pennington and Dick Meissner — considered to be among the top professional prospects in junior hockey.

AT THE PARK — Cary Grant as a moneyed-American, Ingrid Bergman as a famous continental actress, have a gay time in Warner Bros. "Indiscreet", the Technicolor romantic comedy opening tonight at the Park Theatre for a two day engagement. On the same program a whole new world of adventure, Gregory Peck with Ann Blyth and Anthony Quinn in Rex Beach's "The World in His Arms", color by Technicolor. There will be but one complete show for these two attractions starting at 7.30 p.m.

NEW YORK (CP)—A colt—inelegible for the Kentucky Derby has caused unexpected changes in the derby picture by beating some of the most highly regarded candidates for the May 2 race.

Manassa Mauler put on one of the most stirring stretch drives in the history of the $88,000 Wood Memorial at Jamaica Saturday to outlast Derby favorite Fisrt Landing.

The colt owned by a New York restaurateur and named for Jack Dempsey, overhauled First Landing in mid-stretch and flashed through the 1¼ miles in 1:49 3-5. Ray Broussard was up.

CRASH KILLS EIGHT

VENADO TUERTO, Argentina (AP)—Eight persons were killed Sunday when a racing car plunged into a crowd of spectators after serving to avoid a truck. The racing driver, Luis Ferraris, was severely injured.

The Quinte Reports

News of Your Local Sea Cadet Corps

Plans for the annual Sea Cadet inspection in May were initiated last Thursday evening by Lt. J. G. Donovan, Commanding Officer of the "Quinte". Various classes and displays will form a part of the inspection and the duty of preparing these has been assigned to the various officers of the corps.

A special 12 to 15 man precision drill squad under arms will be formed this Tuesday evening. W.O. 2 William Bennett of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment has kindly offered to undertake the task of drilling the new guard.

With spring in the air and the lure of the harbor it is expected that the corps' dinghies will be undergoing the seasonal overhaul starting this week. They will be readied and placed in ship-shape condition for a special "sail-past" on inspection day.

Mr. Kenneth Rose of the Belleville Yacht Club has offered his services to give the cadets sailing instruction and supervise the formation of sailing crews for the coming inspection.

Area Headquarters has sent through the official appointment of Mr. R. Davis to the rank of Midshipman on the "Quinte's" officer roster. As Sea Cadet, Mr. Davis will take on the duties of supply officer for the corps.

Rifle practice has been progressing with a number of cadets increasing their target shooting proficiency remarkably well. Those who have shot the qualifying targets for their Marksman badge include: W. Clare, R. G. Graham, B. Parks, A. Snider and J. Walker.

A team has been formed to compete in the Dominion Marksmanship competition. There will be ten cadets competing in this competition for the proficiency medals which can be earned. Those representing the "Quinte" in this competition will include: Walter Clare, Donald Cross, Richard Dixon, Stuart Godden, Richard Graham, Terry Graham, Donald MacDonald, Bruce Parks, Alan Snider and James Walker. Other cadets will be allowed to enter this competition as their shooting ability improves.

Last week's parades included foot drill instruction, under Lt. William McConnell, color guard drill, under P.O. Wayne Bunnett, and rifle instruction. Thursday's parade included signal instruction and practice in bends and hitches. Preparation for the equipment survey were also started.

Lures interested in joining the corps are welcomed to turn out to the Armouries Tues. evening at 7.15 p.m. on Thursday at the barracks, 39 South Front St. for the CPR tracks, at the same time.

labs' Record
ne of Many n Playoffs

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens' fourth straight Stanley Cup title heads the list of records broken during this year's National Hockey League playoffs.

The Habitants, who defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 8-3 Saturday night to win the best-of-seven final 4-1, broke a tie with Leafs for most consecutive cup championships, Toronto won the title in 1947-48-49 while Canadiens equalled that record last year.

The Montreal club also bettered its own marks of most final appearances, running its total to 18 this year. It was also Canadiens' 10th straight final appearance in 10 years of playoff competition. Also more records.

Montreal coach Toe Blake, who has yet to lose a final since taking over from Dick Irvin four seasons ago, is the first coach to guide his team to four straight championships.

Canadien defenceman Doug Harvey was the only player to set a new mark among scorers. He collected 11 assists during the 12 playoff games in which Canadiens played to run his total to 49 in 11 years.

JORD HOWE'S MARK

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings held the old mark of 48 assists.

Maurice Richard, who saw little action during the first four games, of the Leaf series, but later dressed in the final, retained the record of most Stanley Cup games, 185. Ted Lindsay of Chicago Black Hawks, whom Canadiens defeated 4-3 in the best-of-seven semi-final, had missed Richard in that series, running his total to 182, while Richard missed the series because of a broken ankle.

Dickie Moore, the NHL's scoring champion in the last two regular seasons, had five goals and 12 assists for 17 points during the playoffs, three short of the record held by Howe.

Raiders Named ORFU Entry

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Detroit Raiders were reaffirmed as the Detroit franchise holder at a special meeting of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union executive and representatives of league members here Saturday.

The ORFU accepted the Raiders entry more than two weeks ago. Since then another Detroit group, headed by Bob Gassoway and Joel Mason, both members of the Raider group last season, was formed, with the intention of being the Detroit area club.

Ralph Duffus, ORFU first vice-president, said, "in view of the fact the Raiders fulfilled all their obligations last year without a hitch, and since they have undertaken considerable planning for this season, we felt it would be unfair if we took in this new group.

"The new group seemed quite sincere and appeared well organized but it was refused with a strong recommendation that the two Detroit interests join forces."

Ken Farmer Again Named Olympics Head

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Olympic Association has re-elected its officers and made plans for both the 1959 Pan-American games and the 1960 Winter Olympics.

The association and its Pan-Am games committee took note of bids from Winnipeg and Montreal for staging the 1963 Pan - Am games and from Calgary, jointly with Banff, for the 1964 or the for the betterment of football in that area."

The meeting also discussed briefly the proposed Buffalo entry which backed out of the league last month due to inability to obtain suitable home park accommodations. Nothing was said of a team from Flint, Mich., or from Toledo, Ohio. These teams were mentioned at the ORFU's annual meeting here two weeks ago.

1968 Winter Olympics. Under the proposals, hockey competitions would be at Calgary; skiing and skating at Banff.

At the annual meeting Saturday decision on the applications was put over for later consideration.

The Pan-American games this year are to be held at Chicago in August. The 1960 Olympic winter games are to be held at Squaw Valley, Calif., and the summer games at Rome, Italy.

SEEK 1967 GAMES

There was a suggestion that Canada should seek the 1967 Pan-Am games to mark Canada's centennial year, but if usual rotation is followed, a South American country would be host that year.

The Pan-Am committee stood by its figure of 206 total personnel for this summer's games, but said readjustments within the figure can be made if necessary. The 206 comprise 175 athletes, 25 team officials and six central officials.

Frank J. Shaughnessy, Jr., of Montreal, was named chef de mission for the 1960 Winter Olympics and Alex Muir of Hamilton, treasurer.

The COA confirmed the speed skating team, as submitted, and the Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, with some changes to be made, as Canada's hockey team at the Winter Olympics.

Total budget of $258,000 for the winter games at Squaw Valley was approved. A financial campaign to raise the money will be started shortly.

The re-elected officers are: Ken Farmer, Montreal, president; Frank Shaughnessy, Jr., Montreal, Alex Muir, Hamilton, James Worrall, Toronto, and Ken Mackenzie, Vancouver vice - presidents; Howard Radford, Montreal, secretary; Bill Parrish, Hamilton, treasurer.

New members of the executive include E. R. S. McLaughlin of Oshawa, representing figure skating.

OIL SEARCH AREA — Six drilling rigs have been pushed into the Judy Creek area of Alberta in an effort to determine the extent of an oil field.

Imperial Oil Limited's wildcat well in the area came in late in February, capping years of exploration in the area 120 miles northwest of Edmonton.

Company officials feel the field could be an extension of the Swan Hills pool, 30 miles to the north. The problem now is to find out how good and how big the field is as quickly as possible.

Map locates Judy Creek in relation to other major fields and main highways (broken line.) Swan Hills is classed as a major field, meaning there are more than 100,000,000 barrels of oil in the pool. (CP Newsmap.)

British Ballerina Under Arrest By Panama Govt.

Claimed Husband Trying To Overthrow President

Seals Dive Into Washtub, Woman Faints

SOVIGO, Italy (AP)—Several seals loosed up a stairway of an apartment in this north Italian town Monday and dived happily into a tank where a woman was washing clothes.

The woman fainted.

A giraffe was lassoed near a church in the nearby villages of Borsea. Another giraffe and two zebras were cornered at neighboring Orignano.

A herd of Indian goats, a South American guan bird and a llama tied up along a highway outside Rovigo.

The animals all had made a break when a circus trailer truck overturned. All were recaptured except the guan bird and some Indian goat, killed by motorists who didn't see them in time.

PANAMA CITY (AP) — The government held British ballerina Margot Fonteyn under arrest today in connection with charges that her husband was plotting to overthrow President Ernesto de la Guardia Jr.

The 39-year-old ballet dancer, one of the world's greatest, was reported being held in the private office of the chief of police of Panama City's main jail.

National guard headquarters claimed that Miss Fonteyn's Panamanian husband, Roberto Arias, had landed Sunday night on Panama's Pacific coast with about 30 armed men.

The national guard, which is Panama's army and police, said Arias and his band were fleeing. Other reports said he had transferred from the motor launch in which he and his wife had been cruising during the weekend and had landed near his family's large cattle ranch 75 miles west of the capital.

There was no immediate official reaction from the British embassy, which had been busy until late Monday with the visit of Princess Philip, Duke of Edinburgh's wife.

More than a decade has been the star of Britain's Royal Ballet and is a Dame of the British Empire, the female equivalent of knighthood.

Dame Margot had been in Panama for several months with her husband, Panama's former ambassador to Britain. The couple had been cruising aboard the fishing launch Nola in the Gulf of Panama since last Tuesday.

During the weekend de la Guardia's government had sent out an order for the arrest of her husband.

Arias, son of former president Harmodio Arias, was charged with trying to organize an attack on the national police garrison in Chorrera, about 20 miles outside the capital.

His wife sailed into Balboa undetected before dawn Monday aboard the Nola. Reporters were unable to locate her during the day, but it was known she spent some time during the morning at her father-in-law's home.

National guard officials refused to say when or where she was arrested.

IDLE TRUCKERS PROPOSE MEETING WITH COMPANIES

Wildcat Walkout Spreads To Windsor

TORONTO (CP) — Striking members of Toronto's local 938 of the Teamsters' Union Monday night proposed a meeting with representatives of trucking firms to discuss a settlement in the wildcat walkout which employers term illegal.

A meeting of 1,000 of the striking truckers authorized a committee to meet with management and also set up a 45-man steward body to pass on any agreement reached and give the back-to-work order.

The decision on whether a meeting will be held rests with the employers' group, represented by the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, which bargains for more than 100 Ontario firms.

HOFFA INTERVENES

The move by rebel members of the Teamsters' Union (CLC) followed intervention into the walkout by James Hoffa, international Teamsters' president, and the Teamsters' Joint Council of the Toronto-Hamilton area.

Meanwhile, the strike, which tied up most transport companies operating out of Toronto, spread to Windsor as pickets from Toronto appeared at the gates of the border city.

It was triggered Friday when 200 Toronto truck maintenance men walked off the job to protest increased "piggyback" rates, a means of rail services in which truck trailers are loaded on flat-cars for transportation between large cities.

11 POINT LIST

At Monday night's meeting the stewards drew up an 11-point list of demands which they proposed to place before management negotiators. One demanded reinstatement of eight members on the use of independent owner-operators by transport firms.

Another clause sought assurance that there would be no employer discrimination against striking strikers because of their participation in the walkout.

Ontario Labor Minister Daley asked Hoffa to intervene in the Unemployment Declines Again, Switch In Trend

Customary March Climb Is Reversed This Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment in Canada declined for the second straight month between late February and late March.

Number of persons with jobs also rose slightly during the same period, government figures showed today.

Reversing the usual seasonal trend, unemployed persons dropped to 525,000 at March 21 from 537,000 a month earlier. It was a decline of 72,000 from the post-war high of 597,000 in March, 1958.

Besides those without jobs, there were an estimated 29,000 on temporary layoff at March 21 compared with 31,000 a month earlier and 39,000 in March of last year.

The total with jobs moved up to 5,552,000 from 5,547,000, this compared with 5,401,000 from a year previously.

The drop in unemployment was associated with a slight decline in the labor force. Although it declined to only 7,077,000 from 6,084,000 to 6,077,000—it was in contrast with an expansion that usually takes place at this time of year.

In the past five years, the labor force has increased by an average 75,000 between late February and March.

Although the figures of estimated outright unemployment, the government released labor department estimates with these two sets of figures are obtained by different methods.

The estimate of unemployment is made by the bureau of statistics on a monthly sampling of 30,000 households. The employment and payroll figures are those on file at regional offices across Canada on a particular date and are known to contain a statistical but never officially guessed at — of persons who move from one job to another.

The increase is estimated employment during the year preceding this March came wholly in part-time jobs.

Non-farm employment rose to

Queen Takes First Look At English Pub

STEVENAGE, Eng. (Reuter)—Queen Elizabeth Monday took her first close look at the bar in an English pub.

"Tavern owner Will Mannion, a former soccer star, showed her around The Pied Piper during her visit to Stevenage new town, a huge housing - shopping - manufacturing development.

CNR Predicts Year's Deficit At $34,400,000

OTTAWA (CP)—A sharp rise in operating revenues this year will not be enough to keep Canadian National Railways out of the red ink, The publicly-owned line is predicting a 1959 deficit of $34,400,000.

Last year the CNR had a $31,000,000 deficit, its second in a row, some $22,000,000 higher than in 1957 and the highest since 1938, a depression year. It had originally that the loss was due partly to a $44,000,000 drop in freight revenue.

The railway's 1959 budget, tabled in the Commons Monday, said the reduced deficit would result from revenues rising to $748,000,000 from $704,947,000 last year. The net operating revenue after estimated operating expenses of $723,100,000 would be $27,800,000.

With adjustments for taxes and other expenses and for non-rail income, the CNR would have $18,-400,000 available for meeting fixed charges such as debt interest. This is more than those charges will run to $53,800,000.

FREIGHT TOLL HIGHER

The CNR budget did not specify the source of its rising operating revenues, but presumably most of them would come from freight tolls.

The tolls this year are expected to bring the railway between $500,000,000 and $600,000,000, an increase from last year's $568,263,000.

Most of this rise is attributed to the general upswing in Canada's economy. Also a factor would be the 17-percent freight rates increase granted the railways last December.

Parliament now is debating a proposed $20,000,000 federal subsidy to the railways that would use it to reduce the effect of the December increase to about 10 per cent. But this does not affect eventual rail revenues.

Colder air presently spreading southward across the Prairies will reach northern regions of Ontario late tonight and Wednesday.

BUDGET DEBATE PRODUCES CALL FOR HOUSE PROBE

Want Inquiry Into Nicholson's Leaving

OTTAWA (CP)— The Commons budget debate, ranging over many fields, has produced a call for a parliamentary inquiry into the resignation last month of RCMP Commissioner H. HP Nicholson.

"We are definitely remiss in our duty if we do not explore to the utmost the reasons for Nicholson's resignation," Leon Crestohl (Co-Montreal Cartier) said Monday in proposing the inquiry.

The commissioner resigned over the government's refusal to comply with the Newfoundland government's request to send 50 RCMP reinforcements to help police a loggers' strike on the island.

"Because of the unusual suddenness of this event," Mr. Crestohl said at another point, "I had expected that the government would have at once set up an volition act up a probe to inquire into the background of this vital matter."

ISSUE EVADED

The government was the only authority with power to establish such an inquiry, Yet to his surprise, the government had allowed "the significance of this event to lapse into background."

At one point in Mr. Crestohl's speech, Gordon Speakman (PC-Wataskiwin) interjected to suggest that the commission's resignation was in effect a public disagreement with his superiors.

Did Mr. Crestohl think that the head of the RCMP, "which

Dealers Busy Change Signs As Gas Price War Continues

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gasoline prices are tumbling from Ottawa to Woodstock and dealers are busy changing their signs.

There was little conformity. From a basic price of about 43 cents a gallon for regular gasoline, Ottawa dealers slashed about four cents as the price war continued through its fourth day. Woodstock reported prices down 12 cents a gallon and some dealers predicted a further drop. Hamilton's cut was about six cents. London service station operators said the war had not spread there.

Ottawa stations were charging 39.9 cents; Hamilton 37.9; Woodstock, 39.9.

In some cases in Toronto, the price skidded to 39 cents, but in this area the cuts ranged from four cents a gallon to more than 10 cents.

The price cutting apparently began among independent dealers and spread. Gasoline in Toronto said he was being subsidized by his supplier. He was also charging 22.9 cents.

Few service station attendants selling under contracts which may be cancelled in 24 hours would speak for publication.

One in Ottawa said the situation was a price war. Another said it was to meet competition from "unbranded gasoline."

Two large independent dealers in London said the situation there is "pretty stable" and "we've been through all that and decided there is no use driving one another broke."

One salesman in Woodstock said he was kept busy all day changing the prices on a large sign in front of his premises to keep pace with the station across the road.

In Hamilton, one operator shrugged off reports that gasoline prices across town.

"I'm not worried about the East End," he said. "My competition is across the street."

Last year a gasoline price war in Toronto started in February and continued sporadically in the Toronto area through to mid-September. Prices hit a low of 25.9 cents.

Macmillan Supporting Ban On A-Tests Below 30 Miles

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan has written Nikita Khrushchev supporting President Eisenhower's proposal for a nuclear weapon tests below an altitude of 30 miles.

Sources close to the government said Macmillan told Khrushchev Britain would prefer a more comprehensive test ban. But he said if that is impossible, it will back limited agreement of the type proposed by the U.S. and British last week at the Geneva conference on a nuclear test ban.

The Russians took a negative attitude toward the West-European proposal, terming it a deviation from the agreed purpose of the conference. But Western delegates at Geneva believe that Khrushchev has not closed the door and that the proposal still is to be heard.

The new western proposal would exempt underground tests that the scientists say cannot be detected by seismographs. The Western delegations contend that dangerous radioactive fallout would not result from such explosion and that explosions in the atmosphere below 30 miles can easily be detected.

Eisenhower's letter was sent in Khrushchev April 13- and was made public Monday. The President and Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Russia should agree on a limited test ban treaty before they have the Geneva negotiations fail completely.

After initial agreement, Eisenhower said, the three nations should continue negotiations for a prohibition of all nuclear weapon tests.

Eisenhower's letter disclosed that he had discussed the proposed with Macmillan, who earlier had talked with Khrushchev in Moscow.

SMASH REBEL PLOT

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)— Police said Monday they smashed a plot against the government and arrested five leaders of the Conservative party youth movement. Police Chief Colonel Agustin Icio Artola told reporters the prisoners were involved in recent terrorist bombings in Managua and the distribution of leaflets calling for a revolution.

Frogman Makes Good Time on Swim to Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—Frogman Louis Lourmais was reported making "good time" today on the final gruelling stage of his 160-mile swim down the St. Lawrence River from Montreal to Quebec City.

The 31-year-old Frenchman who started Saturday at Lake St. Louis expected to reach the provincial capital late this afternoon.

"He is very serene and he is going to make it," said one of the doctors following Lourmais in a launch.

Lourmais now is swimming down stream from Cap-Sante, 41 miles from Quebec City. The tide was ebbing this morning and helped him make good progress. The tide will rise again shortly after noon.

Lourmais pulled in at Cap Sante at 1 a.m. to eat and take a rest. He plunged back into the icy St. Lawrence at 8:45 a.m. in spite of swollen lips, a windburned face, and nearly-closed eyes. His physical condition, doctors described as "fairly good."

The swim is sponsored by a Montreal brewery but Lourmais and his backers insist that scientists in underwater exploration of cold water.

Sniper Shatters Car Windshield

HAMILTON (CP) — Police searched the beach strip Monday night for a sniper who shot at the windshield of a car crossing the skyway bridge.

James Scott, of Aldershot, was driving east across the bridge when his windshield suddenly shattered.

Mr. Scott escaped injury.

Detectives said they suspect a sniper using a .22 calibre rifle.

Churchill Tells West It Must Be Patient, Firm

WOODFORD, Eng. (Reuter)—Sir Winston Churchill broke a two-year public silence Monday night and told the West it must be "patient and firm" in East-West negotiations and make no allowances for justifiable Russian fears."

The 85-year-old veteran of British politics also announced his decision to retain a seat in Parliament in the next election.

Years filled Churchill's face as he spoke briefly at the thunderous burst of applause that greeted his appearance.

He told a meeting in his constituency: "I seek, and I think I am sought, nothing but peace with the Russians, just as after the last war I sought peace with Germany back into the circle of the free nations."

"Both Russia and England have all to gain and nothing to lose by friendship."

Churchill has represented Woodford, conservative, for most of his nearly 50 years in Parliament.

Flight Into Remote Eskimo District Finds Natives Near Starvation

OTTAWA (CP)—A routine trip by northern affairs men into the remote Eskimo settlement of Port Burwell has developed into a mercy mission.

An emergency food flight was ordered Monday to the tuberculosis community Monday to aid its 81 Eskimos, after the party found them on the brink of starvation.

When the four northern affairs officers touched down in their plane on nearby Ungava Bay ice a week ago, they found the Eskimos were down to their last seal, enough to feed them for one day.

Don Snowden, who led the party, said in an interview he shuddered at the thought of their plight if the party had not arrived when it did. Port Burwell might not have a visitor from outside the whole year round.

A Norseman aircraft from Port Chimo, at the southern end of the bay, made the trip to Burwell, aid co-operative in the north.

Child Found Strangled in Garage Loft

DETROIT (AP) — Five-year-old Barbara Kovacsik, who disappeared after attending kindergarten, was strangled in a garage loft behind his home Monday night.

Barbara, only son of deaf mute parents, vanished in mid-day.

Assistant police chief Leonard Daniel Zdanowski, 38, factory worker, and his wife, Mary, 36, were charged following his morning kindergarten class.

The body was found in a corner behind a stack of lumber on planks under the garage ceiling. It was found during a search of the neighborhood by police and volunteers.

Marvin's mother, who converses in sign language by means of notes, said Marvin left home in anger to go to kindergarten after he had refused him permission to stay out of school and watch television.

Atomic Cargo Submarine Said Key To Development of Canada's North

OTTAWA (CP)—A British industrialist says the atomic cargo submarine is the key to development of the Canadian north.

E. B. N. Mitchell of London's big Mitchell engineering group is convinced that plans for atomic subs under his arm, to carry ore cruising to his proposal for their use in Canada's northern waters.

Today he was to see the deputy minister of northern affairs, R.G. Robertson.

This is the picture Mr. Mitchell sees, as outlined to a reporter:

Rich resources covering 90 per cent of Canada—and the part the populous southern areas — are waiting to be tapped. Now are they to be taken to markets through northern waters open to or not.

surface shipping only three months of the year?

An ore carrier sub can just take place in the Arctic archipelago and in a few years this may be one of the world's great sources of the liquid mineral.

There are some 500,000,000,000 barrels of oil in the Athabaska oil sands of Northern Alberta—an amount equal to the entire world's present proven supplies.

There is vast iron ore development in Northern Quebec now under way, along with Northern Manitoba and Northern Ontario.

Atomic submarines operating under Arctic Ocean ice 12 months of the year at a fraction of the cost of surface vessels "will eventually be carrying these resources to world markets whether Canadians realize it now or not.

House Briefs

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker told Parliament Monday in the Commons to comment on prospects of the Western Big Three powers adopting the Canadian suggestion that the United Nations be given a hand in any settlement on Berlin. He told CCF House Leader Hazen Argue he would "not be very helpful" to comment now on various proposals being discussed.

Asked whether diefenbakers were prevented on security grounds from taking pictures of men breaking up by the air six Arrow jet interceptors, Defence Minister Pearkes told Robert Macaulay L—Fort William he has no knowledge of such an order being issued.

Frank J. Ainsborough, federal mediator appointed in the dispute between Fairmont Corporation and its employees, is trying to arrange a meeting between the two parties, Labor Minister Starr told J. W. Murphy PC—Lambton West. Employees of the company walked out March 18 over demands for a 10-per-cent general wage increase and other benefits.

George McIlraith L — Ottawa East asked whether the government will sponsor a conference on markets at the request of the Canadian Welfare Council. Prime Minister Diefenbaker said a reply would follow later. Trade Minister Churchill, who was absent from the House.

Calls for speedy appointment of a new external affairs minister came from both opposition parties.

Paul Martin L—Essex East and CCF House Leader Argue said the matter was pointless. The post has been filled on a part-time basis since Prime Minister Diefenbaker slipe the death March 17 of Sidney Smith.

Mr. Argue said the present is one of the most important times in recent years and Canada should not be without a minister responsible for foreign policy.

Clerr manager Drury Denyes noted that one thing expected of the host city would be a cocktail banquet for the visiting officials.

A similar invitation was extended to the Association during the term of Ex-Mayor Jane Forrester but was not accepted.

FIREMEN GET SHORT "BREATHER"

After a very busy weekend answering fire alarms the local firefighters got a short "breather" yesterday with no alarms being turned in up to 11.00 o'clock this morning. It is hoped that this is due to people taking more care and exercising more control over their grass and rubbish fires.

PLEADS GUILTY TO THREE COUNTS

A plea of guilty to three counts of breaking and entry was made today before Magistrate T. Wills by Edward Deline. The plea does include a safe robbery at the Belleville College Institute and Vocational School and two gas station entries.

Yesterday the same individual was sentenced by Judge J. C. Anderson to two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory at Burwash on a charge of breaking and entry committed last February.

Cafes Allowed To Stay Open During Night

Maintaining that there were too many restrictive by-laws which tended to curb business, city council in committee last night turned down a recommendation which would have called for the closing of all city restaurants between the hours of 1.30 a.m. and 5 a.m.

Mayor Gerald B. Hyde said the closing by-law was asked by city police who claimed that the restaurants were being used as "hang-outs" by youths for the planning of knockings and other crime activities.

He said the idea was that closing restaurants during the early hours of the morning would lessen the danger of hangouts and would not greatly inconvenience any people.

A second objection by Alderman Tice was that transportation for their transports for night lunch and leave the diesel motors of the engines running disturbing the sleep of nearby residents.

If any where the restaurants open, then at least the police will know where the youthful "hangouts are," stated Alderman R. Temple.

Ald. Jack Ellis noted that closing the restaurants would only serve to drive the young people somewhere else and this thought was echoed by several other aldermen.

Alderman Grandame suggested that it was up to the restaurant owner to control the element allowed to frequent his place of business.

"I'm getting just a little fed up with restrictive by-laws," commented Ald. Temple. "I say keep our nose out of other people's business."

Alderman Walter Elliott noted that all-night restaurants were very convenient for motorists wishing a lunch or a cup of coffee, while another suggested they were also convenient for railway travellers.

"I can't support the recommendation, it is too restrictive," noted Alderman Dr. James Forrester.

The motion was heavily defeated.

PEG DOGS

Cocker spaniels, now among the most popular of household pets, are believed to have originated in Spain.

Change of Some Street Names Being Opposed

More objections to the proposed change of names for certain streets in the newly-annexed area are coming into city council.

A week ago residents of the Hillcrest area objected to a proposal that the name of University Ave. be changed to Fraleigh Street, and last night there was another objection, this time opposing the elimination of the names "Hyde Road," and "Kingston Road."

Mrs. Enid Ponton, (Trent Road) suggested that University Ave. in Hillcrest be called "Stoney Lonesome Lane" in recognition of a name, which had stood out in the memory of the late Queen Mary.

Mrs. Ponton noted that Queen Mary had considered that name Stoney Lonesome with Belleville because during a Canadian tour the Royal Train had been shunted there for a few days to allow the Royal Couple a much-needed rest.

Young Mrs. Mrs. Ponton had the honor of being presented to Queen Mary she was asked by the royal lady where she came from.

When Mrs. Ponton replied "Belleville," Queen Mary had noted that Belleville was near Stoney Lonesome."

Quoting John Fisher who once said that Canada was fast losing its unique, interesting and descriptive place names, Mrs. Ponton asked if the name which been William Street would anyone have remembered the name for 25 years."

Labour Council Sign Request Runs Into Snag

The local Inter-Service Club Council will not give its approval to the Belleville and District Labor Council to include its sign on the composite service club sign at the entrance to the city.

Several months ago the Labor Council asked permission to erect signs at the city entrances. The council, however, suggested their sign be placed on the composite signboard bearing the signs of service clubs. The reason was the city council did not feel the city entrances should be cluttered with numerous signs and the request was forwarded to the Inter-Service Club Council.

In a reply to council the Inter-Service Club Council said it did not feel the Labor Council could qualify as a service club and accordingly permission could not be granted for the erection of their sign.

Now members of the Labor Council has again been referred to the city manager.

NEGROES ATTACKED

- BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)— Three Negro musicians told police Monday they were kidnapped, beaten and robbed early Sunday morning on the way home after playing at an engagement at a white night club. Detective R. A. Machado said the three told him two carloads of white men forced their car off the road, ordered them out at gunpoint and forced them into cars driven by the white men.

Service Station Must Conform To City By-Law

TORONTO — Mr. Justice Kelly, in a written judgment handed down yesterday at Osgoode Hall, granted a permanent injunction restraining Trudeau Motors Ltd. from violating provisions of a Belleville by-law regulating hours of retail gasoline service station in that city.

The Supreme Court of Ontario judge ruled that he was unable to find any discrimination among service station operators in the provisions of the by-law. He added that the city not find any special or pecuniary interest to be derived by either or both of two council lors who operate service stations, beyond those enjoyed by the other 53 operators affected by the by-law.

Under the by-law which was passed last January, 11 of the city's service stations in Belleville are selected in rotation to remain open from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. and others to open again when they are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Plan to Prevent Carving Up of Sub-Divisions

Belleville city council will take steps to block the "carving up" of sub-divisions after a plan has been formally approved by the Ontario Municipal Board?

To do this city proposes to set up an area of sub-division control under the provisions of section of the city between Dundas Street and the CNR railway and extending to the eastern limits. The former Sidney township area would be affected.

Alderman Les Derby noted that under present regulations there was no way to prevent a plan from re-zoning his plan approved and then "carved up" into sub-divisions so that more houses could be constructed on it.

Under the other sections of the city subdivision control could prevent only the re-zoning of a portion of his lot and leaving his own house and lot intact. The latter could be called for undersize by-law.

Under the provisions where house had been left with as little as 66 or 30 feet lot frontage after a portion of the lot had been sold.

The sub-division control the owners would have to get approval from the planning board before the lot could be made for building purposes.

No More Services Outside Limits Of City Planned

Extension of city services beyond the present boundaries of the city will be opposed by city council until the area within the corporation is fully developed.

The city opposition to the proposed extension to rural areas was indicated in a recommendation by the committee of the whole all committee Monday evening. The motion was passed without a dissenting vote by all aldermen.

The only comment heard was an approving "Hear, Hear".

Reasons for the move given by Mayor Gerald Hyde were that there were burghers of acres of vacant land in the city available for commercial, industrial and residential development and the city should do its utmost to avoid the spreading of wasteful and often ill-planned industrial growth to the outskirts.

He said it was imperative that the debenture debt incurred by the construction of essential services in this community be held within the limits of the ratepayers' ability to pay.

Any increase in rising municipal will rate could best be offset by increased municipal assessment, Mayor Hyde said.

BCI Guidance Teacher Outlines Department's Work to Rotarians

Frank Marchand, guidance teacher at the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, was the guest speaker at the weekly dinner meeting of the Rotary Club yesterday afternoon, Speaking on the development and practice of current guidance departments, the speaker started his talk with the establishment of the Canadian Research Committee on Practical Education in 1947. After a careful investigation of the field of secondary school education to determine what constituted a suitable secondary education for the large increase in students, which brought about a great diversity of aptitudes and goals, the committee realized there was a need for trained counsellors to help a student in planning his educational and occupational pursuits, adjusting his course to his abilities and aptitudes.

This recommendation of the committee has evolved into the guidance departments of today, which fulfill a number of different functions. Their most basic purpose is to determine, develop, create, or maintain the best possible atmosphere for the student to develop. A guidance counsellor, through interviews and various psychological preference and aptitude tests, attempts to show the student his strengths and weaknesses and guide him into the most suitable and interesting to him. The ultimate choice, of course, remains with the student and his parents, stated Mr. Marchand.

There are several basic guidance principles services are used, according to the speaker. Preparation for a student's next stage of study or employment is one of the principles employed in order to enable the student to bridge the gap between stages more easily. Along similar lines is the principle of orientation, which usually occurs after a gap into a new school, a new course has been bridged by the student. Its purpose is to help the student quickly adjust himself to the new surroundings – to find himself more readily.

KEEPS RECORDS

A record is kept of each student's progress, right from the time he enters grade school. His educational, social and personality traits and successes are listed. Attitudes as well as tests and the results of psychological tests are recorded in each student's brochure which is available to members of his school career. Perhaps the most important principle in guidance is that of individual counselling. This gives the counsellor an opportunity for a chance to frankly discuss the latter's problems and to work out a suitable program for the student's progress towards his desired goal. A student's needs are determined and the adjustment necessary to meet these needs is arrived at before problems arise which may become too difficult for the individual to overcome. Guidance as to what various professions and occupations require regarding qualifications and information as to the requirements of various schools and universities are provided for the student.

GUIDANCE FUNCTIONS

Summing up the functions of the guidance department in a secondary school Mr. Marchand, a graduate of the University of Western Ontario, listed the following: to plan a student's course to meet his ultimate needs; to integrate school activities and programs to the parents; to assist the administration officials of a school by helping the students to find their proper footing; to assist the teachers in meeting the needs of the individual student; and to serve society by developing in the student a proper attitude towards work and thus help him to bridge the gap between his school life and his adult occupation.

The speaker, a father of five, was introduced by Harold Mott, a fellow teacher at BCIVS, and was thanked by George Mackinnon.

Previous to the speech the Rotarians welcomed Miss Phyllis Barclay and Mrs. J. G. Demcsa of the Community Concert Committee. Miss Barclay expressed their thanks with the reading of a poem on service clubs, and Mrs. Demcsa gave a few of the details on the 20th annual campaign for the Community Concert series, which is being held this week. It is expected that there will be an increase in members for the forthcoming season.

Dr. Harry Burns introduced the guest Ernie Garrett led a sing-song with Ernie Boyce accompanying on the piano; the birthday of Lee Grilli, local M.P., was recognized. Jack Yarmouth presided over the meeting which showed one of the finest turnouts of members in a number of weeks. Bill Knull gave grace.

Manufacturers Hear Dr. Berry
The Quinte - St. Lawrence Branch of the Ontario Manufacturers Association held a dinner meeting at the Hotel Quinte last evening. The meeting was attended by approximately 30 members of the Association, including several of the executive. Guest speaker for the meeting was Dr. E. A. Berry, chairman of the Ontario Water Resources Commission. Mayor Gerald Hyde was a guest at the dinner.

UNEMPLOYMENT

4,933,000 from 4,777,000 over the year 'but showed the customary seasonal lift between February and March. The February figure was 4,939,000.

In assessing factors contributing to the improvement between last year and 1958, the government said stepped-up production of motor vehicles was the main stimulus to manufacturing employment during the first quarter.

However, it added there was increasing support from the manufacture of lumber, primary steel, iron castings and home appliances.

The unemployment estimates were not broken down regionally but here are the regional National Employment Service registrations which, those for February and March, 1958, in brackets:

Atlantic, 116,880 (114,485–122,-855); Quebec, 353,000 (362,000-281,414); Ontario, 230,734 (224,-605 269,564); Prairie, 155,947 (108,655–139,); British Columbia, 74,333 (81,274–93,962).

BUDGET DEBATE

is in fact a semi-military force, is right in his decision to disagree publicly with his superiors?"

TIME RUNS OUT

Before Crestohl could make a full reply, his speaking time—limited to 40 minutes for private members—ran out.

In suggesting an inquiry into Commissioner Nicholson's resignation, Mr. Crestohl said the public wants to know whether there were political exertones or interference in the resignation.

He suggested that the government ensure that the former commissioner who now will get a year of his retirement on full pension, does not suffer because of his "courageous" action in resigning on a matter of principle.

OTHER BUDGET TOPICS

As the right - day debate wound through its sixth day, Hazen Argue, CCF House Leader, proposed a $2,000,000,000 capital expansion fund to be administered by a new federal department of planning and development.

Jangd Dennison (PC-Melville) suggested a federal department of education. He said it would not take control of education away from the provinces but would help the provinces in every way possible.

He said Mr. [illegible] (Queens) criticizing transportations facilities between Prince Edward Island—and the mainland, said a causeway is required.

Wire Service Out

Due to wire trouble caused by an accident at Newcastle, the teletype service in the Ontario Intelligencer office was out for nearly two hours before repairs could be made to the circuit. The stock quotations, produce market, cattle and livestock reports will not be carried in today's issue due to the wire break.

IDLE TRUCKERS

strike, which started in Montreal and spread to Ontario. Later Toronto truckers and their tenants to meet with I. M. Cleary Dodds, Canadian head of the union.

The John Inglis Company, made up of Toronto and Hamilton locals, also stepped into the picture for the Grand Trunk. The latter company addressed Monday night's meeting in the absence of local 938 officers.

IGNORE STRIKE

Leaders of the Windsor and Hamilton locals repudiated the strike and members of its two locals stayed on the job. When pickets appeared in Windsor Monday morning the three companies picketed—Direct-Winters, Inter-City and Husband Transport refused to cross and transport left the city escorted by police.

Chief Jumbo C. C. McGhee of the Ontario Supreme Court has issued a temporary injunction restraining the five Toronto trucking firms.

He said hearings will be held tomorrow to decide whether to make permanent the injunction granted Monday and another which was granted Smith Transport Limited, Friday.

The five companies, Hoar Transport Lines, Husband Transport Limited, Inter - City Truck Lines, Kingsway Transport Limited and Consolidated Truck Lines Limited, named 19 "John Doe" drivers delivers defendants in their application.

Hillcrest Area Will Again Get Water Service

Residents of the Hillcrest area of the city will again this year be provided with a temporary public water supply.

Last night city council passed a recommendation authorizing the public utilities commission to effect the necessary repairs to the public water supply in the Hillcrest area to provide water service to the residents of this area for "as long as weather permits."

The temporary water line was provided for the area last year by Thurlow township when wells in the area either became dry or polluted. However, with the coming of cold weather last fall the line was shut off and residents were forced to secure water by other means.

This year residents in many sections of Hillcrest have petitioned for the installation of water mains. The mains would be built as local improvements with residents paying the cost on a frontage basis.

Cost estimates have been procured and covering by-laws will go before the municipal board for approval after two readings by council.

Gas Price War Has Not Spread To This District

The gasoline price war which has broken out anew in Toronto, Ottawa and a few Western Ontario centres, has not yet spread to Belleville.

And, according to one local service station operator, the war was not expected to reach this city.

"True, we are out to serve the public, but there is no point in trying to make a few pennies," the operator said. He went on to point out that during last summer's price war operators sold more gasoline but they didn't make much money.

A few rural outlets in the immediate area have reduced and three or four in the city have followed suit, reducing the present 43½ cent per gallon price for regular gas but in the main the 43¼ cent price is general.

Will Discuss Financing of Sewage Disposal

A special meeting of Belleville city council will be held Monday evening to consider the by-law which would provide for the construction of the city's sewage disposal system.

The by-law will call for the construction of the disposal plant in several stages.

The city has the option of depenturing the cost, or of having the plant built by the Ontario Water Resources Commission, which would be defrayed over a period of years.

Widening of College Street Approved by City Council

Despite the fact there was no money through the year in the expenditure in the year's budget, city council in committee Monday night decided to go ahead with the proposed widening of College Street to be proceeded with as soon as possible.

The section of the street to be widened is from North Front Street to Sidney Street.

In the recommendation council directed the city solicitor to draw up the necessary by-law authorizing the expenditure.

Widening of this section of College Street has been talked of for several years in council but the work was held up pending agreements with land owners. Prior to January 1st of this year the section of College Street was in Thurlow township, but now the entire roadway is within the city.

Traffic to and from the Quinte Secondary School and industrial premises going to and from jobs has made this street a busy artery.

Also in connection with traffic at the North Front and College Street corners, council accepted the tender of the Northern Electric Company for the installation of traffic lights at this intersection. Cost of the lights will be $6,000.

REMOVE RESTRICTIONS

Parking restrictions on the south side of Bridge Street during the 4-6 afternoon rush hour will be removed.

It was felt that the opening

Trenton Council Briefs

TRENTON — The most important streets in town will be done first when there is any paving to do the council decided last night at the regular bimonthly meeting. A letter had been received by the town from the Herb Smith asking that the south side of Quinte street from Stewart to past the parking lot next to the Trentonian newsoffices be paved by the town. The letter stated there was a considerable cost of parking in this area and hard-surfacing it would help. The council turned the matter over to the Public Works committee and instructed the members to bring back a set policy for this kind of work at the next council meeting.

WONT TOUCH STREET

Councillor Claude Graham suggested to council last night that something be done towards surfacing the short street between Quinte and the Canadian Legion building. He told the council this street was only a few yards long but was in very bad condition and when it rained was nothing but a "mud hole". Eric Alderney, town engineer, said when the new sewer line goes in the old septic tank near this street will be removed and it was felt the street would be repaired after this work had been completed. It would likely be torn up during this work he said.

PERMISSION GIVEN

Councillors gave permission to the Trenton Dye Baseball league to sell soft drinks during their regular league games this year at their ball diamond beside the plant. The application was made to the council in letter form and Mayor Ross Burtt who spoke on the matter said the league planned not to build a booth but to just put a plank across a couple of cases and sell the soft drinks to the spectators and players. The booth would only be operated during a game and not at any other time. Mayor Burtt said the league planned this because it was difficult to get water in that area unless they went to a private home for it. It was felt that the sale of soft drinks would help the league's sports field at the dye plant into a good spot for the game and suggested they be given permission as long as only soft drinks were sold. It was agreed to this request and not be charged for a licence.

WILL SELL LOTS

The town council agreed to sell nine lots on Elizabeth Street to Lyle Hanson and Ross Wright for $1,900 the price to be based on the prevailing rate of 54 per foot frontage as the lots were. It was stated in the letter to council that they intended to build homes on the lots. The engineer recommended that the contractors be instructed to put the driveways from the rest of the residents on the street saying they are within the limit of cost of installing a sewer line under local improvement and the cost to share according to the frontage of their lots. Two-thirds of the owners of the different properties on the street concerned must agree before it can be done.

MATTER LAID OVER

A letter from the Department of Planning and Development concerning insurance on rental housing was laid over for further committee study and to find out more about the costs involved. The insurance would concern the town-owned homes on Champlain Heights.

GRANTED INCREASE

S. S. Pane, Trenton Hall Inspector was granted a $200 increase in salary by the council last night when he received a letter from the inspector saying he would receive a re-appointment this year if his salary was not increased. The raise in pay was also recommended by Dr. E. W. Dow, Trenton's Medical Officer of Health. Councillor Vaga Lange, chairman of the Finance Committee said he felt Mr. Pane was doing an excellent job and they were conscientious about his work. He suggested he be given the $200 raise which will be retroactive to January 1, of this year.

CAN EXTEND SHOP

An application from A. Leclair for permission to extend his present car body shop on Byron Street was turned over to the town inspector for further study. In his letter to Council Mr. LeClair said the extension would increase the size of his present building to 50 by 70 feet and the extension would be towards Byron Street. He said this new space would enable him to keep parts and stock for his business inside and that improve the general appearance of the area. Mayor Ross Burtt said he has in the past received several complaints from citizens in that block concerning the noise, etc, but had not received any recently. The council approved the building of the cement-block addition, subject to the inspection of building inspector, and as long as the building conformed with the rules as set out in the zoning by-law.

NAMED ADMINISTRATOR

Town Council passed a resolution at the meeting last night naming town engineer Eric Alderney as administrator of the new Zoning By-law. Mr. Alderney was instructed he would be administrator pending the present by-law and anything which did not meet the requirements of the by-law would come before council for consideration before approved or disapproved.

WANTS SEWER EXTENDED

A request from W. R. Anderson, 15 Bayview Avenue, that the sewer on North Scott Street was referred to the Sanitation and Water Committee for further study. Mr. Anderson said he planned to build a house and would like to have the sewer extended.

AUTHORIZED TO SIGN

Councillors passed a resolution last night giving the Mayor and town clerk, O. W. Larry the right to sign an agreement with the Albert Defosse Construction Company for sewers on a portion of Dundas St., Flint St. and the Carrying Place Road. The second authorized the borrowing of money from the bank for current funds until sufficient tax money had been collected.

ALL MEMBERS PRESENT

All councillors attended last night's council meeting which was presided over by Mayor Ross Burtt. Councillors present were: Vaga Lange, Lloyd Wood, Claude Graham, Howard Axtt, Lloyd Weese and William Metzger as well as Clerk O. W. Larry, town engineer Eric Alderney and town- solicitor Reid Campbell were also present.

START RE-ASSESSMENT

Councillor Lloyd Worrall, chairman of the Court of Revision appointed by the council last night that the town assessor, Mr. Wilson, be instarted re-assessment work on the town and has hired six women to do the preliminary work. He said the women will only work in residential districts and Mr. Smith will look after industrial and commercial section himself. Worrall pointed out that Mr. Smith has drawn up a uniform form which the women will be used to fill in and by asking the home owner questions about the construction of property. The valuation of the properties will be done by the assessor and his office staff and not by the women.

NOT SATISFIED

The council decided to ask the Trenton Police Commission to meet with the town council over the question of the present police staff. The decision came following a letter on a recent meeting with the commission and the members of the Protection to Persons and Property Committee under Councillors were not satisfied with the results of this meeting.

WILL ATTEND CONVENTION

Council approved the request that the Welfare Officer, Mr. Davis, be given permission to attend a convention sponsored by the Welfare Officers' Association in Sault St. Marie on June 15, 16 and 17.

Digging continues for the 30-foot deep excavation which will form part of the pumping house which will pump sewage from the west side of the river to the sewage disposal plant under construction at the east end of Bay Street. It is necessary for the pumps to be placed at the bottom and so far down to allow the sewage to come to the side of the river by gravity and the building will be constructed on the second pump house on the west side of the river. The pump house is being built at the approach of the new bridge and will be an attractive building when completed. (Photo by Geor

Public Works Dept. Reduces Staff by Four

TRENTON — The present staff of the public works department in Trenton has been reduced by four men, Councillor Lloyd Weese reported at the regular council meeting held in the board room of the Municipal Building last night.

Councillor Weese said the move was made to streamline the operations of the department and that a time clock had also been installed in the town sheds on the corner of Myers and Ontario Street, and the men will be required to account for the time they come to work and when they leave.

He said of the four men who left, one has resigned and the other three were fired. He said he felt this move would increase the efficiency of the department, as well as cut the cost in wages.

He also reported that the Davey Tree Company has been engaged to remove a hundred trees in Trenton but that, because of the late spring, they are allowed for this in the 1959 budget, only part of the required work will be done.

Speaking on the condition of the trees in Trenton, Weese said it hag become very bad because of the spring frost and was in need of proper drainage underneath the hard surface. He said it was only a matter of time until the entire road would have to be rebuilt. He informed the council that the town crews have taken out some sections of the street and rebuilt it but the whole street would have to be done.

Councillor Claude Graham, chairman of the protection to persons and property committee, said the committee would recommend that Fire Chief Cecil Ellis be appointed to attend a fire chiefs' course in Toronto. The course will last for three days.

Councillor Graham also recommended that the uniforms for Lytile's Men's Shop be accepted to supply uniforms for the permanent firemen providing the men's shop uses cloth purchased from Downs and Coulter in Trenton.

Stanley Knowles Defends Unions In Oshawa Talk

OSHAWA (CP) — Stanley Knowles, vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress says the labor movement has just a group selfishly seeking its own ends but is trying to improve the lot of all people in society.

Addressing the Canadian Club of Oshawa, the former Winnipeg CCF member of Parliament admitted that strikes may at times be harmful to the economy as well as to the workers involved.

"However, people do not go strike just for other organizations in Canada spends so much time, effort and money trying to raise the standards of living and security of the country as organized labor."

Mr. Knowles did not include in his address excerpts issued in advance to the press.

BLASTS MANAGEMENT

In the excerpts he criticized management for not accepting proposals that trade unionists provide financial support to a political party chosen by the unions.

DIFFERENT VIEWPOINTS

A letter to the editor of the Toronto Globe and Mail as a most interesting - - and contentious - - point. writer, one Patricia Arthur, contended that "there great gap in the history curriculum of our elementary secondary schools." Mrs. Arthur was particularly cerned about the need for "a little more intensive owledge of British history," although she said she idera whether room could not be made for "an mentary course on the history of some of our Asian hbors, since they are so much closer to us these

On several occasions recently we have been both prised and shocked to discover how many people are completely ignorant about vitally important facts conning events in our lifetime. A few moments ection has suggested that this feeling of surprise and ck must have been experienced by people of every eration, as they discovered that it is impossible for younger generation to have vivid memories or nts which occurred before they were born.

Today, though, it seems to us that some general owledge of comparatively recent history assumes ed importance because of the speed with which the rld is changing and because, as Mrs. Arthur observes, people on distant continents are "closer" to us economy of space, time and interdependence than ever before. Jet travel has annihilated distance, so that a journey which a few years ago would have taken days, in the sense that time is measured, is now a matter of hours. There is an extensive American colony near by but we don't hardly remember that a plane has ever landed at it.

COOL AT NIGHT

The drive back to Cristobal was made after dark on a high-powered car and the air was sufficiently cool to have the car windows almost closed. This, in a place not many degrees north of the equator, certainly upset some of our preconceived notions about the tropics. The rainy season during the summer however, must be extremely uncomfortable for non-natives.

That much-used phrase "iron curtain" would not be a good application in Cristobal. Robert M. Hull a representative of G. Fernie and Company, steamship agents, met us when we docked and Mr. Hull with four suggestions and a driver for the afternoon. It is that to any who parents were on a tour of Canada from the British Isles in 1939. When war started the parents placed their son in Canada with Mr. Hull of Port Hope, from which he graduated. The family moved to the Panama Canada in 1947 where they have been since. We must say that Mr. Hull and his wife have treated Mr. Hull kindly for he looked the picture of good health. Not only that, but his sincere desire that we could enjoy ourselves while in his territory made our welcome to Panama a most pleasant one. We can also assure Mrs. Hull that Victor Anderson, our driver, was very friendly and never left us even to get his evening meal until after he left us at the pier at 10:30 p.m.

At one a.m. March 24 the Sunadele nosed out the harbor of Cristobal bound for St. John, N.B., where we arrived early evening of the thirteenth.

The voyage was without incident except for two very stormy days off Cape Halteras and New York. The ship had no cargo so rode high and really took quite a beating. The new vessel means that we have the ship with a resounding thud sending spray over the bridge house. Then the propeller would come partly out of the water with more resounding thuds. We felt with all the commotion few of the passengers were ill but only a almost out of the question the one night. Mrs. M. and I were about the only passengers who never missed a meal so perhaps the anti-motion tablets and some brandy did help us to keep going. After two days we stopped using the tablets but used a bit of brandy each day while on the ship.

LITTLE BIRD LIFE

Gulls and the odd other sea birds at infrequent intervals flying fish occasionally in the Gulf Stream and bottle-nosed dolphins or porpoises were seen only once on the way south as they played about the bow wave for a short time. The flying fish appeared to be hardly more than minnows and had the appearance of silver colored dragon flies as they soared a few inches above the water for distances up to a hundred feet but usually much less. Sometimes they would be only one then a dozen would take off into the wing and zip along at good speed. Contrary to popular belief these fascinating creatures do not flap their pectoral fins but spread them out like a fan and hold them in that position during their short flight. Sometimes the flight is straight on the end may push it into a curve. The odd time the fish appear to bounce off a wave but continue to keep going for a short distance before taking to the air again.

Holiday Cruise To Historic Caribbean

By Freighter

By G. A. MORTON
ARTICLE 14

The City of Panama situated on the Pacific coast has a business section much like Port-au-Prince in Haiti but decidedly busier. East Indians have more shops and sell goods of silk, carved ivory figures, brasses and leather. We visited one shop which had large pieces of embroidered linens most of which came from Hong Kong. The needle work was very, very good in the opinion of the family experts and the prices were at bargain levels. Manny Gittus who spent some time in Hong Kong said that commercial buyers of such handicraft examined all the purchases using magnifying glasses.

If there were imperfections then the price paid dropped. When one considers what it cost to get the articles after all the duty is added it is to be wondered what the poor workers got for their toil even at the minute wages of the Far East.

The remaining hour was short and then the driver took us to the Panama-Hilton Hotel which is modern and contains every luxury. It has balconies for most of the rooms and air conditioning as well. Tables on a wide terrace, with umbrellas of all the colors, looked down over a beautiful garden and, to one side, a splendid swimming pool, surrounded by beds of flowers and tropical plants. The hotel is the most beautiful of all those we visited. The dinner in the coffee shop was excellent also and the cost hardly any more than in a moderate priced restaurant in the Canadian hotel.

Panama has some historical places to visit, but we had to pass them up. The presence of the canal is the difference contribute in huge measure to the economy of the Panamanian. There is an extensive American colony near by but we didn't hardly remember that a plane had ever landed at it.

Today's Cows Pampered

Washington Post

I never saw a Purple Cow,
I never hope to see one;
But I can tell you anyhow
I'd rather see than be one!

—Gelett Burgess

We have never seen a purple cow either but after reading about all the cosseting that is given cows today we can't help wondering whether Mr. Burgess would change his mind if he were still alive. As anyone who has been following the current district milk controversy knows, cows not only get treated more often than a baby nowadays, but they also live in better homes.

No longer does a cow spend her days scrounging for grass in a rocky pasture and her nights sleeping fitfully in the cramped stalls of a dirty barn. Now there are loafing sheds and milking parlors which by law must be spacious, antiseptically clean and well lighted. There are even automatic feeders, although we understand that cows still must chew their own cuds. The substitute for high-bovine standards is truly touching, particularly the effort to extend district-type regulations to Maryland. We wonder, however, what will happen to Maryland Wisconsin Holsteins would say if they knew that the product of their labors was being called "tired old milk" by the representatives of their Maryland and Virginia sisters.

It is always rewarding, of course, to be reminded of how much progress man has made in his dealings with animals. In fact, we don't think we have been so conscious of cows since the good old days of a decade ago when congress was able to find time to discuss the relationship between cows and daylight saving time in the district.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

OUR ONLY HOPE

Before me is a chart showing the volume of business in the United States for the past eighty years.

There has been an amazing upward trend during the past decade. We live in an age which is experiencing the benefits of an expanding economy. But the so-called "growth line" does not tell the whole story. There are times when business was considerably above the normal line but lots of times when it was below. So it is in every-day life. It would indeed be marvellous for us — at least we think so — the line of growth, satisfaction, and happiness kept going up and up for us through our lives. But unfortunately, in the language of life does not progress in that fashion. Just as in a country blessed by an expanding economy there are periods of prosperity and periods of depression, so in life there are the sunshiney days ter than our normal selves and the other times when we're blue. There are thrusts upward, and we contemplate and remember only the pride. There are times when we fall below, very far below.

But why get discouraged? This is true in the case of every life. If the down-thrust exceeds the up-thrust, then we must take stock and find out why. All cannot be happiness and triumph. Repute and victory belong together, hiter with sweet.

Comfort! "The God of all comfort" by whom we can be sustained — here alone is our hope.

THE PACKSAD

By GREGORY CLARK

A writer recently referred to our new outlying housing developments as "package suburbs." It is an apt and perhaps cruelly apt phrase. We are being packaged. Life itself is being packaged.

And the slightly fearful thought arises that maybe the time has come when we are to be packaged. There are so many of us, and we are so much alike, in huge communities, that about the only way we can be efficiently handled, socially, physically and economically, is in that we subject ourselves to the packaging ages. Humanity in bulk does not fit into the new mechanical scheme.

Many of our educators of high standards are in despair over the growing vehemence against the package" education that our children are being given. For long and perhaps twenty years, the best sellers among our novelists have been those which were concentrating bitterly and often scandalously on the lives of off-beat and rebellious elements in our society which are anything but packaged. All these literary efforts are intellectual assaults on society towards the packaging of life, they have failed. Packaging claims them, and then cuddles all the more cozily into their packages.

Two well-known packages, nazism and fascism, burst. The package of communism still seems to be tight in the seams, so far.

What's the name of the package we are being done up in?

No More Tears From Onions

Hamilton Spectator

The news that tearless onions have been developed in Canada will relief by those whose lot it is to peel this serviceable vegetable. Scientists never intended to sell these unoffending onions but they forgotten until next year and promises that nothing but the odor will be missing.

The onion is the most unfortunate of vegetables in that it exacts from its admirers a toll of tears before it can be enjoyed and imposes upon them for a few hours after a social disability that can only be smothered by a recipe in the more pungent peppermint or other deodorant.

A mournful old song, mercifully forgotten until now, insisted: "I never wronged an onion, why does it make me cry?" — a suggestion that there is something grossly unfair about this unpleasantness. But as the unknown philosopher remarked, an onion can make people cry who don't even have had invented a vegetable that will make them laugh.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

BLACKOUTS CAN BE CAUSED BY MANY THINGS

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please write an article about what causes blackouts. — Mrs. H.N."

Blackouts can vary from a momentary dazed state to actual collapse and loss of consciousness, usually quite brief.

It can happen to perfectly healthy young people — as well-sisters standing rigidly at attention for a continued time. I've seen them, suddenly fall flat on their faces, "out cold" for a moment. Yet it didn't indicate any fault of health, and there was no aftermath.

Then again, there may be a particular cause for a blackout. Any disturbance in circulation of blood to the brain can cause it — certain types of heart block, an irregularity of heart rhythm — (but don't think that the common "nervous palpitation" means you are going to black out), the spasm of a blood vessel in the brain — all these can cause a blackout.

If a person happens to be subject to this, a chance can effect the side of the neck on a specialized bit of the nervous system, a painful artery can do it. The careful artery carries blood to the brain.

A tight collar, a certain twist of the head, a tight towel tucked snugly around the neck by a barber, are samples of the slightest things that by chance can exert enough pressure to cause a blackout if the individual concerned is to be highly sensitive at that point.

CIRCULATION IS AFFECTED

Sudden changes of position, just like prolonged standing, can cause a brief blackout, by interfering with the circulation. People with extremely low blood pressure are more likely to be subject to this.

Likewise a sudden fall in the blood sugar level (hypoglycemia) can cause a blackout, because the brain is depending on this sugar for its energy.

Still other possible causes are epilepsy, head injuries, multiple sclerosis, mild strokes, etc.

To give you a notion of combinations of causes, I recall a women of 40 or so who had blackouts, elected to have her gall stones and was on her feet.

Careful examination showed she had some gall stones and had low metabolism, and an electroencephalogram (brain wave test) showed an abnormal pattern similar in nature to mild epilepsy.

The gall stones were removed (they had been causing digestive disturbances), thyroid brought her metabolism up to par, and moderate use of anti-convulsant medication kept the epileptic aspect under control. She went back to work and had no further blackouts.

There are so many different causes that there is no profit in trying to generalize, but a thorough examination is well worth while.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I do not ovulate two months out of five. Can an operation correct this? — Mrs. J. M. W."

Surgery will not correct this situation. Ovulation is a response by the ovary to hormone stimulation, and the failure to ovulate is a quirk in physiology.

Note to Mrs. A. J. (and others) — An earlier answer in this column concerning circumcision said that (in that particular case) circumcision was possible. However, that does not mean that it is necessary in all cases. While it appears to be as a routine matter at birth, in cases of the onset of adulthood, there is only occasional reason for doing it later in life. In the case of boys, it has already have the answer: It isn't necessary in his case. So don't do it.

Electricity Is Essential

Fergus News-Record

Ontario could be crippled without its supply of electricity. All that would be necessary would be to cut off electricity. Think what would happen to your town without hydro! We have become utterly dependent on electricity, machinery and gadgets. If they were suddenly cut off, millions of Ontario's survive two weeks.

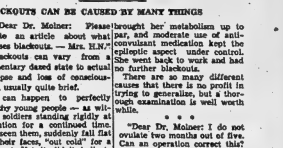
The area with the greatest chance of living would be the Eskimos, the Northern Indians or those white people who live in the far corners of our country who have not yet lost touch with the wilderness.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GROW — BUT NOT OLD!

Here is a truth of fact — we are daily growing older with a certain regularity of movement of our own age, but a thousand things can make the elements of that voyage, whether we give much thought to it or not. Every day we are that much older — and wiser.



Grow, but grow more mature, more experienced, and more appreciative of all the opportunities of life that are ours. Blessings keep us alive and ambitious. If we had Captains and managers, Vincent Brennan. The club starts the season under good auspices. The grounds have been secured and Pat Jennings has been appointed trainer. He will insist that the boys follow his instructions.

Grow, but not old! Grow youthful and laugh at mere age, that you can hardly keep track of. It has the elements of kind that are added to each year, and the quality of those years, and their application.

Tuscanini As Critic

Reader's Digest

When Arturo Toscanini was a guest conductor at the Salzburg festival, he felt the Austrian Orchestra was not up to his boyhood Italian temperament. "Can't you read?" he grumbled at the first rehearsal. "The score demands con amore, and what are you doing? You are playing it like married men!"

Edward Johnson Former Manager Of Met, Dies

GUELPH (CP) — Edward Johnson, 80, who won the hearts of three continents with his romantic tenor voice and went to new fame as general manager of the Metropolitan Opera, died Monday night of a heart attack.

Mr. Johnson was a onetime Guelph coolr boy who created more tumor roles during a 32-year career than any other singer of his time, then turned his talents to administration and pioneered the herculean task of pulling the Met out of the red, was attending a ballet when he collapsed.

He was entering the Guelph Memorial Gardens five minutes before the start of a performance of "Les Sylphides," the first production of the Spring tour of the National Ballet of Canada. He was taken to hospital and died half an hour later.

SPECTACULAR CAREER

His musical career, described by authorities as spectacular, meteoric and thrilling, had ended only last year when he retired as chairman of the board of the Royal Conservatory of Music of Toronto.

Mr. Johnson was the father of Florenza Drew, wife of George Drew, former Ontario premier and leader of the opposition in the House of Commons, now Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom.

The Drews made plans to fly to Canada. Funeral arrangements will not be announced until they arrive.

The son of Welsh-Irish parents, Mr. Johnson sang Italian opera in Italians—using the name Edvardo di Giovanni—the American opera to Americans.

FRIEND OF CARUSO

He was a friend of the musical great, including Caruso, who he said to have advised him to go to Italy to study under Vincenzo Lombardi. Lombardi taught Caruso.

Under his guidance the Metropolitan Opera Company played to full houses for the first time in its history. He inaugurated broadcasts of matinees and tours in the United States and Canada.

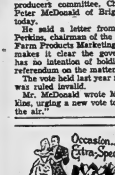
He helped implement the Metropolitan Opera Guild and, through a drive for $1,000,000, the Metropolitan Opera Association was able to buy the theatre and its property from the stockholders in 1946.

Mr. Johnson was honored by England—he was a Commander of the British Empire—and Italy. But he said his most prized honor was an award from the Canadian Club of New York for his contributions as a singer, impresario and leader in musical education.

NEVER FORGOT CANADA

Mr. Johnson never forgot his Canadian homeland though he became a U.S. citizen in 1932. He was made chairman of the Royal Conservatory while he was still at the met. He said then that he wanted to formulate a long-term plan which would make "Toronto a musical centre, Ontario a musical province and Canada a singing country."

He summed up his life when he received the Canadian Club award: "As far musical as an artist, I can only say that life has been a great adventure, a theme on which many variations can be played, not the least of which are the friends and contacts made along the way."



Will Try to Get New Hog Vote

KITCHENER (CP)— Court action to force a new vote in Ontario on compulsory hog marketing almost certainly will be renewed by the free enterprise hog producers committee, Chairman Peter McDonald of Bright said today.

He said a letter from G. F. Perkins, chairman of the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board, makes it clear the government has no intention of holding a new referendum on the matter.

The vote held last year recently was ruled invalid.

Mr. McDonald wrote Mr. Perkins, urging a new vote to "clear the air."

Slight Decline In Construction Is Forecast

OTTAWA (CP) — Volume of construction in Canada this year will be slightly below 1958, the bureau of statistics said today.

It placed the value of construction at $7,202,000,000—about 4 per cent below the 1958 record of $7,231,000,000.

Expenditures on many of the main types of construction will be greater in 1959. However, declines, chiefly in pipeline construction, will result in a net decrease from 1958.

"It is apparent that while the construction program is continuing at a very high level, the rate of increase has been declining steadily since 1956," the bureau said.

The anticipated 1959 decline compares with an increase of three per cent in 1958 and a rise of 8.8 per cent in 1957.

The Queen Mother and Princess Margaret are in Rome and the Duke of Edinburgh is nearing the end of a world tour.

But it was a busy day at the castle as greetings from all parts of Britain, from the Commonwealth and from many parts of the world flooded into the royal post office.

The country celebrated the birthday by flying flags from all public buildings.

GUNS SALUTE

Royal naval ships—and NATO ships visiting London — were dressed over-all for the occasion. Gun salutes thundered from warships in ports, from the Tower of London and Hyde park.

The national anthem was played throughout the day before every radio and television news bulletin.

Tonight the Queen's dinner guests will be Prime Minister Macmillan and Lady Dorothy Macmillan, who will remain overnight at the castle.

Community Concerts Opens Membership Drive in City

By PHYLLIS BARCLAY

You may meet all through this week, whether it be on Front Street, in the supermarket, buying a copy of The Ontario Intelligencer, or at your bridge table — a veritable number of people carrying under their arms white kits with the big red letters spelt "Community Concerts." This parade of marching workers denotes the annual membership campaign in being held in Belleville for just this week.

Thus did Miss Leona Riggs, president of the Belleville Community Concerts, charge the workers at carry their kits at all times during the annual kick-off dinner held last evening at the Thomas parish hall. Miss Riggs addressed the group as "guardians of the Belleville musical scene who eat, breathe and dream music and Community Concerts for an entire week." She asserted that the dinner meeting was essentially a business meeting where "life is real and life is earnest" in that we want concerts for Belleville. "The greater the membership gained," she said, "the greater will be our array of artists."

Miss Riggs introduced members of the executive and committee heads who have established a high record of attendance at meetings during the year.

Several of the 82 workers were among the original workers 25 years ago when Community Concerts were introduced to the city, which testifies to their enthusiasm and anticipation for more concerts in the future to match their treasured memories of the past.

Many new workers were present who, having enjoyed recent concerts, were interested in taking an active part in the organization.

Miss Riggs paid tribute to Miss Helen Sulman who, for several years, had convened the campaign dinners, and planning place-cards and sailboat decorations, a festive air to the tables.

Mr. Robert Tanner, 1st vice-president, thanked Mrs. Barnes and the girls of the Afternoon Group of St. Thomas' Church for serving a most delicious dinner.

Mrs. J. G. Demeza, membership campaign chairman, expressed appreciation to a number of visiting workers who had accomplished a tremendous amount of preliminary detail in preparation for the actual campaign. Mrs. Demeza outlined plans for the workers to follow this week and the objective to want to aim for is beyond what we reached last year during our 20th anniversary." She urged the workers to check in often at the "Y" headquarters during this week with a definite progress report by Thursday evening.

For many years, Miss Riggs stated, we have had a New York representative on hand during our campaign week. This year, Canada has come into her own by having Canadian representatives. Miss Riggs introduced Mrs. Patricia Cameron from Drummondville, Quebec, who will act in this capacity this year. Mrs. Cameron remarked that Mrs. Demeza had left years ago when Community concerts in her charge to the workers that there was little to be added except the "time is of the essence to enable us to complete the budget by Saturday night."

Accept Annexation

KITCHENER (CP)—Galt's annexation of 2,900 acres of Waterloo Township land will not be appealed, Reeve Leonard Burton said Monday night.

He said any appeal must come from the people involved in the annexation, rather than from township council.

"We have received no petition from the residents in the area we propose must be satisfied," he said. "The municipal board's decision in granting the annexation is as far as we are concerned."

Talks on New Air Agreements Have Broken Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and Australia, whose talks on a new air agreement have broken up over technical questions, soon go into another round of negotiations.

Transport Minister Hees announced the breakdown Monday that the next round may be held in Canada as the two countries seek to hammer out the first revision of a 13-year-old air pact.

He said the Melbourne conference has adjourned because the two countries could not reach agreement on technical matters involved in the time available.

Reports from Australia and New Zealand indicate that questions at issue include the re-equipment of the Australian and New Zealand government airlines with more modern planes and air policies of the two governments on trans-Pacific flights now carried on by Canadian Pacific Airlines.

Meanwhile, CPA will continue its flights to Australia on a weekly basis using the piston-engine DC-6B aircraft which it wishes to replace with new Bristol Britannia turbo - prop planes.

Reports from Melbourne last week said that the conference considered an Australian proposal to limit CPA flights between Vancouver and Sidney to one flight every two weeks.

Since this proposal, Canadian officials have gone to New Zealand to learn that country's policy on trans-Pacific air service.

Dalai Lama Has Reached Journey's End

MUSSOORIE, India (Reuters) The Dalai Lama reached the end of his five-week flight from Tibet today when he arrived in this Himalayan mountain resort to go into exile.

A crowd of 1,000 local residents and vacationers cheered as the 23 - year - old god - king drove through a lushed-green gate to the door of his exile home, Birla House.

He was greeted by Mrs. K. K. Birla, daughter-in-law of an Indian cotton millionaire, who gave him the traditional white silk scarf of friendship and welcome.

The Dalai Lama is not expected to make any public statement until after his meeting Friday with Indian Prime Minister Nehru.

Pakistan, in neighboring Pakistan, the newspaper Morning News says an understanding already exists between Peking and Pakistan. The paper says Nehru has "promised to incapacitate the Dalai Lama politically."

In Tripoli, Communist newspapers today gave headline treatment to the Chinese government's attack on the statement issued Saturday by the Dalai Lama, in which he denied he had been kidnapped by Tibetan rebels. The papers continued to describe him as "being under duress."

Ike Expected to Assume Big Role in Formulating Policy

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

President Eisenhower can be expected to assume a larger and more personal role in the formulation and administration of American foreign policy in the future.

It is unlikely that Christian A. Herter, his new state secretary, will be able to play immediately into the same personal relationship that existed between the president and John Foster Dulles.

Through six years of close and intimate relationship Eisenhower tended to give Dulles a free hand in the shaping and direction of foreign policy.

So broad was Dulles' authority that his critics were fond of saying he carried foreign policy in his hat and conducted a one-man operation. His ready access to the president, and his obvious influence at the White House tended to support the charge.

ROLE FOR NIXON

With Dulles now retired to the sidelines through the ravages of cancer, Eisenhower inevitably must exercise in the critical weeks ahead a much more vigorous and personal role in the foreign field than he ever has in the past.

It also is apparent that the president will assign a larger share of the foreign policy duties to Richard M. Nixon, his able but youthful vice-president.

Nixon has been touching on the foreign field in recent public addresses and has been directed by the president to journey to Russia in July to open the U.S. exhibit at the Moscow trade fair.

Nixon says he hopes to conduct "frank discussions" with the Soviet leaders.

Apart from length of stay, Nixon's Moscow visit is expected to parallel that of Soviet deputy premier Anastas Mikoyan who visited the U.S. early this year and held informal discussion with Eisenhower, Dulles and other U.S. leaders.

Mikoyan toured the U.S. for seven weeks and Nixon is expected to visit only Moscow and stay only a few days.

One expected result of Dulles' departure is the restoration of influence in the state department's career diplomatic service. Under Dulles, with his al-

Rehabilitation Program Planned At Joyceville

KINGSTON (CP)—An expanded program for rehabilitating criminals will be introduced at Canada's newest penal institution when it opens in September at Joyceville, 10 miles north of here.

The institution will accommodate 450 prisoners. The recently appointed warden, O. A. Earl, said Monday it will be the country's most advanced rehabilitation prison.

One feature of the new institution will be its small cell sections accommodating about 36 prisoners. They will live in the self-contained sections of the prison which include combined dining room-lounges, a laundry and their cells.

Joyceville prisoners, said the warden, will only sleep in their cells. They will spend the rest of their time at work or in recreation areas.

most unlimited authority, the direction of foreign policy was a one-man operation and few if any important decisions could be taken without the secretary's personal approval.

Avondale H-S Holds Panel At April Meet

"What I Expect the School to do For My Child" was the subject of a panel discussion which constituted the program at the April meeting of the Avondale Home and School Association.

The moderator was Mr. Leo McGrath, principal of Queen Mary School.

The opinions of the parents were expressed by four members, Mrs. Dave McDonald, Mr. Ross Sexsmith, Dr. J. M. McLean and Dr. Morris Smith. Mr. Jack Carswell, vice-principal of Queen Mary School, represented the teachers and answered the questions of the parents in a satisfactory manner.

The findings of the panel indicated in addition to teaching the regular curriculum, the parents wanted the school to foster in their children the ability to get along with others and the quality of dependability. It was felt that school sports were helpful in developing these traits. A knowledge of the structure of Canadian government was considered very important to the child. Other subjects mentioned were the teaching of religion, the provision of vocational guidance services and the treatment of the gifted child.

Mrs. Irwin Knight thanked the panelists for providing an interesting and provocative discussion. The program was arranged by Mrs. James Casey, program convener.

During the business meeting, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Eugene Wonnacott, further plans were made for the spring fair, to be held later this month.

Women's Activities

TABERNACLE UNITED W.A.

The regular monthly meeting of Tabernacle United Church W.A. was held in the church parlor recently with the president, Mrs. P. Kerr, presiding.

Group 5 of the W.A. was in charge of the devotional. The following members took part: Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Robb and Mrs. Grey. The lesson was read from Luke 12:25-27.

The topic was, "Love Your Neighbors." In the story of the "Good Samaritan," Jesus tells very little about the man who fell among robbers.

"We learn nothing about his character, his occupation, nationality, color, religion. We know only one thing about him; that he was a human being in need of help. The circle of our neighbors includes all God's children everywhere. Jesus bids us to love our neighbors. Jesus lived by the law of love and He claimed that love is the law of life in God's kingdom."

A short business session was held after which Group 6 served refreshments and the members enjoyed a social time.

Pakistan Girl Enjoys Wearing Casual Clothes

EDMONTON (CP)—"At first I felt I wasn't wearing anything," 19-year-old Najma Haq says of her change to western clothes.

In her native Pakistan she was used to full-length saris and a veil covering head, hands and feet. Now an Edmonton high school student, she changed to western clothes after coming to Canada 18 months ago.

Now she enjoys wearing casual clothes, including slacks and sweaters.

Other new experiences for her are co-educational schools, teenage social clubs and freedom to choose her own husband. In Pakistan there are few social activities associated with school, she said.

Miss Haq said she liked the western custom of boys and girls going on dates together, although it came as a big surprise to her. It is strictly forbidden for Moslem girls to speak to men, or be seen without a veil in their presence.

"I like Canadian dating customs," she said, "because such things contact between young people helps them to adjust themselves socially."

Woman Evangelist Has Three Provinces for Her "Parish"

EDMONTON (CP) — A woman evangelist who pilots her own plane has Alberta-Saskatchewan-and the Northwest Territories for her "parish."

Vera Strodl of Edmonton is a non-denominational spreader of the gospels. When she receives an invitation to speak to a group she starts the week of her light plane, climbs into the cockpit and sets off. The single-seater is small enough to land at communities that have no airport.

Miss Strodl has been dedicated to spreading the teachings of Christ for more than four years. Originally she carried out her work on a part-time basis. But in May, 1958, she decided to devote all her time to the work.

STARTED WITH CAR

At first she travelled by car, which prevented her from visiting remote areas. Determined to fulfill her purpose, she acquired a plane.

Miss Strodl had no money. She applied to a finance company for a loan but when asked what security she had to offer, she replied she had only a bicycle and an electric blanket.

However, the company, an anonymous donor placed money to her credit and she was able to acquire the small plane stored in a Vancouver hangar awaiting a new owner — for $2,100. It's a three-year-old model. She figures it costs no more to operate than a small car.

Miss Strodl is well qualified for the job. She had been a flying instructor by profession, and since 1935 had chalked up 9,000 hours flying time on many different types of airplanes.

WARTIME SERVICE

Born in England of Danish parents, Miss Strodl was a civilian pilot before the Second World War, during which she tested aircraft and was a ferry pilot.

After the war she was a member of the RAF reserve and a bush pilot in Sweden. In 1953 she came to Canada.

"All this time I was searching for something I couldn't seem to find," she said. "And one Sunday I listened to a church sermon that really exposed me to myself.

"The whole course of my life was changed and I knew that I must help others to understand and share what I had learned."

Creative Drama Teaching Tool For Children

VANCOUVER (CP) — Creative drama forms an experimental teaching tool for children at an elementary school here.

Children in the fourth and fifth grades at Lord Kitchener School learn to use words creatively as they act out stories and poems in class.

"Children are born mimics and actors", says instructor Helen Grier, "who has been pioneering the idea of drama as a teaching tool for elementary school children here for 10 years. "When their imaginations is stimulated, teaching them is easy."

Miss Grier teaches all classes a week to pupils who range in age from seven to 12 years.

WIDE CHOICE

She says the process of acting out a theme can be applied to almost any subject on the junior curriculum. Best results are obtained, she says, when applying the principle to oral and written English.

This was demonstrated in a presentation by one grade four group. A fairy story called All for One. It was acted out by several of the students while the remainder of the class of 30 acted as the audience.

SELECT ROLES

As with each of the plays they learn, the pupils did their own casting. Lines were rehearsed with special attention to clear diction. There is no mumbling. The actors must be word perfect and project their voices well.

At the close of each performance Miss Grier asks for comments and criticisms from the rest of the class.

"This helps to hold attention and gives everyone a sense of participating", she says.

Choral singing and rhythmic movement also are part of the creative dramatics program.

"The Bible, history, geography —even mathematics can be made intensely stimulating to a young child if he 'sees' it in the light of his own imagination," Miss Grier says.

Holloway St. United Holds Bible Rally

Approximately 275 children and adults gathered in Holloway St. United Church Sunday school room for the annual "Good News Bible Club Rally," held recently. Mr. Angus Hanah was the chairman.

The children were led in choruses singing by Mr. R. Cummings, with Mrs. E. Belch as accompanist.

Several clubs presented special group singing and testimonies of how much the Lord Jesus Christ means to them in their young lives as Saviour and friend.

Mr. Roger Green of Toronto, a noted children's leader, thrilled the young audience with "Happy Harry," the aborigian puppet of his native land, New Zealand. Then he brought the story of Jonah's sin, Jonah's repentance for his sin, and then Jonah's obedience to God, illustrated by a ship and the Lord of the children responded to the call of the Lord Jesus and confessed to receive Him as their Saviour.

Mr. Homan, of Toronto, closed the rally with prayer.

Tuesday night at the Child Evangelism Fellowship met at Bethel Chapel for an evening meeting.

Mr. A. Hannah, chairman of the committee, presided and led in a sing-song, accompanied by Mrs. Bev Foster at the piano.

Mr. Ralph Wannamaker sang two lovely solos.

Two testimonies were then given, one by a Good News Club teacher, Mrs. J. H. Walker, and one by a Good News Club hostess, Mrs. S. L. Blake. Both told what the club had meant to them and to the children.

Mrs. A. Hannah, the teacher of the Bible picture exhibit, the visualized hymn "I Love to Tell the Story," which everyone heartily sang.

A report of the prayer meeting held the past week was given by the prayer chairman, Miss E. Latham.

A report was given by the city director, Mrs. E. Musclow of the 18 Bible clubs held weekly in the city and surrounding district. The clubs started the first week in September and now have finished until fall. Two teacher training classes were held each month for the workers and any interested Sunday School teachers.

Miss Betsy Thesker, provincial director, challenged the audience with the need and workers to reach the boys and girls this summer in the great outdoors.

Mr. Roger Green spoke of the need to reach the children while they are young and able to retain the wonderful Word of the Lord.

Rev. S. Palmer closed the meeting in prayer.

Refreshments were served under the convenership of the hostess, Mrs. J. Langman.

The evening closed when all joined hands and sang "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

Ottawa Woman Keeps as Busy Schedule as Prime Minister

By RUSSELL ELMAN

KODA KANAL, India (CP)—Khaki-uniformed Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova of Ottawa keeps as busy a schedule as a prime minister on her annual goodwill mission to India.

By plane, car and bullock cart, the 48-year-old red - headed executive director and founder of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada is making a non-stop inspection round of Canadian UNC-sponsored pilanages, medical aid schemes in isolated villages, and welfare projects in city slums. She is on jobs seven days a week.

Czech-born Dr. Hitschmanova, a wartime refugee herself, in 1945 founded the USC, today Canada's largest overseas voluntary relief organization with 50 projects in 11 countries. She travels 20,000 miles a year surveying this work and raising funds in Canada.

"One of my greatest enemies is lack of time," she said during a recent visit to Kodaikanal, a hill station in South India.

"I have to evaluate carefully our work in every project, interview individually all 500 children in our homes, make speeches at civic functions, and talk to people who can't speak English through an interpreter."

FIRST AL-ASIAN TOUR

Now on her first all-Asian tour with visits to India, Korea and Hong Kong, Dr. Hitschmanova will be away from Canada until June. Late at night the keys of her portable typewriter click in her hotel room as she writes reports on each child for its foster-parents, assesses how the local work fits into the over-all picture, and plans budgets.

It's a big, enormous correspondence with my headquarters in Ottawa," she said. "The work has to be continued whether I am in Canada or Assam."

Dr. Hitschmanova usually tours by four months in advance, allowing leeway.

At Kodaikanal she toured remote villages with a USC-developed mobile dispensary, attended meetings of the Kodaikanal Al-India Women's Conference and branch which runs the local project, and raced to keep abreast of her constant paper work.

On Good Friday, she went 80 miles by car from Kodaikanal to Madurai, where in 104 - degree heat she visited a children's home and delivered an address. The next morning she flew across country to Trivandrum in Kerala, inspected another children's home, returned the same afternoon to Madurai and continued by air 300 miles more to Madras.

In the mountains near Kodaikanal she had to investigate whether villagers had enough warm clothing. At Madurai, because the price of rice had risen nearly 20 per cent, she had to enquire whether the $80 a year given by Canadian foster-parents to each child was sufficient to maintain the children's home.

A VERY PURPLE PEOPLE

"My constant worry is that there are always more needy people than we can reach," she said. She was convinced, however, that the Canadian dollar goes farther in India than anywhere else. "The real point is that here we can do so much for so little."

Apart from gifts in kind, the USC gives approximately $50,000 ($60,000 rupees) in cash to its Indian projects. In South India one rupee has about the same buying power as one dollar in Canada.

On tour, Dr. Hitschmanova tries to keep her baggage down to the 44 pounds airline weight, but it is virtually impossible. At each point she has to hand out gifts, and is usually overwhelmed with presents herself.

She wears khaki army - style cap, skirt, tie and tunic, with ribbons on the left breast denoting the Korean War. She always carries notebook and pencil and hand and three cameras, including a movie for a film on her tour to be produced in Canada.

Keeping fit is a serious problem, owing to the changeable climate and sanitary conditions in the East.

She regularly takes malaria and vitamin pills, drinks only tea and coffee because of polluted water, and avoids uncooked vegetables.

Slides of Soviet Tour Shown To University Women's Club

The regular April meeting of University Women's Club of Belleville and district was held in St. Thomas' parish, house with Mrs. J. Haig presiding.

As a result of last month's meeting, an abundant supply of good used clothing, as well as a donation of $50, will be sent to aid the women who come under the temporary care of the Elizabeth Fry Society.

After the business meeting Miss Beryl Campbell introduced the guest speaker Dr. George Hardware, a Queen's University professor. Dr. Harrower received his B.Sc. degree with honors in mathematics and physics from the University of Western Ontario. After completing his doctorate at McGill, he was employed by the Bell Laboratories in the United States. In 1955 he returned to Canada to do research work and to teach at Queen's University.

Dr. Harrower took his audience, via personally taken colored slides, on an extensive 6,000-mile tour of the Soviet Union.

VIEW OF MOSCOW

The first view of Moscow was from the large hotel overlooking the Moscow River—the most outstanding perhaps, were the large apartment buildings housing as many as 5,000 people.

The need for housing is urgent, and the country must be waiting the government places the appliance in apartments according to the professions, Dr. Harrower said.

He disclosed it is possible for the tourist to take an organized bus or boat tour of the city with well trained guides and lecturers present.

"So much a tour we might marvel at the wide roads and the absence of any advertising out-of-doors," he stated. "The people on the streets are not unlike ourselves in appearance and clothing."

The speaker said shopping is tedious since there is only one government department store (GUM) which resembles a Peruvian market. There is much hustle and bustle with long lines waiting to make their purchases. Nearly all items except synthetic materials, are available, he said.

Dr. Harrower noted many pre-revolutionary buildings are magnified Spanish style of architecture. Multi-storey dwellings are found everywhere. A famous example is the Cathedral of St. Basil, in Moscow's Red Square in 1554 by Ivan the Terrible.

The square, today, is used primarily for reviewing military forces, he said. From the square one may see the very popular mausoleum bearing the remains of Stalin and Lenin, the nation's hero.

Slides were also shown of the famous Bolshoi Theatre, Tolstoy's city home, the planetarium with its gardens and statues.

BREATHTAKING VIEW

A breathtaking view was shown, taken from the Lenin Hills where the University of Moscow, the largest educational building in the world, is located. The modern interior is elaborately furnished, and the gardens, tended by women, are magnificent.

Education is a favorite project in Russia and vast sums of money are spent on it, the speaker said.

A view of the 73 buildings of the permanent Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition proved to be most interesting. The grounds contain many fountains and guilded figures as decor. There is also a banq shell and restaurant. Among the displays, modern buses were noted. Cars are in short supply.

Perhaps the most popular scientific display was that of the second Sputnik.

The Kremlin, the ancient heart of Moscow, is enclosed by strong, fortified walls, which protect the palace and government buildings, and the principal cathedrals, churches and houses.

The Ivan, the Great Bell Tower, finished in 1600 is outstanding because of its domed-topped height and splendid design. Surrounding it are many churches with bulbike domes, convents, secular buildings, and a magnificent palace designed by Italians.

Next the audience "travelled" 3,200 miles to Tashkent, a city of Asiatic Russia, capital of the Uzbek Soviet Socialist Republic. It lies on the railroad line connected Central Asia with western Russia, extending to Samarkand which was the next stop.

Samarkand, Uzbek Soviet Republic, is in a fertile valley but the ancient city, the tomb of Tamerlane, the population composed of many races — Mongolians, Uzbek, Mohamedans but all police are Russian. Dwellings are made of mud and are scrubbed daily.

The principal buildings are a palace, the bazaars, and the Madrika, a religious and technical school—one of the first universities.

11th CENTURY TOMBS

The main attraction was the views of the 14th century tombs of Timur and his wives. Splendid buildings, the exteriors of which are highly decorated with turquoise, enamelled tiles of various colors; rich marble and inscriptions of gold. The beautiful colored domes are shaped like beehives with descrt grass arrangement on top of the domes.

Since gardening is the principal occupation, it was interesting to visit a 22,000 acre collective farm which accommodated 300 families. Here land is reclaimed desert. The people were most hospitable and all the guests left with a basket of the 95 varieties of grapes which are the main crop of the farmwoman said.

The last "stop" was Leningrad, formerly St. Petersburg, and Petrograd. It was founded in 1703 by the Russian Czar, Peter the Great, who ordered a complete city to be built from mud. Today the best Leningrad buildings of the Czarist era are the St. Isaac Cathedral (now a museum), the Winter Palace and the Hermitage (now art museum). The speaker explained although the Czars surrounded themselves with luxury, the common people were not antagonistic, even though this opulence was a sharp contrast to the poverty and illiteracy of the great masses of the Russian peasants.

This city, more peaceful than Moscow, is built on islands in the streams and canals connected by 500 bridges, he said.

Dr. Harrower significantly concluding the "tour" by stating that he left the city feeling at home-He is at first, only aware of the new and different, however a few days, however, the similarities are more strikingly noted than the differences.

"We all have the same aims. Education aims as to how to best achieve them," he said.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Dorothy Curzon for a most enjoyable and enlightening evening.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: THREE-FOLD CLEANLINESS

A woodrowly wise maxim always was a good one. "Be clean, think clean, talk clean."

GROOM'S PARENTS TO GIVE PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter married soon. My fiance and his family live about two thousand miles from where my family and I live, and there's one many of their relatives and friends won't be able to come to our wedding. His parents would like to plan to have a party for us when we return from our wedding trip, and invite their relations and friends.

Would it be proper to add personal notes with the wedding invitations to these people, to invite them to this party, or would a formal note be announcement be more appropriate?

— B. H.

This is a most charming plan of the bridegroom's family to give a party in honor of the bride and bridegroom after their return from the wedding trip. (At this party the bride usually wears her bridal dress, but not her veil.) You will provide with your new mother-in-law, and I hope your mother will also be there to help you receive.)

It is not proper to enclose an informal note with the formal wedding invitations. I suggest the notes or cards of invitation to the wedding party be sent by your bridegroom's parents after your return.

CARDS ACKNOWLEDGING RECEIPT OF WEDDING GIFTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter has been working in England, on a very special and important professional assignment. Several months ago she went to a reception and there met a young man who was a classmate of hers in a vocational college in the West. Their former friendship was soon rekindled at once, it became a courtship, and they were married there. She had told us over the telephone about the plans, and asked us to send formal announcements of their marriage as soon as possible, and to her relatives and friends in both. (His fine family are dear friends of ours, live near us here in our city.)

Both my daughter and her husband are extremely popular, and soon after we mailed the announcements many wedding presents began to arrive addressed to the bride at our house. And they are still arriving! The bride and bridegroom will return in about two or three months to live here, but in the meantime relatives and friends of both families are beginning to inquire if their wedding presents have arrived.

Today the groom's mother and I had a "conference" and thought it would be the most practical plan to have a card engraved saying the present has been received and a thank-you note will be written as soon as possible. If you approve, I'll write or telephone to my daughter to ask if she approves. If so, will you please send us a reception and then for this card? Thank you for any suggestions.

— Mother

Under the circumstances I think your idea of the card is a very practical one. It will relieve the relatives and friends naturally anxious to know whether or not their gifts have been received. These cards raise usually about 2 x 3 inches) may be engraved with this wording:

Mrs. Peter Clark

acknowledges the receipt of your wedding present and will write to thank you in the near future

(The last line may, if you prefer, read: "to thank you as soon as possible.")

SEATING-ARRANGEMENTS AT WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At the table at the wedding reception, where are the following seated: bride, bridegroom, bridesmaids, the bride's mother and father, the bridegroom's mother and father, and also the bride's father and the ring bearer? — Bride-to-be

When the "Bride's Table and the Parents' Table are combined, the bride's mother, as hostess, generally sits at the head of the table, with the bride's father, the host, opposite her. And the bride and bridegroom sit together (the bride to the right of the bridegroom) in the center of one side of the table, with the maid of honor, the bridegroom's best man (you didn't mention him!); and at the bride's right, left is the maid of honor.

The bridesmaids and the ushers (there are to be ushers, I assume) sit alternately. Usually child attendants are not included in the receiving-line, and if you wish to have them seated at the reception table you should plan most practical seating-arrangements.

Running After Some Sap

by Mary Moore

In a "3-4" or "1500" second-hand army truck, I went with George and Reuben into the sugar bush to gather the sap on the best sap run of the season.

In one of George's bushes the sap was collecting in fifty-gallon lined buckets and these were lifted to the spouts. Some were flowing over. The army truck snaked its way between trees and boulders while Reuben and I tipped the buckets into our gathering pails. The men carried four to every one of mine. When you are hungry or thirsty you simply drink some cold sap.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Smoked Sausage with Waffles and new Maple Syrup; Generous Bowl of Cole Slaw with Pineapple Bits Dressed Lime Chiffon Pie; Coffee.

It was an exhilarating experience, and my enthusiasm lasted right through the evening while we tasted the following recipes made from syrup boiled down from the sap.

MAPLE PINWHEELS:

Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 6 tablespoons butter or shortening, ½ cup milk, 2 tablespoons soft butter or margarine (second amount), 1-4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-3 cup maple syrup, 1-3 cup nuts, or more if desire (third amount), pecan halves or walnuts. Sift sifted flour with baking powder and then salt. Cut in shortening or butter until consistency of small peas. Add slowly add milk, stirring with a fork until all dry particles are dampened. Toss onto lightly floured board; knead for a few seconds. Roll dough into rectangle about 7" x 16" x 1-4". Spread with soft butter or margarine. Sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar. Beginning at wide side roll up in flat roll. Seal edges. Cut into 1-2" slices. Put 1 teaspoon syrup, 1 teaspoon butter and several pecans in bottom of each of 18 greased muffin tins. Place, cut side down, over syrup mixture. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 15-18 minutes.

MAPLE DUMPLINGS:

One cup sifted pastry flour, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-3 cup cream or milk, 1 cup maple syrup, 1-2 cup water, 1 tablespoon butter. Sift dry ingredients. Cut in butter with pastry blender. With fork barely mix in cream. Heat to boiling maple syrup, water and the 1 tablespoon butter. Shape dumplings between palms into 10 or 16 balls. Drop in boiling syrup. Cover and simmer 12-15 minutes until done at centre.

MAPLE CUSTARD:

Two and one-half cups milk, 7-8 cup maple syrup, 4 large eggs, 1-4 teaspoon salt. Beat eggs until light but foamy. Beat in remaining ingredients. Pour into baking dish or 5 individual custard cups and sprinkle liberally with nutmeg. Steam until set—bake, standing dish or dishes in hot water, at 325 deg. until set about 45-50 minutes.

DREAMY MAPLE FUDGE:

Boil 2 cups of maple syrup with 1 cup of thick cream until it forms a firmish ball in cold water (238 degrees F.) stirring often. This requires time. Cool to lukewarm, then beat until very thick and creamy and pour into buttered tins.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history, The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. K. M. — Nora is rude to my friend.

Nora M. — Why should I have to put up with him?

Mrs. K. M. — I am a widow in my 50's living with my youngest daughter; a girl in her mid-20's.

About a year ago, I met a man who is interested in marrying me. I don't feel that I want to marry him. He doesn't have the appearance and manner I like in a man and he has many personal habits that annoy me. But Jim is pleasant, good company and very considerate of me. He is also very friendly with my daughter.

Here is the problem. My daughter, Nora, is rude to Jim and resents his presence in our home. She tries to run out of luck herself in her room when he comes. I want to stay married because this will prevent his getting any wrong ideas. She would be sitting in the living room watching TV anyway.

Nora M. — I certainly do resent Jim. Who wouldn't? He makes himself right at home in our place with no consideration for us. He'll take off his jacket and loosen his tie just as though he has already moved in. Of course he always says "May I?" first but he doesn't even see my nasty look when I say, "Make yourself perfectly at home."

It certainly makes me sick to have him hanging around. I don't give a darn if Mom goes out with him. It's her business if she wants to. He's a character like that, but why should I have to put up with him?

What annoys me most about Jim is what my mother calls his "thoughtfulness" of me. He brings me little gifts for special occasions. It's as though he's trying to buy my good will or something.

The Council: Mrs. K. M. is making an unfair demand on her daughter and Nora is taking it out on Jim in a cruel and unfair way.

Mrs. K. M. is, in effect, asking Nora to act as chaperone and we certainly don't blame the girl for resenting this. A woman in her 50's should be able to act as her own chaperone. If she feels unable to cope with Jim's advances she ought to get rid of him or see him only for outside dates.

It is possible that Mrs. K. M. wants Nora around more as a restraining influence on herself than for Jim and the girl resents this. It is probably disturbing to her to think of her mother as a person not completely in control of herself. At the same time it makes Nora feel "in the way" as chaperones always are. They are there to prevent an incident but are despised by their subjects.

Nor do we blame Nora for objecting to having a man who doesn't really belong make himself at home in her living room. But her sarcasm is ineffective as well as nasty. It would be so much better if she could nonchalantly come out with the truth and say, "I'd prefer that you be sitting in the living room watching TV anyway."

Mayor Says Bear Hunt Will Not Be Slaughter

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Leo Del Villano of Timmins says a black bear hunt he is organizing to provide bearskins for Buckingham Palace guardsmen will not amount to a slaughter of the animals.

The mayor, here on a business trip, said plans for the hunt have been approved by the humane society and the department of lands and forests. "It will be strictly a sporting event."

Mayor Del Villano offered to supply bearskins after reading a news item last month which reported the guardsmen were short of skins to refurnish their worn busbys—the tall black hats which distinguish their dress uniforms.

RECEIVES MANY LETTERS

A later London report said 6,000 bearskins would be needed. This touched off a flood of letters to the Timmins mayor protesting such a "wanton slaughter."

An editorial in The Times of London Friday said the idea of the British army accepting a gift involving slaughter that would not otherwise take place is "pretty." The Times also wondered if the mass hunt was really necessary.

"We never at any time said we were going to kill 6,000 bears and the guards haven't asked us to," the mayor explained. "They told us they have 3,000 hats and about 300 need replacement each year."

NO GOAL SET

No goal has been set for the hunt, which will take place when the bears emerge from hibernation—probably in early May.

"We are going to get as many bears as we can," the mayor said. The skins are at their prime in May and this usually lasts for two or three weeks. Only prime skins are suitable and it takes a whole bearskin for each hat.

OTHER OFFERS

An organized force of about 60 men will take part in the Timmins hunt. Other groups at Cochrane, New Liskeard, Kirkland Lake and North Bay have offered to stage hunts in their areas.

The mayor said Bill Martin, a Timmins fireman, has taken charge of the skinning crew. An expert himself, Mr. Martin is explaining the tricks of removing the thick, fatty hide.

Still to be settled are plans for shipping the skins to London. They will be shipped raw, if possible, to let the guards handle the tanning expense which runs about $15 a skin.

The mayor said officials of Ontario House in London have offered to help arrange the shipping to eliminate import duty and red tape. But if it becomes necessary to have the skins tanned before shipment he doesn't know where the financing will come from.

New Stamp Will Commemorate Queen's Visit

OTTAWA (CP)—A large five-cent stamp commemorating the visit to Canada this summer of Queen Elizabeth will go on sale June 16, the day she arrives by air at Torbay, Nfld., to begin her tour.

The stamp shows a likeness of the Queen taken from a painting by Pietro Annigoni, in which she is portrayed in robes of the Order of the Garter.

The stamp, mostly dark red with other lighter shades of red, is one inch wide and 1½ inches high. Several other stamps of the same size have been issued before, but never one larger.

The portrait by Annigoni — an Italian whose works hang in many European galleries — was commissioned in 1954 by the Worshipful Company of Fishmongers and now hangs in the Fishmongers' Hall near London Bridge.

PORTION OF ORIGINAL

An intriguing feature of the stamp is that the figures 1957 appear in minute form in the lower left-hand corner.

Aware that this would be spotted by what it termed "keen-eyed observers," the Post Office Department gave this explanation in an announcement Friday:

"Two years ago the plate was engraved and it was held for use when a suitable occasion would arise. . . the numerals are inconspicuous and are not an integral part of the main design."

Shadow of U.S. Giantism Still Causes Concern

TORONTO (CP)—H. R. Crump said today the determination not to become American was a tradition that shaped the political foundations of Canadianism.

But the Canadian Pacific Railway president warned that "the shadow of" American giantism" still causes concern in the economic sphere.

He said in an address to the Canadian Club of Toronto the forefathers of Canadians declined to join the rebellious American colonies in 1776, refused in 1812 and fought to repel an American invasion. They refused to rise in revolt in 1837 in the name of republicanism, and reciprocity was rejected in 1891 and again in 1911.

Now "thoughtful Canadians ask themselves about the implications for their country's future of our growing reliance upon the United States as a market for our exports."

"They question the . . . preponderance of American capital in the development of our resource industries.

"They fear the effect of American-based 'international unionism' on the freedom and welfare of Canadian labor."

Mr. Crump said the decision of English- and French-speaking Canadians to reconcile common loyalty to the crown and emotional ties with the new world was another tradition upon which was built the success of Canadianism.

Harry Simmonds of Montreal Game's Foremost Authority

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—You're the umpire in a tight baseball game. The batter drops a bunt down the first-base line. The catcher fields the ball, reaches out to take the tag and accidentally sticks the ball in the runner's hip pocket.

The runner jogs around the bases and crosses home plate. At his side is the catcher, making futile swipes to retrieve the ball.

How do you call it?

Nothing in the rulebook directly covers the situation.

IT'S A SINGLE

It should go as single, says Harry Simmons, one of the game's foremost authorities.

The 45-year-old, bespectacled Simmons is secretary of the International League, with headquarters in Montreal. Baseball's evolution and the zany incidents and anecdotes the game sometimes produces are his romances.

Simmons was a self - styled mediocre player, a "good-field-no-hit" sandlot catcher who never made the grade professionally.

He was 18 when he quit playing. "I couldn't hit worth a damn."

Now he tells the top players in North America when and where to play.

In the off-season he plans playing schedules for the top baseball leagues.

It's a chore he nimbly attacks with huge maps, stacks of transportation time-tables and a fresh supply of Cuban cigars he smokes at a 10-a-day rate.

MAJOR LEAGUES TOO

Besides his own triple-A circuit, he helps draw date dates to cover the two major leagues, the 16's entire American Association and several lower-classification outfits.

But his main fancies remain the game's history and the knotty problems that give umpires headscrauls.

For the last 11 years he has written a feature called So You Think You Know Baseball for a weekly mass - circulation magazine (Saturday Evening Post). It deals with the offbeat, imaginative and factual.

"I try to find situations where a precedent is set or the rules are inequitable," says Simmons.

The "slippocket play" is typical. That happened a while back during a sandlot game in New York, where Simmons was born.

While the rulebook makes no provisions for such a freak occurrence, here logic can be applied for a ruling, says Simmons.

RETURN STOP AT FIRST

The batter should be made to return to first base on grounds that no runner can advance while the team at bat has possession of the ball, as stipulated in the rulebook.

From a vast collection of newspaper clippings, sports periodicals and old books, Simmons draws most of his material for the feature.

Long hours spent pouring through the musty book troughs of New York's Eighth Street have yielded some of his most cherished treasures — including baseball guides first published 75 years ago.

His newspaper flies go back even further—to 1871, when the first pro league was formed in the U.S. as the National Association of Professional Baseball Players.

Simmons was already drafting schedules for the IL when he took on the task of preparing schedules for the major leagues in 1953.

MANY CONSIDERATIONS

It's a task that must take into account transportation services and hotel accommodations. But scores of non - apparent factors must also be considered, such as a fair share for all teams of choice Sunday and holiday games at home.

What sort of special aptitude does it take?

"Nooo, really," says Simmons. "Just hard work and a thorough knowledge of the rules. You need to develop only a pattern."

"Of course, you've got to strive for balance. If you keep a team on the road too long, the home fans forget it. And if you keep the team at home too long, the fans get sick of it."

A former federal civil service employee in the United States, Harry became secretary of the IL in 1952 after six years as the league's information director. He served with the U.S. Army during the Second World War.

FIRST BREWERY

The first brewery in Canada was established at Quebec City in 1668.

BASEBALL AUTHORITY — Bespectacled Harry Simmons, 45, of Montreal is one of baseball's foremost authorities on the game's freak incidents. As secretary of the triple A International League, one of the main fancies is ruling on knotty problems that crop up occasionally. He chats over umpires which are not covered by the rule books in the off-season. Braves Will Use Three League Players

WINNIPEG (CP)—Coach Bill Allum of the western champion Winnipeg Braves has named three players from his own league as replacements for the Memorial Cup final against Port Arthur Bombers Petes, eastern titlists.

They are centre Johnny Rodger, left winger Jerry Kruk and goalkeeper Paul Sexsmith, all of St. Boniface Canadiens, eliminated by Braves in the Manitoba Junior Hockey League final last month.

Canadian Amateur Hockey Association regulations allow the western champion to strengthen itself with three players from other clubs in the west.

Allum indicated Monday he would use the three pickups only in case of injury to his regulars.

"It wouldn't make much sense to break up a winning combination," he said.

OTTAWA (CP)—The first two sportsmen's camps north of the Canadian treeline are expected to begin operating this year, accommodating anglers willing to pay for the privilege of fishing for Arctic char.

Officials of the northern affairs department expect more camps to follow. Seal hunting—a tricky shooting proposition from a bobbing small boat—also is being planned on a limited basis.

Both fishing camps will be located in southern Baffin Island in the eastern Arctic—just across Hudson Strait from the northern tip of Ungava.

The largest is expected to be an operation by former bush pilot Rex Clibbery of Winnipeg and Kenora, Ont., at a site on Frobisher Bay about 50 miles east of the town of Frobisher. He aims to charge $1,500 for a week-long sportsman's flight in and out—and has informed northern affairs officials of promising response by United States sportsmen.

ENTERPRISING ESKIMOS

The other camp will be at Cape Dorset at the southwestern end of Baffin Island. It will be operated by about seven Eskimos and it is hoped the enterprise will yield them $500 each.

The basis of the fledgling industry is a pickled fish concurring both in rivers and the ocean almost as far north as settlement have no nets. Arctic char are rated excellent sport, may reach 15 pounds in weight and are taken best on wet-line lures.

The Dorset camp will limit its sportsmen to some 20 a year. They will be flown in by Austen Airways from Moncone, Ont., and the airline also will cater for them in special tents or plastic igloos.

Guides will be necessary for each angler because of the unfamiliar fishing last. An indication of the type of client expected is an American millionaire who says he is anxious to get close to Eskimo carvers and plans to visit Dorset.

The Dorset population of about 300 Eskimos are noted carvers and their handicraft sales are expected to prosper as a result of the sportsmen's camp.

MAY IMPOSE LIMIT

No limit now is imposed on the char catch but one is being proposed. Special attention will be paid to the impact of sports angling on the char population as a gauge for conservation measures.

That same view applies to seal hunting, which is being worked out for the Dorset area. Seal's vital food commodity for the Eskimo living off the land, is plentiful around Dorset. The sport shooting of the sea mammal will require a change in the fisheries act.

Officials of the northern affairs department say the sports camp industry, bringing new incomes to the natives, is a logical step in certain parts of northern Quebec, the Keewatin interior north of Manitoba, other Baffin Island spots and some other Arctic Islands.

Meanwhile, elsewhere in the Northwest Territories, plans are going ahead to provide sports hunting of buffalo next fall north of the Alberta boundary. Rules and regulations are being drawn up and a survey is being conducted to locate qualified outfitters.

So far, between 50 and 60 inquiries have been received. Most came from the U.S. and there was one from Cuba.

Authorities have suggested a trip to the rugged area where the buffalo are running might cost $3,000.

Leafs Consider Trying Out "Wonder Skate"

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—A new "wonder" hockey skate—so fast that hockey players of the Toronto Maple Leafs found they would need practice to use them — has been developed here.

Inventor Wilf (Monk) Vallancourt, a former player in the Northern Ontario Hockey League, says he took some "lubra-skates" to Toronto last Wednesday and coach Punch Imlach of the Leafs was impressed and considering trying them out.

TAKE GETTING USED TO

However the skates took some getting used to and weren't considered for the Stanley Cup series which Leafs lost 4 - 1 in games to Montreal Canadiens.

Jack Adams, a hard-skilled old hockey warhorse with Detroit Red Wings, and Sharf Smythe, young hockey executive with Toronto Maple Leafs, have something in common.

Neither can stand the pressure of watching a tense game. They leave the arena and pace up and down outside until the crowds start leaving the building.

Doctors say the strain of following a tight game might be too much for Adams' heart. With Smythe, it's simply a case of nerves.

Last week, when Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Montreal Canadiens 3-2 in overtime in the third game of their Stanley Cup series, Smythe was pacing up and down Church St., about a block from Maple Leaf Gardens.

He knew immediately Leafs had scored when a great roar from the Gardens shook the neighborhood. The street was practically deserted and within seconds people who had been watching the game on television, leaned out windows beaming and laughing.

Taxi-cab drivers, listening to the game on their car radios, honked their horns and yelled: "They just stood for a couple of seconds and then pushed off," Smythe told reporters.

BIG LEAGUE CANUCKS

A couple of Canadian big league baseball players to watch this season are Ted Bowsfield, 21-year-old southpaw pitcher from Penticton, B.C., and Reno Bertoia, 24-year-old second-baseman from Windsor, Ont.

Bertoia, a good-field no - hit player with Detroit Tigers for three years, was traded to Washington Senators after the 1958 campaign. The new surroundings have worked wonders.

In the first week he was hitting over .300 and his hits included two home runs, one a game-winner.

Bowsfield, promoted from Minneapolis of the American Association to Boston Red Sox last year, ended with a 4-2 record, including three victories over New York Yankees. The southpaw came down with a flu virus just before the 1959 season opened and hasn't started yet, but the Red Sox front office is looking for big things from him.

GOLF TRAIL

Moe Norman, the colorful clown of the fairways, probably is convinced that the big-time circuit isn't his cup of coffee. He won only $1,224 in five tournaments a year and now is back at his stand at a golf range in Toronto.

Stan Leonard, the 45-year-old shotmaker from Vancouver, has been the most successful Canadian on the winter golf trail. Picking his spots, he won nearly $5,000 in six tournaments, including $2,625 for his fourth-place finish in the Masters Tournament at Augusta, Ga.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

With their Allan Cup dreams shattered, the Kitchener Dutchmen can now turn to the formation of their 1960 squad which will represent Canada at the Squaw Valley Olympics.

They fell before the powerful Whitby Dunlops four games in one. "We would have beaten the Dutchmen by bigger scores," modestly admitted Wren Blair, "but we did not flash our all-out potential."

Be that as it may, the Dutchmen have a problem on their heads. It may come as a shock, Lem (Kitchener-Record) Taylor points out, "but cold figures indicate the team may need nine players to compete successfully in the Olympics tournament."

The minimum on his chart, Taylor says, is six, but even that poses a big job for Manager Ernie Goman and coach Bill Durnan in the off-season.

Some, of course, can be obtained by short-term borrowing from clubs like Whitby. We suspect that the Dutchmen might come by a goal-tender in that manner. They'll need an extra net-minder, and he'll have to be a good one, possibly even as good as, say, Don Head. 'Bost' Hurley certainly won his Olmpic spurs this winter for the other goalie berth.

On defence the Dutchies can probably use two men. They are better off here than anywhere thanks to the improvement in their two rookies, Dick Mattiuzzi and Murray Davison. Ted Maki, who was a tremendous playoff performer, will be in his third year and could be headed for the heights.

Ralph Hosking can't play because he is a former pro. Dave (Red) Stephen didn't get enough work to indicate his stature. Ted Lowther will be learning which makes him an uncertain prospect. The Dutchmen will need to take five blueliners with them so figure they'll need two more men back from the pros.

They can probably borrow one by loaning Hosking to some other club for the month of February. That leaves one to find.

Up front they have one solid forward line. Ken Laufman, Bill Sanders and Bob McKnight look good enough to play together in any amateur league. Laufman, who wasn't himself in 1958, may show the world's amateurs a thing or two next winter.

'Butch' Martin and Don Rope look as if they can make it. Martin, in fact, has seldom played better than he did this year. They'll never keep him off the team unless they screen him for working too hard.

But that line needs a centre since Bill Wylie isn't eligible. Looks like another case of borrowing an amateur and loaning out a re-instated player for the month of February. Somebody like Bobby Attersley, perchance?

From there on anything can happen. The other Dutchmen of recent this year include Paul Knox, Jack McKenzie, Jerry Theberge, Jake Smola, Larry Pfaff, Ron Casey and Darrell Sly, some of those being hired hands borrowed from affiliates.

McKenzie won't be a Squaw Valley competitor. He's moving to Sudbury in a new teaching post and one of the contractual obligations is his retirement from hockey. The Dutchmen will miss him, on and off the ice.

Knox and Theberge are members of the 1956 team that failed at Cortina. They will have to show more than they did this season to catch a berth.

The two members of the Elmira Polar Kings, Smola and Pfaff, helped the Dutchmen in the Abitibi series. Smola looked the better of the two. He's a more rugged operator but he never got too much chance. He'll be given a real opportunity next year if only because, like Pfaff, he's a local boy.

Casey was an all-purpose man from Toronto Varsity Blues who never got a real testing and didn't show too well in his brief opportunities. He obviously is a much better hockey player than he appeared here but he'll have to be to hold any chance of making the club.

The best young prospect was Darrell Sly, the St. Mike's speedster, who can play forward or defence. This young bucko has speed to burn and he doesn't back up from anyone, as he demonstrated in his one game, against Whitby in Guelph."

A lot of senior clubs would like to grab him. The Dutchies think they have the inside track.

So there you have it. They need another goalie, two defencemen and six forwards, including two standout centres.

Where do you come by that sort of talent today?

That is the off-season challenge facing the Dutchmen. Fortunately they have been working on it for some months now and think they have some of the answers pegged.

Western Champs Say Whitby Won't Find Next Game Easy

TORONTO (CP) — There's a sda' sweaters will help provide strong feeling that Vernon Canadians drive towards a new Canadians will be "up" for the second game of the best-of-seven Allan Cup final with Whitby Dunlops after putting their shirts on victory.

Dunlops rocketed to a 5-2 win over the travel-weary Canadians in the first game Sunday but the western champions say Whitby won't find it as easy in the second game Tuesday night.

The B.C. club had just completed two weeks of strenuous road travel when they took the ice Sunday. Canadians also felt out of place in the huge Maple Leaf Gardens and were bothered by the heat.

"The ice surface is a bit bigger than we're used to out west," said Vernon's playing-coach and manager, George Agar. "But we'll be all right."

Petes, Pegs Prance On Prairies For Memorial Cup

Baby Canadiens Shaded 2-1 By Amazing Country Cousins; First Game in Winnipeg Fri.

PETERBOROUGH (CP)— Peterborough Petes leave for Winnipeg today to try to bring the Memorial Cup to eastern Canada for the 10th time in 31 years.

Petes tangle with Winnipeg Braves Friday in the first game of the best-of-seven final and the title of top Junior A hockey club.

The Memorial Cup was won last year by Hull-Ottawa Canadiens. Petes Monday defeated Hull-Ottawa 5-1 before a record crowd of 4,858. Both are farm clubs of the mighty Montreal Canadiens.

For Peterborough, who have come from last place to the championship of Eastern Canada in three seasons, the climax was really a Silky Sullivan finish. The Petes dropped the first two games to Ottawa, then won a bye into the semi-final. The third game was 16-5.

Then, the amazing youngsters of Scotty Bowman took four straight.

Chuck Hamilton and Pat Casey scored for Petes in the final game. Serge Boudreault saved Canadiens' win in a shut-out.

NEVER IN DOUBT

The issue was never really in doubt in the hard-checking clean game in which there were only nine penalties—five to Hull-Ottawa.

Hamilton scored the only goal of the first period, tipping Petes ahead at the 3:51 mark with a shot that glanced off Jean Tremblay and Petes, rallying frantically to clear, Casey stretched the lead to 2-0 with his goal at 16:39 of the second.

There was less than 40 seconds left in the closing period when Boudreault got one back for Hull-Ottawa. It was the last time that anyone got past Petes' Dennis Dejordy or Canadiens' Claude Pi-

DEJORDY A REPLACEMENT

Dejordy, regular goaltender for St. Catharines Teepees, played the last three games of the final as replacement for the injured Jacques Caron. He saved the game for Petes when he got in front of a fast shot from a faceoff at the beginning of the second less third period.

Toughest penalty was also in the third—it went to Canadiens' rearguard Jacques Laperriere, who drew a match misconduct for objecting to an icing call. His continued arguing turned it into a game misconduct.

Hull - Ottawa, in winning the Memorial Cup last year, stoned for their 1956-57 showing in which they lost to Flin Flon Bombers. That year, the up went West for the first time in nine years.

REEFED-IN BRAVES

Peterborough will be meeting a beefed-up version of the Winnipeg Braves. Coach Bill Allum named three players from his own league as replacements for the final.

They are centre Johnny Rodger left-winger Jerry Kruk and goalie Paul Sexsmith, all of St. Boniface Canadiens.

OTHER GAMES

After Friday's opener, the games will go:

April 26, 28 and 29, in Winnipeg Arena. If further games are necessary, they will be played at Brandon, May 1; Winnipeg Gymnipeg Arena May 10.

Major League Crowds Down Except Three

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball attendance for 1959 is down 15 per cent with all except three clubs under last year's figures.

Increases have been recorded only by Cleveland Indians, San Francisco Giants and Washington Senators, an Associated Press survey through Sunday's games shows. The Indians are 26,000 ahead of 1958 but the up swing for the Giants 1,285 and the Senators 178 is negligible.

With Los Angeles Dodgers showing a drop of 33 per cent the National League has already pulled 134,000 fewer customers through the turnstiles than it did in as many 1958 when dates. Last year, largely because of the debut of the Giants and the Dodgers to the west coast, the National League recorded a total increase of 15 per cent.

The American League has a 1959 attendance of 399,836, 46,- 000 below last year.

Sunday hockey. Playing-coach Sid Smith said Etcher's return will give the team better balance.

But the eastern champions will still be without Dunc Brodie, forward University of Toronto star busy studying for his final engineering exam.

Canadiens Hold Final Meeting Of Season

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Toe Blake and his Montreal Canadiens had a quiet little meeting Monday, the last closed session of the hockey season for the team that has achieved a record of four straight Stanley Cup championships.

The meeting was in the familiar surroundings of the Canadiens dressing room in Montreal forum. The get-together was in sharp contrast to the ordeal on Saturday night after Canadiens had downed Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 to win the best-of-seven cup final 4-1.

The official break-up of the team for the summer will come today. Some will leave for vacations. Others, particularly those with playing interests during the off-season, will head for their homes.

The meeting was largely to acquaint the players with the various prospects following the victory party at a downtown hotel shortly after the game Saturday night.

First there was a civic reception luncheon Monday in city hall. Late morning the players assemble at the Forum for the official picture session.

EXPECT ROCKET BACK

It is considered a certainty that Maurice (Rocket) Richard will be on hand again next year. The Rocket will be 38 years old next August. A serious injury in mid-season took him out of the game until the cup final where he was used sparingly.

In the wake of the victory there were plaudit all around. Manager-director Frank Selke said Blake "can remain with the club as long as I am connected with it."

Something new for next season is exposed by goalies Jacques Plante. The lank netminder, a top figure in Canadien's victory, has every intention of wearing a facial protective mask throughout next year's campaign.

In his career Plante has twice been the victim of cheek-bone fractures, as well as less serious injuries. He wears a mask in practice scrimmages but has found it unsuitable for actual play because visibility of the area below—his skates and the goal line—is restricted.

Plante said he will talk with the manufacturer of plastic masks and hopes something new can be devised.

Burke Defeats Boros in Golf Playoff

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Jack Burke Jr., scored an amazing eighteenth par 4 hole to defeat Julius Boros in an 18-hole playoff for the $30,000 Houston golf title.

Burke's 30-53—66, one stroke short of the tournament record, gave him $1,300 and jumped him ahead of Boros with 30th to 10th place among only about 6,000 square miles.

The 64 left Burke five strokes ahead of the 35-34—69 Boros; good, sure good for only $2,000 in second money over the 7,133-yard, par - 72 Memorial Park course.

"It was one of the best rounds of my career," said Burke.

Neal's Ninth-Inning Blast Makes Drysdale's 3-Hitter Good for Win Over Giants

Associated Press Staff Writer

Al Kaline is off to his best batting start in four seasons and believes he can continue the good work "If I keep my eyes open and my ears closed."

"It has been suggested by the Detroit Tiger front office that a good start by Kaline would assure a fast start in the American League by the club. The 24-year-old right fielder, who won the league batting crown in 1955, has disproved that theory.

The Tigers have lost six of their first seven games but Kaline is hitting .467 on 14 hits in 30 trips.

The rifle - armed outfielder hit the ball hard in spring training but failed to hit a home run in the exhibition season. The first time he came to bat in the opening game of the regular season, Kaline cracked the first pitch Chicago's Billy Pierce threw him into the left field seats.

"That's what did it," Kaline told Monday during an off-day hitting drill. "The minute I hit that ball I felt I could get off to that good start everyone has been talking about."

Monday's only scheduled engagement, between New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles, was rained out.

Kaline's average dropped to .314 the year after he won the title, then to .295 the following season. Last year he batted .313 but his home runs and runs batted in mark were down again.

"Now I'm trying not to swing so hard," he said. "If I just hit the ball where it's pitched instead of trying to kill it, I'll get my share of homers and drive in my share of runs."

Drysdale, 23, called it his best game ever after collecting a 2-1 record and running up a string of 18 innings in which he has allowed but one run as a starter.

PRESS LEADERS

The Dodgers, who finished seventh last year, never were higher than third in that inaugural season at Los Angeles. They haven't been as high as second since — Aug. 31, 1957 — when they beat the Giants 7-3.

The Dodgers now are just percentage points .133 behind Milwaukee's Braves, who were idle. The Giants slipped from second to third, a half game back.

Only one other game was scheduled. Pittsburg had a 1-0 first inning lead over Philadelphia before being rained out.

MAYS HOMERS

Drysdale's pitching now leads the majors with 25 strikeouts and has won four straight from the Giants in a string that dated last Aug. 8. was touched for Willie Mays' first homer of the season with two out in the first. Then he put down 21 in order before Andy Rodgers singled with two out in the eighth.

His long moment of worry came in the ninth. With two out, Jackie Brandt beat out a roller, and Mays, just missing another homer with a foul ball sliced to right. Drew Drysdale's only base on balls. The Dodgers then put it away after Orlando Cepeda banged into a force out for his first hitless game of the season.

SKINNER NEEDS REST

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Leftfielder Bob Skinner, who banged into the outfield fence to make a spectacular catch against the Braves at Milwaukee Saturday, probably will be out of the Pittsburgh Pirates' lineup three or four days, the club reported Monday. He suffered a back injury making a catch that appeared to rob Hank Aaron of a home run.

Outstanding Card Will Feature Belleville Boxing Club's Debut

Boxing returns to the local sports scene after a number of years absence on Thursday, April 30, when the recently-formed Belleville Boxing Club presents its initial show at Memorial Arena.

Headlining the card will be a couple of tough 147-pound scrappers. Jack "Rocky" Lucas and Al Reid. Lucas will be the fan favorite since he is one of the Belleville hotters on the card. Reid hails from Peterborough and is said to be one of the top men from that city. The bout will be over five rounds.

The semi-final brings together another Belleville boy, Barry Parsons, and Peterborough's Pete Milligan. Parsons is a lightning fast and is said to have a fine future in the game, by local boxing brass. This semi-final is a four-round affair.

Another five-round affair, the event pits Ontario lightweight champion Paul Daniels of Petrolia against Oshawa's Grant O'Reilly, the fighting Irishman.

Five other preliminary bouts are also scheduled with a number of boys from Belleville in it. Most of the Belleville boxers have been fighting at Palace Pier in Toronto for the past couple of months and have had several bouts.

The first bout is scheduled for 8.30 p.m.

TO FETE CLUBS

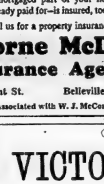
WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Braves and Peterborough Petes, Memorial Cup finalists, will be guests of honor at the fourth annual Memorial Cup dinner here April 27, organizers announced Monday. The series opens here Friday.

Exit the Habs, Enter the Larks

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes and football in general have moved into the sports picture scarcely before the cheering for the world hockey champion Canadiens has died down.

Al's new line coach Paddison Pat Preston, has introduced by head coach Dougus Peahead Walker at a luncheon Monday.

Preston has been line coach at University of North Carolina and is a former pro player with Chicago Bears.



Walker, who arrived Sunday from his winter home in Charlotte, N.C., said he had paid particular attention to the rookey players in signing new men for the training camp, instead of concentrating on particular positions.

Asked about the trade of fullback Pat Abbruzzi to Calgary Stampeders, Walker said Abbruzzi had made a great contribution to Canadian football but primarily as a one-way player. It was felt he had slowed up a bit and, in addition, Alouettes need more defensive strength.

Managing director Gorman Kennedy said the club have signed several dual-citizenship players not classed as imports—but discloseed no names.

Kennedy also said the sale of season tickets is a bit ahead of what it was at this time last year.

Walker anounced that coach Weeb Ewbank of Baltimore Colts of the National League will attend a clinic for coaches here June 12-14.

CANADA'S DICKSON PLACES THIRD — Gordon Dickson (17) of Hamilton takes over third place as runners pass through Wellesley, Mass., half-way mark in the 63rd Boston Marathon, April 20. In the lead is Johnny Kelly (2) of Groton, Conn., followed closely by Eino Oksanen (5) of Finland. Veikko Karvonen (3) of Finland is in fourth position. Oksanen won the 26-mile classic, Kelly came in second and Dickson placed third. (CP from AP).

Finnish Cop Winner of Boston Marathon

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BOSTON (CP)—Eino Oksanen, a Finnish police detective, played the part of "shadow" Monday to win the Boston Marathon in a race that saw Canada's Gordon Dickson enhance his international name.

Oksanen, 27, shadowed American Johnny Kelley stride for stride, mile after mile, and then breezed past the Connecticut schoolteacher in the late stretch to win the marathon in the good time of two hours, 23 minutes and 42 seconds.

The calm cop was willing to let Kelley, a former marathon winner who holds the record for the course of 26 miles and 385 yards, show him his shortcomings and perfection over the hilly course before moving ahead for victory in the last mile.

This 63rd running of the marathon classic turned out to be a two-dead race with Oksanen and Kelley struggling for first place and Dickson, 23, an insurance clerk from Hamilton who was born in Charlesholm, Alta., playing a vendetta against Veikko Karvonen for third place — or first place for that matter, if possible.

As it ended, Kelley was second after Oksanen. Dickson was third and the formidable Karvonen was fourth.

At The Park
"GIDGET"
Comedy With Music

"Gidget", the story of a pert blonde teen-ager who goes out on her first "manhunt" and winds up mascot of the Malibu Beach surfboarding set, opens Thursday at the Park Theatre for its first Belleville showing in Cinemascope and Eastman Color. Considered by Hollywood one of the most delightful romantic comedies of the year, "Gidget", stars Sandra Dee in the title role, Cliff Robertson, James Darren and Arthur O'Connell.

As "Gidget", the girl who spends a summer growing up, Miss Dee has the kind of wavy mop most of filmdom's feminine stars would covet — some 31 changes of costume, 19 of them being swim suits! Robertson and Darren, too, spend most of their time in swim suits on the beach or riding the Malibu waves on surfboards.

"Gidget", is strictly a frivolous-sun sort of picture, reported by a refreshing and delightful change of pace for film audiences, a romantic comedy which substitutes "beach generation" produced on location for its surfing and swimming sequences the "Gidget" company went to Southern California's Paradise Cove, Malibu Beach and Carrillo Beach.

The three young stars are considered ideal in their roles. All learned to handle surfboards well and Darren, who possess a fine baritone singing voice, also sings the title tune and "The First Boy Thing to Love" is "Gidget."

O'Connell and Miss LaRoche play Miss Dee's bewildered parents, while Jo Morrow is one of her more worldly-girl friends. The Four Preps, youthful top vocal group, are also featured.

ON THE SAME PROGRAM

All the thrills of the novel . . . spread wide on the screen. The good, the bad, the heroes, the cowards, the strong and the weak all appear in Columbia's "Apache Territory", starring Rory Calhoun and Barbara Bates. The outdoor thriller is also in Technicolor and having its first local showing.

Like Setting The Date For Execution

MONTREAL (CP) — President Paul Haynes of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association announced that Canada's Davis Cup team will play in Montreal July 24-26 against the winner of the Australia-Mexico tie.

The Australians will play at Winbledon, starting 4, and be at Mexico City July 17-19.

A second cup tie will also be played in Montreal July 31-Aug. 2, bringing together the winners of the north and south zon sections of the American zone.

The northern zone winner will be, determined when Canada meets ending Australia or Mexico.

The CLTA also set Aug. 3-9 for the Canadian championships in Quebec City.

Says Britain Will Win Walker Cup

DUBLIN (AP)—Ireland's Joe Carr, the best amateur golfer in the British Isles, predicts Britain will beat the United States in the Walker Cup match next month.

Then he added: "Furthermore, we had better beat them. It's for the good of the Walker Cup competition that I say that. The Walker Cup is in very, very great danger."

Carr, at 35, is approaching the role of an older but still-active statesman of golf. The matches at Muirfield, Scotland, May 15-16 will mark his seventh appearance against the Americans for the Walker Cup.

"We have won only one and that was 21 years ago. The competition is suffering vitally from one-sidedness," Carr said.

The Walker Cup also is suffering now from competition with the new World Cup tournament which is played for the Eisenhower Trophy."

Big Programs of Quality Continue to Come From N.Y.

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK AP) — About a year ago the television networks appeared intent on making Hollywood the capital of TV entertainment. Now the tide appears to be turning back to New York.

The list of filmed westerns and comedies originating in Hollywood is long. But with a few exceptions the big programs of top quality have continued to come from New York.

The reasons are numerous.

The only distinguished drama one can expect to see originating from Hollywood next season will be on Playhouse 90 — and there are rumors that some shows will come from New York following the successful taping of Twelve Who Believe.

Biography, the 90-minute series which will alternate weekly on CBS-TV with Playhouse 90, originate in New York. George Schaefer has been signed to direct and produce six here for Hallmark Hall of Fame for NBC-TV. Nearly all of The Fabulous Fifties, a series of music, comedy and drama on NBC-TV will be produced here.

Talent Associates has an impressive list of productions scheduled — all from New York: nine for Du Pont Show of the Month," eight for Harry Belafonte, a 90-minute Christmas special, seven live dramas based on popular MGM movies and co-produced with the studio and marking the entrance of M-G-M into live TV producing.

David Susskind, co-partner of Talent Associates who has long been a vociferous and vigorous exponent of New York as a production centre, says that "in order to do good shows you have to do them in New York. This is where the talent is."

Susskind, like several other TV producers and directors, maintains that proximity to the Broadway theatre offers a variety of acting talent that can't be found in Hollywood.

There is another reason for the ascendancy of New York, however. This is the business centre of television. Sponsors make their TV investments through agencies and networks here—and they like to be close to the scene of production on big and expensive specials.

Play Fewer Games-Or Out St. Michael's Informs OHA

TORONTO (CP) — St. Michael's College Majors have thrown a bombshell at the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series by announcing they will leave the league unless allowed to play fewer scheduled games.

Rev. David Bauer, St. Michael's manager, cites the pressure of increased standards of education as the reason for the move.

"The decision is so serious," he told a league council meeting Monday night, "that if we are not allowed to play fewer games, then we would have to give our position to the league immediately."

St. Michael's would meet next year's schedule obligation, he said, but would not continue after that.

This season the seven league teams played a 54-game schedule. Majors would like to play at least 12 fewer games.

Father Bauer suggested two alternatives. One would be that St. Michael's play 12 fewer games than the other teams, leaving some of them worth four points in order to balance the standings.

The second alternative, supported by both Toronto Marlboros and St. Catharines Teepees, would be for the entire league to reduce its schedule by 12 games.

"Our boys cannot pass their upper school examinations and play a full schedule of hockey at the same time," Father Bauer said.

In other business, Peterborough Petes announced they would recommend to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association through the OHA a policy for standardizing late - season replacements in junior hockey throughout Canada.

The move is directed particularly towards Western Canada Junior A leagues, presently allowed as many as six new players from other league teams for playoff games.

Peterborough will recommend that Lakehead Astorta and British Colombia Junior A teams be allowed three replacements for playoffs leading to the Memorial Cup. Manitoba and Saskatchewan should also be included eventually.

Another recommendation to be made to the CAHA by Toronto Marlboros is: "That no team should compete for the Memorial Cup which hasn't taken part in regular qualified group play in OHA."

This season the Montreal Canadiens — sponsored Hull-Ottawa Canadiens played only exhibition games and received a bye final.

Musical Productions Almost At Standstill in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Here's an oddity: Hollywood has associated Gigi the No. 1 movie in 1958, yet production of big musicals is almost at a standstill.

Nar a tuneflim is shooting in Hollywood today. Only one appears on the production schedule for future months.

One great from the movie musicals—Gene Kelly—has taken his art to the lkene screen. He readily admitted that the reason is the collapse of theatre musicals.

"I decided to take on TV because a picture deal fell through," he explained, "I was going to make a musical with J. Arthur Rank, appearing with Moura Shearer and Robert Helpmann. But it was called off—I guess the Rank organization is going in more for television."

MANY TV OFFERS

Sc Gene took one-of his longstanding offers to write his own ticket on TV. He has been rehearsing for weeks for his ex-vaugania, which will show on CBS Friday night. Always the perfectionist, he has been taping many of the numbers to get big-screen quality.

"It isn't easy, even with the use of tape," he sighed. "Television isn't really a medium for movies. The limitation in the size of the screen is obvious. The viewer doesn't want to see a closeup of the ballerina's face; he wants to see the movement of her whole body, and her relationship to the other dancers.

"Nor are movies the final answer. The best way to see dancing is in the theatre, where you get the kenetic sense of three dimensions."

IN MOVIES SINCE 1942

Gene has been hoofing in movies since 1942, on Broadway before that. And he's not going to hang up his shoes yet.

"I can understand the reluctance of the producers. Musicals generally cost a lot more money, and they don't want to get tied up with a big investment that might not pay off."

What about the argument that musicals are risky because foreign audiences don't dig them?

"I think song pictures are risky," he replied. "Foreign audiences don't understand the songs; you can't use sub-titles because the translations won't rhyme. The classic example is TYe King and I, in which no-body knows the story told with songs. They don't translate.

"But I don't feel that dance pictures are a risk. Dance is something that every audience can understand, regardless of language."

MAY FORM MINOR LEAGUES

PRESTON (CP)—Several Ontario Amateur Softball Association affiliates may join forces to form a Junior Softball Association centres in forming special night softball and juvenile leagues this season. Team representatives will meet in nearby Lyndon Wednesday to discuss amalgamation plans at the annual meeting of the Brantford-Wentworth rural leagues.

Astrological Forecast

by CARROLL RIGHTER

For Tuesday, April 21

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — During A. M. see that you do thing that will take away en your good name. Later you of day is ideal time to be associates and cement bet- relations. P. M. go to a charming restaurant and dine count the cost.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — While you do not much care to attend to accumulated and rather dull duties, it would be unwise to let them go any long- er. Clear the decks and in P.M. you will then be able to meet fascinating persons with whom you can make plans for expan- sion.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)— Be very careful not to get in deeper than you can possibly af- ford now. During latter part of day there will be a fine opport- unity to increase abundance and come much closer to your aims in life. P. M. enjoy your- self ideally. Be gay.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Do not let an alter- cation between family tie and an acquaintance disturb you in A. M. It will soon blow over. After lunch you can easily put surroundings in excellent order as you most prefer and get con- ditions there far more harmoni- ous.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — While your affairs may appear to be confining this A. M., it is to your best interest to perform labors involved. You will then still have time to shop or pay business or social calls that will pay off in big dividends. Be generous, too.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)— Be certain you do not waste valuable hours in A. M. just- flitting about aimlessly. Import- ant tasks need your immediate attention. Later, see that prop- erty is put in more pleasing or- der, adding efficiencies or art that will increase value.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 22) Diplomacy with family tie is urged in A. M. After lunch you can dress as you please and even go out to have a pleasant time. P. M. is ideal for socializing and real enjoyment.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — A private worry could very easily deter you from the rapid strides you could take otherwise in A. M. if you permit. Put it out of your thoughts and work. You will also have free time to make necessary investi- gations into future goals.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Take care you do not fritter your time away today on some inane task. Join your ef- forts with progressive circle of friends and accomplish a great deal that is interesting,and will take you close to your goals in life.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Depression in A. M. would ruin the day for you. Rise above such self-pity and seek larger horizons, new beginnings that can be most successful for you. It may be that a new job is just what you need.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Acting resentful in A.M. will harm only yourself and take away the benefits of today's fine aspects. Though you get a late start, go out in the world of ac- tivity and progress and meet new people, get new slants. Start upswing.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)— Fine opportunity to get data from worthwhile individual that will help you to settle a rather thekth's problem. Then, if you consult with authorities, many new avenues of success will open to you. Don't mope. Act constructively.

If your child is born today The dear child born today will have a perfect penchant for learning life's lessons in the most difficult way possible. Bet- ter give your progeny his or her way for a while until own intel- lect will bring about a natural change of attitude and tactics. Lessons learned will burn in the memory forever. Adult life is then spent being the very acme of perfection and precision in all things attempted. Success here.

D.D. President Pays Visit to Laurel Lodge

STIRLING — District Deputy president, Sister Bessie Hayworth of district No. 4 paid her official visit to Laurel Rebekah Lodge, No. 211, Stirling, on Tuesday evening.

Noble Grand Marion Carter was in charge and welcomed the visitors from Oakdale Lodge, Madoc, including Noble Grand Lottie Bailey and Sister Vera Hill.

The guard of honor composed of Sisters Joyce Richardson, Marian Wells, Edna Haggerty, Hazel Hulin, Hilda Ross and Helen Bailey was under the direction of degree captain Sister Vanderwoert.

Members were asked to keep in mind the L.O.B.A. booth service on Sunday morning April 30th at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

At the close of lodge a short program was enjoyed with Sister Dorothy McCaughan in charge. Past D.D.P. Marion Heath led the sing-song and presented with Sister Marjorie Stapley as pianist. Sister Vera Vanderwoert contributed a reading, and Sister Ruby Tompkins sang a solo. Humorous selections were rendered by Sisters Reta Fryer, Edith Uman and Marion Heath. Sisters Hazel Hulin contributed a piano solo and the chairlady staged an interesting game. Sister Hilda Ross was arranged by Sister Isabel McIntosh.

During the evening Sister Helen Williams presented Sister Bessie Hayworth with a gift from Laurel Lodge and the recipient gave a brief address and also expressed her thanks.

Sister Jean Burch spoke briefly and said she was thrilled to have the opportunity of visiting in the area for the first time.

Refreshments were served in the banquet hall and a social half hour was enjoyed.

MADOC

"Immigrants" Topic of WMS Meeting

MADOC — Mrs. H. McIntosh was the hostess for the April meeting of the WMS. There was a large attendance, and the president opened the meeting with prayer.

A hymn was sung, accompanied by Mrs. Byers at the piano.

Business was discussed and correspondence dealt with. An announcement of the coming meeting which will be held in St. Andrews Church, Belleville in May was made. Miss Van Kleeck gave some of the highlights of the Synodical held recently in Peterborough.

Mrs. Hough conducted the devotional. A hymn was sung. Mrs. Alvey read the Scripture, followed by prayer. The study book was given by Mrs. D. Blakely. Mrs. Wood read a poem and then introduced the lesson, "Immigrants who are coming to Canada, Englishmen, Scotch, Italians and Chinese".

Mrs. Sprague acted as commentator for the topic, introducing the various parts. Mrs. Allan read of the part women take in helping these new comers.

Mrs. Woods spoke of how many thousands who come to Canada each year. Some become Canadians, others find it very hard to adjust to the language and customs. An article on immigration was read by Mrs. Bailey.

Mrs. Woods concluded the topic by giving comprehensive picture of the part all should take in this work. Prayer and prayer closed the meeting.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Armstrong. A social hour followed.

3,000 Hours Spent by Police Probing Murder

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto police Mon. began the 42nd day of investigation into the killing of 13-year-old Patricia Lopton, a baby - sitter, found strangled March 9 in a suburban Scarborough snowbank.

Four detectives have spent more than 3,000 hours on the case, questioned more than 600 persons, checked 2,400 automobiles and travelled about 2,000 miles within Scarborough.

For the first four days after the slaying, 40 detectives checked available leads. But as there was other work to be done, the task fell to the four detectives.

SLIM LEADS

The leads were slim. On the night the girl's body was found police were told a two-tone sedan, whose license plate's first three numbers were 149, left a shopping plaza parking lot seconds after Patricia was seen talking to a man.

The girl had gone to meet a "Mr. Johnston" who had telephoned her house earlier in response to a baby - sitting advertisement she and two other girls had placed on a supermarket bulletin board.

QUEER IDEAS

The detectives have had their share of the ridiculous. A local businessman suggested in a letter that a "bee machine," which the writer invented, be used on the case.

The machine, which would consist of a bee, would be released in a queen who would be taken along to the scene. She would examine it, fly away, and return to the hive a few days later, where after a short "conference" with other bees, she would lead the swarm "directly to the killer."

IN GOOD HEALTH

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Khrushchev is reading books in anticipation of an extensive spring and summer program, including attendance at a possible East-West conference. The premier, who celebrated his 65th birthday Friday, is believed to be in good health despite Western speculation to the contrary. Diplomats have noted that he is taking great pains to remain fit. Khrushchev has cut down on his alcoholic intake.

NEW TOURIST IDEA — Closing of a gap in the Trans-Canada Highway through Northern Ontario next year will enable motorists for the first time to drive around Lake Superior and will open up vast new tourist areas.

This map shows the highway section yet to be completed. Already 132 of the 368 miles between the paper-making town of Marathon and Sault Ste. Marie have been paved but a gap of 163 miles remains to be closed.

The highway must be finished by the end of 1960 if Ontario hopes to collect 90 per cent of the $31,000,000 cost from the federal government under the Trans-Canada Highway agreement.

Completion of the road will mark the end of one of the province's toughest highway projects. The road runs through a succession of steep-sided rock ridges with swamps and lakes between. At one point it will touch White River, famed for being one of the coldest spots in Ontario in winter. (CP Newsmap.)

Crews Chopping Through Virgin Forest for 3 Years to Finish Trans-Canada Road

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—A ribbon of asphalt, is being pushed through Northern Ontario to tie up the province's most rugged and spectacular scenic road partners.

Work crews have been chopping through virgin, rock - cluttered forests for three years to close the Ontario gap in the Trans-Canada Highway — a 163-mile stretch from the Agawa River, 115 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, to Marathon, 194 miles east of Port William.

When the section is paved by late 1960, it will mean:

It will be possible for the first time to circle Lake Superior by road; a new tourist area will be opened up; a direct route will be available from Sault Ste. Marie to the Lakehead; trucking will be closer to the pulp and paper, iron ore and base metal operations of the area.

FIVE-MILE BRIDGE

The tourist possibilities are enhanced by the completion of the Mackinac Bridge, longest suspension span in the world. The five-mile structure crossing the Straits of Mackinac between Lakes Michigan and Huron gives mid-west United States tourists a clear run to Sault Ste. Marie and from there to the gap.

The road must be completed by the end of 1960 if the province hopes to collect 90 per cent of the $31,000,000 cost from the federal government under the Trans-Canada agreement.

It now stretches from Marathon, on the north shore of Lake Superior, for 90 miles south to within 24 miles of White River, famed for being one of the coldest spots in Ontario. Most of this 104 miles through rugged bushland, once roamed by the Ojibway Indians, will be paved by the end of 1959.

At the southern end, the highway runs to 81 miles north of the Agawa River, a winding waterfall-fed torrent that flows through the 12-mile, 500 - foot deep Agawa Canyon.

Work on much of the remaining 68 miles has reached the point where paving will be started "in the near future."

One of the toughest jobs of road-building ever tackled in Ontario, the highway will run through a succession of steep-sided rock ridges with swamps and lakes in between.

BIG UNDERTAKING

In opening up the area, served only by railway, workmen dynamited thousands of tons of rocks and cleared treed areas. The swamps, rivers, lakes and deep ravines required 22 bridges and other road structures.

One bridge, for example, cost $2,500,000. The 683-foot structure over the Pic River, 17 miles west of Marathon, had to be built 130 feet above the treacherous river.

The ferry Alice M carries workers across White Lake Narrows while the bridge there is being completed. Bailey bridges are being used temporarily in other parts of the lake and river-dotted area.

From Agawa, the highway runs along the Lake Superior shore in the Michipicoten country and its iron range which gave birth to the steel industry at Sault Ste. Marie and scene before 1900 of a boisterous gold rush.

From Michipicoten the road swings inland to White River, where commercial planes even now carry tourists into isolated hunting and fishing areas. From there it arcs back to Lake Superior to Marathon, linking up on the way with the road into the new copper mining centre of Manitouwadge.

Panama Expels Ballerina But Seeks Husband

Claimed He Brought Dead Man Ashore

PANAMA (AP) — Panama's government sent British ballerina Margot Fonteyn out of the country big plane today and pressed a search for her Panamanian husband, wanted on charges of trying to lead a revolution.

he dancer took off for Miami before dawn. Earlier reports said she had been released from custody Tuesday night, but later it appeared that she was held in the Panama City jail until plane time.

Minister of Government Max Heurtematte escorted her to the airport. National Guardsmen prevented reporters from taking pictures.

The ballerina, one of the world's greatest, has been held since Monday night and questioned for three hours about the activities of her husband, Roberto Arias, former ambassador to Britain.

It was believed Miss Fonteyn would not stop in Miami but would go to New York, and presumably to London as soon as she could get a flight.

SEEK HUSBAND

President Ernesto de la Guardi's government has been held responsible for the presence in Panama's "inconvenient in the present circumstances." She was ordered out on the first plane after her release from jail.

The national guard was believed hunting Arias around Senta Ana, 75 miles west of the capital, where officials claimed he brought a 40-man armed band ashore Sunday night.

The government announced that it had found the body of a Cuban in an area near Santa Clara where the national guard swapped shots with part of the band Monday. The government also charged that opponents of de

He continued: "But first I think I should square it with you. You see, I'm only nine years old."

First Statement Was His Own Says Dalai Lama

MUSSOORIE, India (AP)—The Dalai Lama today said he stands by his statement denouncing Chinese Communist rule in Tibet.

Tibet's fugitive religious and political leader denied Red China's charge that he was not responsible for the statement issued at Tezpur, India, Saturday.

The Dalai Lama's denial of the Communist charge coincided with a speech in Peiping by the usurper of his throne, the Communist-installed Panchen Lama, who defended the Chinese Communists' story that his holy colleague was a captive of "reactionaries."

The 24-year-old Dalai Lama said he hadn't intended to make another statement at this stage but he had read the Communist report "implying that I was not responsible"...for the one issued in Tezpur.

STANDS BY IT

"I wish to make it clear that the earlier statement was issued under my authority and indicated my views and stand by what was said.

"I do not propose to state anything more at present," he added.

The Dalai Lama charged in his first statement that the Chinese Communists broke their pledge of self-rule for Tibet, destroyed monasteries, killed Buddhist holy men and sent others into China with slave-labor gangs.

The Communist New China News Agency said planeloads of authenticity of the statement and emphasized it was "issued through an official diplomatic official in Tezpur."

And in Peiping today, the Panchen Lama said the "so-called Dalai Lama" was forged on him by foreign-

BEFORE CONGRESS

The 21-year-old spiritual leader, whom Communist China named head of a new autonomous government in Tibet following last month's anti-Communist revolt, made that statement before 2,000 delegates attending the National People's Congress in Peiping, which opened Tuesday.

He charged "reactionaries in India" with having always harbored expansionist plans toward Tibet, and having exerted "various forms of sabotage activities."

He said it was "intolerable" that "imperialists" were doing their utmost to use the Tibetan revolt to sabotage Sino-Indian relations.

GOVT. SETS SERIES OF 'NEW AND BAD' BUDGET RECORDS

-Pearson

Beat Liberal Motion 167-45 in House

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson says the government faces serious unemployment and a greater danger from inflation this year without having shown it has an effective plan to meet the challenge.

In an hour-long indictment of the government's financial policies, Mr. Pearson charged in the Commons Tuesday night that the government has a series of "new and bad" budget records and acted so that Canada's word no longer means what it once did.

The opposition leader spoke before the House defeated by a vote of 167 to 45 a Liberal non-confidence motion saying the government of bad faith in budgeting for higher record expenditures and a large deficit "in flagrant disregard" of its election promises to cut taxes and spending and balance the budget.

BLAST FROM FLEMING

Finance Minister Fleming preceded Mr. Pearson with an attack on the Liberal opposition as party without a policy, happy only when the economy is lagging.

"They are happy only when they can say there is bad news for the Canadian people," Mr. Fleming said.

He said the government has kept and is keeping its promises. Great progress made in the 1957 election campaign were carried out in December, 1957. On the other hand, the Conservatives had made no promise of general tax reductions or a balanced budget.

Mr. Pearson said "last year the fiscal proposals of this government were based on electoral insincerity. This year they are based on inescapable financial necessity."

"We have the worst of three worlds resulting: Abnormal unemployment, rising prices and higher taxes."

GIVES OUTLOOK

Summing up the economic outlook, he said "Last year we had mounting unemployment and some inflation in the midst of recession. This year there should be less, but still serious, unemployment and a greater danger of inflation."

Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) said Mr. Fleming's efforts to avoid additional taxes to cigarets and whisky was "a darn good try."

"It wouldn't be so bad if he'd bring in a law and take some of

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Two small time burglars who captured actress Sue Quentin prisoner and held a woman hostage at knifepoint for six hours say they were bluffing.

The trusty who did that was William D. Werner, 24. Both he and Wright had jail break re-

Violence Flares in Wildcat Trucker Strike, One Arrested

TORONTO (CP)—One man has been arrested and other scattered cases of violence were reported as a wildcat strike of truckers in Ontario and Quebec continued today.

Bruce Ryan, 36, of Toronto, a driver for Direct Winters Transport Co., was charged with malicious damage after the windshield and headlights of a Direct-Winters truck were smashed while it was parked here.

Police said violence appeared to have increased and there were more than a dozen cases of other windshields were broken by rocks and bricks on the Queen Elizabeth Way in the nearby Oakville area.

Police also said strikers in earlier days were trying to force transport off the highway at various spots.

In the Whitby area a car was smashed when it was sideswiped while attempting to force a tractor to the side. No one was injured.

Strikers also were blamed for pulling out a connecting pin on a transport trailer parked near Hamilton. When the driver returned after having coffee, the trailer crashed to the ground at his parked away.

After he reconnected the trailer, his brakes seized as he started away again. The brake drums had been tightened.

The driver called police and he was escorted to Toronto.

It is not known exactly how many truckers have joined in the walkout. There are claims that about 1,000 men are off the job and others are joining. Other reports put the figure at a much lower ing and work should be back to normal soon.

A truckers spokesman here said Tuesday night that about 60 per cent of the drivers on eight shifts had reported for work.

A number of top teamsters union officials in Detroit Tuesday ordered out members in the strike. The officials said the men were violating their contract and should return to work.

Queen Mother and Princess Granted Audience by Pope

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Somberly dressed in black with pearls and mantilla, Queen Mother and Princess Margaret today were received in private audience by Pope John XXIII.

It was Princess Margaret's second visit to the Vatican. Pius XII received her 15 years ago when she was a bridesmaid at the reence means the princess wishes, as the Queen is a devout Anglican Church, or that the papal representative in London will be elevated from apostolic delegation to papal nuncio.

The royal visitors arrived in Rome Monday night. They are staying at the British Embassy. Tuesday they visited the Anglo-Commonwealth Catholic priests college where students were gathered in the large Clementine Hall of the Pope's official apartment to watch the Pope's procession.

The 71-year-old pontiff met the royal party in the Throne Room of his quarters, shook their hands warmly and ushered them into his private library for a brief audience.

The Queen Mother and the princess made slight curtseys but did not kneel, as Roman Catholics do when meeting the Pope.

They wore black dresses and veils customary for papal audiences. Pope John's private library of their costume was brightened by Garas, and the Queen Mother wore the lovely red Sash of Dame of the Order of the Garter.

The Pope spoke to her in French, which the Pope, Queen Mother and princess all speak fluently. The Pontiff opened the audience by apologizing for being unable to speak English.

"It will be the next language that I will learn," he said.

Britain's strongly Protestant Truth Society had complained to the Vatican because Pope Queen Elizabeth's position as titular head of the Church of England. The Queen Mother replied that she was calling on the Pope as the head of a state and not during her state visit to Italy, and that the Vatican had no concurrence in his religious beliefs.

Princess Margaret's other main engagement was a nightclub outing.

Take First Step To Create New Energy Board

OTTAWA (CP) — The government started parliamentary machinery rolling today to create a national energy board which would exercise a measure of control over Canada's gas and oil industries.

Trade Minister Churchill gave customary notice on the Commons order paper of legislation to precede formal introduction of the measure in the House.

The brief notice gave no details of how the board would function but is likely to be set up to operate above the industries.

The proposed commission, which recommended that the board be set up, suggested that it should have the power to regulate rates through company financing and to control exports and imports. This brought deep concern in the industry but various government spokesmen have made clear that not all of the commission's recommendations are being accepted.

The Borden commission, in its report, suggested a tight federal control over the industries and power to regulate pipeline rates.

The 3-man commission, headed by Toronto lawyer Henry Borden, spent 18 months in writing a second report dealing with the feasibility of building a pipeline to Montreal for Canadian gas as proposed by independent Canadian distributors.

The companies proposed this to offset the loss of markets in Northern States now supplied by natural gas but served by imports, many from Venezuela.

Perjury Charge Case Adjourned, Stormy Hearing

THESSALON, Ont. (CP)—William Bowman, director of public prosecutions in Ontario, has been appointed to prepare a report on the case of American Evangelist E. Powers, former Thessalon restaurant owner, it was learned today.

Magistrate W. O. Langdon of Sault Ste. Marie adjourned the perjury charge hearing against Powers and his wife, Esther Powers, at Thessalon Tuesday after a stormy session.

Powers had his wife, Esther Powers, launched a $30,000 slander suit against the mayor. Powers charged that Mayor Norman Cann leged to have taken place at a police inquiry last October.

Powers is in jail here.

After court was adjourned, Mayor Cork approached the Powers and shook hands with Attorney Ian Munro of Sault Ste. Marie, who showed little interest in prosecuting.

"Why was I refused the right to present the town's side of the case," he said.

Mayor Cork Langdon told him: "If you have anything more to say I'll charge you with contempt of court."

Mayor Cork retorted that the magistrate was biased. The magistrate asked him to leave the court room but the mayor argued that he belonged in the public gallery or salon.

The argument continued down the stairs to the street where the magistrate's car was parked. Police Chief Ray Goodwin then requested to lay a charge of illegal entry against the magistrate. He did so.

The charge of perjury stems from an investigation of the town's police department made by Provincial police last summer.

Former police chief Ray Goodwin was asked to resign at the end of July after three girls, aged 12, 14 and 15, claimed he bought liquor at Powers' restaurant.

DUNCAN WANTS APPEAL JUDGES TO STEP DOWN

Lawyer Claims He Was Insulted

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto lawyer Lewis Duncan, now banned from appearing in the Supreme Court of Canada for asking a judge to step down, asked two Ontario Appeal Court justice to consider withdrawing Tuesday.

Mr. Duncan said he had been insulted by Chief Justice Dana Porter and Mr. Justice W. F. Schroeder. The latter called the request "impertinent" and both said they would continue to sit.

Chief Justice Porter and Mr. Justice Schroeder are sitting with Mr. Justice Gordon Wilkinson on an appeal of a civil suit for false arrest.

Mr. Duncan is representing William Lyle Kennedy, an Owen Sound cattle farmer, who was awarded $6,100 by a lower court for false arrest. The case is being appealed by Magistrate O. McCrea of Owen Sound, Crown attorney W. J. Freeborn, provincial constable Ivan Wade, Mrs. Pearl Kennedy and Mrs. Ruth Ilinson, Mrs. Kennedy's lawyer.

RECALLS DARLING CASE

Mr. Duncan said he had been asked Mr. Justice C. H. Locke to step down. He had appeared in Court of Canada during the hearing of a will case because the Darling family of Toronto refused him leave to appeal a verdict against conviction against Kennedy.

Mr. Justice Locke left the bench, later Mr. Duncan was fined $2,000 and was banned from appearing in the Supreme Court before any of its justices in chambers until he apologized to court. He has not done so and his Supreme Court of Canada ban still stands, he said.

Kennedy was arrested on a charge of assault and subsequently remanded to a mental institution.

Mr. Duncan said today that Chief Justice Porter was strongly in favor of Kennedy when Section 35 of the Mental Hospitals Act was enacted and now was "prosecuting" him for attacking the constitutionality of the section.

He said Mr. Justice Schroeder is sitting on the bench with Mr. Justice J. C. MacKay who he said is a former partner of R. J. McKeown, Kennedy's lawyer in the magistrate's hearing whose conduct is an issue before the Court of Appeal.

QUESTIONED BY JUSTICE

He made his statement after the two justices leave the bench after Mr. Justice Porter asked him to justify the relevancy of calling a representative of the attorney-general's department as a witness.

Mr. Duncan said the question

Germans Warned Nuclear Arming Increases Peril

War Danger Heightened By Policy States Russia

MOSCOW (Reuters' — The Soviet Union has sent a new note to the United States but its contents have not been disclosed.

The delivery of the note coincided with a Soviet note to West Germany Tuesday warning that the nuclear armies of the federal republic and the concentration of foreign nuclear weapons on her territory could "considerably increase the danger of a military clash."

Monday it was disclosed in Washington that President Eisenhower sent a letter to Nikita Khrushchev April 13, proposing a limited nuclear test ban—to prohibit tests below an altitude of 30 miles.

Dispatches in Moscow say that Soviet leaders are even more concerned in some respects by West Germany a remarkable post-war recovery than by the cold war competition with the United States.

The Soviet press has stepped up attacks on chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government in recent days and has printed full-page roadblocks in front of the Eastern Zone.

The West German foreign office dismissed the latest Soviet warning as "just another propaganda campaign before every big international conference."

Held Captive For 20 Hours by Four Escapees

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A man who was held captive in his automobile for 20 hours by four escapees from a mental hospital says they told him they'd kill him "if I didn't play ball with them."

Henry J. Landry was forced to drive from the Monitoria, Ashburnham, Mass., north to the Canadian line and then west across New York State before the youths he picked up as hitchhikers.

"They had knives out all the time," he said. "Most of the way, it seemed, my left arm was pressed into my side."

The 52-year-old Brockton delinquer jumped from his car when they stopped for gas in Cheektowaga, a suburb here.

"I ran right into traffic and across the street and into this man's office. I told him I thought 'I'm being kidnaped' and that was it. He called the police and it was all over."

Amherst police quickly rounded up the four.

British Govt. Will Accept Bearskins But Tries to Avoid Useless Killing

LONDON (AP) — The govern-ofer is a very friendly one," he ment assured anxious animal-lovers today it hopes to prevent a bearskin slaughter of Canada's bears to make fur hats for the royal Guards.

Nevertheless, a spokesman told the House of Commons, the Guards of the Canadian Capital bear fur is best for the purpose, and hats made from furs from Ontario will not be refused.

The Brigade of Guards recently complained that supplies of the new lot-ters column of The Times for fers from Canada had been postponed to be afflicted with the mange.

Commenting of this, Mayor Leo Del Villano of Timmins offered to ordered that the Guards could have the hides to Britain. The Brigade of Guards, which runs through Canada, gratefully accepted.

Liberal MP George Thompson of Dundee complained in the Commons that the army "appears to be encouraging the organized massacre of the small Canadian bears when their ready ought to be exploring substitutes for fur."

Hugh Fraser, parliamentary secretary of the war office, said the government had already thought of that.

"I should make it clear that this

Service Station Operator Asks Gas War Probe

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Ioce Toronto service station operator has asked Justice Minister Fulton to investigate the retailing war which has reduced the price per gallon to as low as 23 cents in some areas of Toronto.

The war has spread to Ottawa where the price of regular gas in the west end is 39.9 cents compared with the normal 43.5. The war is reported spreading to the eastern sections of the city.

In Toronto the usual price for regular grade gas is 43.9 cents. Harry Wingold, operator of a service station in the west end, said he asked Mr. Fulton to start an investigation.

He said he is losing about $500 a day selling at 39.9 cents a gallon and paying 33.3 cents a gallon for it. He charged the oil companies are trying to force him to a nearby dealer at less.

A spokesman for the company said Mr. Wingold had not accepted an agreement which would help him a certain price for gasoline sold with the price of gas set by the company.

Kenneth Langdon, field manager of the Ontario Retail Gasoline and Automotive Service Association, said evidence on price discrimination will be collected and forwarding to Mr. Fulton. He said the oil companies are mainly responsible for the war.

One oil company spokesman charged that the association is in restriction of trade to help out a dealer in a particularly competitive situation.

City to Purchase $40,000 of New Equipment

Belleville city council is in the equipment purchasing business with approximately $40,000 worth of new trucks, loading equipment, street oiling equipment and snow plow and snow blower to be added to the Public Works Department.

Council meeting Monday evening council decided on tender awards for two new heavy duty trucks, two half-ton trucks, a new jeep, loader and backhoe combination, a street oiling distributor, snow blower and snow plow.

Still to be decided upon is a chassis for the street oiling distributor with two aldermen, Walter Elliott and Jack Ellis, feeling that tender specifications called for a truck chassis heavier than was required.

Accordingly new tenders will be called for the oiling distributor chassis with council hoping to save around $800 on the purchase price.

Betts, Acting Deputy Commissioner who was present when our clothing was distributed.

"One of the many things which I saw in Vietnam was the orphanage which had been started with Canadian Red Cross Society children's clothing. There were about 280 children in this home ranging in age from premature babies to three years and most of the children in this home had been abandoned on the street. All the babies are rolled up in Canadian Red Cross Society layettes and as we entered the ward of the two to six year age group, all over one hundred boys and girls greeted us - all - every last one - dressed in a Canadian Red Cross Society dress."

Born in Prince Edward County, Mr. Betts is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Washington DeMille and had lived in Belleville for most of his early life. He worked as a truck driver at the RCAF in Trenton.

Safety Story Told 6,000 Pupils by Sgt. Denis Robson Since Joining Police Force

Telling the same story day in and day out before elementary school children until it has been heard by close to 6,000 pupils, is no easy job according to Sgt. Denis Robson, school safety officer with the Belleville city police.

Commencing his school safety program early in March he has already been through six city schools, having told the safety story to close to 1,000 pupils.

This week he is at Queen Elizabeth School and it will be near the end of May before all city schools are visited.

Sgt. Robson started out with Sir Winston Churchill school on May 14 and has since been to eight of the 14 classes in six different schools. Other schools visited have been St. George School, Hillcrest School, Prince Charles School, St. Joseph's Separate School and Avondale.

The safety lectures take about one hour each. Pupils receive a which-time Sgt. Robson touches on all phases of traffic safety as they concern the school pupils. Three classes are the most which he has given to date. Grade One is divided, as most schools are, into two classes, as is possible between public and separate schools. Grade Two is also schools in both the older sections of the city and in the annexed area.

On his second time around the school safety officer will do a review of his initial lecture and will distribute Scotch-ville for children's bicycles.

Early in the year he will cover other phases of traffic safety before tailoring his lecture to the season.

DOING FINE JOB

"Sgt. Robson is doing a very fine job, and is doing the kind of instruction which meets with enthusiastic approval on the part of the pupils, teachers and city schools administrator L. A. Kells.

Police Chief Walter Probert also was enthusiastic with the results of the school safety program to date.

"I have heard a lot of very favorable comment and apparently the program is very successful purpose", the chief noted.

"It is difficult according to assess results, but already the results are evident and will be more so as the program progresses on."

A big factor in the success of the program is that Sgt. Robson is in love with his job as safety officer and he has a way with the Kells "the public like him".

Besides the fact according to the age group of the pupils he is addressing, Sgt. Robson commences his safety talk with the class who he is and why he is there.

Then he tells the kiddies the rules and regulations which they should observe in traffic matters and finest school.

When visiting a school in Dad's car, Sgt. Robson tells the children how to get out of the car and how to cross the road with safety. Special emphasis is given to the care about merely getting out from between two cars when about to cross the street.

SIGNS SHOULD FOLLOW

Riding bicycles to school calls for the strictest possible observance of city regulations, he advises the kiddies. He tells them of the proper signals to give when riding a bicycle and when bicycling with others to never ride abreast but always in single file.

And finally he brings the topic right into the pupils' homes by asking children to be observant of the condition of Dad's car, to advise if the car has poor lights, if it has a good horn, or if the brakes are good.

The sergeant-also warns kiddies to never accept a ride with a stranger, or to walk with strangers.

Recently a father of two boys of public school age, Sgt. Robson came to Belleville from Kingston where he was associated with the Ontario Provincial Police. While in that area he commenced a school safety program, mainly on his own time, and conducted it in over 100 county schools.

The Belleville program is patterned after that in several other Ontario centres, where the idea has been with good success.

Imagination Called Key to Man's Progress

If the imagination of those attending the monthly meeting of the Belleville Sales and Advertising Club yesterday evening were stirred by the remarks of Mr. Don Henshaw, the guest speaker, there could be little doubt as to why. The executive of the McLaren Advertising Co. Ltd. gave an address on imagination.

The speaker, a former radio announcer and sportscaster, maintained, through many well-chosen and humorous examples, that it is mans imagination which has carried humanity as far as it has progressed before. "Don't stultify it", warned Mr. Henshaw, as he urged those present to encourage and develop latent and imagination in youth. Imagination is the "principal ingredient" of advertising and a multitude of other things. Businessmen should take the time off from their routine everyday tasks to do some creative thinking; to allow their imagination to invent or devise new ways to better their business.

CITES JORDAN CAR

The president of the Jordan Playboy back in the early 1920's was cited by the former American as the man who "stole" from the static advertising which was typical of the day. Jordan had, as a salesman by vocation, sold twenty-five thousand cars solely on the basis of a clever advertising technique, before even one of the cars had been manufactured. The selling to the prospective purchaser was not the manufactured item itself was the reason for the success of the Jordan Playboy campaign. In a highly competitive field with 62 other auto manufacturers, there was no room for the mediocre, and produced at a net income to the investment of two million dollars, such was the imagination behind his advertising technique. He was not content to rely on gadgets or his venture after a two-year period and the car was never again produced.

Mr. Henshaw concluded his address with the plea that Canadians make use of their own imaginations, and seize the opportunity of building a good nation from the many materials which were available to them. The intermingling of the intellectual backgrounds of many races, the grand expanse of the country, and the great natural resources which the land so barely tapped; these but need the imagination to create one of the finest nations in the world.

Mr. Henshaw was thanked by the club members and others present with a standing ovation. He was presented with a gift and officially thanked on behalf of the club by Doug Wallet-ly.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The new directors of the club were elected during the evening. Don Barrett, Jack Ellis, Dick Beare, Phil Flagler, Oriel Griffiths, Phil Holway, Gerry O'Connor, Don Sinclair and Jim Walker were elected. They will select their own executive and fill executive positions themselves. Club president Bob Chipman announced that the outgoing executive numbers for having given a "100 per cent" effort during the past year.

It was announced that Juliette, Toronto TV star, will be the guest of honor at the forthcoming Ladies' Night.

Dave Lund introduced the speaker, Mr. Henshaw; Bill Lynch introduced the guests; Oriel Griffiths handled the boosting; Phil Holway introduced new members; Bob Chipman carried out the duties of chairman.

Study Problems Which Result From Aging

A study will be undertaken shortly by the Department of Public Welfare of 1,000 men 60 years old whose progress will be followed during the next 20 years to find out exactly what problems they encounter as they age, Welfare Minister Louis P. Cecile, Q.C., has announced.

Mr. Cecile said the 2,000 men will be selected at random from the labor force. The only thing they will be requested to do will be to give a small amount of information and a little of their time to the department investigators over the next few years. Statistics and conclusions of the study will be made available to the public as the study progresses.

Mr. Cecile emphasized that the men's answers will be kept in strict confidence and that any use made of them will be strictly for statistical purposes. He also said that the study would not lead to any expenditures for the department and will be carried out by the department's field workers.

Aim of the study is to evaluate the social problems and health changes which accompany aging, and to see how they adjustments are made to these changes in the manner of living. The Welfare Department will be able to assess the effectiveness of services provided for the aged in the Province, and to engineer new techniques enabling the aged to live a fuller life.

Some of the services being done to adjust more easily to the changes brought by the years.

TOO LITTLE KNOWLEDGE

"We know very little," said Mr. Cecile, "of the changes in living circumstances and health which confront the older person, with new problems and challenges. We must learn to discover what the social factors are which go with increasing age. The study will measure the economic and employment changes which occur. Also, there will be an assessment of the health of the participants."

Mr. C. J. Callaghan, who is administrator of the Ontario Regional Welfare Centre in Belleville, stated that approximately 60 men 45 years of age will be interviewed shortly in Region No. 8. This region comprises the counties of Northumberland, Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox-Addington. The full cooperation of Belleville spirited citizens in agreeing to participate in this study will be far-reaching and of great value to every resident of Ontario.

Salvation Army Opens Fund Drive Next Monday

Next Monday, April 27th, will mark the start of the annual Red Shield campaign of the Belleville Salvation Army. The objective this year is $3,000 which is identical to the amount requested last year when Belleville citizens met the campaign "over the top." It is an interesting point that there has been no increase in the amount required for the conducting of operation despite increased social work on the part of the local corps.

The campaign, under the direction of Mr. Frank Sprackett, will be in the nature of a door-to-door canvass. The organizational work has been completed and, in the opinion of Major Victor Greenwood, it is the best campaign organization the Belleville corps has seen to date in its history. They also local objective will be achieved in the first two weeks of the month-long drive campaign.

Many of the local citizenry have seen the Salvation Army at work when major fires occur. The local unit sets up a canteen for the firemen, police and others who are working about the fire. They also provide clothing for those who have been "burned out" and, in co-operation with other agencies, attempt to find temporary lodging for the victims of a fire. The Salvation Army also maintains a year-round corps educational service in co-operation with the local courts.

whether Section 35 is valid touches on the whole question of free speech.

"If it was ultra vires then a great injustice is being done by having people sent through a criminal court without trial or notice and even on any pretext or fabricated charge. No magistrate should be able to do this."

He said many of the things he experience has a court "taken on the task of the appellant as this case."

Chief Justice Porter said he reserved his decision and added: "the court has the responsibility of having various points dealt with by counsel."

SHARP INTERCHANGE

Mr. Duncan said: "Never in my life have I been in a forum where there has been so much interruption in trying to present a case."

Mr. Justice Schroeder replied: "It is one of the things you must be counsel's fault?

"I have never received such an attitude from a court."

"You know the view of other country," said Mr. Justice Schroeder.

Mr. Duncan said if the Justice was referring to the Supreme Court—of Canada incident he would ask him to allow Counsel Porter to consider withdrawing. The case is continuing.

Kenneth Ross Seeks Liberal Nomination

Kenneth G. M. Ross, well known Belleville solicitor, will be a candidate at the Liberal nomination convention to select a candidate to contest the riding of West Hastings at the upcoming provincial election.

Reports are that Mr. Ross has definitely declared his intention of allowing his name to go before the convention, the date of which is still to be set.

Riding party officials hope to have Hon. Harry C. Nixon as speaker for the convention which undoubtedly will be held in Belleville.

Silver names mentioned possibly going before the convention are those of G. R. Cameron, Alderman Robert Temple, Frank S. Follwell, all of Belleville and Gerald A. Weaver, of Trenton.

Fire Destroys Rawdon Barn, Brooder House

Fire starting in an adjoining brooder house, late Tuesday afternoon destroyed the barn of Arnold Blair, R. R. 1, Harold, north of Stirling in Rawdon township.

Also destroyed in the blaze were 500 bales of hay. No livestock was lost.

The Ray family were away at the time of the fire and it was being noticed by a neighbor who saw the flames emerging from the brooder house and coming up toward the peak of the barn. He hurried to the scene and fought to fight the fire but he could not find a ladder of sufficient length and when Belleville firemen arrived nothing could be done to save the structure.

Firemen concentrated their efforts in wetting down the buildings of a nearby neighbor preventing them from catching fire as result of flying embers.

The Rawdon barn blaze was one of four alarms answered by city firemen yesterday. The others included two grass fires, one at R. R. 7 Belleville on the Shannonville Road, and the other at the corner of Station Street and Cannifton Road.

Final alarm of the day was to Sidney Street where a vanity table was reported ablaze.

PANAMA EXPELS

la Guardia have been forming a hired force in Cuba to invade Panama.

The government ordered the arrest of Arias during the week-end, charging him with plotting an attack on a national guard garrison at Chiriqui, on the Costa Rican frontier, and with organizing a force in the capital. At the time he and his wife were cruising in the Gulf of Panama on the private yacht Hola.

RAISED SUNKEN BOAT

Officials charged that during last week the couple ferried the men in a launch to the "fighting force" out to a shrimp boat and there raised a sunken boatload of arms to land in Panama. Documents said Arias then transferred to the shrimp boat for the landing near Santa Clara, where Arias' family has a large ranch.

Dame Hunter, who arrested Monday night and lodged in special quarters for distinguished prisoners on the top floor of the Panama City jail.

Ambassador Sir Ian Lovtie Henderson was allowed to see Mrs. Arias for an hour yesterday. He had protested to the foreign ministry against her being held incommunicado. The dancer is a British citizen despite her marriage.

Arias, 41, is the son of former President Harmodio Arias, who died with the administration of de Ion is Guardia more than a year ago. The Arias family's chain of newspapers has been attacking the de la Guardia regime since.

Labor Council Hears of Issue In Newfoundland

TRENTON — Henry Nokes, general representative of the Canadian Labor Congress, spoke to the regular meeting of the Trenton and District Labor Council and gave a speech on the strike of the International Woodworkers of America in Newfoundland. He said that this is the biggest crisis that organized labor has faced since 1872. The union had overcome one hurdle after another to obtain legal certification and that finally they were certified by an 85.4% vote.

Going on to explain the conditions asked for Mr. Nokes said it was found that they have already been in effect in both organized and unorganized plants in Ontario for many years. The conditions were: an end to the 56-hour week, a 25 per cent rise in the $1.05 basic rate and improvements in overtime, conciliation board after some delay unanimously recommended by Sc an hour increase in wages and a reduction of the 60-hour week prior to 24 hours without loss of pay and it also recommended improvements in working conditions and a two year contract.

The union agreed to accept this award and even bargain down from it, but the company flatly refused to accept the recommendation. The government failed to make the company to bring them together on the 12 of February the government declared a strike against the union and its people from other provinces stated the operation.

Mr. Smallwood announced that he was starting a union to be headed by one of his supporters in the legislature. This union sponsored union has signed a contract with the company for more than 10,000 and prepared to accept.

After Mr. Nokes' speech the council went up a committee with Robert Kidd as chairman, which will contact every union and union member in the Trenton district with the objective of collecting $1 from each member and to secure support in asking every member of the legislature to use his influence to get the legislation in Newfoundland disallowed.

The council started the drive off by making the first donation to the Newfoundland loggers strike and defence fund.

RCAF, Trenton Forms Fish and Game Association

TRENTON — The first meeting of the joint Trenton Fish and Game Association was held recently in the 6 Repair Depot Theatre.

In the future Station Trenton and 6 Repair Depot operated separate clubs for their respective members. By amalgamating they hope to have a greater pool of keenly interested members to carry out club projects.

The main aim of the club is to foster and encourage conservation of fish and wild life in the area by educating members in the ways of the woods, and encouraging them to abide by fish and wild life regulations. The club is conducting a training program of gun handling for junior sportsmen and a number were invited out to this meeting to attend a demonstration of fishing flims and hear remarks addressed to them by Mr. Blidell of the Department of Lands and Forests. Mr. Biddel stressed the value of proper instruction in the use of firearms and fishing and later expressed the developed into mature sportsmen. He also recommended FS O'Neil in his work with the club was doing in guiding junior sportsmen in their activities.

During the business portion of the meeting committees were appointed to look after various aspects of the Association activities which are fishing, hunting and camping.

After the business portion of the meeting the members were addressed by Mr. Darnon, Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, Fish and Life Branch. Mr. Durnan gave an outline of the fishing regulations in the area, waters available for fishing, species stocked recently and the types of fish which are being planted in the waters, including the marks. Mr. Darnon conducted an open discussion during which he answered many questions of interest to local anglers.

The executive of the association headed by S/L Patillo were very pleased with the turnout and general interest shown in this first combined meeting.

A further meeting is planned for May.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — Fire Chief Cecil Ellis left at noon yesterday to attend the annual fire chiefs training course and convention in Toronto. Chief Ellis expects to return to Trenton either Friday night or early Saturday morning. Town council approved the recommendation by Councillor Claude Graham on Monday night that the fire chief be given permission to attend the convention and that the town pay the expenses.

PLANS COMPLETED

Plans for the renovation of the Trenton Police Station have been completed and the blueprints handed to Councillor Claude Graham, chairman of the Protection to Persons and Property Committee. Councillor Graham announced the police station issue only briefly at the last council meeting saying he felt it the committee could be repaired "for $10,00 to $15,-000 or even $20,000 but perhaps we should do it." A special meeting held some time ago on the office and police quarters and attended by four councillors had discussed the matter thoroughly ahead with building a new station and the town engineer was instructed at the time to investigate three properties, and then the council would decide whether to build on. However, since then the council decided to investigate the possibility of using the present station providing it could be put on a modern building as it stands now has been condemned by the Trenton Board of Health as unfit for human habitation.

FRACTURES ARM

John Parsons, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Parsons of Millhaven Trailer Park, Trenton, is recovering in the Belleville General Hospital after he fractured his left arm in a fall at Trenton High School, Monday morning. John was rushed to the hospital as soon as the fracture was noticed and the two-bone fracture was set by Dr. W. Gretton. He will be in a cast for about eight weeks.

MANHOLE COMPLETED

The huge manhole on the west side of the Front Road and near the slip at the Government Harbor in Trenton is now completed. The manhole will be near where the sewage from the west side will enter the slip to carry it across the river to the new pumping station also under construction.

DIG DRAINAGE DITCHES

Although no further information on a possible industry, to be built in Trenton, was released at the CNR tracks from the Stanley Street, has been released by Mr. Biddell that the Public Works Department were busy in that area last week digging drainage ditches to allow the water to flow from the swampy area to the river. It was necessary for the crews to dig two culverts under the railway tracks and into the storm sewers in that area. Since the heavy rains the water has been running freely and steadily from the area.

ONLY WARNING LIGHTS

There have been some time since Trenton has experienced a major fire, town citizens are glad to learn is an economic. Last night at 10.30 p.m. a call came to the fire station from Gould's Taxi saying they could see some kind of a fire in the area of the water lot sheds across Dundas Street East from their stand. The fire crews was immediately notified and when they investigated found it to be firemen's camp fire which had been placed there to warn traffic of danger.

HE SERVED HASTINGS WELL

George Henry Stokes served several communities in Hastings County in varied capacities during his long and active life, but none better than to the City of Belleville, to which he came as an appointed official, Sheriff, and where he remained to win the esteem of a host of friends. His death Sunday brought sorrow to all who had had the privilege of knowing him. It fell to Mr. Stokes to represent this city, and the rest of the riding of South Hastings, in Parliament during the war years and the immediate post-war period, in a time of stress for the whole country and for Belleville a time of change, transforming the city from a community much like dozens of others in the province into one of Eastern Ontario's half-dozen major urban centres.

His selection as member of Parliament during those difficult years was not only a compliment to his quiet talent for getting things done, but, in a sense, was a tribute to the good sense of his constituents, who displayed the ability to perceive his true worth despite Mr. Stokes' refusal to surround his appeals for support at the polls by a froth of high-sounding but little-meaning words. What he lacked as an orator at the hustings, he more than made up in perseverance and energy in committee rooms and around conference tables. As a result, Belleville and district owed him much.

It is not surprising that such a man, being blessed with a congenial nature and being ever willing to listen to all requiring his help, should have many friends and should have numbered these among people of all political beliefs. The Conservative party had reason to be proud of him as an able representative, but neither Mr. Stokes himself nor his constituents ever regarded his service as being restricted to the party and its members. He served all, and will be mourned by all he served.

If one were to seek the secret of Mr. Stokes' success as a member of Parliament, other than his own personality, it could probably be discovered in the path he followed in reaching this position. His interest in municipal affairs first led to his appointment as clerk of Hungerford Township, in which office he not only gained an intimate knowledge of municipal procedure but also obtained a clear insight into the everyday problems of the residents of that farming community. When he later ran for reeve he not only confronted these same problems from the subtly different viewpoint of an elected, rather than an appointed, official but also widened his knowledge of municipal affairs through his seat on the county council. His appointment in 1931 as Sheriff of Hastings County returned him to an appointive post, to which he brought invaluable experience and from which he gained greater knowledge. Thus, when in 1940 he was chosen by the Conservatives as their candidate for the riding of South Hastings, he brought to the position practical knowledge of many of the problems of the people he would represent in the House of Commons. At Ottawa this knowledge enabled him to buttress his appeals with facts and this, in turn, won him sympathetic hearings from appointed and elected officials. That this enabled him to serve both his terms, in the war years from 1940 to 1945 and in the postwar years from 1945 to 1949, with distinction and to the satisfaction of his constituents was a fitting reward for years of painstaking and faithful work and study.

CLEVER STUNT

We suspect that even the management of the Winnipeg Tribune has a certain grudging admiration for the management of the Winnipeg Free Press, as a result of a sly little trick the Free Press worked on its rival in a circulation battle.

The Tribune published a list of "Lucky Bucks," the serial numbers of dollar bills for which it would pay $20 each. The Free Press also published a list - - the same. The Tribune was troubled, but then overjoyed when most of the bills on the list turned up at its office. It appeared as if it had demonstrated that it had greater reader interest than its rival - - until the Free Press revealed that most of the "Lucky Bucks" had first been turned in to its office and had then been taken by certain anonymous persons to the Tribune office, to collect that paper's prize money. We do not know whether this money went into the coffers of the Free Press, but if it did the Tribune reimbursed the Free Press for prize money it paid out to its readers. Quite a stunt!

THE COMERS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I believe in speaking kindly Unto everyone I meet.
I believe in cheering winners
'Cause it makes their victories sweet.

But I keep my loudest praises
For the youngster at his post
Who is trying hard to conquer;
He's the chap who needs 'em most.

I believe in giving credit
To the chap who is on top
And I boost the man who's done things
But I much prefer to stop
By the needle where a youngster

Is engaged in conflict grim,
Just to boost the work he's doing,
For it means so much to him.

You may spend your cheers on winners,
Laud the victors if you will,
But I'll cheer the manly youngsters
Who are struggling up the hill;

I'm for those upon the up-grade,
Not for those who now have coast;
For the boys who still are trying
Are the cheerful words the most.

Holiday Cruise To Historic Caribbean

By G. A. MORTON
ARTICLE 15

Anyone who decides to visit the West Indies should get a map of the whole region for it is of considerable interest to know the landmarks and location of the main islands on the route. There are hundreds of islands in the Caribbean Sea and their relation to one another. They extend from Grand Bahama Island east of Palm Beach, Florida, in a long curve to Trinidad just off the coast of Venezuela a distance of almost two thousand miles.

It has been said that such islands are the tops of mountains that once stood above the sea. The depth around Bermuda, for instance, is around 18,000 feet and that depth continues almost to Cuba and Haiti.

The Windward Passage between these two islands is not so deep at three to ten thousand feet. Similarly the passage in Cuba there is the Oriente Deep at 23,000 feet. Twenty miles out of Kingston, Jamaica, the floor of the Caribbean is almost a level plain. The Mediterranean, at nine to twelve thousand feet. Less than fifty miles north of Jamaica is the Milwaukee Deep which has a maximum depth of 30,000 feet. It is one of the deepest ocean trenches in the world, the greatest one is off the Philippine Islands which is around 37,000 feet.

The mountain ranges of Haiti, Jamaica and Cuba rise to a maximum of seven to nine thousand feet and it is a beautiful sight these with the great depths adjacent. Cuba is the largest island in the Caribbean and it can be seen there is some justification for the statement that Cuba is the "Switzerland of the tropics." National Geographic Magazine of March, 1955 which gives the West Indies and the N.G. map of December, 1955 on the Caribbean Area Countries are wonderfully informative.

VISIT TO THE BRIDGE

In an earlier article mention was made of the passenger privileges which passengers on freighters are privileged to enjoy and will be granted on liners. One night as the Sundale approached Cuba Captain Coltzau invited us to the bridge to see something of the navigation of the ship in that department.

The ship has all the aids to safe navigation which one associates with the modern vessel. The automatic pilot commonly known as "iron Mike" kept the ship on a set course, and with this is the helm which is used during docking, approaching ports and so on. A fathometer records the depth under the ship so that at most intervals during a voyage - - the radar equipment. The bridge is kept in readiness and the only lights are those illuminating the dials of the instruments. The radar screen, the size of a dinner plate, has a soft glow. A luminous hand sweeps around constantly at moderate speed. Anything which shows on the screen appears also on the screen in a blob or "pip." This fades almost immediately after the hand moves on. The eastern tip of Cuba, Cape Maisi, was observed on the screen in a form to indicate long it was by operator but which had no particular shape so far as we could observe.

Another evening when a couple of ships were in the vicinity they also showed as blobs. The course of the ship in relation to the other ships was indicated by a straight line which became momentarily lengthened as the ship altered course. The compass bearing of the ship showed continuously on the face of the radar screen. A helmsman was on duty at night as well as an officer.

ENGINE ROOM INTERESTING

Another day those who wished to see the engine room were invited to one for which we dressed in our lightest clothes. We went down excessive for great fans chagged the air constantly. The first deck down housed the top of the eight cylinder heads of the 6,000 h.p. diesel motor. The engine is 32 feet long and extends through three decks to the keel deck if we may so call the bottom. The clatter of machinery filled the air but one quickly did the propulsion engine give off its share of noise but there were other essential auxiliary generators which produce the power to keep pumps, fans, lights and innumerable electric motors in operation.

We gave a few particulars about the main engine in an earlier article but here a few more for readers who might be interested in such details. To our surprise this engine was made in Italy by the Sulzer Company although the Sundale was built in Hamburg. The cylinders are 23½ inches in diameter and the stroke is 49 inches. Heavy fuel consumption is twenty tons per twenty-four hours. The engine turns over 115 r.p.m. to give a speed of seventeen knots. Escorting the tunnel containing the drive shaft through a narrow space which closed out the noise, we came to the fifteen-inch shaft which revolved silently on its bearings. This must be quite a job of alignment for the tunnel alone must be over hundred and fifty feet long. The shaft is in sections approximately twenty feet long making it possible to instal a new one should a fracture take place which would be most unlikely. The propeller is almost sixteen feet in diameter.

One interesting item observed when it is necessary to reverse the engine control is that the engine is stopped and then run backward, for there is direct drive only. Compressed air is the source of pressure starts the motor. Light fuel oil is used for start and after a warm-up period bunker fuel replaces the fuel oil.

Returning to the upper deck we were struck anew by the maze of pipes, valves, wheels, auxiliary equipment and all the paraphernalia necessary to keep such a ship in operation. We felt sorry that no Chief Engineer Harry Hoagland and his crew for the efficient manner in which they go about their duties and for his guidance on such an interesting tour. Not a drop of oil splashed on us and we doubt if when everything shone with light grey paint and polished metal surfaces. In a home that is what we would call mighty good housekeeping.

To be continued tomorrow.

LIFE IS A SCHOOL

There are many figures of speech which are continually applied to life. Sometimes daily life is a pilgrimage, a valley of sorrow, an adventure.

All such designations contain some truth, but the designation of life as a school is probably the truest of all. We are pupils, and the world is our classroom. The tasks to which we are set, the trials we must meet, the temptations we encounter, the problems we must solve - - these are our lessons. Success comes to some teachers today are doing, eagerly to get children to like to go to school. There is a little of this in God's tutelage to us. He has given us a beautiful world in which to live, and to even the youngest on earth there are joys and satisfactions which can be entered into because they are the common lot of all men. But He appears at times that God doesn't try hard enough.

One of the pleasantest, kindest, humanest of men I ever knew hired the worst stone-hearted thugs as his managers, superintendents and foremen.

He had to. If his business depended on him, he would have given it all away. He was so softhearted he could not bear even to fire a drunk from his employ.

He explained the whole thing to me.

"Business," he showed me, "is as tough as it is necessary in business. So I am careful to select men as managers and heads of departments who make up for my softness. One of the secrets of success in business is the delegation of authority. Therefore, I never interfere. I make it a rule, and everybody knows that I leave the administration of the departments to the heads. It works fine."

Thus, he was able to live the life he highly respected and honored citizen, to be seen at the head table at all charitable gatherings, to collect gold plated trowels from corner stone laying, to have a benign share in all great and humane decisions and developments. And when he died, his funeral cortege was six blocks long.

See Die And Naples

St. Thomas Times - Journal

There is a common saying that one should "see Naples and die." And it is generally believed, outside Italy at any rate, that it means the view of such a beautiful city that having seen it there is no other anywhere in the world worth looking at; therefore, you might as well die. But we have always thought the Neapolitans laid it on a bit too thick making such a claim, and now we find what is said to be the real meaning of the saying.

An English tourist who visited that area states there is a pretty village known as Naples, the name of which is Die. Hence tourists should not only see Naples but Die, as well.

The phrase should read, "See Naples and Die," not "See Naples and die."

They Dress For the Girls

Maclean's Magazine

White-collar workers are going to look pretty drab alongside steel riggers and pipe-fitters, whose higher wages are now bringing about a minor revolution in work clothing. "A worker making $125 a week feels he doesn't have to wear blue jeans," says one manufacturer. Steel riggers are going to trousers in polished twills in such colors as forest green and light tan tones. Shirts are sateen in Ivy League patterns. Is there an additional safety factor in bright colors? Not much, says a Toronto safety engineer. "Mostly it's to impress the girls".

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

WORMS ARE FOUND IN BOTH ADULTS AND CHILDREN

"Dear Dr. Molner: Do adults have worms? I just discovered one and it has me very disturbed. I am 48.—Mrs. J."

Worms, those annoying and very frequent parasites, may not be the most romantic field of medical study, but there aren't many health nuisances that are more common.

The above letter does not specify whether a pinworm or tapeworm, or some other type of worm, is meant. I should rather assume that a tape worm is of some sort is intended, since pinworms are so small that it is not likely that a child would ever be discovered unless you were looking for it — a full-size pinworm resembles a bit of white thread perhaps a fourth of an inch long. Other worms are incarcerated in itches, and may be as much as a foot long.

In either case the answer is the same. Yes, adults have worms. Such parasites merit immediate treatment, but I don't think Mrs. J. should worry.

Worms seem to exist for no purpose other than to "live at somebody else's table." They rob the approximate meaning of the word "parasite." In the first place they irritate, upset the digestive tract, sometimes (as pinworms) cause annoying and itching, especially in children, and promote nervousness and irritability. But they are not, in plain language, what you could call dangerous to life.

I have seen whole families infested with pinworms — father, mother and children. Pinworms are readily passed from person to person, and since the worm is small, the egg (which is the form in which it is transmitted) is small also.

HYGIENE IS NECESSARY

It thus is pointless to treat one person in the family if all the others are left alone. Along with medicine to drive off the pinworms, everyone in the family is aware of the necessity of the most meticulous hygiene (including frequent washing of hands) before eating, keeping fingernails short, washing the face, frequent washing of linen — particularly undergarments — and, of course, a bath, since almost indivisible egg, if swallowed can start a new colony of worms.

Gentian violet has been a successful remedy for pinworms. Other new and effective drugs have been developed. Obviously your doctor will have to advise the drug and dosage depending on type of worm and size of the patient.

Tapeworms, these days, are less frequent than pinworms, but they still occur — beef tapeworms, of course, the fish tape worms, which is adequate reason, I think, to cook meat. Pork, as a matter of fact, is rarely the source of tapeworm infestation. The beef tapeworm can be destroyed only by THOROUGH cooking.

Anyway, the tapeworms affect adults more than children; pinworms are more often found in children.

And there's the prevalent hookworm in the southern tier of states. In all cases, the sooner treatment starts, the better.

Is this really as noticeable as you think it is?

And there was a time when a dog in church would have lost its head. At various times during the Middle Ages there were occasions where dogs roamed freely in churches, from time to time, being hungry, they snatched at the Communion bread, or lapped up drops of wine which had been spilled. Such dogs were liable, of course, for by devouring the blood and body of Christ, and being themselves soulless, they had committed grave sacrilege.

This is a curious footnote to the Somerset disturbance.

Dog in Church Once Common

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TO BE AN AMERICAN

There is no honor so great as that to have been born an American. Said Daniel Webster, "I was born an American; I will live an American; I shall die an American; and I intend to perform the duties incumbent upon me in that character to the end of my career."

Americans, and all lovers of Freedom, can look upon the new American flag as the most inspiring symbol in the world.

To be an American is to love Freedom and Liberty, and to defend them against all evil assaults from far or near. America is a free land and a refuge for the oppressed and enslaved, no matter from what land they have come. This great country was founded in Freedom, it has been kept free men and patriots.

Said Alexander Hamilton: "The sacred rights of mankind are not to be rummaged for among old parchments or musty records. They are written, as with a sunbeam, in the whole volume of human nature, by the hand of the Divinity itself, and can never be erased or obscured by mortal power."

How great and precious is each one of the Stars and Stripes which shine in this free work! With pride we salute each fold of the Stripes and the Stars of this American flag! Long may it wave as the proud emblem of Freedom around the world, and may its message be one of peace and good will forever! To be an American citizen is both privilege and responsibility — the privilege to live in a free land, and an opportunity to help preserve it, to live in happiness, as is no other land.

The love of this American flag lives in us all, having acquired it from our forefathers who died in defense of Freedom in its unfurling, no matter where they may be at such a moment, for that it represents lives within us.

Kiwanians Meet Macs, Hear Jack Devine Tell of Journey Behind the Iron Curtain

Tuesday was a red letter day for some 25 young hockey enthusiasts when they were given the opportunity of meeting personally with several of the world champion Belleville Macs.

The youngsters (sons, relatives or friends of local Kiwanians), along with six members of the team, manager Drury Denyes, Mayor Gerald B. Hyde, and CJBQ sportscaster Jack Devine, were guests of the Kiwanis Club during a special "Macs' Day" dinner meeting in the Centre Tuesday.

Following a hearty dinner, the young guests, many of them hockey players, were treated to a recount of Jack Devine's experiences behind the Iron Curtain during the World Hockey Tournament in Prague last month.

In his entertaining address, Mr. Devine told of the "red carpet" treatment given visiting members of radio, press and TV by Czech officials, the "unexpected" hockey game between Czech "journalists" (as members of their press, radio and TV are called) and their Canadian counterparts, which thanks to the efforts of assistant manager Billy Reay ended in a 5-5 tie; the hotel accommodations, Czech TV coverage of the games and other aspects of the Prague life.

Regarding press reports of Czech hotel rooms being wired, Mr. Devine noted, although the Canadian consulate warned Canadians travelling overseas for the tournament to be careful of what they said while in their hotel rooms, the party he was with found no definite proof of wiring."

He also remarked, contrary to some press reports during the tournament, the Belleville Macs were excellent ambassadors for goodwill.

"They were the most popular players with the fans and other teams as well," he said.

He said Czech TV coverage of the games was "not as good as Canadian TV coverage," and the country's accent on drama and puppetry was clearly evidenced by the fact puppet shows were presented between periods.

THANKED BY CLUB

The speaker said, although he enjoyed the trip overseas, "you learn to appreciate your home in Canada, particularly after visiting behind the "iron curtain."

Mr. Devine was introduced by Dick Kuntze and thanked by Ken Pinder. Thanks on behalf of the club was expressed by vice-president George Trigg who chaired the meeting in the absence of president Gerry Wishart.

Members of the team present were captain Floyd Crawford, Jean Paul Lamirande, Lou Smirke, Burt Bradley, Paul Payette, and Fiori Goegan.

They were introduced by team manager Drury Denyes, who noted two of the players, Bradley and Goegan, recently acquired "additions" to their families. Mrs. Goegan gave birth to a son Tuesday morning, and Mrs. Bradley gave birth to a daughter a couple of days ago.

Mr. Denyes was introduced by Mayor Gerald Hyde, who mentioned Picton mayor, Harvey McFarland, would probably turn up at next week's meeting, due to an error in dates on the invitations sent out to both the Belleville and Picton chief magistrates, and manager Denyes.

Mayor Hyde was, in turn, introduced by chairman George Trigg.

Following the main address, a question - and - answer period was held during which several questions concerning the tournament were answered.

During this time Czechoslovakian - born Anthony Cekota rose and addressed the audience, explaining and clarifying certain aspects of Czech life mentioned by Mr. Devine.

He noted that about 80 per cent of the population are non-Communist-party members.

They are miserable and would leave the country if they could", he said.

He also noted a "pattern", similar to that which resulted in a Communist coup d'etat in Czechoslovakia, 10 years ago, is being carried out in Iraq.

REPORTS GIVEN

A brief address was given by Mrs. Pat Cameron, of Drummondville Quebec. An official representative of Community Concerts of New York, Mrs. Cameron arrived in this city Monday to assist the local Community Concerts Association with its membership drive being held this week.

She was introduced by Everett Fairman and thanked by Mr. Trigg.

A report of the Kiwanis Peanut Drive now underway was given by Gord Crawford. Kiwanians have been divided into teams, and prizes have been donated for the "most salesman," winning team, etc.

This is one of the club's major money-raising projects this year, by which it hopes to raise a substantial sum.

Souvenir Belleville Macs booklets and team pictures were distributed at the meeting.

Famous Organist Will Give Recital

Alexander Schreiner, organist of the famous Mormon Tabernacle Choir of Salt Lake City is making his first appearance in the city on Friday at Bridge Street United Church. Dr. Schreiner is one of the most sought after of today's concert organists. He was born to produce music. At the age of eight, he played his first church service as organist, and in his youth began his life's work of playing recitals at the Salt Lake Tabernacle in 1921. At this beloved instrument, in 1929 he played the first of the national radio programs which is now one of the oldest continuous broadcasts in existence.

DR. A. SCHREINER

Dr. Schreiner accompanied the famed 400 voice Salt Lake Tabernacle Choir on its recent tour of Europe's largest cities. In West Berlin, the concert sold out at prices beyond the reach of East Berliners. So the choir offered a special rehearsal concert for people of the Eastern Zone.

This talented person is not only an outstanding organ virtuoso, but he is a Doctor of Philosophy who lectures at the University of Utah; is a Fellow of the American Guild of Organists, and is the author of four books of organ music. Belleville is the only Canadian city to be included in Dr. Schreiner's itinerary for this season.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

There is an old adage which warns us that the perils, the frustrations are in general terms, the unpleasant facts of life pass over us until they strike at home. There exists in all the trite an element of truth which we ought not to ignore, but do. T and T has read somewhat in the press and in periodicals about the danger and hazards of the pollution of the air. We had eyes but we did not see or at least we did not heed. Air pollution is a present and real threat to the health of people all over the world. So great and urgent is the danger that the World Health Organization with headquarters in Geneva plans to tackle the danger by making the attack into a major campaign.

The March edition of the UNESCO Courier is devoted to this subject which touches us all. We learn whereas each average adult requires less than three pounds of food and four and a half pounds of water each day, he or she needs about thirty cubic feet of air or about three pounds. A British authority points out that what began as a "minor irritation" has grown into a major social evil. He claims that air pollution is "lowering our vitality and our enjoyment of life."

When atomic fall-out is added to what had already become serious, it is time for man in his wisdom to sit and take stock of just one more challenge in the struggle for survival. There are no boundary lines and the danger acknowledges no color or creed. Even the tropics are not immune.

As a change of pace, it may be mentioned that in the year 1273 an Act was passed "forbidding the burning of coal in London and, indeed, a man was executed in 1306 for this crime."

An editorial closes with these words of advice: "Just as we no longer throw rubbish into the street, we shall eventually cease to discharge smoke and other filth into the air. It is high time we stopped using the air we breathe as a sewer."

It had been our intention to elevate you to thoughts of spring fashions and new ideas for summer vacations and their enjoyment. However, the word spring kept staring back as though it was daring us to look it up. Accepting the dare we went to the Oxford and, lo and behold, we discovered that the word like so many in our language has many connotations and meanings. For instance if you are buying a new bed, you will be certain to see the springs are what the doctor ordered. If you are going on a hike or camping, you look for a spot close by a spring. "The place of rising or issuing from the ground the source or head of a well, stream or river." You may be a buoyant individual and full of zest and therefore a "springy" person.

On and on the ways go in which we can interpret the word spring.

The one we really looked for was in relation to "The action or time of rising or springing into being or existence. The first sign of day, morning, etc., also the beginning of a season."

Spring may mean many things but certainly in April/1959, it means but one thing to a community that has come through one of the longest and most severe winters in a long time. There are those who because of age, infirmity or other reasons have been confined, and how welcome the spring must seem. Whether it is Dad who can putter about the yard, repair the fishing tackle, paint the punt, or Mother who can't wait to wash the dirty windows and start house-cleaning, or the lass who gleefully swings her skipping rope, the son who plays marbles or fastens on his roller skates — we say, these hopeful and promising days, has but one meaning. Nature heralds the meaning of spring which tells us it is "the rise, beginning, first appearance of birth."

Wherever we drive and walk, we see all about us the activity of spring. The song of birds, the swelling of buds; the swelling motif of nature which is the source of things gives the promise of new life. T & T does not claim to be a poetic soul would express it, but spring is hope renewed and creates reverence for life.

CWL Returns Slate for Second Term

Walsh; treasurer — Mrs. J. F. Farrell.

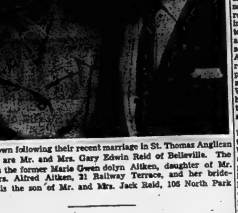
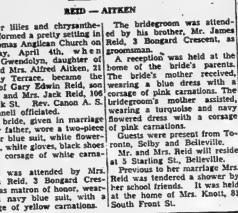
Colorful Cashmeres

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Cashmere emerges from its basic tones to don bright colors. Here is a cashmere coat in an exquisite shade of blue or green, two of this season's pet hues. Built on dressmaker lines, it has a notched collar above the deep yoke. The yoke gives an Empire effect. The body of the coat falls in soft gathers from that point. Pockets are concealed in the skirt fullness.





STORE you and/or the children start off on a windy hike, slip a few ready-made bandage-and-adhesive strips in one of the walkers' pockets . . . let him be assigned the job of medic" in case of a bramble crotch or other minor mishap. The strips will take care of the situation until home base is reached. . . .

Severe Mannish Styles Seen in Millinery

By PEGGY MASSEN

PARIS (Reuters)—The attractive opposites is demonstrated by the new Paris millinery, with mannish styles contrasted to the most romantic trends to appear since the days of the naughty nineties."

Because the "natural silhouette" emerges in such simple straight treatments, all frivolity has gone to the head this season, making a gay, light-headed spring, as designers run the extreme from natty Edwardian bowlers to ultra-feminine cartwheels piled with frothy tulle or flowers.

Christian Dior and modiste Jean Barthet are the ardent advocates of mannish styles. Dior shows tiny derbies and bowlers in stylized versions, complete with pin-striped suitings, buttonlatered and cane-topped umbrella handles all in a turn-of-the-century mood.

Jean Barthet, who made the hats Princess Grace of Monaco wore on her visit to the United States last fall, goes all out for he-man hats. He shows fedoras and pork - pies, or fishermen's styles and sou'westers with brims folded back above the brow. These are prettiest and newest in sheer transparent media, such as horsehair and printed chiffons, or surprising in tough jute and cord plaited in an open pattern like basket weaving.

Another feature at Dior are the tiny, ribbon - trimmed sailors copied from Manet paintings. Jacques Griffe goes equally retrospective with his English Schoolgirl hats, or tip-brimmed Breton sailors a la Gigi, the late writer Colette's heroine personified in the film by Leslie Caron.

BRITON SUCCESSFUL

The brilliantly successful newcomer to the Paris millinery scene is an English designer, Graham Smith, who has joined the house of Lanvin-Castillo. The 20-year-old Smith studied four years at the London College of Art. Then some photographs of his designs came to the attention of the Lanvin creator, Antonio del Castillo, who immediately announced, "This is the name I want."

Smith thinks in terms of important "beady hats" but diplomatically acknowledges the demand for cosier styles which will not squash or flatten the hair. He compromises with high-crowned cloches with brims slanted out away from the face, featured in a variety of light materials like yelling, lace, shantungs, or airy exotic straws.

Another popular new name this season is young Daniel Masson, who likewise numbers Princess Grace among his clients. He has established his headquarters in a basement shop just off the Avenue Foch in Paris, where he is showing a colorful collection of small-shaped cloches and toques with detailed workmanship in draping, inlays and media contrast.

The season's innovation is Claude St. Cyr's "crash cap," destined to protect the crown of the head in the event of the wearer meeting with an automobile accident. The idea is a small but sturdy plastic skullcap completely camouflaged under a nest of flowers or swirls of draped straw cloth.

Boots With Bounce

By TRACY ADRIAN

Capezio, long renowned for its dancers' slippers and intricately cobbled theatrical footwear, has for the past several years created shoes for street wear — and in some fascinating designs.

Here is one of the latest, a duffle-bag boot. As comfortable as it is elfin, it is calculated to give bounce even to tired tootsies. Inspired by the prussic carry-all, these boots are made of incredibly soft, unlined, elk skin, with amusing pointed toes and a little licorice-stick leather drawstring at the top.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beekman

RECEPTION TO CELEBRATE 55TH GRADUATION ANNIVERSARY

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

I am planning to give a reception this Spring in honor of my father's 55th anniversary of graduation from Medical College I have already had the anniversary party on a "grander" scale, but, because of his age and so forth, I plan to have this one quietly at my home, serving champagne and small sandwiches, without the uproor of cocktails.

My problem is my invitation. I do not want to have my engraver make a special plate for this, but I can buy their large, semi-engraved invitation cards that "request the pleasure of your company," and fill them in. But what wording should I use for this? "For a reception in honor of Dr.—— on his 55th Graduation"? Or would you approve of my having the whole invitation done in "imitation" engraving?

— A.

I can well understand that you might not like to have these invitations as importantly formal as the invitations you sent for the 50th Anniversary; and I agree with your point of view. However, I definitely would not approve of your having the invitations done in "imitation" engraving . . . and there are prower and very pleasant ways to avoid this:

One excellent way is to use the semi-engraved cards you mention . . . white or dull-off-white cards, of excellent stock, and of the largest size. And this is the form I suggest:

In honor of Doctor Paul Blake
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ames Lane request the pleasure of your company at a reception to celebrate the 55th Anniversary of Doctor Blake's graduation from ... Medical College on ... etc.

R.s.v.p.

Important notes: "Doctor" should be spelled in full; and "honour" should be spelled with the "u."!

To have more space you might prefer plain white, heavy-quality cards of large size, and write the invitations like this:

Mr and Mrs. Henry Ames Lane request the pleasure of your company at a reception in honor of Doctor Paul Blake, and to celebrate the 55th Anniversary of his graduation from ... Medical College on ... etc.

Indian Teacher Wanted to See The Eskimos

GANDER, Nfld. (CP) — Mary Chowrea, tired in skirt, sweater and sari bounced off a plane here, ran to an RCMP officer and asked:

"Where are the Eskimos?"

A volunteer teacher of the deaf, dumb and blind in India, she came here to see first hand how Eskimos live — especially how children go to school.

"In India," she said, "Children sit on the hot floors. I would like to contrast the Eskimos' school."

She said that before coming here she thought all the inhabitants were Eskimos.

"Now I would like to go to Labrador where they say there are real Eskimos," Miss Chowrea said. "But it would cost too much."

The Indian woman said she had visited many countries. "My finance myself. I'm not a paid worker."

She is associated with the Naiguan Social Service Centre and the Dadar School for the Blind in Bombay where all workers are volunteers.

With the information gathered on her tours she plans to "suggest to my government's blind welfare government to make them help illiterate people in India — they are so poor, so illiterate, so neglected."

From Newfoundland she plans to go to Ottawa, Winnipeg and Vancouver. She is unimpressed with multi - million dollar industries in such big cities.

"The ideas of small places are much more applicable to my country," she said.

Blake's graduation

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Gale B. — He wants his father to come live with us.

Wife — The folks helped us when we needed them.

Gale B. — My husband and I are beating war drums these days over the fact that he wants his widowed father to come to live with us.

We moved into our own nice home only about a year ago after having lived in chicken-coop apartments for years. I've been enjoying the space so much. Each of the kids has a separate room. If Max's father comes to live with us, the two boys will have to double up.

Max has two sisters, but they don't want dear old Dad. So why must I be stuck with him? Max says it may be only for a short time and then one of the sisters will want him. But I'm not too sure about that. Grandpa is none too easy to live with either.

Max B. — Gale very nicely forgets about the three years we lived where my parents rent free. That was when we were first married. We were both teachers and the folks wanted to help us get our start. They kept us even after we had the first baby and that was none too easy for them.

One of my sisters has four kids and the other has six. They really have a full house. I just don't know where they could put Dad up, but I feel that when they see all we do for him, they will be willing to take him part of the time.

Dad is 70, but he is in good health and doesn't require any special care. He can take care of his own things.

The Council: If Gale and Max lived with their parents four years rent free, they certainly do have a moral obligation to help Dad in his time of need. Gale apparently was well able to put up with the father-in-law while they lived in his house. It is unfortunate that he finds things so different now that the tables are reversed.

However, it is always a mistake to make arrangements for a recently widowed person before he has had a chance to get his bearings. He must make a completely new adjustment to life. He'll really need to know how he wants to live.

The kind and sensible thing would be to invite Grandpa to come to "stay for a while" if he is feeling lonely in his own home or apartment. It is quite possible that after a few weeks of living with active and noisy youngsters, he will prefer the peace of his own place.

A man of 70 in good health can find lots to do to keep him busy. Of course, he may be lonely at times, but many older persons prefer loneliness and independence to a bustling family life and the sense of being merely tolerated.

Women's Activities

WALLBRIDGE W.M.S.

WALLBRIDGE — Wallbridge W.M.S. meeting was held in the Orange hall with a fair attendance, with Mrs. Morley Philips in the chair.

A hymn was sung with Mrs. J. Sine at the piano. "The Prayer of Approach" was read, followed by Scripture reading from Micah, chapter 4, verses 1, 7, and chapter 5, verses 10-11, Mrs. McMullen commenting on these readings.

Correspondence was read and included an invitation from Sine's WMS to visit them at their next meeting April 22nd, to hear an address by Dr. Swan of Albert College.

Two readings or thanks were read. Thank offering envelopes were given to the members.

Treasurer, Mrs. Lawrence Ketcheson gave her report and the business was passed for its contribution.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Phillips.

Four Omelettes Per Minute

by Mary Moore

How would you like to know how to make omelettes at the rate of four a minute? Or would you prefer to learn that to Rudolph Stanish?

That is exactly what he did at a breakfast for over 100 folk. The restaurant owners' convention was held at the Royal York and the Poultry Products Institute of Canada invited Rudolph from New York to come and strut his stuff, which he did with masterly showmanship.

He whisked the eggs with a fork until it forms a roll just as it is tipped onto the hot plate. Not one motion is duplicated. Rudy loosened top edge of cooked egg mass with three strokes and started the roll then coincidentally tipping the handle, loosened and coaxed as it rolled to bottom and out onto hot plate. With practice you could do it too, and in about 10 years you might be able to turn out four a minute! Note—The omelets pans were made of cast aluminum with rounded sides sloping smoothly to the bottom so that the stirring fork fitted smoothly all round as he swiftly stirred. I will not be telling you know if I can find and buy one.)

EMERGENCY FUND

EDMUNDSTON, N.B. (CP)—The New Brunswick Teachers' Association has decided to set aside $5,000 annually until a $50,000 "emergency fund" has been created. It will be used to finance expenses involved in salary negotiations.

I watched at point blank range while he came out omelette after omelette at the rate of one every 15 seconds for a score of hungry writers and restaurateurs.

Here is exactly how he did it and the equipment he used:

RUDOLPH STANISH OMELETTES

To serve 6 you need: — One dozen eggs, 3 tablespoons water, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 6 tablespoons butter divided, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, divided, 6 tablespoon cooked crumbled bacon, divided. Break eggs into large mixing bowl. Combine water, salt and Tabasco; add to eggs. Beat with rotary beater only until blended well; do not beat until frothy. Heat pan. (See note below re pans). Pan is hot enough when drop of water spatters in it. For each omelette, melt 1 tablespoon of the butter in pan. Add 1 teaspoon of the parsley and 1 tablespoon of the bacon. Add 1-6 of the egg mixture over hot flame or burner. Rudolph used a spoon ladleful from a huge ket-

Recover Body In Montreal River

LATCHFORD (CP)—The body of Fred Durant, 26, of Barrie, drowned Oct. 31 in a quadruple fatality, has been recovered from the Montreal River here.

Rene Garreau, 17, and Lawrence Macheske, 16, both of Latchford, discovered the body floating in shallow water 20 feet off shore Tuesday.

Mr. Durant, one of a party of four, had set out in choppy, windy weather on a hunting trip nine miles to Trout Lake. Their overturned 16-foot boat was discovered the next day, when the bodies of William Beatty, 25, of Barrie, and Mrs. Louise Christina Lee, 40, of Latchford, were recovered.

GOVT. SETS SERIES

the water out of it," he said in a reference to whisky, adding he was grateful Mr. Fleming "left the working man's beer alone."

Mr. Fleming said Liberal speakers in the budget debate gave "a series of . . . hit-and-run speeches because they have run right away from anything approaching a statement of their position on those important issues confronting the Canadian people."

DESCRIBES CCF

The CCF, on the other hand, "go blithely along proposing measures regardless of whether they would destroy initiative and enterprise, whether they would harm the economy."

Regarding his forecast of a seven-per-cent rise in gross national production, he said Liberals "... will be happier if the recovery (from the recession) does not proceed as fast as I estimated in the budget speech."

Mr. Pearson said Mr. Fleming's budget "is a record-breaking budget all right. But it breaks all the wrong records."

Some of "these new and bad records" included the highest peacetime deficit of at least $835,000,000 last year, a $184,000,000 deficit in the old age pension fund, a one-year drop of $242,000,000 in the unemployment insurance fund, a $1,400,000,000 increase in the national debt, a boost in money supply last year of 11 per cent, unemployment of 599,000 in March and expenditures last year of $5,387,000,000.

CONTRADICTS FIGURE

Mr. Pearson's reference to an $833,000,000 deficit last year is contrary to Mr. Fleming's declared budget deficit of $517,000,000. The opposition leader included a $212,000,000 draw-down from a non-budgetary special defence equipment account.

In opposition, he said, the Conservatives had promised to cut $500,000,000 from government spending but now were adding $538,660,000 in 1959-60. They promised cuts in civil service spending but were adding $24,000,000 to that for this year.

But when it came to capital expenditures — "the things that make jobs" — the estimates were $58,000,000 lower in 1959-60 than a year ago.

Mr. Pearson asked what had happened to the promise to divert 15 per cent of import trade to Britain. Last year Britain's unfavorable trade balance with Canada widened and imports were down still more in the early part of this year.

OTHER QUESTIONS

He also asked what happened to the Conservatives' unemployment cure of a $1,000,000,000 public works program, the new deal for the provinces and municipalities, the "stand-up" policy to the United States to prevent restrictions on Canadian exports, and the policy to protect Canadian sovereignty against U.S. "economic and financial control."

Ninety-five per cent of leases for oil development on one tract of land in the Arctic went to U.S. firms or their Canadian subsidiaries.

Mr. Pearson said confidence in the government and confidence in Canada has been weakened at home and abroad. The government's word no longer means as much as it did once.

Lucien Cardin (Lt. — Richelieu-Verchères) said the country is burdened with deficits and higher taxes because the government, attempting to "save face," had tried to implement a fraction of its exaggerated election promises.

Council Sets Record Tax Rate For Municipality

DESERONTO — A special meeting of the town council held on Wednesday night of last week the mill rate for 1959 was set at a record high of 99.52 for the residential rate and 107.69 for the industrial rate. This is an overall increase of 11.5 mills over last year and was necessary because last year's council began the year with a substantial surplus while they ended the year with a deficit of $1,600. The total amount to be raised this year amounts to $97,611 and of this the two schools and the county rate take a total of $48,799. The town contributes $28,768 to the public school and $15,331 to the support of the high school. The county takes $14,700 which is considered a considerable payment for the returns received.

Other highlights of the budget are $12,000 for the streets which is an increase of $2,261 over last year due largely to the increased cost of snow removal. The fire department costs $3,500, the police department $4,700, but the cost of education is up only $1,500 over last year.

An unofficial forecast is that such a high rate of taxation will bring about another re-assessment of the town which now is reported to be assessed at only about 61 percent. While this would lower the mill rate it would not lower the cost of administration to the taxpayers.

LIBRARY WEEK

Posters advertising "Wake Up and Read Week" were made by public school children and placed in store windows. The fines on overdue books returned this week were cancelled.

The teachers of the public and high schools were especially invited to visit the Library on the afternoon of April 15th. Most of the teachers attended and were welcomed by Mrs. R. Sexsmith, chairman of the board and the librarian, Mrs. L. E. Tunnicliffe. Tea and sandwiches were served.

New books suitable for juvenile and adult reading were on display and other book suggestions were received from those present. The splendid cooperation of the teachers in the last few years has resulted in a marked increase in the circulation of juvenile books.

LAID CD PLANS

TORONTO (CP) — Kenneth B. F. Smith, who laid the foundations for Ontario's Civil Defence system after the Second World War, died here Tuesday at 61. Mr. Smith served in the Canadian Army in the First and Second World Wars and ended his military career with the rank of major.

Carmel

CARMEL — There was a good attendance at church here on Sunday afternoon. The pastor, Mr. McCrea, is leaving and will be greatly missed, for he has made many friends here and been most successful in his work.

Many district residents have been ill with influenza, but most are now recovering.

The friends of Douglas Shaw were sorry to learn of his misfortune in breaking his leg. All wish him a speedy recovery.

Members of the Carmel Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Amos Wilmore Thursday. A delicious potluck dinner was enjoyed by 17 members and their guests, four children and two adult visitors, who became new members of the W.I. After the dinner the president, Mrs. Wilmore, conducted the meeting. Annual reports were given by each committee convener. A list of new officers was submitted by the nominating committee. The new president is Mrs. Elmer Urch.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Patterson drove to Kingston Sunday afternoon and visited relatives in hospital there.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Moorman of Peterborough, were the guests on Wednesday of Mrs. G. Moorman.

Manly Macdonald Central Figure In Controversy

TORONTO (CP) — Controller Jean Newman's interest in amateur painting drove her headlong into an artistic argument Monday night as local modern artists clamored to oppose board of control's taste in art.

The controversy blew up within hours of Toronto board of control's decision to commission Royal Canadian Academician Manly Macdonald to do a painting of Toronto's skyline and waterfront.

The painting will be presented to Queen Elizabeth on her visit here in June.

Mrs. Newman, a Sunday painter, bore the brunt of the onslaught because board of control picked the traditionalist painter from a list of six artists submitted to her.

Alan Collier, president of the Ontario Society of Artists, voiced strong opposition. He said he was upset at the decision, which was "a grave error, a step back 50 years and an insult to the Queen's visit."

He said Mr. Macdonald painted "in an English style which was outmoded in Canada soon after the First World War and in England before that. Mrs. Newman with her amateur interest in art has done more damage to art in this city than anyone I can imagine."

A number of leading artists defended the choice of Mr. Macdonald, a native of Perth. Charles Comfort, RCA president.

Mr. Macdonald heads a group of traditionalists who have attacked the modernist influence in contemporary Canadian art.

When informed of the controversy he commented: "Quite ridiculous, but not unexpected—there are always jealous people about."

Doctors Urged To Support Fluoridation

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian doctors Monday were urged to support fluoridation of community water supplies to solve "the appalling problem" of dental disease.

Dr. C. H. M. Williams, head of the periodontic department in the University of Toronto's dental faculty, spoke to nearly 1,000 physicians at the annual scientific convention of the College of General Practice of Canada.

"Dental diseases are probably the most prevalent and persistent of all the diseases which affect the population of Canada," he said.

Dr. Williams said sodium fluoride not only reduced dental caries by two-thirds among children born after it is added to communal water, but it also brings "substantial reduction" of caries among those whose teeth were formed before fluoridation.

The practitioners also heard a warning against drugs and indiscriminate blood transfusions which could result in reduction of red blood cells.

Dr. R. F. Farquharson, physician-in-chief at Toronto General Hospital, said any drug containing benzol and even the antibiotic chloromycetin could occasionally attack the bone marrow, manufacturer of red blood cells.

"I knew one young doctor who had been treated with chloromycetin and had to take a pint of blood a month for four years."

Dr. Farquharson said repeated transfusions sometimes breed antibodies because of differences in blood characteristics.

"While transfusions are wonderfully safe today they cannot be perfectly matched."

Would Welcome Mennonites to Waterloo County

WATERLOO (CP) — Waterloo council has come to the defence of Amish Mennonite settlers.

Council also launched a move Monday night to have the Amish Mennonite settlers move to Waterloo County, now heavily populated by Mennonites.

The aldermen unanimously supported a resolution condemning an Oxford County group for discrimination against 40 American Amish Mennonites who recently moved into that district.

The resolution will be forwarded to both Dominion and provincial governments.

Ald. Vincent Alviano framed the resolution. He said the settlers are being discriminated against "chiefly because of their religion . . . because their way of life is different."

CAUSE NO TROUBLE

The alderman, who serves Mennonites in his grocery store, said "The Mennonites living in this county have proved themselves as solid citizens. At no time do they cause trouble and they never ask for assistance."

"This country is proud of its freedom and it is unfortunate that such a thing can happen here," Ald. Alviano said. It should come from Waterloo County council. A copy of the resolution will be sent to the county council.

Ald. Donald Snider seconded the motion. He said "I take great pride in according this motion since I still have some Mennonite blood in my veins."

Mayor Falkin commended both aldermen for their action.

WINTER JOBS

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary's winter employment campaign provided work for about 3,000 persons, and increased the community's purchasing power by $3,250,000, says the National Employment Service.

Unable to Speak, Eyes Puffed, Exhausted, Frogman Still Finishes 160-Mile Swim

QUEBEC (CP)—Frogman Louis Lourmais, 37, pounded into exhaustion and agonizing pain, but completed a five-stage 150-mile swim to Quebec City from Montreal.

A crowd of 2,000 watched from the Chouinard dock at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday night as the Frenchman, accompanied by his wife the last 12 miles, was hauled from the icy St. Lawrence River after a five-day ordeal.

He was taken to hospital for observation, his lips swollen so large he was unable to speak, his eyes puffed to slits and with severe body pains from the continuous chafing of his rubber frogman's suit.

Lourmais, who started Friday, had hoped to swim down the river non-stop with the aid of tides. But strong winds, blinding sunshine and temperatures hovering around freezing forced him to make five stops.

The stunt, sponsored by a brewery, was planned by Lourmais to help interest Canadian scientists in underwater exploration of cold waters. Last year he swam 600 miles down British Columbia's turbulent Fraser River.

His wife Lillaine joined him in the last quarter he stopped at St. Augustin, 12 miles upriver, because of fatigue and unfavorable currents. At that time he was reported near collapse and an ambulance and interne were sent there.

But when the tide started to ebb Lourmais and his wife plunged into the river side by side and took off again.

She had accompanied him briefly earlier in the trip but at Sorel, Que., 45 miles downstream from Montreal, was ordered to stop by a doctor because she was in poor physical condition.

A Montreal newspaper aboard a small boat accompanying Lourmais said the most difficult part of the swim was at Lake St. Peter, a section of the river downstream from Sorel. He said white-whipped waves up to five feet high battered the frogman for several hours in that stretch.

Supreme Court Ponder's Question Of Indian Lands and Liberties

BRANTFORD (CP) — A two-pronged question, bearing on the lands and liberties of the Six Nations Indians, today was being studied by a judge of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Mr. Justice J. M. King Tuesday night reserved decision in the case of Mrs. Verna Logan, wife of a Mohawk chief, seeking an injunction to prevent sale of 2½ acres of the Six Nations Indian reserve.

In effect, her plea calls for a decision as to whether the elected council has the right to rule the tribal lands or whether they should be turned in favor of the hereditary chiefs whose word was law until 35 years ago.

SALE APPROVED

The elected council had approved sale of the land for $25,000 to a tractor company which has since planned to expand its plant.

Final argument was presented Tuesday by Malcolm Montgomery, the lawyer known as "the Gan Hats—He who argues for cash — and by Aubrey Golden, counsel for the plaintiff. Mr. Montgomery is an honorary chief.

Mr. Wilson cited judgments of the provincial supreme court and argued that Indians are subject to the laws of Canada and that the Indian Act was a complete code for the Indian peoples.

The Six Nations Indian claim is by are not Canadian subjects, but members of an independent land allied with the British Crown.

Is there any treaty of peace, or any other treaty, on which the argument of sovereignty is sustained" he asked. "The Six Nations do not claim they are entitled to full sovereignty but a measure of sovereignty at the local level. I submit that it is impossible to determine where to draw the line. Either they have sovereignty or they do not have it.

He said the Haldimand Deed of 1784, granting lands along the Grand River to the Six Nations, was not a peace treaty "and not a treaty at all. In fact, it is a negation of sovereignty because it is restrictive in its terminology. It is, rather, a gift of the Crown in recognition of services rendered."

Mr. Montgomery said the problem was not one involving a breach of federal or provincial regulations but of local government or succession.

"How do you distinguish between sovereignty and local autonomy," Mr. Justice King asked.

"Local autonomy, Mr. Lord, is a matter of the chiefs having the rights now held by the elected council," the lawyer replied.

PURPORT GOVERNMENT

The hereditary chiefs and their supporters have described the elected council as a "puppet government" and want it replaced by the true Indian government of the Six Nations Iroquois Confederacy of North America."

The hereditary chiefs claim to have thousands of signatures on a petition to be sent to Ottawa asking they be restored to the power they held before the Indian Act of 1924 introduced the elective system.

Earlier this year, the hereditary chiefs and their supporters conducted a raid on the Long House on the east of the road chased away the elected officers. They were turned out by RCMP in an equally b-l-o-d-less manoeuvre which led to charges against Indians. These charges were dropped later.

Five Employees General Motors Sent for Trial

WHITBY (CP) — Five Oshawa General Motors employees were committed to trial Tuesday on charges of theft and possession of stolen goods.

William Gordon Vipond, 41, and Irvin Church, 34, are charged with theft and Cyril Bone, 37, Reginald Horsey, 34, and Antoine Desjardins, 37, with theft and possession of stolen goods.

At the preliminary hearing evidence was revealed that a Pinkerton detective went to a house in Ajax where he saw a truck loaded with GM products. There were 600 packages of brake shoes, two coil springs and a carburetor, property of GM.

The detective agency had been employed by GM to make investigations. The autos parts were taken from the GM warehouse in Ajax.

Two Weathered Ships First to Enter Seaway

MONTREAL (CP)—A pair of old, battered, coal-burning steam ships will be the first commercial vessels into the new, waiting St. Lawrence Seaway.

The Sarnia and the Simcoe, of Canada Steamship Lines, and the Provencoe, of N. M. Paterson and Sons.

An announcement in Ottawa Tuesday night said the little ships to head a fleet of about 50 vessels waiting to go through the $475,000,000 seaway and into the Great Lakes.

The fleet has been building up in Montreal harbor and along the St. Lawrence River for the official seaway opening Saturday.

First ocean vessel will be the Dutch Prins Willem George Frederick, 1,057 tons, a frequent visitor to the Great Lakes through the old system.

TO ENTER TOGETHER

The Simcoe and the Provencoe will enter the Lasalmer Lock opposite Montreal side by side, being small enough to do it. Second and third commercial vessels into the seaway will be the Canadian Canal boats. They are the 36-year-old Hastings and the 31-year-old Chambertin.

They'll follow the icebreaker Griffenfeldt and the D. B. McLean which are to carry Prime Minister Diefenbaker, senators, members of Parliament, government officials and newspaper men in the official opening ceremonies. The icebreakers will turn back a few miles above Montreal.

The Griffenfeldt, 1,000 tons, was built in Britain in 1923. The Prescott-built McLean, built in 1930 and refitted in 1952. Both are less than 250 feet long.

Telegraph Rates Under Review By Commission

OTTAWA (CP)—An application for an increase in annual revenue of nearly $1,500,000 a year in commercial telegraph message rates is up a cent a word generally was taken under consideration Tuesday by the board of transport commissioners.

The application — which would mean the minimum full rate for 10-word telegram to 70 cents from 60—was made for Canadian Pacific Communications and Canadian National Telegraphs.

Both companies said wage increases to non-operating railway personnel make the new rates necessary.

Commissioner Leonard J. Knowles and J. R. White, general manager of Canadian National Telegraphs, say present rates are not being increased. He said they are the lowest — the minimum, is three-tenths of a cent a word—and some increase seems justified.

Mr. White said the press has had preferential treatment for a long time and while the rates might be raised at some future date, they did not contribute a large source of revenue. He implied it might not exceed 1.5 per cent of total revenue from commercial message operations and the result of an increase would be "very very small."

England's Sons, Daughters Will Observe St. George Day

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's a long way from the muclear age back to the brave days of St. George, but England's sons and daughters by many lands will again commemorate the saint's tradition on the feast day of St. George April 23.

The great day in England's calendar marks more than the execution of the valorous saint in 303 AD. It is also the anniversary of the birth and death of William Shakespeare in 1564 and 1616, and of the epic raid on Zeebrugge by the Royal Navy in 1918, the last great year of the First World War.

The brave tradition of St. George has been an inspiration through all the centuries in many lands besides England. The Crusaders adopted him as their soldier saint in the religious wars carried on against the Moslems for two centuries. His name was a battle-cry for the English armies at Crecy and Agincourt in 1346 and 1415.

The ancient toast was given a modern addition by Sir Roger Keyes, Admiral directing the Zeebrugge raid in 1918, when he signalled: "St. George for Merrie England, and let's give the eagle's tail a damn good twist." That naval action, though purely successful in its effort to wreck the main German submarine base, resulted in the award of nine Victoria Crosses, supreme award for valor.

Valor is the St. George traditlon. Born a Greek Christian at Cappadocia in Asia Minor, he achieved high command in the Roman armies under Emperor Diocletian. On returning to England, he converted to Christianity the Roman ruler of Britain, Constantius, and the latter's consort Helena. Helena's son became the Emperor Constantine the Great, first Christian Emperor of Rome.

Diocletian's persecutions of the Christians were stubbornly opposed by St. George. Finally he was arrested, tortured and executed on April 23, 303, by Roman authorities in Nicomedia, the old city in Asia Minor. He was believed to be 33 years old then.

The decree that the date of his death should be observed as England's national feast day was passed by the council of 1222, but it was not until 1350 that the Order of the Garter of St. George was proclaimed the patron saint of England's Order of the Garter.

St. George's Day already has long tradition in the New World. Halifax had a great gathering on St. George's Day in early 1750, and for decades there was a noteworthy celebration in 1822.

Now his memory is perpetuated by gatherings in many Canadian centres as in other lands. Members will extol the English traditions, the historic shrines, the freedom of man in the Magna Carta and the parliamentary system. It is trite by now and tiresome of speech. The main dish at banquets will be the traditional roast beef of old England.

Leaderless Western World Listens Again to Churchill

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A leaderless Western world listened with nostalgia to the voice that rang with its old authority from a town hall in Essex.

Sir Winston Churchill could not have chosen a better time to speak his brave public mission with a message that echoed far beyond the hearing of the few thousand who were gathered to listen to their member of Parliament.

Never at any time has he had to say were new. But the old warrior has retained his knack of putting ideas across with a force and clarity unmatched by the younger politicians of today.

Perhaps the West owes a bit to Nikita Khrushchev for the revival of the old charge that Churchill began the cold war when the Soviet premier in Woodford into devastating rebuttal.

WANT TO U.S.

"It is not Britain who has advanced her frontiers, absorbing many countries since the war had made great contributions to history."

"And he was not talking only to the Russians when he said: "I do not believe that I suppose are the only nation who have experienced the agony of Germany and who, far from receiving any reward, have greatly diminished by the wear on the surface of the globe."

The speech, so called Anglo-American rift on foreign policy undoubtedly has been exaggerated by newspapers on both sides of the Atlantic, many Britons have resented strong criticism of the U.S. columnists of British timidity in foreign affairs.

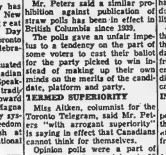
But Churchill said more than recount his old slanging match with the Russians. In the course of his speech, he managed to state Prime Minister Diefenbaker's position on the forthcoming summit talks in clearer terms than the latter declared in a Parliamentary speech.

"With the background of the past year, Russian fears of a resurgent Germany are reasonable, and nothing is more likely to account take account of them.

"The Soviets, on their side, must realize that we cannot contemplate a further increase in the immense military power which lies they so tyrannically control. West Germany is our ally in peace.

RECALLS GOLDEN YEARS

Then, with equal sharpness, he called for the Western leaders to show more sympathy for each other's problems.



As he spoke, it seemed as if the old leader had taken charge again, and could call on all the Socratic chaos, in defiance of the years.

His speech made, Churchill shuffled out to his car, and the old voice was still.

But they could do worse than incorporate a few of the magic Churchillian phrases into their vocabulary.

George Dunbar, Former Cabinet Minister, Retires

OTTAWA (CP) — George Dunbar, member of the Ontario legislature for Ottawa South for the last 22 years, has announced his retirement.

The 67-year-old former provincial secretary said Tuesday he will not seek the Progressive Conservative nomination in forthcoming Ontario elections.

But he doesn't plan to sit on the sidelines.

He said he will campaign in behalf of the Ottawa South candidate chosen at the party's May 1 nominating convention.

MAYOR A CANDIDATE

Ottawa's Mayor George Nelms, longtime member of Ottawa Hydro-Electric, lawyer Douglas G. Forest and optometrist Earl Hanlon, all Liberals, declared candidacy to seek the nomination.

"Everything has to come to an end sometime," said Mr. Dunbar in a press statement. "I have enjoyed every minute of my political life and its associations."

He retired as provincial secretary in the Frost cabinet last year. He first entered the provincial field in 1937 as municipal affairs minister, and later held the highways and welfare portfolios.

WAS NORTHERN MERCHANT

Mr. Dunbar was born in Ottawa and started business school in Pembroke and Ottawa. He entered politics as an Ontario member of the 1929 to 1934 parliament. In 1935, moved up to the rank of controller in the civic administration and stayed there until 1937 when he made his first successful bid for a provincial seat in Ottawa South.

Opinion Polls Allowed as CCF Motion Defeated

OTTAWA (CP) — Newspaper columnist Margaret Aitken Tuesday charged in the Commons that a speech by a CCF member to prohibit publication of opinion polls before an election is a foot in the door of infringements of freedom of expression, opinion and the press.

The Progressive Conservative MP for York-Humber received a series of desk-pounding applauses from her colleagues who backed up her forthright denunciation of the bill by voting it down by 190 to 6.

Twenty - eight Liberals sided with the Progressive Conservatives although none of the Liberal MPs participated in the 45-minute debate on the measure, sponsored by Arnold Peters (CCF —Timiskaming). The vote was the first this session on a private member's bill.

Mr. Peters said a similar prohibition against publication of straw polls has been in effect in British Columbia since 1928.

The polls gave an unfair impetus to a tendency on the part of some voters to cast their ballot for the party picked to win instead of their own free choice, minds on the merits of the candidate, platform and party.

LICENSED AUTHORITY

Miss Aitken, columnist for the Toronto Telegram, said Mr. Peters wants a licensed authority to say when the public is ready for it.

"He is saying in effect that Canadians cannot think for themselves."

Opinion polls were a part of democracy and were taken in 15 countries, Miss Aitken said, adding most countries which like the socialists were afraid of public opinion being expressed freely.

Miss Aitken wondered how far "this creeping" Civil Service Expression of opinion by newspaper reporters and the subscriber campaign fell within the wording of the prohibition as drafted by Mr. Peters.

She described the bill "as dangerous and very stupid." She had discussed with Mr. Peters the real reason for proposing it was that the socialists fear public opinion.

Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East), who seconded the bill, said Miss Aitken as a newspaper writer should know it is impossible for polls to ask loaded questions.

Lighter, Faster Cars to Be Used On New Subway

TORONTO (CP) — Expropriation measures have been started along the 9¼-mile route of Canada's second subway — $200,000,000 project.

Metropolitan Toronto council Tuesday night announced that land expropriation rights have been attached to 846 private properties along the east-west line from Keele Street to Yonge and down its southward spur.

Included in the list are the 18-storey Park Plaza Hotel, 560 - room structure at Bloor and Avenue Road and the 20-storey Medical Arts Building at Bloor and Bay streets.

Council passed a bylaw allowing for full and partial expropriation and the obtaining of subsurface rights only would be required in the Medical Arts and hotel sites.

PLAN FASTER CARS

In other news, it was announced that the cars which will roll through the new subway will be 10 miles an hour faster and 12 tons lighter than cars in the Toronto Transit Commission system.

Toronto Transit Commission officials said the cars will be capable of speeds to 51 miles an hour on the new line and for cars weighing 56,000 pounds.

Construction of the subway will begin in three stages, along the University Avenue spur sometime in September, 1959. Bloor Street from Avenue Road east to Greenwood Avenue in January, 1962, and Bloor Street west from Avenue Road to Keele Street in January, 1963.

All property owners involved in land expropriation will be notified by registered letter. Metropolitan property director Frank Cavell said many will be allowed to remain on their premises until construction approaches their area.

Land evaluators will enter the properties as soon as the expropriations are sent out.

The subway cost has been estimated at approximately $15,000,000.

Russian People Individually Friendly But Collectively Just as Hostile as Ever

Editor's note — This is the second of a series of four uncensored articles written by Harold K. Milks, who spent three years' service as Associated Press chief of bureau in Moscow.

By HAROLD K. MILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

How does an American reporter find living in the Soviet Union on the eve of the battle for West Berlin?

I found it little, if any, different from living there at any time since 1956. The Russian people are still just as friendly individually, and just as hostile collectively, to an American as they have been since that time.

Soviet officials have perhaps tightened their security a bit, with even more non-co-operative and hair-raising tactics. But in day-to-day living there has been little change.

During nearly three years in the Soviet Union I never received a single insult nor felt any danger of physical attack—aside from the two times Russian crowds attacked my automobile and directed "spontaneous attacks" on the American Embassy.

INVISIBLE BARRIER

But at no time during that period was there much break in the invisible barrier which separates non - Communist foreigners from the Russian people.

I have had many Russian friends abroad—in China, in India and elsewhere.

Some of them were in Moscow while I was there. But aside from occasional meetings at formal and official affairs they no longer were my friends.

"Who were your friends in Moscow?" is a question I am asked frequently. They were, without exception, foreigners.

Soon after my arrival I met and invited to dinner a Soviet journalist. He came to my flat and showed up with his English-speaking wife. But they never came back. I learned later that his job was 10 per cent journalism and 90 per cent working for the secret police.

Aside from that invisible barrier—reinforced by the official warning to foreigners that too much contact with Soviet citizens can mean expulsion—life in Moscow differed little from life in other capitals abroad.

Taxi drivers, some talkative, some reserved, were invariably polite to foreigners. Restaurant waiters were the same as in any other country—and just as willing to be tipped. Even the militiamen who stood guard around the clock outside the apartment building in which we lived and worked became friendly enough to discuss the weather or results of the latest Soviet football match.

In recent months, dating back roughly to the time Khrushchev challenged the West to "free" West Berlin, official contacts in Moscow tightened. Representatives of the foreign office press department, who control all correspondents in the Soviet Union, became more chillingly correct. There were fewer smiles and more long-winded lectures on obtaining visas in every meeting with such officials.

NO IMPROVEMENT

But there never was in my experience any personal threat or discrimination by either official or non-official Russians.

Members of the Central Telegraph Office did their work just about the same. The Soviet censors hidden behind the ground-green door in the telegraph office, remained equally unpredictable. They accept most of one day, letting it pass almost unscreened the next.

I watched several Western colleagues fly away after varying periods in the heat of the Soviet capital. Their reaction to stepping past the last police and customs barrier at Sheremetyevo airplane for "outside" was unvaryingly like that of a liberated prisoner.

I was no exception when I left Moscow this month. As the plane took off and I saw we were at last on our "out" it felt as though a huge rock had been lifted from the back of my neck.

Herter Given Unanimous Senate Approval

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Christian A. Herter's promotion to state secretary was viewed in Congress today as a big boost for closer bipartisan co-operation in foreign policy at a critical time.

Herter, whose nomination was quickly and unanimously approved by the Senate, formally takes office today at a White House swearing-in ceremony.

Senator Theodore Francis Green (Dem., Ark.) of the Senate foreign relations committee said he felt certain Herter "will co-operate to the fullest with the Congress in every way."

UNITE BEHIND HERTER

As Democratic Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate majority leader, put it: "We will unite we wanted Herter and the whole world to know "we are united behind our secretary of state."

Republican leaders hurried today to announce his support for Herter. Democrats also rallied to the support for Herter. Democrats also rallied to announce his support for Herter. Democrats also rallied to announce his support for Herter. Democrats also rallied to announce his

Get Organized to Receive Your Guests and Family

Even the smallest reception calls for organization, planning and attention to tradition.

The location of the reception and the size and floor plan of the rooms will determine to a large extent where the bridal party will stand. Remember that the guests should move freely from the receiving line to the room in which refreshments will be served without creating a traffic jam.

THE RECEIVING LINE

At a traditional reception, the bride's mother stands at the door to receive her guests first. A butler to announce the guests may come in handy at a large formal wedding. Next to the hostess stand the groom's mother and father. The bride's father, as host, is rarely on the receiving line and should instead mingle with the guests, as do the best man and ushers.

The traditional receiving line is composed of the bride, groom and her attendants in either of the following orders: half the bridesmaids, the maid of honor at the bride's right, the bride at the groom's right, the groom, the rest of the bridesmaids; or all the bridesmaids can stand together to the right of the maid of honor.

At an Orthodox or Conservative Jewish wedding, the parents of both bride and groom may be part of the bridal party and may therefore receive on the same line with them.

GIFT DISPLAY TABLE

Whether or not to display wedding gifts is a matter of personal taste. If you decide to have a gift table, set it up in a spare bedroom cleared of heavy furniture or the far end of the living room away from doorways and traffic. A white tablecloth or sheeting may be used, perhaps with a simple floral or ribbon decoration on it.

Arrange the presents in an attractive pattern to show them at their best. Group the items, perhaps with flat silver and silver holloware in the centre, glassware on one side, china and dishes on the other. Smaller gifts should be in front. Kitchen appliances, linens and blankets may be on a separate table nearby.

Gifted Bride Makes Dinner Adaptable to Couple's Life

Dinner can be called supper, can be served at 5 or at 8. It can be a nightmare for a young bride who is inexperienced in food planning and preparation — or it can be the happiest time of the day for the wife who decides to plan the kind of meal and the kind of setting she and her husband want. Six very new young wives tell how flexibility and imagination make dinner a happy hour — at any hour.

"My husband is a salesman, on the road all day long, and often he doesn't get home till late at night. My job at the store is over at 5:30, so while I'm cooking dinner, I fix myself a snack because of our late dinner hour. Then I have time to make the dinette table look attractive, even if only with colorful place mats, and my California pottery. I know this little extra care gives him a lift when he comes home tired from his long day."

"Bill gets home from work before I do, because I'm still commuting to my advertising agency, and he works near home. But he enjoys cooking, and starts the main dish for me. We both work along together when I come in, talking like mad all the time, because there's so much to share. On weekends, I plan the next week's menus, and concentrate on quick dinners during the week, and what I call slow-motion meals on weekends. Slow-motion because it may be chicken with a fancy sauce, or a long-cooking stew with dumplings."

"My husband works in a store, we're not going to tit ourselves to a strict schedule because there's no point to it."

"My husband is a doctor and has weird office hours. His evening hours start at 5 in the afternoon and run through to 9, so he has to have dinner at 5 or at 9. "My husband is a doctor and has weird office hours. His evening hours start at 5 in the afternoon and run through to 9, so he has to have dinner at garage, and he's not only tired, but filthy when he gets home. He hates to have me rush dinner on the table just because I want to get out of the kitchen, so now I've learned to wait till he's showered and changed into a clean pair of slacks. It used to bother me that he didn't talk much over dinner, since my family always had great conversation with meals. But we take our coffee into the living room — or out on the porch — and then he's relaxed enough to want to hear about my day."

"Dinner time is the most beautiful time of the day. Before we were married, we saw each other in such small snatches, since my job as fashion designer was 500 miles away from my husband's newspaper job. It's such a joy to have hours of uninterrupted time that we sometimes eat at the dinner table for three hours. People drop in at 8 o'clock, and there we are with the dirty dishes! But we've decided housekeeping has to fit it. It's hopeless for me to try to eat a full meal then, so I have a glass of Sherry or a cup of coffee with him, and eat my dinner later on a tray any place in the house. But we do share a late snack if he isn't kept away by too many house calls."

"Thanks to my automatic oven, I can cook dinner and play tennis with my husband at the same time! You see, I married an athletic fiend, and when his job in the insurance office is over, I meet him, and we get in a couple of hours of tennis before dinner. Meanwhile, with a bit of advance planning, a casserole can be simmering away, and the oven will turn off when it is ready. Aluminum foil makes it possible for me to bake chicken and vegetables together in the oven, and that meal too will be ready to eat when we come in. It's so good not to be kitchen-chained!"

Carve Meat With Care

Two things are essential to good carving, first a basic knowledge of the structure of that which is to be carved, and second, good tools with which to work.

For turkey or roast chicken, have bird placed on platter breast up, legs to the right. Cut around leg joint through skin and flesh, then with slight twist of the fork draw leg joint toward the carver and separate with knife tip right at the joint. Do the same with the wing. Now cut thin lengthwise slices from the breast. Make a cross cut in the "apron" to insert the spoon for the service of the stuffing.

SLICE IT THIN

In a turkey the second joint is the choice part of the dark meat. It fit nice to provide a small platter on which the second joint and drumstick of the leg may be placed and divided so as to give a portion of dark meat with white to those who desire it.

A whole ham may be carved from either the thin or the broad end and should always be cut in thin rather slanting slices. In this way the fat and lean are more evenly distributed.

With a half ham, begin to carve at the cut side, again in thin even slices.

LACE INSETS beautify a bathing suit which possesses its own matching coat for beach wear. Our bland bride has chosen one in champagne and white.

Clothes-Buying Tips For Wedding Trip

Is your honeymoon destination a beachside cottage, a luxury resort, or a quiet inn in the mountains? Whatever the spot, tailor your clothes-buying first, to suit the action spot, and second, to be usable at home. There's a natural tendency to overbuy on cocktail dresses, and to splurge on a lace-and-satin housecoat that will probably wind up in the back of your closet, once you're housekeeping.

Listed below are suggestions for a minimum-scale wardrobe for several different types of wedding trips. More can be added, if suitcase space and budget permit. And while you're planning, don't overlook some of your current wardrobe which can go along on the trip too. Even if it isn't brand new.

FOR A BEACH HOLIDAY

One or two bathing suits plus beach coat; two pairs Bermudas; two tailored shirts; two spectator cottons — make one frilly if you wish; one pair of slacks. If you don't like much sun; two skirts, as gay as you please; one dressy blouse; one to two dress-jacket combinations; one to two sweaters; two dance dresses—not too formal unless you're going to a large hotel; one to two pairs of play shoes, sandals or what have you; one pair sports shoes or sneakers; one pair dance slippers, unless the sandals can do double duty; one pair shorts or slacks; one lightweight coat; two pairs jodhpurs or riding breeches if you're going to ride. Otherwise two pairs slacks, one wool, one lighter-weight; one tweed jacket; three to four tailored shorts; two to three sweaters, one preferably a heavy skating type for cold days; one a pull-over that will blend with; one to two tailored suits; two blouses to go with the suits; one to two dressy dresses for dinner wear, more if the resort is especially gay; one to two cocktail dresses for the same reason; one pair riding or jodphur boots; one pair good sturdy walking shoes, rubber-soled preferred; one spectator pumps; one dancing slippers.

Think of the Years Ahead In Choosing Appliances

A green button the washing machine indicates that a load of delicate fabrics is being safely machine-washed. The yellow light on the stove means a stew is simmering gently. A bell rings to alert the bride that her cake is done. Couldn't be simpler, could it?

For the young wife who is job-holder as well as housewife, ever - improving appliances mean hours of saving in time and energy.

But precisely because the market is filled with the most efficient and the best-designed in appliances, a new homemaker may find herself dizzy from the dazzling array. She can't buy everything electrical that's on the market. Nor should she wish to. There'll be plenty of time to accumulate during the early years of marriage.

BUY FOR THE FUTURE

So her problem becomes one of selecting for today but with a wary eye not for future — and changing — needs. Appliances should be abandoned just because they don't fit into the bride's second — or third — home. So a long future look in anticipation of different conditions should accompany the shopper on her buying survey.

First she should concentrate on a good stove. Unless the young bride is going to dedicate herself to hours of home baking, two ovens are not needed. Flexibility for future homes, however, is offered by buying the separate grill unit and a waist-high oven, which are guaranteed to fit themselves comfortably into any kitchen design, "L" or L-shaped. If a stove in color is chosen, it must be a color the young couple can live happily with for at least 15 years.

In the case of a refrigerator, it's best to buy one larger than necessary for current needs. Provisions for two people don't take much space. But in future days when there are children to plan for, space will be greatly in demand, so buy big!

DOING LAUNDRY AT HOME?

Apartment dwellers will have no need for a washing machine, since they can rely on a basement laundry. But even home dwellers need to think twice before they invest at the very start in this piece of equipment. Will it be as economical — and as easy — to do all the laundry at home, or can the laundromat or the professional laundry's thrifty rates be utilized?

The actual mechanics of washing clothes is no problem. The machine takes care of that. But home laundering requires time to hang the clothes up and time to iron them. A job-holding wife may find it hard at times to cope, and would rather wait till later to make the washing machine purchase.

Dishwashers can wait too. They're a boon to large families, but dishes for two can be done by hand in no time. Meanwhile the couple's savings account mounts, appliances become more magical than ever, and it will be fun to buy later on.

DO IT YOURSELF

You'll save money if you fix shrimp yourself, rather than buying it cleaned at the fish market. Drop it in boiling water to which is added a few drops of vinegar, boil for five minutes, at which point it will be pleasantly pink. Cool, crack the shells and dive in. If you have not a special tool for this job, use the sharp end of a bottle opener or a can opener.

FROZEN WAFFLES

If on a Sunday morning you make more waffles than you can eat, bake the extras anyway, and freeze to pop into the toaster some morning when you're in a hurry.

Use Short-Cut Cooking Aids

In this early cooking adventure, it is suggested that the new bride might be prudent to take advantage of some of the short-cut foods available in supermarket refrigerator and freezer bins. Chilled ready-to-bake biscuits in cans are excellent and wonderfully ready to use at a moment's notice. Individual and family size frozen pies, so good they'd have shamed the proverbial pie-maker of olden, make a delightful meal's ending and can be served either hot or cold.

FANCY MEAT LOAF

Try variations in your meat loaf recipe. Add grated carrot, brighlan with 2 tablespoons of frankfurter relish, or spread with mustard and brown sugar before baking.

HAMBURGER SURPRISE

The happy hamburger becomes a gourmet item if made into small balls, with a touch of nutmeg added, and cooked, after browning, in sour cream.

For best baking results, light oven and set the required heat first. Then you are sure your baking temperature has been reached by the time you have ingredients mixed.

A deep well cooker is highly useful for long, slow cooking. Try it for stews baked beans, steamed puddings and cereals.

Helpful Hints For Homemakers

When washing breakable glass or china lamp shades, put a bathtowel in sink or washbasin, in case the shade slips from your hand.

Keep cleaning supplies and equipment in a basket, and cart it around with you from room to room when cleaning. Saves lots of steps!

Wash the inside of your refrigerator with a mixture of washing soda and water. Good time to inspect odds and ends too.

A quick shrimp sauce: Mix equal parts chili sauce and mayonnaise, add a few drops of tabasco and Worcestershire sauce.

Young Couple Shop Together for Ring

In bygone days of great formality, a young man asked for his lady's hand in marriage, and to her great surprise, slipped an engagement ring on her finger. A outward and visible symbol of their relationship.

The symbol is as real as ever, but today the young man is more than likely to be found at the jewelry counter with his prospective fiancee beside him, as both decide what kind of an engagement ring it shall be.

Favorite choice of most engaged girls is still a diamond. The price of a diamond is determined by four C's — carat, color, clarity and cut—and with a knowledge of these in mind, a satisfactory and appropriate ring can be easily chosen.

The unit of weight for measuring diamonds is called a carat. It is divided into 100 points, so a 25-point stone weighs a quarter of a carat, and so on.

WHAT'S "PERFECT"

The perfect diamond is crystal clear. If it has a faint tinge of yellow or brown, perhaps not even noticeable to the naked eye, its price will be lower. Often, a white diamond is described as being "blue white." This usage is not accurate since diamonds with any tinge of blue are rare and expensive.

The third price-setting factor is clarity, which means the absence of carbon spots, "bubbles" and such. A diamond is rated as flawless if it shows no faults to a trained eye under ten-power magnification. However, a tiny spot not discernible to the unrained will lower the price, but will not mar the beauty of the diamond.

Cut, last of the Four C's, refers to the shape of the diamond and to the quality of workmanship in putting the 58 tiny facets on the gem. When cutters say that a diamond is "well made" they refer to the proper proportions which give maximum brilliancy.

WHAT TYPE OF HAND?

Let the shape of your fiancee's hand and contour of her fingers guide you in selecting one of the following diamond cuts:

A round diamond, often called brilliant-cut, is a popular cut for the engagement ring. This looks well on any shape of hand but attention should be given to the large hand requiring over-all balance. A small centre diamond looks larger and "fits" a large hand when it is built up with metal or flanked on the sides with smaller diamonds.

The pear - shape diamond is wide at one end and pointed at the other, should be worn with the point toward the finger tip. An artistic hand with long fingers wears this cut well.

An emerald-cut diamond, rectangular in outline, comes in either oblong or square contours. Facets are polished straight along the sides and diagonally across the corners. Slenderizing in appearance, this cut is fine for a plump hand or one with short fingers.

A marquise looks like a boat with points on each end. Slender, tapered fingers suit this graceful cut.

SOLITAIRE OR NOT —

A one-diamond ring is considered a good buy. Your dollar buys more diamond because less money is invested in the cutting of several stones. Today, jewelry craftsmen offer a wide variety of carved flowers, leaf motifs, and textured finishes on ring shanks. "Illusion" and bead settings also enhance a solitaire as well as "extend" the apparent size of the centre diamond.

Personalize Shower Items

Have on hand a nice notebook and prior to the shower give each guest several sheets from it and tell them to write the future of the bride and groom in a story form. Let them bring it to the shower and read. Afterwards place in the loose-leaf notebook and present it to the bride. Pictures cut from magazines or sketches may be used in the stories.

Frankfurters, cut into small circles, brighten macaroni and cheese, and can be added to baked beans.

With a sausage breakfast, fry apple slices in a little butter, brown sugar and cinamon. Leave the skins on.

Most Brides Prefer to Be Married in Church

Marriage is primarily a religious ceremony to members of all faiths, and for that reason a church wedding, be it large or small, extremely formal or less so, is preferred by most brides.

But once the date is set, and the decision made to have a church wedding, the bride may be dismayed to discover that she isn't a free agent to make her plans as she wishes. Tradition, rules of etiquette, and a host of very real, practical problems intervene, but a careful look at these possible complexities before she makes her wedding arrangements will be of real value.

THE PRACTICAL APPROACH

How many guests? Will they be driving quite a distance? If so, the wedding hour is important to them. They must either be able to get home that night, or plans must be made to house them.

How many guests at the reception? This usually means a decision on how many the bride wants and how many her father can afford to entertain.

What kind of a reception menu? Is it to serve in lieu of a meal for those who have come a distance, in which case it must be a substantial buffet, or can it be simple?

Can her bridesmaids afford a formal wedding? Regardless of the amount she wishes to spend for her wedding gown, she has her friends to consider, since they buy their own dresses.

How gay a party shall the reception be? Does she want an orchestra for dancing, and if so, how long shall the dancing last?

What about the wedding trip? If the couple has a specific plane or ship reservation, the hour of the wedding must take that embarkation into consideration.

How formally does she herself wish to be dressed? The type of wedding gown she chooses rather than the hour of the wedding determines the formality of the wedding. If she wears a long wedding gown and a veil, her attendants will wear long dresses (or possibly dressy street-length dresses), while the male members of the wedding party will wear cutaway jackets and striped trousers.If she wears a wedding gown without train and veil, her wedding will be semi-formal. Her attendants will have either dresses of the same length or shorter, the male members of the wedding party will wear business suits, or navy blue jackets and white trousers.

It's her wedding. But many other people must be considered if they're to have a part in that happiest day.

The double-ring ceremony is often chosen by today couples. He places the ring on her finger, then the ceremony is repeated as she slips the wedding band on his finger.

Write Thank-Yous Early

What you say in your thank-you notes to gift givers isn't half as important as the speed with which you say it. If the presents pile up with the givers unthanked, then writing becomes a chore.

Get a head start on this situation by writing notes as soon as possible after the gift arrives. You don't have to spend hours at the task, for three sentences expressing genuine thanks can be written in a jiffy.

The task will seem less burdensome if you write only a few notes at a time. Perhaps you can sandwich them in between dress fittings, photographh appointments, and the other scheduled activities that are filling your pre-wedding days.

Somewhere in your house, clear a corner for action, line up your gift list and your stationery, and leave all this paraphernalia constantly set up, to make the mechanics of letter-writing easier. A bridge table may come in handy for this activity.

You don't need to be flowery in your thanks, nor should you be stereotyped. Just be yourself!

DELICATELY DIFFERENT: This bride chooses shell pink organdy, appliqued with poppies drifting down the skirt, for her wedding dress. A band of shell pink peau de soie circles the bodice just below the bustline and descends at the back into sash-like loops. The short tulle veil is held by a rsp of matching embroidery. Perfect for a summer wedding!

Stagger Heavy Work When Housecleaning

The battle against dirt is one war that's going to be waged constantly by the woman of the family. If she's a city dweller, the soot is back on the window sills the minute she has finished washing them. In the country, mud and grass are forever tracked through the kitchen. And if small boys and dogs are certainly added to the original twosome, its hard to keep one room in the house at all clean.

Fortunately for today's homemaker, the annual — and exhausting — spring and fall housecleanings are no longer either popular or sensible. The wise woman staggers the big chores of washing windows, laundering the curtains, and cleaning closets. If she can knock off one or two a week, she'll be better-organized — and a more rested — young woman.

She's even better organized if she can devise ways and means to keep dirt out of the house. Can traffic be re-routed so that the muddy and grimy can drop their shoes and coats on a back porch? Are mats for shoe-scraping available at entrances? Are the walks, steps and porches swept regularly to put the dirt back where it belongs?

Good cleaning equipment is, of course, essential. And a long look at dirt prevention will save the housewife a lot of scrubbing time.

Hands Off Those Dungarees

If your husband shows a strange passion for beatup dungarees and work shirts coming apart at the elbows, you'll be a wise wife if you stifle the impulse to burn them. To him there's solid comfort in his collection of old and faithful clothes, whatever you may think.

So rest them — and him — with respect—and when party-time comes around, he'll be more than happy to dig into a newer wardrobe to match some of your trousseau clothes.

Individual meat loaves, a change from the family size, can be made in muffin tins, with piece of bacon on the bottom for a different taste effect.

Groom Has Duties Too

While the bride may be up to ears in arranging wedding details, her groom has his own type of responsibilities, mostly financial.

First and foremost, the bridegroom-to-be must buy the engagement and wedding rings. If an engagement ring is outside his financial means, some other token of affection — a bracelet, wrist watch or brooch — is in order. In a double ring ceremony, the bride buys the groom's wedding ring.

The groom also has some floral obligations. Although the bride chooses the flowers for her bouquet, the groom usually is expected to pay the bill. He may purchase the bride's going away corsage, and boutonnieres for both fathers, the best man and the ushers, and, if he wishes, even the bridesmaid's nosegays. He also may buy his ushers' gloves and neckties.

Other expenses for the groom are the wedding license, the bachelor dinner, the clergyman's fee, gifts for his attendants, the automobile in which the couple leaves the reception, and, of course, the honeymoon. The clergyman's fee, handed to him before the ceremony in a white envelope, should be in proportion to the amount spent for the wedding. If the affair is very small and simple a fee of $10 or $15 is sufficient.

The best man generally calls for the groom on the wedding day and goes with him to the church, hands the wedding ring to the groom at the crucial moment, and should help settle any last minute problems, including the groom's nerves.

At the bride's table during the reception, the best man may be toastmaster, time keeper and general overseer. He can take charge of the transportation for the honeymoon and the luggage.

Helpful Hints For Homemakers

The trousseau is the early form of the dowry, when a bride brought her clothes and personal possessions to her new home.

Parents of the bride, and then the groom, leave the church first after the ceremony is over.

A new line of sweaters and separates uses an orlon filament yarn to give a very lustrous look to the garment.

It is not considered correct for relatives to give the bride a shower.

A wedding invitation is engraved — or printed — on the top sheet of a folded paper, with all other sheets blank.

Usually guests stand during a garden wedding, save for the elderly, who should be provided seats.

There is rarely any dancing at an informal wedding reception.

Altar decorations for a church wedding are the only flower arrangements necessary.

The best man always proposes the first toast to the bride.

Canned baked beans take on new life if you add an onion, chile sauce and some honey.

Wedding Trip Need Not Be Lavish and Expensive

A wedding trip is a vacation. It is a halcyon interlude before a young couple embarks on the practical business of making a home together. It is a time and a place for growing acquaintanceship after the stresses and strains of pre-wedding entertaining.

Yet many couples find their honeymoon anything but happy, because they didn't plan the trip together, with due deference to each other's differences in personality and interests.

"I was so glad to get back to our apartment after that trip to Bermuda," commented one young bride. "My husband evidently thought he had married an Olympic medalist, because he wanted to swim before breakfast, spend the whole day bicycling up and down the island, and rest up before dinner by playing two sets of tennis. I was so exhausted I was in tears most of the time."

HIGH COST NO INSURANCE

Another said wryly her husband had insulted her by taking along a large stack of books on their honeymoon trip. He had planned to work on his master's thesis. And the most unhappy of the group questioned said she had wrecked their beautiful — and expensive — honeymoon cruise by being seasick most of the time!

Planning a honeymoon vacation requires far more sensitivity than merely selecting an interesting spot from an array of travel folders. It is the first time that each must think in terms of two, not one. The bachelor and the bachelor girl are no more. And a trip that one might think perfection may be highly dissatisfying to the other.

Many couples make a major mistake when they plan too much. It may be too much driving, and too much moving from one stop to another before finally arriving at a holiday resort.

It may be too much glamor, with an incessant round of cocktail parties, horse racing, and moonlight dancing. It may be too much sightseeing.

PLAN TRIP BOTH WILL ENJOY

Dr. Marybia Farnham, psychiatrist, who takes a dim view of an over-ambitious trip, suggests wisely that a couple "go some place where you can enjoy a mutual interest—and that might be staying home and enjoying some concerts, going out into the country and doing some painting, or taking a motor trip to some place you've both wanted to see."

The specific place is unimportant, she says. "It doesn't matter where, provided it is a place where both want to go, and where both will have a good time once they are there," she states. The main thing is for them to resist going some place neither one cares to visit, just to show the world they can afford to."

An all-too-common mistake is planning a honeymoon in accordance with more or less insistent suggestions from relatives or even from friends. After all, it's your honeymoon!

SHEER WOOL. tissue-light and delicately dressmakered, is equally appropriate for bride or her attendant. Pastel are the color choices here. (By British Woolens.)

Remember to wash reflectors in lamps regularly and to dust lamp bulbs frequently to insure maximum efficiency.

If the bride's mother is not slim, her father will stand first in the receiving line.

Bits of chicken and ham, plus hard-boiled egg, make an elegant chef's salad, particularly if topped with chive cheese.

For Town Trip Be Tailored

The city's geography will determine the wardrobe you need. But be sure to have two extra pairs of comfortable shoes if you're going to sightsee.

One dressy dress is sufficient unless you're a determined night-clubber. Hats are optional — even the most formal city. New York, has relaxed. But for theatre or dining, you may want a veil or flower band.

Two jacket dresses — you'll use them many ways, many times.

Two pairs gloves, one of them white.

Dressmaker-type suit, of the dacron, orlon type, mixed with silk or wool.

Daytime dresses of the tailored variety are more appropriate to the city than the full-skirted, peasant type of costume.

TEMPTING: A beautifully-designed maple coffee table catches their eyes, but the bride-to-be doesn't let any detail elude her. The budget-conscious pair is shopping for basic furniture for their apartment.

In Furnishing Your First Home Concentrate on Good Construction

Whether they choose modern, functional furniture or traditional 18th century, young couples will do well to buy substantial basic pieces, guaranteed to live long and happily.

Well-constructed couches and chairs can be covered and re-covered as their upholstery shows the inevitable wear and tear.

So before you splurge on a marble-topped coffee table of immense proportions, select and pay for a living room couch and easy chairs. The incidental pieces can then be added as your taste and budget permit.

Since you're the people who will occupy the living room most frequently, make it comfortable for you. Some couches with strong eye appeal are so deep and so wide that only a six-footer can be comfortable in them. "Easy" chairs are not always easy on the back. So give each piece that interests you a practical workout.

Choice of pattern and color go hand in hand. The living room, if it's to be livable, must not be a hodge-podge of small and large upholstery patterns, nor a kaleidescope of colors. Choose a basic color with which you both can live for many years. Greys and greens and beiges are safe choices for the large pieces of furniture, while smaller chairs, the rug or the draperies can provide color accents.

If yours is to be a small apartment, it's well to be overly-conservative in choosing furnishings. Time enough for you to be boldly dramatic when you move into a house with more ample proportions.

Icing should be just ready to set when applied to a cake. If it is too soft it will run off; if too thick, it will not spread easily and will break a tender cake. Cake should be cooled before icing.

SOLID COMFORT: . The youth votes an enthusiastic "yes" for this rocker in colonial style, especially when his bride-to-be is near.

HE'S INTERESTED: Since he's going to live in the apartment, too, he's being consulted about his choice of fabrics for the new couch. Weight, texture, designs are all being considered by these careful shoppers.

Simple Rites For Divorcee

A simple ceremony, either in a chapel or a hotel, is recommended for the woman who is either a widow or a divorcee.

Neither a widowed nor a divorced bride should wear white or a wedding veil. She should choose either a dinner, cocktail or dressy afternoon dress, small hat, gloves and a small hand bouquet or a corsage.

If the bride is a widow, a child by her former marriage may participate in the ceremony, but this tradition doesn't hold true of a divorcee.

Etiquete rules relax a bit for the reception, which can properly be as large as the newlyweds desire. Parties also are in order for the second-time bride, but showers are never in good taste. And friends who sent gifts for the first wedding shouldn't be expected to give again.

Formal invitations and announcements or a newspaper announcement are seldom used. If announcements are sent, they may be issued by the bride or her parents.

The former marital status of the bridegroom doesn't affect the type of ceremony to be planned. If the bride has never been married, she may plan a large, formal wedding although her husband-to-be is divorced or widowed.

Wax areas where there's wear and tear, like door edges, just above and below the door knob.

Short Cut Tricks Make Cooking a Treat

Wonder-working cheese can serve as first course, last course or in-between snack. But one of its greatest assets to the brand-new cook is its use in cheese sauce, to transform vegetables, sea-food, potatoes, rice, and many other basic ingredients into really glamorous dishes.

Cheese sauce can be made successfully by either the double boiler method over indirect heat or in a heavy pan over very low heat. The protein of cheese, like that of eggs, cooks very quickly, so low heat must be maintained.

A single half-pound of pasteurized process American cheese, made with two cups of milk and the proper seasonings, makes a full three cups of cheese sauce.

FOR A THICKER CHEESE SAUCE

¼ cup margarine; ¼ cup flour; ½ teaspoon salt; ½ lb. pasteurized process American cheese, shredded; 2 cups milk.

Make a sauce with first four ingredients. When thickened and smooth, add the cheese and stir till melted.

CHEESE SAUCE A MAGIC BLENDER

Cheese sauce mixes and blends beautifully! Try it some of these ways.

Rabbits: Welsh Rabbit — serve with almonds
Tuna Rabbit
Tomato Corn Rabbit
Kidney Bean Rabbit.
Serve over: Toast and broiled tomato halves — top with bacon; deviled eggs on toast; ham croquettes; rice timbales; fish sticks; broccoli; asparagus; small whole cooked onions.

Spoon into: baked beans, Spanish rice; baking potatoes.

Mainstay in: Macaroni and cheese casserole; Au Gratin potatoes; Au Gratin cabbage.

The Role of the Clergyman

The clergyman who performs the wedding ceremony should be invited to the reception, unless the wedding guests are limited to members of the couple's immediate families.

If you plan to be married in a local church, but wish to have the ceremony performed by a minister other than the local clergyman, it is courteous to ask the latter to assist at the ceremony.

Copper plates of the engraving made for your invitations will be sent you with delivery of the order.

A rehearsal of the wedding ceremony is more than making sure you don't stumble over the responses. It is an opportunity to talk over the plans and hopes with a wise, experienced counselor.

At the request of the bride and groom, communion can be served them by the minister at the close of the ceremony, just before th final prayer.

A bride's mother may give her away, if her father is not alive, but more often an uncle takes over the part of the ceremony.

Helpful Hints For Homemakers

In making pie pastry use large enough recipe to fit pan without stretching. Prick pastry shell generously over bottom and sides. This prevents shrinking or buckling of pastry shells.

In making fruit pies, cut small holes or design in top crust. Bake pies 10 to 15 minutes at 425 degrees F., then finish baking at 350 F. This prevents soggy crusts.

For quicker bedmaking, and smoother sleeping, invest in the fitted sheets, with four fitted corners for the bottom sheet, and two fitted corners for the top sheet.

When preparing bread shapes for canapes, use slightly stale bread, and cut the loaf lengthwise in thin slices; cut shapes and toast in the broiler.

A joint checking account is usually more practical than an account in the name of the husband only.

The bride should remember to transfer her engagement ring from left to right hand, prior to the wedding ceremony.

Sheets are now available in dacron and cotton weave. If properly folded, they should need no ironing.

Some rug manufacturers pretreat the fabric with a mothproofing chemical, good for many years.

When baking, use squares of heavy waxed paper for keeping measured ingredients handy until ready to use.

Sprinkle cocoanut over ready-to-eat cereals and add fresh fruits.

Too much water added to your pastry dough makes a tough pastry.

Check all ingredients and equipment before you start baking.

Gift-wrap small-scale birthday or house gifts in a handkerchief, and you're giving two presents instead of one.

If wedding gifts are sent after the wedding, as happens in the case of receipt of announcement cards, not invitations, they should be addressed to both the husband and wife at their new address.

Sectional shelves, to be arranged and re-arranged to fit your books and records and curio collection, are also a source of line and interest in a room.

Silver and linens today are more often marked with the bride's future initials, rather than with those of her maiden name.

DELICATELY DIFFERENT — This bride chooses shell pink organdy, appliqued with poppies drifting down the skirt, for her wedding dress. A band of shell pink peau de sole circles the bodice just below the bustline and descends at the back into sash-like loops. The short tulle veil is held by a cap of matching embroidery. Perfect for a summer wedding!

Invitations Require Hand-Written Reply

Does an invitation to a wedding reception call for a reply?

Yes, whether or not you can attend. This reply should be written by hand on a sheet of white paper. If you plan to go, say that you accept the invitation with pleasure. If you can not attend, say that you are sorry that you cannot accept the invitation.

Does an invitation to a church wedding and not to the reception call for a reply?

In this case a reply is not necessary unless the invitation is addressed to you as a personally-written note. Should that be the case, you should respond.

If you receive a wedding announcement, should you send a gift?

If the bride or bridegroom happens to be a close friend, you should send a gift. Otherwise it is not necessary.

To whom is the gift addressed?

Always to the bride and this is sent to her at her home. Send your gift as soon as you receive the invitation.

Who leaves the church first at a wedding?

After the recessional, those seated in the family pews make their way down the aisle, then the guests.

What is a guest supposed to do when entering the receiving line?

Wish the bride happiness, congratulate the groom and comment favorably on the wedding to the bride's parents. Just keep your comments short.

WHY COFFEE POTS SHOULD BE WASHED

Some oils from coffee cling to the inside of a coffee pot after the coffee is poured out. This oil film becomes rancid and makes coffee bitter if it is not removed. Wash your coffee maker thoroughly every time you use it.

Shop Last For Lamps

When you're out shopping for home furnishings, put the selection of lamps at the end your list, or until sofas and chairs and tables are purchased can you decide on the size, shape and design of your lamps.

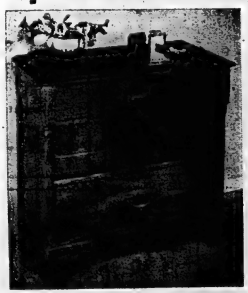
A floor lamp that is too tall pours light into your face instead of illuminating your reading. A ornate, overweight lamp on a delicate end table is both unsteady and unattractive.

While lamps are designed primarily to give good lighting, they can bring both color and charm into your living room. Twin table lamps with dark red parchment shades give warmth to a living room whose basic tones are shades of green. Delicate china lamps offset large, heavy pieces of furniture.

And fortunately, lamps can be safely chosen as contrast to a rooms furniture period. Japanese designed lamps mix beautifully with modern wood. Lamp bases made of jugs and bottles don't clash at all with 18th century formal living rooms.

Useful Table For New Cook

The new bride will need to refer often to this table of kitchen weights and measures.



3 teaspoons — 1 tablespoon
16 tablespoons liquid — 1 cup
12 tablespoons dry — 1 cup
1 cup — ½ pint
2 cups — 1 pint
2 tablespoons sugar — 1 ounce
4 tablespoons of flour or butter (level) — 1 ounce
4 tablespoons of cocoa — 1 square of chocolate
8 egg whites — 1 cup
12 egg yolks — 1 cup
1 cup of butter — ½ lb.
4 cups of flour — 1 lb.
2 cups of chopped meat tightly packed — 1 lb.
2 cups of raisins — 1 lb.
1 cup of chopped nut meats — ¼ lb.
2 cups of granulated sugar — 1 lb.

LET THEM DRIP

Do as the manufacturer tells you — when washing drip-dry fabrics. If they are carefully hung up, preferably on a wooden hanger, and really are dripping, they won't need any ironing.

Small Chapel Is Perfect For a Small Wedding

By LYDIA RICKFORD

The city bride often selects the chapel of a large church as the spot for her wedding, particularly if she plans to limit her guests to members of the immediate family.

A chapel offers the religious significance that many brides wish, yet is simple enough so that neither time nor great expense need be spent on decorating, as is large wedding procession or on the bride's gown.

A chapel wedding too offers a solution for two young people whose parents have a host of friends, all of whom might be expected to attend the wedding if it were held in the church.

BREAKFAST FOLLOWS NOON WEDDING

Favorite time of the day for a chapel wedding is noon, and after the brief ceremony, the wedding participants and their guests can go to a nearby hotel or restaurant to have a wedding "breakfast" served them in a private dining room.

In the east, this breakfast actually has a luncheon menu, with or without the accompanying champagne, according to the wishes of the bride and her family. It features one luncheon dish, which may be a cool lobster salad, or a more substantial chicken shortcake or chicken cacciatore. But in the west, breakfast is still breakfast, and the meal would include sausage or ham, hot and sweet rolls, and an array of jams and jellies.

Daytime clothes for daytime weddings still give the bride great latitude in choosing the costume in which she will be married. Available this spring are a variety of silk costumes, consisting of a sheath dress with tiny waistline jacket, in silk, linen, pure silk or silk faille. These ensembles, which the bride may elect to buy in the pastel color most becoming to her, are perfect not only for the ceremony and the breakfast, but for day-and home wear. The sheath itself can be dressed up for entertaining at home or abroad, and whether she is a working girl or a full-time homemaker, she'll find the costume invaluable.

SUIT IS IDEAL BRIDAL COSTUME

For those who prefer the suited look — and are not being married in a climate where the temperature climbs near 100 — a sheer wool or silk suit is ideal. Fabrics for these suits are tissue-light in weight, and dressmaker touches make them pretty as well as tailored. Many such dressmaker suits can be worn with or without a blouse, and after the wedding trip, will lead at least nine lives at home.

A wisp of a flowered hat, which may consist of little more than veiling or feathers in matching color, white shoulder gloves, and shoes dyed to match the dress complete the bride's wedding wardrobe. An attendant in her lead, her guests will dress similarly, with the men in the party wearing a navy blue or charcoal business suit in a light-weight fabric.

The bride may write, wire or phone the guests whom she plans to invite, and if she has a bit of a guilty conscience about the many she couldn't invite, she can mail them an engraved announcement and an At Home card after the wedding.

Helpful Hints For Homemakers

Appliances lead double lives. A rotisserie is also a portable oven or broiler. The waffle iron converts to a sandwich grill. Electric skillets can be used for quick frying or slow simmering and stewing.

In the absence of a steam iron when you're pressing woollens, wet a dish towel, place it over the woollen, and iron with a hot iron. As soon as the heat dries the towel, wet it again to avoid scorching.

To save time when laundering, place in one pile all clothes that will require the same water temperature, the same length of time, and the same kind of soap or detergent.

When an automatic electric blanket is in use, be sure the control selector is away from radiators or open windows. Then you are sure of proper regulation.

A quick barbecue sauce: To half a cup chili sauce, add one tablespoon brown sugar, and one teaspoon vinegar. Use on spare ribs and barbecued chicken, or on frankfurters.

Pocket-size cosmetics: On the market are tiny flacons of perfume, small tubes of hand cream, ditto deodorants, which fit into your pocketbook with ease.

Designer Tells Veil's History

A sensitive woodsy with flashing dark eyes and a retro-worn look lives in, a works on world of her own, surrounded by rolls of tulle, lace and chiffon, and an interesting assortment of dummy heads.

She is Mary Morgan, veil designer for one of New York's pre-season successes. Suprest her work is to create custom-made veils for brides and headpieces for their attendants.

She has many factors to consider before she goes to work on a specialty – designed veil. Not only the wedding dress, but the bride-to-be's height, coloring, and features help determine the kind of veil to be worn.

And while she sketches and stitches she recounts the history of veils, once, she says, a symbol of bondage, and now an accessory of modern fashion.

Originally, Miss Morgan says, marriage veils were yellow, the color that symbolized marriage for Roman and Hebrew brides. Veils of purple, saffron and other colors were worn by the Greeks, though the Grecian bride usually chose white.

But more concerned with the veils and the brides of 1959, Miss Morgan designs for today, so "her" brides can be most beautiful on their wedding day.

Crown of orange blossoms was delicately designed by Mary Morgan.

Freezer Planning Spells Economy

The freezer compartment in today's refrigerator deserves a better role than catchall for a jumbled assortment of frozen foods. The wise home manager will avail herself on the freezer's space to stock up on meat and poultry specials in quantity —and plan her daily menus accordingly.

A buy on fryers means she can store half-a-dozen for future use. A steak sale at the supermarket? Buy for several meals, not one. This practice keeps food costs down, and makes the freezer unit an economy, not a luxury.

FREEZE FOR THE FUTURE

Home-cooked foods that can readily be frozen save time on meal preparation, too, if the cook remembers to cook double. If she's making meat loaf for supper, it's just as easy to double the recipe, make two loaves, and deposit the second, wrapped in foil or freezer paper, in the freezer. Ditto for cakes, iced or plain. Loaves (if there are no potatoes in them) and casserole dishes They'll be welcome finds when there's unexpected company for dinner some night.

The young wife who packs a luncheon for her husband to eat at work will find the freezer unit a godsend. Sandwiches can be made a day or a week in advance, individually wrapped and stored in the freezer. But a few warnings on fillings: Skip the lettuce, which collapses in the cold, and add that when the lunch is packed. Watch out for certain fillings like cream sheese, which just wont stand up in the freezer, and fresh tomatoes, which disintegrate. But most sandwich fillings are completely stable, and won't be mired their zero housing.

Mother Is Strategist And Efficiency Expert

Your wedding may not be a social spectacular, but even if its to be a relatively simple ceremony, there are many moments when business efficiency is needed to keep track of the necessary hords of details.

The mother of the bride, fortunately, rises to the occasion, and amid the welter of tissue paper, phone calls, photographer's appointments, and menu planning, keeps calm and serene (usually).

Secret of her success is first of all, time. An informal wedding that involves only can be arranged in a few weeks. But a more formal ceremony takes long-range planning. If last-minute hysteria is to be avoided.

Secondly, a family conference to which the groom-to-be is invited will resolve many practical details. True, the bride's father must finance the wedding, but the groom's guest list, his brothers and sisters who may or may not be in the wedding party, and the geographical location of all who come to the wedding have great bearing on the ceremony itself.

Basic questions to be decided as soon as possible are:

Type of wedding, place, time, number of guests, kind and location of reception, members of wedding party, housing and feeding of wedding party prior to the reception.

After these major decisions are made, the details come thick and fast. Engage the church, the minister and the organist. Outline and order invitations, since these must be mailed a month in advance of the ceremony. Engage club or hotel, if the reception is to be held there. Give an approximate number of guests, which will be verified after the acceptances are received. Plan the complete menu. Work out a color scheme for the bridesmaids, with due thought to their appearance. Find a dress. Go trousseau shopping, after you know where you will go on your wedding trip.

When the bulk of the wedding details are taken care of, you'll be able to give thought to parties for your attendants, your gifts to them, your photographs, and where in the world to put all the gifts that keep arriving. What would a bride do without her mother?

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

They may have been ragged old sweaters,
Just sweat-smelly hunks of old rag,
But they were 'em in Czechoslovakia
And put the world crown in the bag.
So the Dunnies sat up and took notice—
They dragged down world wrecks from the racks,
Now they're wearing their old Oslo castoffs.
A lesson they learned from the Macs.

Hockey "rags" paved the way to world championship "riches" for the McFarlands — and now the Whitby Dunlops hope to cop their second Allan Cup in three years via the same route.

After their arrival in Paisley, Scotland, on the first leg of the European tour, fans will recall the Macs were adopted by the Scottish clan McFarland, presented with scarves, bal-morals, tams, glengarries and other clan paraphernalia.

The wee Scottie camerasmen were on the scene flashing pictures of the Macs in their Highland garb with a pretty wee lassie bussing some of the boys, Ike Hildebrand in particular.

The pictures eventually reached Canada and were published in the sports pages of not a few dailies.

One of the group pictures caught the eye of the dynamic manager of the Whitby Dunlops, one M'Lieu Wren Blair, "Call me Blair, whatever the other good points are, does not believe in going around down-at-heel, wearing frayed shirt-cuffs, trouser-bottoms and soiled linen.

In fact Mr. Blair could very well model men's shirts, suits, slacks, collars, ties, topcoats, everything in masculine attire except underwear.

When Mr. Blair saw the picture of the McFarlands in Scotland he raised horror-stricken eyes to the heavens. He did a Dagwood from the breakfast table to the telephone and called this department.

"What's the matter with Hildebrand and Denyes," he shouted into the receiver. "The McFarlands look like a bunch of tramps. Those sweaters they are wearing in Scotland look as if they had been through a threshing machine. They're ragged and torn and frayed at the edges. Lou Smrke has a hole in his as big I can see the birthmark on his hip."

Blair didn't wait for any explanations. He went on: "Canadian teams in Europe have been noted for their smartness and appearance, both on and off the ice, especially on the ice. The Dunlops were one of the best-dressed teams to play over there and they were often complimented on their appearance. What's wrong with the Macs?"

What Blair did not know was the Macs' new uniforms had not arrived prior to departure and the tournament outfits were being brought over later by Manager Denyes. They wore the outfits they used in league play during the first few exhibition games, and these were what Blair saw.

Blair was right in a way. The Macs' uniforms at that time were not the neatest in captivity. They showed the wear and tear of the gruelling schedule grind and with a few more games would have been ready for a rag-picking organization or an old-age pensioner.

Consistent use had reduced some of the sweaters to what the distaff side styles the "mack." A lot of the boys looked like expectant fathers. With a laurel wreath atop his brow, big Al Dewsbury would have resembled Caesar in the royal togs.

Even the brand new tournament outfits showed the worse for wear that thrill-night in Prague when the Macs were crowned kings of hockey. And that is where Mr. Blair enters the picture again.

He dug his Oslo relics out of the mothballs, draped the Dunnies with the battled-scarred, leaf-pattered coveralls, and went out and won the first game of the Allan Cup finals over the Vernon Canadians.

He figured if the Macs could win riches in rags, his Dunnies could do likewise. So the 1958 world champions will wear the garb they wore winning the global title in Oslo.

What is do with the "rags" after the hockey wars are over? The Dunnies and the Macs could pool their carpet fodder and present them to the Toronto Maple Leafs for use as goal-nets. There would be no arguments about the puck going through them.

Sure, Layin' a Bet in Ould Ireland Is Loike Buyin' the Family Grub

DUBLIN (AP) — Almost anywhere in Ireland a man can step into a betting shop straight from the sidewalk, lay a bet on any English or Irish horse race, wait a couple of minutes for the results, and then pick up his winnings—if he's lucky.

Its as easy as buying a hot dog or a soft drink in the United States and often no more profitable.

This cash-and-carry...shop system is the opposite of the on-track-only system in effect almost everywhere.

The American system has been criticized frequently and the restrictive laws often are violated. A good many Americans would like to see the Irish shop system installed in this country.

P. J. Kilmartin and his son, P. A. Kilmartin, own 150 betting shops in Dublin and they have established the working time said again to envious Americans.

"Actually we aren't supposed to pay off a bet until 15 minutes after the last race each day," said T. A. Kilmartin. "But if we did that, we wouldn't have many in here betting, so we pay off on the spot."

Laws authorizing the unique betting shops were cleared through the Dail (Irish Parliament) in 1926. Today, Kilmartin said, there are at least 600 shops in the country.

"There are about 350 in Dublin alone. Out in the country you will find one or two in every village, almost regardless of how small the village is," he said.

Third Blast Whips Giants In Eleven-Inning Thriller; Indians Lead Pack by Pair

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

You might say Cleveland's Calvin Coolidge Tecumseh McLish didn't really start eatin' good until he uncovered the Detroit Tigers. The right-handed veteran's been faltering his won-lost record ever since.

The big Oklahoman Indian had the Tigers on a spit again Tuesday night. Backed up by four homers, two by Minnie Minoso the drove in six runs, McLish put the Tigers away with a six-hitter for a 14-1 breeze that sent the Indians two games ahead of the field in the American League.

This is the same McLish who broke in at 19 with the National League's old Brooklyn Dodgers in 1944. It's the same McLish who was bundled with Kirby Higbe, Dixie Howell and Gene Mauch by Brooklyn and packed off to Pittsburgh for Al Gionfriddo and $100,000 a dozen years ago. It's the same McLish who was traded to the Chicago Cubs along with Frankie Gustine by the Bucs in 1948 for Cliff Chambers, Hank Sauer, Ralph Kiner, Dutch Leonard and Cliff Chambers.

GOOD LAST YEAR

And it's the same McLish who finally became a big winner last year,with the Cubs and the Tribe, after a stint in the minors in '56. It was last season that McLish led the Tribe with 19-8 record, and beat the Tigers three out of four.

Tuesday night he made it five out of six, pulling together his second consecutive victory and two starts this season — both against Detroit.

While the Indians, banded their first defeat in their last start against Kansas City\, made their record 7-1, the New York Yankees walloped White Sox 11-4 and jumped to second as the Chicago White Sox skidded to third with an 8-3 loss at Kansas City. Baltimore tied for third with a 5-2 victory at Boston.

McLish, 33, whose lone shutout in 10 major league seasons came with the Cubs back in '51, had the Tigers blanked until the eighth, when they scored an unearned run. By then the Tribe had it bagged.

George Strickland and Vic Power also homered in the 10-hit barrage. Strickland paired his blast with Minoso's opener for a five-run first inning against loser Paul Foytack (0-1) as the Detroit crowd booted and jeered at the Tigers (7-1).

YANKS GET 15 HITS

The Yankees bunted loose for 15 hits at Washington against Pete Ramos, who had won his first two starts, and three relievers. Mickey Mantle, who hit his 250th career homer, first this year, Hank Bauer, who also homered, Yogi Berra, Norm Siebern and Bill Skowron each drove in two runs. Urbeaten Don Larsen won his second but needed Duke Maas' one-hit, shutout relief after Bob Allison and Jim Lemon homered for a three-run Nat slash.

Righthander Bob Grim (2-1) held the White Sox hitless for five innings while the A's chased southpaw Billy Pierce (1-1). A four-run second inning, produced by Dick Williams' two-run double and Al Smith's two-run error, enabled the A's to beat Pierce. Grim, with both victories over the Sox, lost his shutout in the sixth on Sherm Lollar's two-run double after singles by pinch-hitter Don Mueller and Jim Landis. John Callison hit his first 59 homer in the Sox seventh.

Gus Triandos hammered in all of the Orioles' runs with a pair of homers, one a first - inning grand slam off rookie Jerry Casale (1-1). Two passed balls and an error by the big Baltimore catcher gave the Red Sox their second run, however. Knuckleballing Hoyt Wilhelm, who had lost four in a row to Boston, won his first decision with an eight-hitter, striking out eight but forcing in the other run with one of five walks.

Webb, Rivers Meet Tonight

The 10-round nationally televised match will be scored under the Boston Musial system.

It will be the second meeting between Webb, 27, of Chicago and Rivers, 25.

Spider's speed spun a close victory over Rivers Feb. 15, 1957 in New York.

OPTION PITCHER

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jack Fisher, 20, a right - handed pitcher, was optioned Tuesday by Baltimore Orioles to the Miami Marlins of the International League on 24-hour recall.

Court Affirms Deal for Chavez Ravine

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The California Supreme Court has again affirmed the deal between Los Angeles and the Dodgers for a baseball stadium in Chavez Ravine.

The high court upheld Tuesday the validity of an agreement between Los Angeles and the city's housing authority involving 189 acres, part of the 300 - acre Chavez Ravine Stadium site.

The decision settled suits brought by Julius Ruben and Lila Kirshbaum, Los Angeles taxpayers.

Kirshbaum alleged that the 189 acres had been conveyed by the authority to Los Angeles with the restriction of use "for public purposes only" and therefore could not be transferred to the Dodgers for stadium use.

Lindo Cepeda and Baltimore's Gus Triandos, and is second among league hitters with a .412 average.

ALL RUNS ON HOMERS

All of the Dodger runs came on homers. Don Zimmer's first of the season was a two-run shot in a five-run third inning that got rolling on Zimmer's inside-the-park homer—the first ever at the coliseum.

Felipe Alou and Jackie Brandt homered for the Giants, who tied it 7-7 with four runs in the fifth. Demeter's payoff homer came off reliefer Al Worthington (1-1), who allowed only two hits in his 4 1-3 pitcher.

Fowler, dumped by Cincinnati in 1957, relieved starter Stan Williams in the San Francisco fifth, gave up two hits and the tying run, then blanked San Francisco on four hits, striking out six and walking but two.

Hobbie (2-0) retired the first 20 men, then gave up a double to Stan Musial with two out in the seventh. In the ninth he gave up his lone walk and hit a batter, then relined Musial for the final out.

The Cubs scored on singles by Walt Moryn and Sammy Taylor that sandwiched a walk and infield out in the second inning. Rookie Gary Blaylock, making his first big league start, went all the way for the Cards, giving up five hits.

Hank Aaron, who leads the league with a .567 batting average, hit a single, double and triple for the Braves, who handed Bob Purkey (2-1) his first defeat.

Vade Pinson matched Aaron's plate performance, driving in six of the Reds' runs off Spahn, who gave up 11 hits.

They'll Do It Every Time

Discrimination Denied by Bosox Officials

BOSTON (AP)—A Boston Red Sox official has vigorously denied charges that the Boston baseball club discriminated in the handling of infielder Jerry (Pumpsie) Green.

Richard O'Connell, vice-president and business manager of the Red Sox, told the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination Tuesday that he wished the club had a Negro ball player, "if we had I wouldn't be sitting here this morning," he added.

The MCAD met to air charges of bias brought by three Boston groups—the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Ministerial Alliance and the American Veterans Commission.

O'Connell said "the only difference between us and the Yankees is Elston Howard, Negro catcher."

"We have seven Negroes in our organization now," O'Connell said, "We have absolutely no discrimination against race, color or creed. All we want to do is win a pennant."

Green was sent down to the Sox' Minneapolis club when he tapered off after making a good start in spring training.

Mother Burned Boxing Gloves Of Wife Greaves When Five, But He Continued in Game

By GERRY McNEIL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Wife Greaves was five years old when his mother burned his boxing gloves. At the time Will was raising lumps on children from neighboring farms 9-4ft. the Entwistle area, 60 miles west of here.

Now, says Mrs. Max Greaves, her son's career as a boxer was fated. Will is Canadian middleweight champion and has had some important bouts in the United States.

"The minister who baptized Wolf said he would be a boxer," Mrs. Greaves said in an interview. She pronounces his name Wolf, almost a nickname among his Edmonton friends.

"Will never fought much at school," explains a former classmate. "After a couple of scraps, nobody would fight with him."

WAS AVERAGE STUDENT

Greaves, a handsome 23-year-old, his clean - cut features unmarred by ring scars, earned an average student, he took Grade 12 and stayed away from school-yard brawls.

He is the most highly - rated Canadian boxer next to Archie Moore's heavyweight Yvon Durelle. He is up-in the world's 10 best, mainly as a fine showing against Gene Fullmer, former world's middleweight king. Before losing to the Utah Mormon, Will had won 13 straight.

His career began when boxing instructor Bob Ford of Edmonton spotted him at wrestling. Ford trained hard, learned fast and climaxed his amateur campaign by winning the British Empire Games title at Vancouver in 1954.

The next year he turned pro.

Managed by Jake Mintz, Will made Pittsburgh his home and ranged about U.S. fight centres, losing close bouts to top-notchers such as Fullmer and Ralph "Tiger" Jones before he had had 29 matches. Some boxing observers claimed he was being brought along too fast but he improved steadily.

NOW WITH TONY ROSS

"When Mintz died, Will changed managers several times before signing a contract last year with Tony Ross of Detroit. Will, who maintains a Canadian residence in Windsor, Ont., fights out of Detroit.

How does he like the game?

"I always was stubborn . . . a poor loser.

"Through boxing, I felt I could let off steam and make it legal . . . legalized murder.

"That's what it amounts to in the ring—two guys trying to beat each other's brains out" . . . survival of the fittest."

He walked restlessly across the front room of his parents home here, stroking his cropped blonde hair with a thick hand.

"Of course, you make a lot of friends . . . some of the nicest guys I've known are in this business.

"Then there are contacts . . . You make a lot of contacts while you're active, then when you retire, you take advantage of them."

FINANCIAL BACKER

Wealthy Detroit industrialist C. W. (Larry) Smith is one of the contacts. Smith gives Will financial backing and has offered him a foreman's job at a race horse farm he plans to build in Kentucky.

After 3½ years of pro boxing, Will has a 27-11-1 record in 39 fights. He has knocked out 15 opponents but claims never to have been knocked off his feet himself.

He keeps his 155-pound body in splendid condition. He neither smokes nor drinks, although he may take dry wine at breakfast for the blood" or a glass of ale when he perspires. Protein-high meals and two miles of road-work each morning keep him trim.

Except for a nose slightly flattened by a butt, his face is unmarked.

His last two fights have netted him, after expenses, $6,000. His last the first, in February, to Fullmer. Two weeks later, he dropped a decision to Yama Bahama.

Will, unmarried, says he will retire at 26 but hopes in the meantime to get a title shot.

His easy savo last summer of Cobey McCluskey of Dartmouth, N.S., was his last fight in Canada.

ATHLETE OF YEAR

Canuck Hurler Drops Leafs Into 5th Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The brilliant pitching of a young Canadian has dropped Toronto Maple Leafs into fifth place in the International League.

Southpaw Dick Lines, 20-year-old former Montrealer, left the Leafs' bats as cold as the 40-degree weather at Columbus as his fellow Jets combed three Toronto hurlers for 11 hits to defeat Toronto 9-1 Tuesday night. Lines allowed only four hits.

Havana Sugar Kings lost at home, 8-4 to Rochester Red Wings, Buffalo Bisons walloped the Marlins at Miami and Montreal was rained out at Richmond.

BIG INNING

The second-place Jets locked up the home slay inaugural with five hits in the sixth.

They got a homer from Jiff McDaniel, his first, and three hits each from Nino Escalera and Tony Bartirome.

Julian Javier of Columbus was struck in the right elbow by loser Ray Crone's fast ball in the fourth inning. He will be examined today to see if he has a fracture.

First batter Angel Scull doubled and Leo Cardenas drove in the run until two were out in the seventh.

Rochester scored all its runs in the first five innings, highlighted by a six-run fifth.

Cal Emery, with help from Dick Ricketts, racked up his first victory for Buffalo in relief. Jerry Lane was the loser, getting relief help from Whammy Douglas and Paul Giel.

Jim Frey homered for Rochester and Bornego Alvarez hit his third for Havana.

Two former Marlins, pitcher Warren Hacker, with an eight-hitter, and Frank Herrera, with a two-run homer led Buffalo. The former, off loser Mickey McDermott, was Herrera's third of the season.

Hacker didn't allow a walk and struck out nine. Bobby Delgreco has three doubles for the Bisons who ran up a 5-0 lead in the first four innings.

SMELTS NEARLY READY

PARRY SOUND (CP) — The Parry Sound annual Smelt Jamboree, slated for Friday has been postponed to May 1 after almost all the preparations had been made. The smelts aren't ready, Len Fisk, secretary of Parry Sound Chamber of Commerce, said "there are no reports of any smelts starting to spawn anywhere in the area." The little fish are scooped out of the Seguin River by the thousand and are cooked and served on the main street.

Don Black Former Indian Dies Suddenly

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Don Black, 40, the pitcher who made a dramatic comeback with Cleveland Indians in 1947 and then suffered a brain hemorrhage in 1948, died suddenly Tuesday night.

He was watching the telecast of the Cleveland - Detroit game at Detroit when he collapsed. He was pronounced dead in hospital.

Black had played for Philadelphia Athletics but was picked up off the end of the 1945 season, for the waiver price, by Cleveland.

Sent to the minors, he was recalled to Cleveland when Bill Veeck took charge in 1947. He won 10 games, one of them a no-hitter against the Athletics July 10. He publicly acknowledged that membership in Alcoholics Anonymous helped him rehabilitate himself.

In Cleveland's pennant year of 1948 he was less effective, and had a 8-2 record when on Sept. 12, in a game against St. Louis Browns, he collapsed at the plate. Diagnosis showed a brain hemorrhage that ended his career.

A benefit game raised about $10,000 for him.

He had been an auto salesman in his recent years. On Christmas, 1957, he was critically injured in an auto accident in Virginia.

His wife and two daughters survive.

Canadians Say

Senior Hockey Dying in West, Whitby, Vernon Play Tonight

TORONTO (CP) — Whitby Dunlops are problem enough for any hockey club but Vernon Canadians, Allan Cup opposition, are also fighting a sideline battle.

Canadians have money troubles and their presence here is raising anew the problem of senior hockey's financial future in Canada.

The B. C. club, which operates on a co-operative basis, needed provincial and civic financial assistance to get here. In addition, George Agar, manager and playing - coach of the western champions, thinks their native Okanagan Valley senior league may fold after this season.

Canadians lost Sunday's opening game in the best-of-seven series 5-2. They had just completed some two weeks on the road, however, and are expected to be stronger in the second game tonight.

Attendance at Sunday's game pointed up many senior clubs' problems. Only 4,082 spectators turned out and opinion locally puts the probable attendance for the entire series at around 15,000, or about one capacity attendance at Canadians' arena.

Sparse attendance isn't new to the Vernon club. Prime reason for this season's spectators slump in Vernon was television, which invaded the Okanagan Valley for the first time last fall.

"This season we've averaged 800 customers in a house that seats 2,000," said Agar. "How can we continue?"

Most of the Canadians have played all season for next to nothing, said the veteran of 21 years in hockey. The players do get some as little as $75 for a month's pay last December.

Vernon may also lose half a dozen players to retirement, including Agar, next fall. But the hope of a possible European trip for the Allan Cup champions could keep the boys together, said Agar as his club worked through an hour's drill at the Gardens.

Senior hockey badly needs a boost in the west, Agar says. The Okanagan was the only A calibre league this season with the Kootenay Senior—another B. C. circuit with three teams — step behind, he added.

In the east Whitby's only competition outside its OHA Eastern Senior A League came from Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen of the OHA - NOHA Senior A loop. Other eastern Allan Cup contenders offered little opposition.

Agar is planning some line changes but likely won't make them until he sees Canadians in action tonight. Vernon played most of the year with 15 players but added four under CAHA replacement rules. Among them is player coach Ken Kinsley from Kelowna Packers who scored over 60 goals this season and set a league scoring mark of 118 points.

Whitby will be strengthened by penalty - killing specialist Fred Etcher on account of exams. Etcher, who opposes playing hockey Sundays, missed the first game.

More Sugar Is Needed by Sugar Kings

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Havana Sugar Kings have warned Cuban baseball fans the International League club's franchise may be moved to Jersey City, N.J., this season unless financial help arrives soon.

In a written statement read over a Havana radio station, the corporation which owns the club said a poor bill for television rights and low attendance have placed the franchise in immediate jeopardy.

Attendance here has sagged badly since opening night when more than 12,000 turned out to watch Prime Minister Fidel Castro throw in the first ball.

The club hope, said the radio station, lies in public subscription in a country of more than 700,000 unemployed or an unlikely dole by the government.

The directors disclosed that since the franchise was acquired by Havana in 1955, club losses amounted to $133,378.

The statement added that plans for a transfer to Jersey City had been made in September, but with the overthrow of the Batista regime Jan. 1 a new effort was made to stay in Cuba.

To prove even, the statement said, the Sugar Kings would have to average 7,000 to a night. They have averaged 2,500.

Betsy Palmer to Be Bad Girl In Lead of 'Wayward Widow'

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Betsy Palmer is a good girl who would like to be a bad girl once in a while — strictly in television dramas, that is.

On May 6 she would appear to have the opportunity, playing the lead in The Wayward Widow as a 19th century English brandy smuggler on U.S. Steel Hour (CBS-TV). But the truth is that she's such a beautiful, pleasant brandy smuggler that she really doesn't seem bad at all.

Thinking over the role, Miss Palmer came to the conclusion the other day that "I certainly can't knock the fact that I never play a really bad girl. Maybe it's for the best."

She agrees that it's almost impossible to find the role of a thoroughly bad girl in television dramas. When, for example, she played the role of a prostitute in The Time of Your Life, she was a prostitute with a heart of gold.

HARDY TALE

The Wayward Widow is based on one of Thomas Hardy's best-sex tales. In the TV adaptation by Michael Dyne a clergyman played by Richard Greene takes lodging in the smuggling widow's house—in the room where the smuggled brandy is hidden. This leads to complications, naturally.

"Smuggling is nothing about television to me," she said, "is the fact that you have to learn flexibility as an actress. There is no chance to get bored. It's unlike doing the same show in the theatre every night.

"Sometimes I think I'd like to do a play, but then I wonder how long I'd enjoy it. I like the variety of television and enjoy any role that challenges me."

Thinks Imlach Should Pay Half the Bet

WELLAND (CP) — For Larry Miller, like other hockey fans who bet Toronto Maple Leafs would win the Stanley Cup, the day of reckoning has come.

Leader in the cup final against Montreal Canadiens and Miller will pay off his losing wager today when he pushes Clifford Lamarche 16 miles to St. Catharines in a rubber - tired wheelbarrow. The trip is expected to take about six hours.

Miller says he feels that Leafs' coach Punch Imlach should push the barrow at least half the way.

FISH SUFFOCATE

PETERBOROUGH (CP)— Several hundred largemouth bass have suffocated on the millpond at Omemee, 14 miles west of here, lands and forests biologist Charles Weir reports. Mr. Weir said decaying had used up all the oxygen below the thick ice coating the pond. He added the incident was "serious but not critical" for the bass population.

MAY NOT RETURN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Florida's thoroughbred racing season ends at Gulfstream Park today and it may be "goodbye forever" to some of the better horses from the east. Eastern states, hungry for racing revenue, are opening their tracks earlier, closing later and offering more races on each program. "New York and Maryland horses won't have any excuse to come to Florida any more," said one observer. "They can race all spring, summer and fall, then rest for a month or two and start right in again."

Your Car

Close Listening May Find Cause Of Vibration

By EUGENE MILMOE

Vibration complaints are not often traced to engine troubles although such things as missing, uneven compression, loose or badly adjusted engine mounts can be responsible. Usually, the source is eventually pinpointed to the body, suspension, tires, etc.

Since gasoline companies and companies the vibration, close listening may quickly lead you to the trouble. A rumbling or thumping can be due to out-of-round tires or tire high spots.

Similar noise may be heard if the battery isn't tightly held in its carrier, or if the spare tire (or jack) is loose in the trunk. A thin or whirring sound could be worn universal joints and propeller shaft unbalance — or it might be a tire noise. A rattling type of noise suggests many things. Check for loose muffler or tail pipe brackets, loose hood fasteners, faulty wheel bearings or shock absorbers.

From W. J.: "By the time a car rolls up 50,000 miles, approximately how much compression would the cylinders be losing?

(A) A compression loss isn't always the case. As an engine gets older, compression pressure may actually increase because of carbon deposits.

* * *

G. S. asks: "My engine has been getting too much gas even for a cold start. Is it possible for a choke to be too efficient?"

(A) It may be that the choke valve is closing too tightly causing a very rich mixture — or perhaps the valve isn't opening properly after the engine is running a bit.

* * *

F. T. writes: "Occasionally, I can hear a slight buzzing sound from my '56 sedan. It only starts after the engine gets pretty hot. Any idea of the cause?"

(A) If the engine is overheating, steam escaping from the cooling system can cause the radiator pressure cap valve to vibrate. This will sound somewhat like a buzzer.

* * *

From D. E.: "Some time ago, I had my brakes adjusted to compensate for lining wear. Now they need attention again. Can another adjustment be made to improve lining contact or must all four brakes be relined now?"

(A) Brakes generally may be adjusted two or three times. After that, however, the linings should be carefully inspected for wear.

Petes Leave on Title Quest Play Fri. With West's Best

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Ontario's second Cinderella hockey team, Peterborough Petes, is en route to Winnipeg to begin a best-of-seven series with Winnipeg Braves Friday for the Memorial Cup.

Overshadowed perhaps in the early month by Toronto Maple Leafs, the Montreal Canadiens' farm club was making its own hockey history in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series coming back from what appeared to be a lost cause on at least three occasions.

Sparked by 19-year-old right winger Wayne Connelly who scored 15 goals and 16 assists in 26 playoff games, Petes finished second in the seven-league junior series.

A native of Rouyn - Noranda, Que., Connelly finished third in the league scoring race with 36 goals and 54 assists. In the Eastern Canada final against Hull-Ottawa Junior Canadiens, Connelly scored four, three and two goals respectively in three consecutive games.

GOES FROM HULL TO PETES

Under the guidance of 26-year-old Scotty Bowman, who last year coached Hull-Ottawa Junior Canadiens to the Memorial Cup, Petes lost the first two games to Barrie Flyers but rallied to take the next four in the quarter-finals.

Peterborough then dumped Guelph Biltmore in two games, including two ties, and went on to meet Toronto St. Michael's Majors who had defeated first-place St. Catharines TeePees in eight games.

Petes were down two games in the OHA title race and were tied three games with Majors, who only needed one point to take the series. But Peterborough hung on and went on to win the title in eight games.

In the final, Hull-Ottawa easily downed Petes in the first two games of the eastern finals and won the third.

But Peterborough rallied desperately once again and won the next four games, two of them in Hull.

"I don't know how good this Winnipeg team is with its six Canadian Amateur Hockey Association replacements," said Bowman today. "But my guess will give it all they've got and play one game at a time. We make no predictions on the series."

Western League Delays Entries For One Year

SEATTLE (CP)—The Western Hockey League will stand pat for next season but some changes will be made in the 1960-61 campaign.

The decision was reached Tuesday at the league's annual meeting. San Francisco, Los Angeles and Portland are expected to join the league in 1960-61.

The California clubs had sought entry for the coming season but San Francisco's Kinsling facilities are not ready and league directors wouldn't accept one city without the other.

As a result, the league voted to delay for one year approval of the applications. Earlier it set aside for a year the Portland application.

At that time, the first steps in what league president Al Leader expects will lead to major-league status will be taken. Los Angeles is expected to apply for membership. Snr. Francisco, Winnipeg; and Portland, New Westminister.

WILDCAT

Hoffa were to arrive here from Windsor today in an attempt to end the dispute.

Ten of the 30 dock staff of Direct Winters here did not report for work. A group of five Windsor highway drivers brought loads to the Toronto depot but refused to take their trucks back.

Transport complaints hit by the walkout said Tuesday they will not deal with the striking truckers and said they must return to work before any discussions can start.

The motor transport relations bureau, spokesmen for 100 Ontario transport operators, said it would deal only with responsible representatives of the three Ontario teamsters local that negotiated the existing agreement, an agreement that is the centre of a dispute within teamsters Local 879 here.

The bureau's statement was in reply to a move by the strikers to set up a 6-man steward body to meet with management to negotiate back-to-work conditions.

L. J. (Dude) Thompson, representative of the teamsters central conference in Canada, is to come to Toronto today with Mr. Hoffa's representative. They were to confer with the teamsters joint council then with the rebels and later each at meetings with company representatives.

The strike started in Montreal Friday when 3,000 warehousemen protested the system of "piggy-backs" — heavy tandems are loaded on flatcars for transportation between large centres. But a variety of underlying grievances have been reported, ranging from increasing use of independent owner-operators by transport companies to curtailment of overtime.

The situation in the Toronto teamsters local is reported to be serious. Some members challenged the validity of an agreement reached by a three-local bargaining committee. The issue was argued before the labor relations board Tuesday. The board reserved decision.

The locals in Windsor and Hamilton accepted the agreement and their members have been working despite pickets from Toronto.

The resignation of Toronto local president Ken McDougall has been demanded by some members.

DESERONTO

Dr. D. McVicker Named M.O.H. By Town Council

DESERONTO — Town Council at their regular meeting on Monday night gave second reading to a by-law appointing Dr. D. C. McVicker Medical Officer of Health for the town. This was done over the repeated and continued arguments of the reeve, H. Alford, who insisted that Council should not appoint Dr. McVicker. The argument first began when the Welfare Committee reported on a letter they had sent to the Department of Health at Toronto asking for direction in the appointment. Reeve Alford insisted that the Council should not have accepted the resignation of Dr. McClellan and also stated that the letter from Dr. McClellan was not a resignation. Councillor Detlor finally stated that he had heard enough argument and moved the by-law be read. After the second reading of the by-law Reeve Alford again disputed the appointment and after a verbal exchange Councillor Spence politely advised the Reeve that he objected to the statements he was making. The by-law will be given final approval after presentation to the Provincial authorities. Reeve Alford occupied the chair in the absence of Mayor Sweetman.

The auditor was present at the meeting and submitted the audit for the consideration of council. He advised that the per capita debt of the town now stood at some $119 a reduction from last year. He also commended the treasurer of the Cemetery Board for his excellent work and advised the secretary-treasurer of the Library Board should be bonded.

The Water Resources Commission in reply to a request from the town for a water survey advised that they would make the survey as soon as possible but, as Councillor Spence pointed out, that could mean any time and the letter was left nodding.

Letters from the Department of Planning and Development and the Ontario Travel and Publicity were filed, and a letter from the Workmen's Compensation Board was referred to the Welfare Committee.

The Department of Municipal Affairs advised council regarding the procedure for local improvements. This was in answer to a question regarding the installation of a sidewalk on Brant St.

A request from the Deseronto Athletic Association for a grant of $500 was discussed and Council finally granted them the sum of three hundred dollars. The appointment of a weed inspector was laid over to the next meeting.

The police committee recommended the hiring of another constable and asked permission to advertise for applications. Council wanted to know if this was to be an additional constable and the answer was in the affirmative. Councillor Detlor advised the committee that there had been no provision in the estimates for such expenditure and Councillor Spence asked if the purpose was to replace present constable. The matter was put over until the next meeting so that council could discuss the matter with the police commission.

The streets committee advised council that they had been obliged to install a pump from the Public Utilities and they were having the pump repaired.

Council adjourned in the middle of the argument over the M.O.H. when Councillor Detlor introduced the motion into the arguments of Reeve Alford and the rest of the Council.

CNR FIREMEN DECIDE TO STRIKE MAY 1

Armed Prisons Seize 14 Hostages Police Use Gas

Stage Desperate Revolt At Mass. Reformatory

CONCORD, Mass. (AP) — A wild disturbance shook Concord Reformatory Wednesday night as five prisoners staged a desperate revolt. They held 15 hostages.

Prison officials said the quintet could not have hoped to escape, although a leader, kidnaper Charles Bali Martin, told the prison superintendent, "we want out."

For four hours, they held the hostages — 13 guards and two civilians — before surrendering meekly, their eyes swollen by tear gas.

Lt.-Col. John C. Blake, executive officer of the state police, heading an assault force of 125 troops, said when asked if negotiations were considered:

"I never negotiate with anyone; we were here to get them out and restore order."

CARRY RIOT GUNS

The troops swarmed in with military carbines, many wearing campaign ribbons, steel helmets, carrying riot guns and ballasted with bandoleers of cartridges and tear gas charges.

The state troops drove the malcontents from the first to the third floor of a wing of the prison. They opened steel doors with acetylene torches and finally crushed the rebels into an area from which there could be neither escape nor retreat.

Surrenders were accepted only after the prisoners stripped naked. One trooper displayed a kitchen paring knife he took from a prisoner.

A pistol, with which Martin subjugated the hostages and marched them to the segregation section, last holdout, was not immediately found.

Guard Frederick Bolba, one of the hostages, said Martin held the gun against him and pulled the trigger, but it didn't go off. Bolba said:

"I was in the wing area of the reformatory when Martin and another guy came suddenly around the corner.

"Martin pulled the trigger of a gun. It looked like a .22 calibre revolver. It looked to me like a starter gun, but the gun failed to go off."

Youth Plunges 300 Feet From Bridge to Death

VANCOUVER (CP) — Allan Cemm, 24, ignored the pleas of onlookers and plunged 200 feet to his death from the Lions Gate Bridge Wednesday.

His 25-year-old companion told police Cemm raped her twice before he drove to the bridge and leaped to his death.

Four men pleaded with Cemm to climb back to safety as he clung to a girder. "To hell with you," he shouted.

The woman told police Cemm raped her in his car after they had been drinking together. He "threatened her to stay in the car while he drove towards the bridge.

As they neared the bridge Cemm, who said he was "getting a swim," told her he wanted to will her his car. He asked her to write out the will for him to sign.

She said Cemm stopped the car in the centre of the span, walked to the west side and climbed over the rail.

For several minutes, as Cemm clung precariously to the girder, a tugboat patrolled below, playing searchlights on the water.

Then he released his grasp and plunged to the water, landing 50 feet from the tug.

Pilots Maintain Large Norwegian Ship Overloaded

LANORAIE, Que. (CP) — A large Norwegian tanker carrying a Russian cargo lay at anchor here today after St. Lawrence River pilots refused to guide the ship claiming it was dangerously over-loaded for passage through the seaway.

The 18,135-ton Nikolai Bogdahl, Jr., is destined for Toledo, Ohio, from a Russian port on the Black Sea where she took on a cargo of benzol, a coal tar product.

Spokesmen for the pilots said the ship is drawing 29 feet of water—and the pilots do not want to handle vessels drawing more than 28 feet with ease, such as benzol.

A crew of inspectors boarded the ship Wednesday and they were expected to submit a report today.

APPEAL JUDGES, LAWYER DUNCAN STILL CLASHING

One Judge Threatens To Leave Bench

It was the 10th day of an appeal against a $6,100 damage award for false arrest obtained by Mrs. Dorothy Ivey Owen.

Sound farmer Lyle Kennedy. The judges hearing the case are Chief Justice Dana Porter, Mr. Justice W. A. Schroder and Mr. Justice J. J. McGillivray.

At one point during frequent exchanges Mr. Duncan asked Mr. Justice Schroeder to repeat his remarks made in the courtroom, since they would not be privileged from slander.

JUDGE MAKES APOLOGIZE

The dispute arose when the judge said that Mr. Duncan was "not arguing, just putting on an act. I'm convinced of that."

Mr. Duncan then "assailed" the lawyer replied. "I think you should apologize for that."

"I won't," snapped Mr. Justice Schroeder. "You're behaving like a counsel bereft of any respect or sibility."

"Would you care to make that statement out of court," asked Mr. Duncan. He was requested by the court to continue the presentation of his argument.

On the previous day, the lawyer had asked the same judge and Chief Justice Porter to consider withdrawing from hearing the appeal because of previous associations which Mr. Duncan argued were related to the case.

CIVIL SUIT

Mr. Duncan's client was arrested for vagrancy last year and sent to a mental hospital for 60 days' observation after an unsuccessful attempt to have the vagrancy conviction quashed, he started a successful civil suit against Magistrate Otto McCollum, Inspector Arthur Ivan Wade, Crown Attorney W. J. Pearl and W. R. Tomlinson, Mrs. Ken-

300 Loyal Canadian Bears Will Make Sacrifice for Guards' Gear

TIMMINS (CP) — The Royal Canadian bear guards will soon be toppers—at the expense of only 300 loyal Canadian bears.

Recently awakened after a long winter's hibernation, they'll give up their pelts to make bearskin guards—prestige.

It won't be a slaughter as some reports say, Mayor Lee Del Villano has told his critics. Anyway, the bears are not small.

Mayor del Villano, replying to a letter from a group in the city "massacre of small Canadian bears," said that some people "have a bear in the wrong place."

"In the first place," he said, "the bears are not small in Northern Ontario.

"And in the second place, have received letters indicating we plan to kill 1,000 bears this year.

"The guards only need 230 new hats annually, which means a maximum requirement of 300 bears."

The mayor was indignant about

Wildcat Truckers' Walkout Ends; Will Continue Talks

TORONTO (CP) — A wildcat walkout of Teamsters' Union members here appeared to be over today as union representatives and transport operators spokesmen prepared to sit down and discuss the truckers' grievances.

Today's meeting was set after members of local 938 began a return to work Wednesday night at the request of Dave Johnson, representative of International Teamster President James Hoffa, and their own four man committee.

The return to work after the six-day strike, which began in Montreal and spread to here and several other Ontario centres, diverted a possible crisis over the Canada-United States on picket lines at a number of major transport company gates. Police detained a number of men Wednesday and at least three were charged.

Pickets were withdrawn from most of the strike-hit companies shortly after Wilf Roberts, chairman of the four-man committee, and Mr. Johnson issued the call to return to work.

Mr. Johnson travelled from Detroit on instructions from Mr. Hoffa, to whom Ontario Labor Minister Daley had sent a telegram asking that he act as chief spokesman for the union group at today's meeting with representatives of the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, which negotiates on behalf of 100 transport companies in Ontario.

Representatives of the Windsor and Hamilton locals will sit in but the main voice will be those pertaining to local 938.

Heading the grievance list for the discussions is the question of the use of piggyback, a system whereby trailers are carried by rail.

Another source of grievance is the increasing use of independent owner-operators to the detriment of truckers' earnings; the question of non-discrimination against strikers and the processing of union members' grievances.

In announcing the back-to-work appeal Mr. Johnson said he felt the problems could be settled at the meeting.

"We are asking the men to return to work immediately with a promise from the committee and myself that their grievances will be heard in accordance with the existing contract," he said.

Doctors in Good Position To Study Common Cold

TORONTO (CP) — General practitioners are in an excellent position to assist in study of the common cold and virus pneumonia, Dr. Allan Gale, director of General Preventive agencies, Dr. A. J. Wright of the University of Toronto school of Hygiene said today.

Dr. Rhodes also told the annual scientific assembly of the Canadian College of General Practice that substantial progress in the study of these two illnesses can be expected.

He said both the common cold and virus pneumonia "would get a great deal of research by several distinct viruses," and "physicians in general practice, who first see these illnesses are in an excellent position to study the scientific problem in collaboration with a local virus laboratory."

Rhodes said it was also that at least 70 previously unknown viruses have been isolated and brought to light in research in North America.

"Physicians are known now to cause common ailments such as influenza, summer complaint, grippe and febrile catarrh—commonly-causing epidemics of illness spread from children to parents.

Dr. Rhodes said some of the new-found viruses may cause "severe and even fatal lesions" of the brain, spinal cord, heart and lung. They may account for more ailments than presently supposed, especially in children.

Recently - discovered viruses had caused a number of epidemics or near-epidemics in various parts of Canada.

Among them were two involving measle-like rashes and mild fever which appeared in Toronto

MIGRATION CURBS TO BE RESCINDED BY GOVERNMENT

Mrs. Fairclough Promises New Deal

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Fairclough says she hopes in a few months to propose to Parliament "a new deal in immigration matters."

She made the announcement in the Commons Wednesday in announcing she plans to ask the cabinet to rescind a recent order restricting assisted immigrants from certain countries to all but the closest relatives of Canadian residents.

She spoke as the Commons wound up its debate on the Finance Minister Fleming's budget for the fiscal year that started April 1.

The Progressive Conservative majority voted 190 to 47 against the Liberals and CCF to approve the principle of the budget.

Mrs. Fairclough said the immigration order, centre of some controversy, had been intended to establish a more orderly procedure of handling the backlog of immigrant applications.

But it had not succeeded "because the propagandists of the Liberal party have created an atmosphere of distrust and apprehension in which it is impossible to work."

NOT AIMED AT ITALIANS

At another point she said there is no truth whatever in the charges that this amendment

Gay Princess Dances Until Dawn, Party Still Going When She Leaves

ROME (Reuters) — A gay young princess danced and danced until dawn today.

The party—still in full swing when the princess left at 5 a.m.—was attended by 80 members of Rome's younger set.

Given by Judy Montague and the British minister, Harry Hohler, it was held in a Cabala on the top floor of a 13th-century building in which the party hostess once lived.

The princess, who wore a short evening dress in pink brocade, hardly missed a dance during the night-long session in her club.

She danced the first dance, My Funny Valentine, with Prince Nicolo Pignatelli, who with his wife was among the eight guests at the royal table.

The guest list included Countess Consuelo Crespi, the "world's best-dressed woman," and Mr. and Mrs. Gianni Agnelli Donna and her husband, who'll

Leave Door Open For More Talks With Railroad

W. E. Gamble Declares Strike Deadline Set

MONTREAL (CP)—The locomotive firemen's union today called a nation-wide strike against the CNR for Friday May 1, but left the door open for renewed talks with the publicly-owned railway.

If the walkout goes off, it will be the third firemen's strike in Canada in 37 months.

The decision to strike was announced today by W. E. Gamble, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

The work stoppage is set for 12:01 a.m. local Standard Time May 1, timed to hit the CNR when it plans to unilaterally alter the terms and conditions of employment for firemen.

There was no immediate comment from CNR officials.

UNION REJECTED

The railway told its 3,500 firemen that it will implement May 1 the recommendations of a union-rejected conciliation report ordering wage increases, but also providing for gradual elimination of firemen helpers on diesel locomotives in yard and freight service.

Mr. Gamble announced the decision after formal notice had been given to CNR President Donald Gordon and Bernard Wilson, director of industrial relations in the federal labor department.

In a letter to Mr. Gordon, Mr. Gamble said:

"The members of our brotherhood employed on your railway on the sub-committee to issue a strike call to protect the wages and working rules of the employees concerned, and we regret very much to inform you that a strike call is being issued today, to be effective at 12:01 a.m. local standard time on Friday, May 1, 1959."

FOLLOWS CNR NOTICE

The union leader said the strike action followed a CNR notice in which the company sought unilaterally to alter the terms and condition of employment for firemen on the CNR Canadian lines and engineers on the Newfoundland district.

The CNR has already announced that in the event of a

Soviet Premier Told to Cut Down On Food, Drinks

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)

A West German newspaper said today that doctors have advised Soviet Premier Khrushchev to cut down on his food and drinks — or else.

The tabloid newspaper, 8-Uhr Blatt (Five O'Clock Bulletin) in a dispatch dated Moscow said Khrushchev suffered fainting spells on March 10, 19, April 3 and 7 followed by temporary blackouts.

The paper said doctors work on the theory that Khrushchev may have a brain tumor but he declines to submit to a thorough checkup.

This is the third report on Khrushchev's health in the West German press this month. The Suedduetsche Zeitung in Munich said Khrushchev is suffering having fainting spells. The mess-circulating Bild Zeitung had a similar story.

Spring Cleaning Program of City Gains Momentum

Belleville's Public Works Department is still busy with its annual spring cleaning campaign. City Engineer Malcolm Hunter stated that this major work is expected to be completed by next week, possibly by the 29th of April.

A ditching program has been completed for the Victoria Park section. Notices to the residents concerned are being sent out starting today with the construction supervisor personally contacting each householder concerned in order to line up the project in its entirety.

Major catch basin cleaning and road oiling has been going on in all sections of the city. The dust control problem on various streets is also being remedied. Storm sewer flushing and cleaning has started and this valuable work is well under way. Some minor alterations to some of the sanitary sewers are also being completed.

The tree work program has been progressing slowly but this is expected to pick up in the near future. The department is still waiting for some of its annual supplies and equipment.

Only 6 at Council Meeting, Decision on Sewage Plant Left Over to Next Session

A capital expenditure estimated at close to four and a half million dollars for the construction of a new sewage disposal plant, with trunk sewers and pumping stations, will be up for approval at the regular meeting of city council this week.

The matter was intended to be decided at a special meeting of council called for last night by Mayor Gerald Hyde but only six of the 18-man council turned out and no vote was taken. Accordingly a recommendation authorizing signing of an agreement with the Ontario Water Resources Commission will be on the agenda next week.

Attending the meeting along with Mayor Hyde were Aldermen D. Ty Treen, Lee Digby, Ellis Dr. James Forrester and Frank Grandmaire.

Last night's meeting was intended to deal only with the first phase of a three-stage program for construction of the sewage plant and connecting trunk sewers.

This work was to include the sewage treatment plant, connection for all existing city sanitary sewers with the addition of a trunk sewer along Haig Sideroad and along University Ave. in Hillcrest to serve the new industrial area to the north.

The first phase of work, together with land acquisition for the sewage plant in Foster Ave. was estimated at $4,500,000.

WANTS APPROVAL

This, however, would have left unserved by sewer the Sidney township annexed area to the west and also the Parkdale district to the north.

To provide service for these areas councillors decided the city should ask WOW for approval of all three stages of the program. This would include a trunk sewer along Dundas St. West, and one running north along Fisher Street to College with branches along College to the Moira River and to Parkdale. Cost of this latter stage was estimated at over a million dollars.

Under the plan Foster Ward would be served by sanitary sewers, it being pointed out by Mayor Hyde and City Manager Emery Thomas that this area was zoned as industrial and this population was decreasing year by year.

Estimated yearly cost of the project is $300,000 without the West Dundas St., Parkdale and Sidney Street trunk sewers, was $400,000. It was expected that this cost would be borne jointly through the city tax rate and an extra charge against water users through the public utilities.

In all probability the Ontario Water Resources Commission will be asked to construct the sewage plant, with the method of financing to be determined later.

Films, Slides On Racing Cars Shown Meeting

Yesterday evening the Belleville Chapter of the St. Lawrence Valley Region held a monthly meeting at which various films and slides showing racing experiences of a few of the members, both at home and abroad on the European racing circuits, were shown. To those in the club who did not attend sports car events in Ontario the movies on races held last season on the Harewood and the St. Eugene circuits proved especially interesting. Nearly everyone enjoyed the pictures taken by club member Doug Fraser of a Vintage Sports Car Club meet held in England. Color slides of many rare and beautifully kept automobiles, the likes of which are very rarely, if ever, seen on the North American continent.

During the business portion of the meeting the forthcoming April club event, Pete's Hare and Hounds, to be held this coming Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, in conjunction with Pringle's Sunoco station in Napanee, was announced. It was also announced that the Darling Breweries Ltd. has offered to supply the club with a monthly trophy for the city taxi race and the navigator of the winning entry. This will also be a rolling annual trophy for the most consistent competitor during the course of the club events throughout the year. The trophies were quickly put through the efforts of E. J. "Al" Hardy, local representative.

The meeting also saw the appointment of Dave Funchard to the position of publicity director chairman. The next meeting of the club will be on May 13th in Kingston.

Peculiar Odor From Overdose Of Odorant

Local natural gas consumers who were burning gas on their premises yesterday noted a peculiar odor which came from an overdose of the odorant which is normally added to natural gas. The odorant, which is a non-flammable, non-explosive and non-harmful substance, normally remains after the gas has been burned in the appliances. Under the normal ratio of odorant to natural gas a smell is not usually noticed.

This is the first time that an overdose of the odorant has been experienced in the Belleville area and a number of calls were received by the Lakeland Natural Gas Ltd. office as well as the Belleville fire department. These consumers who were not burning gas yesterday failed to notice the surplus of odorant.

It is understood that, with the exception of such an occurrence as the precedent, that is quite rare, the detection of an odor is indicative of a gas leak.

Possible Plot To Kill Castro Is Reported

NEW YORK (AP) — Fidel Castro aides told New York police today of a possible plot to assassinate Castro, prime minister of Cuba, while he is in the United States. Castro now is in New York.

The aides are said to told the police the plot might be put into effect by six men, including five brothers.

Police headquarters transmitted the information to officials in the city, and directed all members of the force to be alert for the lookout for two cars the aides said the men were driving.

Enlisted men and police detectives already are protecting Castro and his party here.

There was no immediate indication whether more were being assigned to guard as a result of the plot report.

The information was told police in connection with a visit with Mayor Robert F. Wagner. He then was to attend a luncheon at the Overseas Press Club.

So far, there have been no incidents during Castro's trip except for greeting by cheers.

However, since arriving in New York Tuesday Castro has given the police some considerable concern.

During public appearances, he has moved out of the cordon of police around him in order to greet persons in crowds and shake wishers. Police have sought to keep beside a considerable distance away.

Hydro, Water Crews to Start Operations Soon

TORONTO (CP) — W. E. P. Duncan, chief of operations of Ontario's east-west subway, says hydro and waterworks crews will begin digging cables and pipes out of the ground within 30 days to make way for the $200,000,000 rapid transit system.

Mr. Duncan said this preliminary work will possibly start in mid-May on downtown University Avenue—the spur line of the subway to run along midtown Yonge Street to the north end of the system.

Work on the subway tunnel itself is not expected to start before September, and the east-west portion of the subway will not get under way for 3½ years. Mr. Duncan said completion of the 30-mile subway within 5½ years is possible from an engineering standpoint but the 10-year schedule was laid down by Metropolitan Toronto council.

Meanwhile, the Toronto Transit Commission's plans for the 19-mile high-speed rapid transit lines in the suburbs have been cut by half by the metropolitan planning board.

The board said 30 miles of the lines wouldn't attract enough passengers to support them and eliminated them from the official plan of transportation development.

Instead it recommended the use of express bus lines on exclusive rights-of-way in the suburbs with connections to any future CNR commuter service.

HIGHWAY OBSOLETE

CALGARY (CP)—C. W. Gilchrist of Ottawa, managing director of the Canadian Good Roads Association, says the trans-Canada highway is already obsolete and inadequate to meet the country's traffic needs. He said it is essential that the highway, built as a two-lane highway, should be expanded to four lanes or else it will be unable to handle an increased volume of traffic.

This marks the first time in the past decade that a Toronto theatrical group has not been invited to participate in the finals. Plays of two Toronto authors, however, are among those which will be presented. It marks the first occasion, too, in the festival's 26 years that one city, Montreal and Halifax, has sent more than one group to participate in the finals.

The best in Canadian drama will be adjudicated by Michael St. Denis of New York City, theatre adviser to the Rockefeller Foundation.

MONTREAL (CP)—The prime lending rate of the chartered banks is to go up one-quarter per cent to 5¾ per cent April 27, it was learned today in financial circles.

Justice Deletes Part of Sentence

MONTREAL (CP)—Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure Wednesday ruled the Canadian Criminal Code does not permit a magistrate to withdraw a driver's license for failure to stop after an accident.

Mr. Justice Lazure, sitting as a Superior Court judge in appeal against a summary conviction, deleted part of a sentence imposed in a lower court. Theodore Lord fined driver William Boyce $50 and ordered his licence suspended for three months.

Mr. Justice Lazure let the fine stand but quashed the suspension.
